Second annual show, held Nov. 30th. Norwich, on the whole, were a sweet lot, although the numbers were small, and the winning unlighted was greatly admired. These classes were judged by Mr. R. Jeffrey (who made his first venture as a judge), and his awards were exceedingly well received. Borders were a feature of the show, some grand birds being staged, and all the classes keenly contested. The B.F.C. medal was won by Mr. Smith's foul buff, a well-known winner, while Mr. Clark won the novice medal with a good foul yellow hen. All the Yorks were cancelled. Borders were judged by Mr. J. W. Bruce, and we heard very few comments on his awards. Mules and British were also a sweet lot, although we expected to see more, but fanciers seemed to be a little shy of Ayr, which is a hotbed for this variety. The winning Mule, very well shown by Mr. McQuiston, was a stunner for a baby, and should have a good show career. Mr. C. Campbell judged this section. The hall is an ideal one for a show, being well lighted, and the arrangements were A1. The worthy President and Vice-President, Mr. Clark and Mr. Nairn, were busy, personally attending to the wants of the exhibits. Unfortunately, owing to indisposition, Mr. Young was unable to attend to his duties, but the secretarial duties were well attended to by Mr. Rankin. The society is composed of genuine fanciers, who worked with zeal to make the show a success.

HOUGHTON-LE-SPRING AND DISTRICT C.B.S.

12th annual members' show, held in the White Lion Hotel, November 30. Entries totalled 179, in 34 classes, and although slightly less in number than last year, there was a great improvement in the quality. Norwich were a hot lot, and many could hold their own at any open show. Cup for the best young bird went to Mr. H. Wilson's young cl. yell. Norwich, a fine bird of good size and colour, fully deserving the distinction. Crests were not so numerous as they might have been, but there were some of high merit, and Yorks. and Cinnamons were not up as usual. The room, which is an ideal one, was beautifully arranged, and the secretarial duties were held well in hand by Mr. R. H. Dixon, who had plenty of willing hands ready to assist in handing the birds to the judge and replacing them in order. Mr. A. Brown judged, and he got through his work in very creditable style. Visitors seemed numerous all the afternoon.

From the catalogue received we gather that the principal winners were:—NOR., Messrs. Wilson, Appleby, R. Dixon, Fenton, Liddle, Halton, Fenwick, Bissett, Bisset, M. Dixon, Lynn. YORKS: R. Dixon, M. Dixon, Fenton, Liddle. BORD.: Appleby, Tarbett, Halton, Lynn, Fenton. GREEN: Turnbull, Leech. NAT. COL.: Appleby, Finlay. FINCHES: R. Dixon, Wilson. CINN.: R. Dixon, M. Dixon, Hissett. CREST: Bisset, Lowery, Fenwick. MULES: Wilson, Fenwick. BRIT.: Appleby, Dixon, Wilson.

SITTINGBOURNE.

Annual show held Fanciers' Hall, George Hotel, Sittinghourne, Nov. 27 and 28, and although only the second show of the society, all records for the county of Kent were easily broken. Entries totalled 230, and it was said to be the first show in Kent which has been a financial success. Undoubtedly the success which attended the show was due in no inconsiderable degree to the efforts of Mr. B. Tidy, who, as hon. sec. of the society, had spared no pains to attain such satisfactory results, while to Mr. C. Town, the show manager, is due a word of praise for the excellent manner in which he staged the birds. Able assistance was also rendered by Messrs. W. Broadbridge, T. Attwood, H. Olive, W. Whatford (chairman), and R. Churchill, who acted as the committee. Mr. Geo. Gardner judged, and his awards appeared to give satisfaction. G. Apps won spl. best Canary in show, with a beautiful unmarked Norwich, and the special in the British birds section was carried off by T. Attwood with a fine Starling most beautifully spangled and in splendid condition. The challenge cup presented by Mr. H. Filmer was won by G. Grant. Mr. H. Stevens took the silver cup presented by Mr. C. Cornelius. In the classes open to Kent Norwich were a splendid lot, as were also the Yorkshires, Borders, and Lizards. Specials were won by Mr. B. Tidy who took a gold and silver medal; Mr. W. Broadbridge, T. Attwood, G. Whatford, G. Apps, H. Stevens, G. Burley, and G. Grant. Members' classes made a truly grand collection, and were quite the equal of the classes open to Kent. In champions the birds put down by Messrs. Tidy, Apps, T. Attwood, W. Broadbridge, G. Whatford, and H. Olive were greatly admired. In Yorkies Messrs. H. Olive, J. Clayton, and B. Tidy made things hum with some typical specimens. In the novices was found the cup winner in the members' classes, in the shape of a truly grand natural fed Buff, shown by Mr. H. Stevens, who, with Messrs. Jarrett and Saunders, practically divided the spoils. Messrs. Stevens and Saunders had matters pretty much their own way in Yorkies. There was a good attendance at the opening ceremony, amongst those present being the Rev. A. B. Parry-Evans, Councillor G. R. Hulburd and Mrs. Hulburd, Councillor E. F. Handcock and Mrs. Handcock, Councillor F. Filmer, Mr. E. Tidy, and others. Mr. B. Tidy, the sec., stated that Mr. W. R. Elgar, president of the society, was to have opened the show, but owing to a business appointment he would be unable to be present. In the circumstances the Rev. A. B. Parry-Evans had agreed to perform the opening ceremony. The rev. gentleman spoke a few felicitous words, and then declared the show open. It was estimated that over 400 people visited the show on the opening day.

The Critique.

NORTHAMPTON.

The Northampton "Good Intent" Society held their 41st annual show in the large hall of the Twentieth Club on Nov. 20th. The cage birds were staged in a separate room upstairs, quite free from draughts, but being a dull November day, the light was rather bad. Messrs. Cox and Barrett make a couple of ideal secretaries, and being backed up by a lot of genuine fanciers on the committee, everything passed off satisfactorily. Mr. H. Markham made the awards in the place of Mr. J. C. Wilmot (who was unwell), and appeared to give general satisfaction.

CITY AND SUBURBAN.

The very cosy hall at the Church Institute, Paddington Street, Marylebone, was well filled by a fine collection of birds on the occasion of the annual show, Nov. 15 and 16, and the general attractiveness was added to by a pleasing display of flowers. Visitors rolled up in goodly numbers, and the venture on the whole may be written as a decided success. Mr. H. W. Dickinson, a real good, genial fancier, handled the secretarial reins in fine style, and received very valuable assistance from Mr. F. Thynne, and a hard-working and efficient band of stewards, amongst whom we noted Messrs. F. Knight, H. Lowe, J. Pooley, B. Thrower, J. Chard, W. G. Sanders, and E. C. Offord, while Mrs. Maher, Mrs. Thynne, and Miss Cooper did much to help things towards a successful conclusion. The popular chairman, Mr. W. A. Shepherd, who has heart and soul in the welfare of the club, and Mr. V. Wynn, the late hon. sec., did splendid work in a quiet way. The officials and council are to be congratulated. Competition in practically all sections was exceedingly keen, and the quality of the birds very high-class. The one disappointment was the champion British, in which the entry, from some unfortunate reason, was poorer than we ever remember. Some of the chief special winners were:—Best bird in show, H. W. Dickinson's fine Crest; McGruther challenge shield, Mrs. Weston, with a Linnet Mule; Norwich bowl, F. J. Martin; Crest bowl, W. A. Shepherd; Yorks cup, F. Ayres; Hybrid bowl and cup best softbill, Mrs. Weston; Linnet cup and spl best British, A. J. Marley; best lady's bird, the Hon. Mrs. Bourke; best lady's Canary, Mrs. Thynne; Page rose bowl, W. Clark. The results for the many points cups we did not get. The judges were Mr. J. H. Payne, Canaries; and Mr. H. Norman, Hyb., Brit. and For., and with very few exceptions their awards were generally endorsed. We regret the delay in publishing this report.

DUNDEE.

Annual show, held in the Gymnasium, Ward Road, Nov. 30th. The hall is a grand one for the purpose, being well lighted from the roof. The executive are a splendid band of workers, Mr. Herschell, the President, being a host in himself, while the Vice-president, Mr. Davidson, seems to be getting younger as the years go by, and more capable than ever. Among the committee we noticed several old friends, Mr. John Adams being prominent and active in the Border section, Mr. D. Thomson among the British, and Mr. J. S. Fox among Norwich. Mr. H. Lumsden was also taking an active part in the management, and in the unavoidable absence of the Secretary during judging, his wife acted for him, and carried out the secretarial duties to perfection. Mr. Miller had all his arrangements well forward, and only needs a lot more work to do to show what his capabilities are as secretary. We regret to say that the entry was again down, 436 birds being catered in 51 classes; many of the classes were half prize money. Crests were a fair entry, and were ably judged by Mr. Robt. Whitton. Mr. J. Holmes made the awards in the Norwich section, and Mr. McArdle (Arbroath) in the British section, and there was some difference of opinion on certain of their winners. The Scotch Fancy section was in the hands of Messrs. Strachan (Arbroath), and Thoms (Dundee), whose awards were on the whole well received. The Borders contained some grand specimens, and received very careful treatment from Mr. Mossie (Annbank), whose awards were very well received. There was a fair attendance of visitors during the afternoon. The President, Mr. Herschell, won the Crest Cup and Hyde's teapot with a very good young Crest hen. Mr. David Low won cup for cock and also cup for hen in Scotch Fancy section, with a nice pair of buff piebalds, and Mr. A. R. Town's cup for best British with a dandy Redstart (we fancy last year's cup winner), which scored easily.

LURGAN (Ireland).

Held Nov. 22 and 23 in the Town Hall, which answered the purpose admirably. Although not having held an open show during the last few years, the fanciers around Lurgan determined to put their heads together this year and make their show a success, which they undoubtedly did. Owing to clashing with Holywood the Norwich fanciers (particularly the Belfast men) practically deserted them. It will not be the fault of Lurgan next year if other societies clash with them, as in CAGE BIRDS there appears a notice from the secretary that the next show will be held on Nov. 21 and 22, 1913. The president, Mr. Malcolm, and hon. treasurer, Mr. Thompson, are a boon to any society. Mr. S. McCollum held the secretarial reins, and could not be excelled by any that we know in a similar capacity. Mr. Joseph Lavery is worthy of special mention, inasmuch as he is the backbone of the society, and we believe his entries at this show (43) are a record for any Irish exhibitor.

GRAVESEND.

Twenty-second open show, held at Pavilion Rink, which is an ideal hall for the purpose, being large and well lighted. Unfortunately, the clashing with other important fixtures had a bad effect on the entry, which was very short. We hope next year the society will try to arrange so as not to clash, and get better support. In Mr. Terry we had a most obliging and enthusiastic secretary, and with a good committee everything was carried out in a businesslike manner. Mr. Silk (Bosworth) judged, and his awards were well received.

CREWE.

Open show, held in Co-operative Hall, Nov. 30th. A splendid entry of nearly 170 was received, a record for the society. This, no doubt, was brought about in a large measure by the spirited competition for the handsome Challenge Cup presented by the President, P. Victor Williams, Esq. The race for possession of this coveted trophy was very close indeed between several of the members, Mr. J. W. Lawton winning it for the second time, Mr. T. L. Hancocks being only three points behind, while Mr. F. E. Cooper was only two points behind the second. The Norwich section was very fine, undoubtedly the best in the show, some grand birds being staged by Messrs. Cooper, Taylor, Latham, Potts, and Heaton. The winning unflighted Buff shown by Mr. Cooper is a grand one, and captured the special for best Canary in the show, and for best Norwich; Yorks were decidedly good, but hardly up to the standard of their clubbier brethren, good teams being staged by Messrs. Lawton, Potts, and Elks. Borders were a choice lot; Mr. T. L. Hancocks staged a capital team, and secured most of the spoils, winning special for best Border with his clear buff. British were also good, especially the Goldfinch, Bullfinch, and Linnet classes. Some excellent specimens were well put down by Messrs. Latham, Potts, Morgan, Bowker, and Heaton. Special for best British went to Mr. Latham with a Bullie of fine size and shape. Mr. E. Jaycott filled the post of secretary in a very creditable manner, having everything ready for an early start. Judging was over in good time, and catalogues, with awards, were on sale shortly after one o'clock. Mr. Artbur C. Brotherhood made the awards.

From the catalogue received we gather that the principal winners were: NOR., Messrs. Taylor, Cooper, Heaton, Latham, Potts; YORKS., Potts, Lawton, Elks; BORD., Lawton, Hancocks, Jaycott, Bowker; MULES, Elks, Latham; BRIT., Latham, Potts, Lawton, Morgan, Heaton, Bowker; FOR., Jaycott, Elks.

STIRLING.

Annual show held Nov. 16th, in the Albert Hall. The weather bore a gloomy aspect, which did not tend to make good the somewhat poorly lighted hall in which the show was held. If the staging had been arranged across the hall a great improvement would have resulted. Considering the difficulty of securing a better hall for the show the above arrangement would be well worthy of a trial another year. The management, composed of well-known fanciers, worked in a quiet but efficient manner, and had all the little ins and outs of their task well under their grasp. President, Mr. W. Summers, and Sec., Mr. W. Clubb, are of the right stuff, and make worthy leaders. They are well supported by an enthusiastic band of workers, who were rewarded for their labours by the receipt of a good entry, which, although not just up to last year, compared favourably with previous years. Quality was a feature of the show, and was well maintained in all sections, especially Borders and Norwich. One novel feature of the show was an array of all kinds of cages and outfits, exhibited we heard, by a crippled boy, W. Anderson, from Bannockburn; his attempts at cage making are good, and we thing that an advertisement in CAGE BIRDS might be the means of bringing him more directly into contact with fanciers who might do a little to help him to earn a decent living. Judging was completed in decent time, and the awards met with general favour. Judges were Messrs. Martin, Waterside; Hamilton, Eskbank; and Pettigrew, Glasgow.

BIGGAR.

A Record for the District.

Sixth annual show, held Municipal Hall, Nov. 23rd. The hall is one of the best, being well lighted from both sides, and from the roof. This show proved to be one of the most successful ever held in the district, the entry being a record for this society, and the gate drawings well up to any of former years. This is a gratifying result for the pains-taking efforts of the worthy secretary, Mr. G. Mitchell, who was also ably assisted by Mr. M. Rae, and a hardworking committee, especially Mr. D. Lawson, who looked very carefully after the "wee gems," and Mr. Dobbie, who attended the Nor. and Brit. sections. Exhibitors can with all confidence support the Biggar fanciers. The principal features of the show were the Border Fancies, along with some of the British classes, which went well up into two figures. The leading British Goldfinch took special for best British in show. It was strange to see the principal special going to the variety class, it being won by a grand Scotch Fancy yellow hen, exhibited by Mr. A. Lawson (Biggar), a staunch supporter of this variety. Mr. Marlin was the Nor. and British judge, and Mr. D. Hamilton, the Border Fancy judge. With their awards everyone seemed to be well satisfied, and no grumbling was heard. Mr. A. Walker (Lesmahagow) had forward a team of "wee gems," which secured premier honours in nearly every class.

WEYBRIDGE.

Show held November 27th in the Holstein Hall, proved a success. The quality was first rate, several high-class exhibits being staged. The hall is well lighted, and free from draughts. The exhibits received the best of attention from a genuine body of fanciers, and the hon. sec., Mr. Selby Howard, had everything in smooth running order. Mr. A. E. Enfield judged.

CREST or C.B.: 1, spl., 3, Thynne, winner, cl. body, large well-formed crest, good droop and radiation; 3, neat crest, not so much droop as winner, well radiated; 2, Hayden, dark, variegated, large crest, nice droop and radiation; res., Hayden. BUCKIE.

32nd annual show, held in the Fishermens' Hall, Nov. 27th, proved a great success. The entries were about the same as last year, and the quality of the exhibits compared favourably with previous shows. Mr. M. Bunyan makes an ideal secretary, and he is to be congratulated on getting such a show together. He was well backed up by a hard-working committee of old and well-known fanciers. The Canaries were nicely staged at one side of the hall, and there was a good attendance of fanciers from both North and South. Mr. John Lyon, Aberdeen, judged, and got through a hard day's work to the satisfaction of all concerned. Challenge cup presented by the Association for best cage bird was won by Mr. Grant Keith with a very fine dark Crested cock. Mr. John Craig, Brechin, had also up a very fine team of Border Fancies, and secured the honours in the four classes. The British section contained some really fine exhibits, and did great credit to the Northern fanciers.

LANCASTER & DIST.

Fourteenth annual show held in the Coffee Tavern, Corn Market-street, proved a success, having an entry of 235, and some very good birds were staged. The society has every reason to feel proud of so grand a display given by the members. The room was well lighted, and free from draughts, and a very suitable one for the purpose. The secretary, Mr. Bostock, had everything well in hand, and was supported by a band of willing helpers: Messrs. R. Mason, T. Swainson, H. Hoyle, C. Cafferty, H. Durston, W. Pennington, M. Gardiner, T. Mercer, E. W. Durston, etc. Mr. S. Wilcock, of Bradford, judged, and gave entire satisfaction.

DARLINGTON C.B.S.

Annual members' show, held Nov. 30th, at the Labour Hall, a very nice place for a show, being roomy and well lighted, and entirely free from draughts. Entries totalled nearly 70, and the quality of the birds was excellent, the British section being about the pick of the show. Mr. H. Todd, the genial and obliging secretary, had everything well in hand, and got through his duties in fine style. He was well backed up by a good body of fanciers, composed of the chairman, Mr. J. Brown, treasurer, Mr. M. Corner, and Messrs. Patterson, Todd, Gregory, Carrol, Kearton, and Forster. The show was well patronised, and we understand that the venture will prove a financial success. Mr. T. Wright (York) judged.

The Critique.

YORKS. CHICHESTER.

Held their seventh annual members' show in the Corn Exchange, Nov. 28-29. The entry was not quite up to the average, but the quality was tip-top. We had the pleasure of seeing the team of Palace winners belonging to Mr. Burr, including his noted Hawfinch. Miss Townend, of Bognor, captured the Canary Cup with a grand buff Norwich, Mr. Fuller winning the novice special with a grand clear yellow Norwich. Mr. W. R. Miles judged.

WEST OF SCOTLAND NOR. BORDER &c. F.A.

Twenty-third annual show held Nov. 20 in the Grand National Halls, Main Street, Gorbals. Hon. Pres., Provost H. Paton, Hon. C. S. Dickson, M.P., hon. patrons, Ex Bailie McFarlane, J.P., Ex Bailie Alexander, J.P., Alex. Henderson, Esq., J.P., James Millar, and others; vice-pres., Mr. J. Montgomery and H. P. Hutchison; hon. sec and treas., Wm. Hutchison, 165, Hospital Street. There was a fair entry, Borders and Norwich taking the lead, and some very good birds in both sections were staged. Secretary Hutchison, with a hard working committee, had everything in splendid order. The staging was perfection, there being no difficulty in finding any particular bird wanted. The association is in a flourishing condition, but in a way were unfortunate in having to part with three of their valuable silver cups, which were won outright on this occasion. The association is Scotland's oldest and first club, and still retains its premier position. The prize list was a good one, there being no less than four handsome silver cups, two race bowls, a silver vase, medals, and a good number of useful special prizes. In the awards for most points in Plainheads (limited to two in each class) the silver cup was won by Mr. John Young, Rutherglen; for most points in Crests and C.B., silver rose bowl, Mr. John Montgomery, Glasgow; Border Fancies, silver rose bowl, Mr. Charles Pollock, Wishaw; and the handsome silver flower vase for most points in Mules and Hybrids went to Mr. F. Haddow; while for most point in British and foreign birds, Mr. S. Morrison, Johnstone, wins both cups outright. The B.F.C.C. silver medal was won by Mr. C. B. Whitelaw. In place of Ramsden's special, the club on this occasion presented a silver medal themselves for best fed bird in the hall, which was won by Mr. C. Hunter's yell. Nor. ck. For the best young bird in amateur section the silver cup went to Mr. Wm. Wood, Glasgow. Winner Hyde's spd teapot, Mr. Nimmo. Mr. J. Sneaton judged the Norwich, Mr. Wm. Haddow Borders, Mr. R. V. Raine Mules and Brit., and they gave every satisfaction.

TAVISTOCK.

Second annual show at Market Hall, Nov. 27th. Entries numbered 63, in six classes, but owing to insufficient entries several classes were cancelled. The Norwich section was cancelled in its entirety. This is somewhat strange seeing that Plymouth (now the recognised stronghold of the Plainhead variety) is within an hour's railway ride from Tavistock. No doubt the clashing with Bristol, Swindon, and other shows had something to do with this, but the show committee deserve better treatment from exhibitors than Tavistock received. The birds were staged at the end of the hall, and the space at disposal would easily have accommodated at least 300 exhibits, and was free from draughts. The Goldfinch class was a very fine one, and the leading birds were of exceptional merit, and we have seldom seen a better class of Bullfinches staged in the West. We were glad to see the Cinnamons so well represented, Mrs. Brown's winner taking special for best cage bird in show. The committee responsible for the welfare of the cage birds were Messrs. Green, Martin, T. Brown, and Wilmot, and the management left nothing to be desired, Mr. J. Young making an ideal secretary and show manager. Mr. T. Pope, Plymouth, judged, and his awards met with general approval.

WOODSIDE (Aberdeen).

Annual open show, held in the Burgh Hall, Woodside, Nov. 30th. The Hall is well adapted for a Cage Bird show, being well lighted from both sides. The exhibits were nicely staged, leaving plenty room for visitors. We were sorry to see that the entries were down on last year. Norwich were the outstanding feature of the show, some very fine specimens being staged. Borders were very short in numbers. British and Foreign had a good classification, but only averaged 8 per class, which was disappointing. Hydes' special was gained by Mr. Kerr, Aberdeen, with a nice buff hen of rare substance and type. The management was all that could be desired. Mr. P. Stewart, the president, was very energetic, and had everything in the best of order. Mr. J. Strachan, the vice-president, is also a hard worker, and saw to the finishing up of the show. The secretarial duties were ably carried out by Mr. Jas. Milne, who did his utmost to ensure the success of the show. He was ably backed up by a hard working committee, consisting of Messrs. Sandison, Strachan, Rae, Thomson, Taylor, Allison, Craighead, Will, Dunn, Robertson, Johnston, Ewan, and Anderson. The judges were: Mr. Allan Chalmers (Kirkintilloch), Nor.; Mr. Wm. Bishop (St. Ninians), Brit., etc.; and their awards gave general satisfaction.

BARNET F. and F.S.

Held Nov. 30th in the National Schools. The entry was far in excess of any the Society has ever experienced, and the quality throughout was of a very high class. The birds were comfortably staged in a separate room, kept nice and warm for the occasion. Mr. F. Chandler, the hon. sec., was untiring in his efforts to please, and radiant at the success which attended the show. He was well supported by efficient stewards, and a thoroughly fancier-like committee. The attendance of visitors was large, and the cage bird section the source of much admiration. Mr. P. Brooke won the cup with a rattling clear yellow unflighted Norwich. Goldfinches, Linnets, and British birds generally, were a splendid collection; there was a good list of specials, and the competition was keen. Mr. G. Gardner judged.

GILLINGHAM AND DIST. F.S.

Sixth annual show held at the Beacon Court Assembly Room, Nov. 29th. On account of not being able to get a large hall, it was confined to a four-miles radius. Having the promise of a very large hall next season, it is proposed to hold an all-England open show, and, possessing a good, hard-working committee in Messrs. J. Hyde, C. Wray, sen., J. Carter, J. Lancaster, A. Thomas, W. Whiteman, J. Bourne, H. Gordon, and a most energetic and obliging secretary in Mr. H. C. Wray, there is no reason why an open show should not prove a success. Entries were small, and Mr. F. J. Wickham (Chatham) judged.

NOR. (6): 1, sp, Lancaster, typical cl. yell., nice compact feather, but could do with more size; 2, Smith, close up, very little between, not quite the compactness; 3, Lancaster, another nice specimen; vhc, Hobbs; hc, Smith; c, Lancaster. MKD. OR VARIEG. (4): 1, Smith, very neat eye tkd. yell., really good, nice sub., neat wings, lovely feather; 2, Lancaster, fine bold buff, splendid sub., wee bit long in barrel; 3, Smith. VARIEG. BUFF: Really fine exhibit, nice and neat all round, but on small side. BRED 1912 (6): 1, 2, c, Pankhurst, lovely buff, good all round, but could do with more size; 2nd, nice neat yell. hen, little to choose; 3, Smith; vhc, Lancaster; hc, Smith. BRIT. (8): 1, 2, 3, vhc, Pankhurst, lovely team, Linnet leading, 2nd Redpoll, 3rd Greenfinch, vhc Siskin, all fit for good competition; hc, Covington; c, Bradley.

DARLINGTON C. AND B.B.F.A.

Seventh annual show held November 30, in the Corn Exchange, one of the most spacious halls we have yet been in. Plenty of light, and any amount of room for visitors to get about. It would, with a little more heat, be an ideal place for holding a cage bird show, and the society is to be congratulated upon possessing such an excellent hall for their show. Having run an open show for several years at a loss, the committee this year thought it expedient to somewhat reduce their classification—fortunately with most gratifying results, the entry proving a record for the society, totalling about 330, the average per class being much in excess of previous years, and this, despite the fact that the other local society was holding its members' show on the same date. What a pity it is the two societies do not amalgamate. We would be very pleased to see them do so, for they could, with the talent at their command, undoubtedly run one of the most successful shows in the North of England. Much of the success of the show under notice is no doubt due to the hard work of the courteous and energetic secretary, Mr. A. Walker, whom we found to be most obliging to everyone, and with a thorough knowledge of his duties. Nothing seemed to come amiss to him, and he gets through his work in a splendid manner, and we found not the slightest hitch in the arrangements, and we are glad to think that his efforts on behalf of his society have been rewarded by such a good show. He is ably supported by a grand body of workers, headed by the genial chairman, Mr. H. C. Carter, and composed of Messrs. W. Cartwright (vice-chairman), J. Wildsmith (treasurer), and H. Robinson, P. H. Wilcock, H. Wilson, J. Reynolds, J. G. Stephenson, and A. Richmond, all of them doing their best for the good of the society. The exhibits, on the whole, were a very level lot. Yorkshires were undoubtedly the feature of the show. Norwich were very nice, while the British were well to the fore, both in numbers and quality, many well-known winners being staged. Mr. J. H. Roe (Birmingham) judged.

YORKS. (21): 1, 2, Cuthbertson, beautics, leader neck tkd. yell., grand length, straight as a gun barrel, neat head and neck, beautifully drawn, good col. and qual., grandly braced wings and tail, 2nd varieg. buff, lovely col. and qual., neat, narrow shoulders, well rounded, stands well on grand legs; 3, Norton, yell., tkd. left side of neck, rare length, grandly rounded, slim and well drawn, good col. and position, loses in wing carr.; vhc, Wilkinson Bros.; hc, Campling; c, Farrar. 1912 (17): 1, Cuthbertson, cl. yell., lovely style, nice length, gets well up on good legs, grandly tapered body, sweet head, good shoulders, lovely wings and tail; 2, Huddleston, cl. yell., hotter col. leader, wee shade shorter body, grandly rounded, well tapered, nice position, grand wings and tail; 3, Sutcliffe and Son, spanking cl. buff, lovely col. and qual., beautifully rounded back and breast, finely drawn, nice length, close tight feather; vhc, Norton; hc, Wilkinson Bros.; c, Chesworth and Mason. HEN (14): 1, 2, Cuthbertson, leader cl. buff, magnificent col. and qual., very stylish, grand length and position, straight as a rush, sweet head, lovely shoulders and waist, grandly braced wings and tail, 2nd cl. yell., fine length, very slim and well drawn, beautiful shoulders, well rounded, gets well up, neat head, grand wings and tail, lacks the grand finish of leader; 3, Sutcliffe and Son, cl. buff, grand length, very erect, beautifully rounded, slim and finely drawn, neat head, grand wings and tail, loses only in col.; vhc, Precious; hc, c, Pyman. NOR. (16): 1, Wilcock, P., lovely cl. buff, magnificent shape, round as a ball, plenty of subs., graud head, neck, and chest, short and thick set, grand short wings and tail, lovely col. and qual., wins; 2, Freeman, cl. yell, fine shape and subs., good head, nice neck and chest, good col. and qual., loses a trifle in wing carr.; 3, Jeffries, cl. buff, not the subs, of leader, but good shape, grandly rounded back and chest, neat head, grand col. and qual.; vhc, c, Robson and March; hc, Pickering and Wright; No. 5, Freeman, better than any in class bar leader, but was unfortunately a trifle thick when judged, or must have been in the money. 1912 (19): 1, 2, W. A. Wilson, cl. buff, lovely shape, short and coppy, well rounded chest and back, good head, grand col. and qual., short closely packed wings and tail, 2nd cl. buff, scarcely the same coppy type of leader, yet very nice, good size, neat head and neck, good col. and qual., gets wings over a bit; 3, Pickering and Wright, head tkd. yell., red hot, lovely qual., nice head and neck, good shape, but a bit fat on chest, nice wing and tail carr.; vhc, Makins; hc, Jeffries; c, Mays and Allison. HEN (11): 1, 2, 3, Pickering and Wright, nice team, cl. buff leading, round as a ball, lovely shape, grand back and chest, rich col and qual., nice head, correct wings and tail, 2nd cl. yel., fine shape, bit pale in col., but lovely qual., neat head, nice neck and chest, grand carr., 3rd cl. yell., hotter col. than 2nd, nice size and shape, good back and chest, neat wings and tail, scarcely so tight in feather as leaders; vhc, W. A. Wilson; hc, Moore; c, Chambers. A.O.V. (14): 1, Orton, foul tail green C.B., good size, good broad skull, nice rise and entrance, abundance of feather, well lashed; 2, Seeley Bros., yell. cinn., wonderful col., medium size, nice shape, neat head and neck, well polished, bit faulty in wings; 3, vhc, Simpson and Charlton, var. buff C.B., very massive, grand broad skull, tremendous feather over poll, good rise and entrance, but not the qual. of feather of leader; hc, Calvert; c, Jeffries. BORD. (11): 1, 2, Watson, leader cl. buff, grand shape, lovely col. and qual., brand boxy feather, sweet head and neck, shade heavy in build if anything, 2rd cl. yell., lovely col, close boxy feather, of finest texture, well rounded back and chest, grandly cut, scarcely so well balanced on legs, as we like to see; 3, hc, Browell, nearly even mkd. buff, fine shape, lovely carr., neat head, nicely rounded back and chest, grand wings, loses in qual. to leader; vhc, Carter; c, Ogden. MULES, ETC. (5): 1, 3, Maddison, well-known cl. Goldie Mule leading, fine size and shape, staged in sparking condition, 3rd equally well-known dark yell. Linnet Mule, fine size, wonderful col. and polish, grand bloom and condition; 2, Seeley Bros., lightly mkd. Goldie Mule, nice size and shape, good face and wings, nice feather and condition; vhc, P. Wilcock; hc, Knox. LINNET (12): 1, Calvert, medium size, grand shape, lovely pencilling, very profuse and clear all over, beautifully laced, shade dark in col. perhaps, but grand polish and condition; 2, Woodhead and Son, again nice shape, graudly pencilled, but hardly so plentiful on breast as leader, nice col. and condition; 3, Trail, lovely col., correct nut brown, fine size and shape, well pencilled, scarcely shows himself well; vhc, Stamp; hc, Maddison; c, Tams and Son. GOLDIE, ETC. (19): 1, 2, Mays and Allison, Bullfie leading, grand one all over, lovely breast col., carried well under, lovely dense col. cap, broad and clean cut, nice back and wings, lovely condition, 2nd Goldie, beauty, fine size and shape, beautiful face, rich and pure in col., lovely tanning, grand wings and buttons; 3, P. Wilcock, Bullfie, scarcely the substance of leader, nice body col., neat cap, good back and wings; vhc, Thompson; hc, Barwick; c, Tomlinson; No. 13, Waters, a good Goldie, well-known winner, but again down in condition, give him a rest, Kit. GREENFINCH (11): 1, Waters, medium size, beautiful shape, lovely full fronted bird, short and cobby, neat head, lovely col. and condition, wins well; 2, Henderson, larger than leader, cobby build, scarcely so compact as leader, rare head, neck and chest, nice col., but not the close boxy feather; 3, Robinson, rare size, nice shape, hardly so well filled on back as leaders, grand col. and condition, lovely wings; vhc, Forster; hc, Williams; c, Eames. CHAFFINCH, ETC. (7): 1, 2, Tomlinson, lovely Chaffinch, leading, fine size and shape, nice head, lovely col. and polish, grand back and wings bars, tip-top condition; 2, Bramble, not a big one, but extra for col., grandly polished, beautifully spangled head and back, lovely lacing, in the pink; 3, Forster, Bramble, stormer for size, grand col. and condition, well laced, lacks the clear distinct spangling of 2nd; vhc, Carter; hc, Williams; c, Swann. WOKING AND DISTRICT F.S.

Held Nov. 29 in the Public Hall, when a grand display, a host of visitors, and success all round was the result. Mr. L. C. B. Hockin is a model sec., who spares neither time nor enthusiasm to make things go. He is assisted by as earnest and enthusiastic a body of committeemen as could ever back up a sec. Mr. G. M. Osborne is chairman of committee, and takes a practical interest in the welfare of the society, and no small share of credit for the wide popularity of the society is due to that excellent sportsman and popular president, J. H. Driver, Esq., whose excellent remarks at the judges' luncheon bore evidence of his own personal interest and of the attachment of the society membership to that gentleman. The quality of the exhibits all round was good, and competition keen. Special for best cage bird was well won by Mr. G. Biles, with a good coloured, large and well shown Canary-Bullfinch mule. Mr. F. T. L. Avis won spl. for best Canary with a rattling yell. Yorks., and Mr. G. Drowley won spl. for best Brit. with a fine Hawfinch. Mr. Geo. Gardner judged.

Nests of Birds, Poultry, etc., should be regularly sprinkled with KEATING'S POWDER, especially when hens are sitting. Don't forget to do this just previous to the eggs hatching, to destroy the Red Mite. Kills all insects. Harmless to everything else.

HOLYWOOD (Ireland).

Show held in the King Edward VII. Memorial Hall, Nov. 22 and 23. The hall is an ideal one for a cage bird show, being free from draughts, well lighted and heated with hot water pipes. The committee are a hard-working lot of fanciers, and deserve better support from exhibitors. The President, Mr. Hamilton, and the Hon. Treas., Mr. Hunter, could not have done more for the welfare of exhibits. The Sec., Mr. John Dunwoody, junr., is the ideal for this important office; always on the move, and courteous to all, he makes a capital worker. Mr. A. Wellings (Preston) judged, and his awards gave entire satisfaction.

HARROGATE.

Ninth annual open show held in the Carlton Rooms, Nov. 30. The room is an ideal one for the purpose, being lofty, free from draught, and well lighted. Mr. Barnswell, the hon. sec., had the birds staged to perfection. Every exhibit could be seen without lifting the cage, and we must give him praise for his attention to the exhibits and his kindness to the public at the show. The patron of the society is the Hon. Edward Wood, M.P.; patroness, Lady Dorothy Wood; president, H. Milling, esq.; vice-presidents, Messrs. W. Duncan, jun., H. Schwenk, W. H. Hamlyn, Rev. S. F. Dawson, Dr. M. A. Wilson, and W. Cross; and hon. treas., Mr. W. E. Fergusson. We must also give praise to the hard-working committee for their attention to the exhibits—Messrs. Robinson, Brown, Ireland, Walker, Cotton, Fergusson, Hamlyn, Leng. The morning was very cold, and many of the birds were feeling the effects of the keen frost, and were very hard to judge, and we are sure no one envied the judges' task of placing the cards. In the novice section some fine specimens were benched, J. Anderton winning two firsts, both birds being quickly claimed at catalogue price, viz., £3 3s. Mr. Walker won in unflighted class with a beauty, and in the hens Mr. Ireland won with a beautiful Buff, which was claimed at £5 7s. 6d. In the Mules and Hybrids Dr. Wilson came out on top with a splendid Linnet Bullie, which secured special for best bird shown by a member of the Harrogate Society. British were a grand lot, and for the best bird in show Mr. Bailey's yell. tick took the coveted prize card. Mr. W. Mundell (Bradford) judged.

WORKSOP.

2nd annual show, held Nov. 30th. The Town Hall, which is of good light, spacious, and lively situated, was the venue. President is H. V. Machin, Esq., J.P.; vice-president, Messrs. F. Wardle Smith, T. B. Dale, and C. A. Longbottom, a quartette of most generous officials. The committee consists of many well-known and highly esteemed fanciers, who, one and all, rendered capital assistance. The joint secretaries are Messrs. Hbt. Smith, W. Smith, and H. P. Sissons, a trio of excellent workers, and are great assets. The entry was a good one, improving on last year's number, also of far superior quality. Yorks. were a nice collection, Norwich fair, and British and For. good. Special for best in show (medal), also best Yorkie, went to Mr. T. Simpson. The former, with his noted six-pointed buff Goldie-Can., looking a picture. Best For., Mr. G. Gray; these prizes being presented by that well-known lady enthusiast, Miss Alderson. Other special winners were Messrs. T. Simpson, yell. Yorks., buff, 1912, and Nor. or Crest; A. Woodhead, Brit., with a very fine and grand coloured Hawfinch, and best fed Yorkie, Mr. G. H. Bryan, a novice exhibitor, with a red hot cl. buff. Judging was over in good time. Prize cards went up promptly, and management throughout A1. Mr. J. C. Barnes (Sheffield) judged, and his awards met with universal approval.

The Critique.

YORKS. YELL. BUFF (4): 1, 3, Simpson, both cl., leader a very promising unflig., latter of capital length and pos.; 2, Blow, another likely looking youngster, very close up, full of qual.; vhc, Hooton. HEN (4): 1, Blow, graceful thigh tkd., stands erect and of A1 feather; 2, Sugden, cl., typical and well clothed, pressed hard; 3, vhc, Hooton, cl. of good feather, admirable for stock purposes. UNFLIG. (5): 1, Simpson, most charming cl. yell., feathered to perfection, capital pos. and length; 2, Hooton, cl., slim, and upstanding, A1 feather, close up; 3, vhc, Sugden, tkd. eye, straight up, good length, bit rough on front; hc, Potts. NOR. (1): 1, Hooton, very bonny shaped cl., buff, superior feather, nice carr. HEN (2): 1, 2, Hooton, cl. yell., unflig. of capital merit and a good type and qual., cl. buff of neat carr. CREST: 1, Simpson, buff, cl. body D.C., heaps of feather, crest of lovely formation, good droop and centre. MULES (3): 1, Simpson, slashing buff six-pointed Goldie-Can., winner on many occasions, stands well away; 2, Blow, nice Goldie-Siskin, A1 col. and quality, nicely staged; 3, Lane, buff variey. Goldie-Can, shapely and of nice col. and bloom. BRIT. (4): 1, Woodhead, with a choice Hawfinch, good enough for most shows to win; 2, Fricker, smart Bullie, A1 breast col., well cut cap; 3, Hooton, Goldie of nice size and shape, neat face, bars, and buttons; vhc, Lane. FOR. (2): 1, Woodhead, Budgerigar, in best possible trim; 2, Haslam, not in perfect cond. LARGE (3): 1, Gray, Cockatoo, in full feather, greatly admired; 2, Simpson, Parrakect, looking a picture, found many friends; 3, Jarvis, Amazon, in very nice order. NOV. YORKS. (8): 1, 2, Bryan, lovely fed cl. buff, just beating his stable companion by col. only, also cl. buff; 3, Fricker, yell., thigh tkd., non-fed, good feather and stand; vhc, Potts. NOR. (3): 1, 2, Stainland, bull, mkd. head and cl. buff respectively, both of nice shape, feather, and col.; 3, King, cl. buff, A1 feather and nice shape, trifle smaller. BRIT.: 1, King, very nice Bullie.

BURY C.B.S.

Annual members' show held in Textile Hall, Nov. 30. Entries were not quite up to the average, there being less than 100 birds staged; but quality was all there. In fact, the best birds that have been staged at Bury for a number of years. Most of the winning birds have been figuring at leading shows this season, viz., at Burnley, Warrington, Rochdale, etc. Mr. R. Barrass (Rochdale) placed the cards, and his decisions seemed to give unanimous satisfaction. He was favoured with a very nice bright day and one of the best rooms that could be obtained for such an occasion. Everything went well. The show was financially a success, and we are hoping to go something better, as our members are a go-ahead and reliable lot of fanciers.—H. Jameson, sec. and treas.

From the catalogue received we gather that the principal winners were:—YORKS: Messrs. Crossley, Brooks, Howarth. NOR.: Armstead, Wilson, Brooks, Gorton. CRESTS: Armstead, Gorton, Jameson. C.B.: Gorton Armstead. MULES: Wilson, Brough. BRIT.: Crosby.—Ed.

MUSSELBURGH.

First open fixture of this Society, held Nov. 30. Entries numbered 500, which was considered very satisfactory for a first venture, and some noted winners met to do battle for premier honours. Norwich led the way, and quality was of a high order. Special for best was secured by Mr. James Sneaton with a clinking buff hen. In Borders the classes were well filled; judge, Mr. Arnott. The B.F.C. medal was won by Mr. Wm. Munro with a yellow cock, a very stylish exhibit, but somewhat lengthy for a true Border in the opinion of some. The British section contained the cream of this season's winners; the lovely Redstart belonging to Mr. E. Taylor, of Glasgow, secured the special for best, and right well it deserved it, being staged in faultless order. The "Evans" Trophy for best insectivorous bird shown by a member residing within a six-mile radius was won by Mr. John Sykes' Nightingale. The hall in which the show was held is not just an ideal place for a cage bird show; the gallery somewhat obstructs the light along one side, but we were informed that the venue was to be changed next year to a hall of more commodious construction. The officials one and all worked with might and main to make the show in every way a success. The President, Mr. A. Moffat, worked like a Trojan, as did the Treasurer, Mr. C. Watt. The popular Secretary, Mr. Wm. Nisbet, was a hard-working official who did not spare himself in ensuring the proper working of every detail. We hope to hear that the Society's first open venture has turned out a financial success. The judges were: Norwich, Mr. John M'Lay, Kirkintilloch; Borders, Mr. Thomas Arnott, Kirkcaldy; and British, etc., Mr. Robert Bald, Bathgate.

SALE.

Sixth annual show, held Nov. 29th and 30th in the Technical School, a very light and spacious place, and just suitable for a good show. A fine list of special prizes were offered. There was a magnificent entry of over 700, more than double last year's entry. The officials and committee were highly delighted, and they did all in their power to make the show a success; the birds were receiving every care and attention. President, Mr. Philip Smith, chairman, Mr. G. Dunkley, and the show committee, Messrs. G. Alcock, T. Critchley, W. Cook, J. Gray, and W. Robinson; hon. sec., Mr. A. Royle; assist. hon. sec. and treas., Mr. C. Wood. All worked like a machine, and especial praise is due to the untiring efforts of Mr. Royle and Mr. C. Wood for the prompt manner in which they got through their work. It was a stiff task for both Mr. A. G. Davis and Mr. Chas. Houlton, who judged, Mr. Davis taking Norwich, Yorks., and selling, and Mr. Houlton the remainder. The sudden bite of extreme cold weather caused plenty of the birds to get their backs up, and made it the more difficult to see all the good points in them. As we heard very few remarks on the judging, it appeared generally satisfactory. We saw a magnificent team of Borders, which gained most points in the show, and won the President's Challenge cup for that redoubtable Border Fancy King, Mr. Bayley, of Altrincham. In the unavoidable absence of the chairman, Mr. G. Dunkley, Mr. Councillor McBeath, in a few very choice words, congratulated Mr. Bayley on this year winning the cup, and presented it to him, remarking that it gave him extreme pleasure to do so, particularly that Mr. Bayley was practically a local exhibitor. He sympathised with Mr. J. M. Walsh, who had held the cup for two years, but said it was good and healthy for competition that the cup should change hands at times. Mr. Bayley very suitably and modestly replied, remarking that he had spent much time and care to bring his team to the standard of excellence to gain the cup. There was a large attendance. It was regrettable that the printer of the catalogue only supplied the same late on Saturday afternoon. The officials worked hard at once, and got all off by post immediately on reception from the printer. Everything else passed of A1. The principal special winners were: G. Pike, R. P. Bixter, W. Bayley, Schofield and Addison, Hudson, Parlett, Mrs. Harrison, J. M. Walsh, Morgan, Middleton, Hallworth, Whitney, Gray, and for Sandiford's, E. Astley.

Mr. Davis's Classes.

PENTREBACH F.S.

Annual show held in the New Hall, Nov. 28. A grand hall, beautifully warmed and cosy on a bitterly cold morning, was what these sturdy dwellers amongst the Welsh hills provided for the birds sent to their third annual show. A glut of exhibitions on the same day somewhat militated against the entry, but quality was superb, and the competition correspondingly keen. The show was under the patronage of the Welsh C.B.C., a guarantee that the society is popular; and the hon. secretary, Mr. A. E. Brown, is one of the best. He worked like a Trojan, and he did it methodically. Mr. J. H. Jones, the efficient show manager; Mr. G. L. Harber, chairman; Mr. T. C. Jones, vice-chairman; and Mr. A. Coode, treasurer, all rendered valuable help; and as to the stewards, these in the persons of Messrs. Geo. Davies, Geo. Jones, W. Williams, and T. Thomas, are not to be surpassed in fancierdom. There was a good list of valuable specials. The silver cup, given by P. Burrowe, Esq., was awarded to Mr. H. Phillips for a really topping ticked buff Yorkie, which was staged in tip-top form. In the Norwich classes many grand birds were staged, but perhaps Yorks. were the best of the Canary classes in point of quality. As may well be expected, the British section was well represented, and the classes keenly contested. Goldfinches were a grand collection, and so indeed were the Finches generally, even though we were assured that many of the best birds were away at the Horticultural Hall. It was a pity the show clashed, as our Welsh friends justly enjoy the reputation of providing a treat in the British bird section, and the clashing militated against Pentrebach sorely. For all that, the collection was worthy of gallant little Wales. Another year it is contemplated changing the show date somewhat. The men of Pentrebach deserve good luck; they play up well for it. Mr. Geo. Gardner judged, and his awards appeared to give general satisfaction.

The Critique.

NOR. YELL. CK. (7): 1, sp, res, Capt. Collier, leader a grand bodied bird, nice flow for a yellow, well across the perch, good head; 2, George, yell., grand head and body, fails trifle wing carr.; 3, Brown, very good qual., loses a bit in stoutness and head; 4, no name; vhc, Hotchkiss; hc, Tedstone. If you want to do any business at all you must advertise. Why not advertise through the best possible medium, the medium which will secure orders from, and work up a connection with the big men, as well as the little men of the Fancy. Early in the New Year the "Annual" will be in the hands of all who pursue the hobby of bird-keeping with real zest, and throughout the year will be constantly in use. Advertisers' announcements will make that continued appeal which is so necessary for the production of business.

PREPAID ADVERTISEMENTS

UNDISPLAYED.—6d. for the first eighteen words. One Halfpenny per Word for each word over eighteen. Name and address to be reckoned. MINIMUM, 18 words 6d.

IMPORTANT NOTE.—Two or more Advertisements coming from the same advertiser, even if sent in different names, are reckoned together, and, after the first Eighteen words, are charged at two words a penny, but no single advertisement, even if accompanied by others, will be charged at less than the minimum price, viz., Sixpence.

Headlines or Footlines, 6d., 9d., 1/-, 1/6, according to size.

ADVERTISEMENTS UNACCOMPANIED BY CORRECT REMITTANCE WILL NOT BE INSERTED.

Postal Orders must be sent as far as possible. All moneys should be made payable to F. CARL.

The Proprietor reserves the right to refuse any advertisement, or to cancel any advertisement ordered for a series, at any time, without assigning any reason for so doing.

Advertisements must in all cases bear the bona fide name and address of the advertiser, and no advertisement will be inserted if addressed to a receiving office, or similar place of call.

Small prepaid advertisements of a general nature and not connected in any way with the Cage Bird Trade are inserted at the rate of ½d. per word throughout. Minimum 12 words 6d.

Advertisements close Tuesdays first post in each week, and should be sent to the advertisement Manager, CAGE BIRDS, 154, Fleet Street, London. Terms for Display Advertisements on application.

REPEATING OF ADVERTISEMENTS

Advt. Manager, "Cage Birds."

ALWAYS USE OUR DEPOSIT SYSTEM.

We are not responsible for the statements made in advertisements, nor of the bona-fides of either buyers or sellers in all transactions the adoption of our Deposit System should be insisted upon

IMPORTANT.

SEND THE FULL COMMISSION.—If the full commission does not accompany the deposit, the vendor will not be notified of its receipt until the amount deficient, plus the extra postage incurred, has been paid to us.

HOW TO REMIT.—Under no circumstances will Cheques or Post dated Money Orders be accepted as deposits. Uncrossed Postal Orders must be sent and the numbers taken for safety.

RULES.

1.—PROCEDURE.—The intending purchaser should send to this office the amount of the purchase (our deposit fee included), and at the same time he should communicate with the seller, stating what it is he requires sent on approval. We acknowledge receipt of the deposit to both parties. In all cases the depositor should give his name and address, and also that of the vendor, and must write same clearly and distinctly.

2.—END OF TRANSACTION.—The deposit is retained by us until we hear from both parties that the transaction has been completed. If a sale has been effected, we hand the amount deposited to the seller. If a sale has not been effected, we return the amount to the depositor. The transaction must be conducted by the parties themselves. We merely hold the deposit.

3.—AMOUNT OF COMMISSION.—The fee is 6d. for each £1, or fraction of £1, and it must be sent at same time as the deposit.

4.—IMPORTANT POINTS.—The depositor must decide within forty-eight hours of the receipt of the goods whether he will keep or return the same, unless, that is, some other period of approval (of which we must be advised) is agreed upon by both parties. The depositor must at the same time notify us of the fact that he has returned the goods. If the goods are not returned within the said forty-eight hours, we reserve the right to send the deposit to the seller after the expiration of that period. And should the seller fail within three days to notify us of the receipt of his goods back again, the transaction will be treated as ended, and the deposit will be returned to the depositor.

5.—A SATISFACTORY PURCHASE.—When a transaction has been completed to the satisfaction of both depositor and seller, both parties must at once return the deposit receipts as a guarantee of its completion. The depositor must at the same time instruct us to pay over the deposit to the seller.

6.—GOODS ALREADY SOLD.—If the goods are sold before our deposit note reaches the seller, or if for any other reason he declines to do business, he must at once return the deposit note to us. Failing its receipt, we reserve the right to return the deposit to the sender after the expiration of three days.

7.—FRESH TRANSACTION.—In case no sale be effected, a deposit is available for purposes of a fresh transaction, provided another deposit fee be paid.

8.—GOODS IN TRANSIT.—Goods in transit are at the seller's risk, and any damage or loss sustained on the journey must be borne by the seller. But goods not approved of must be properly packed and returned by the same means as were used in sending the same.

9.—PAYMENT OF CARRIAGE.—The payment of carriage must be a matter for arrangement between the vendor and depositor. We do not undertake to settle disputes affecting question of carriage. But in the absence of other arrangements the purchaser is liable for the carriage of the goods, and if the goods are sent on approval and returned, each party pays the carriage one way.

10.—DISPUTES.—In case of a dispute, the decision of the Editor is final.

THE LAST FARTHING

in superb value is assured you by purchasing your catching appliances from me. Only practical men who thoroughly understand their work are employed by me, and no expense is spared to insure every article being of highest possible value and service. To test the truth of this statement I cordially invite any person to have any of my catching appliances on approval, put them to every reasonable test against those obtained from elsewhere at higher prices, and if mine are not far better value smash them up, and I will refund every penny of your money. Surely this will convince even the most sceptical person that my goods are what I claim for them. Clap nets made from superfine thread netting, ¾in. mesh, 3 yards long, 5½ft. deep, and 4ft. fly, 4s. pair; ditto 4 yards, 5s.; 5 yards, 6s.; 6 yards, 7s.; 7 yards, 8s.; 8 yards, 9s.; 9 yards, 10s.; 10 yards, 11s. all per pair. Clap nets consist of two nets to the pair, each net guaranteed of above stated size, and are fitted complete with all pegs, poles, lines, etc., ready for immediate use. Loose thread netting as used in above clap nets ¾in. mesh, 7ft. deep, 3d. yard; 9ft. deep, 4d. yard; 12ft. deep, 5d. yard. Extra stout netting 5-8 mesh, for use on rough ground and on sparrow nets, 10ft. deep, 5d. yard, all post free. THE BOOK FOR YOU.

Our Special Christmas Offer.

This Book tells the Bird-lover when to mate his Canaries; when to breed; when to feed; when to doctor them, and when to let them alone; when to strengthen his stock and when to weed out the poorer birds; when to buy and when to sell. The man who goes in for valuable specimens is shown how to wash and dress them for Exhibition and how to care for them while they are at the Shows. The work covers every aspect of Canary culture, and is therefore a most suitable and valuable Christmas present for any birdlover.

It has an Index of some 600 items in which every point of doubt or difficulty can be turned up in an instant; it is equally adapted for sustained reading every section being written by a specialist who is a real bird-lover also. It is admirably planned to help the beginner, since each chapter gives the elementary knowledge needed by the neophyte. And it is equally useful to the man who has been breeding for years, for it gives the results of years of patient study and embodies rules for success that have never before been tabulated; it tells of the crosses that have not yet been achieved, and includes the latest scientific information on the practical application of Mendelism to the fascinating study of Canary-breeding.

But we do not ask you to take our word for this. We ask you to send for the Book free of cost, and to read and test it for yourself without spending a penny. Send it back on the eighth day after you receive it, if you think it will not be useful to you.

If you decide to order it, you can pay for it by a few small monthly sums, beginning when the extra Christmas expenses are over.

AMONG SO MANY

advertisements the intending purchaser is apt to be confused, and cannot make up his mind as to who to send to for his birds. This is just where my approval system comes in. Although I guarantee my stock to be exactly as represented in every way, I don't ask you to purchase anything until you have had it on approval and found it to be exactly what you require, then if you are fully satisfied you keep it, but if not, you simply return it, and I immediately refund you money in full. You cannot lose a penny in this way, as you either get exactly what you want or your money back. I have a splendid stock of genuine cock Worcestershire Goldfinches, in perfect health and condition, and full colour, at 2/- each, three 5/-, six 8/6, twelve 16/-. Few specially picked larger cocks, for muling and singing, and warranted now in free song, 3/- each, three 7/6, six 13/-. Specially selected exhibition birds, with full complement of show points, and fit to win immediately, 4/- and 5/- each. Cock Hawfinches, to moult for show, 5/- and 7/6 each. Goldfinch Linnet, Bullfinch and Lark cages, 6d. each, 5/- dozen. Special travelling cages, to hold 3 birds, 3d. extra. See back numbers for hundreds of testimonials similar to following: "Gordon House, Shotton Colliery, Co. Durham, Nov. 18th. Sir,—Linnets and Goldfinches I had from you few weeks ago are in full song. I never saw better value from anyone than you give. They are like paint, and steady as rocks. I advised a patient to write you for a Goldfinch to-day, and next week two others are sending you orders. I have always found you to be an honourable man in all my transactions with you, and can trust you. I have also recommended lots of my patients to buy from you, and they have always got entire satisfaction.—Yours, Dr. J. W. Cross." Please note, I guarantee sex in every instance and sell genuine cocks at advertised prices. If you do not happen to be an expert in sexing birds, it will please me if you will have any of my birds examined by any expert you know, so that you will know you are not getting hens for your money, as what is worse than keeping hen birds for singing or trying to breed Mules off a hen Britisher and hen Canary. (Imitators, please copy as usual.) All birds are guaranteed thoroughly on hard seed before sent out, and postcard always sent before birds. If you want thoroughly reliable stock, send to the man who has a 21 years' reputation to uphold. No connection whatever with any other advertiser. (306)

SOFTBILL keepers, take expert advice before proceeding to buy and keep the larger species of Insectivorous birds. You will then have no trouble in keeping your pets in the best of health. This advice is offered in "Nutshell No. 25," by H. J. Fulljames. It is a wonderful little work, dealing with most varieties in a highly interesting and instructive manner. Foods and their preparation, and the various styles of cages also receive full attention. Can you breed Mealworms? This booklet tells you how. Post free, 2½d., from "Cage Birds," 154, Fleet-st., London, E.C. Look at our list of agents; call on the nearest and get it for 2d.

Inspection by Appointment.

You are sure of common courtesy, but no two-faced "can't"—it is not in my line.

Norwich Plainheads. Purchase direct, and save intermediate profits and palpable falsehoods about strains. See what you pay for. Grand Norwich, colour-fed, specials, 10/6, 12/6, 15/-, 20/- up, for show. You cannot procure anything like them at the price elsewhere, but they are sold without the lie about so called strains (senseless or otherwise). Grand lot of Hens, at the uniform price of 5/- each. These will not be procurable at double later on; in fact, plenty, by being "puffed up" are being sold at 12/- and 15/- each, that are not so good. Note few other prices, and have on approval now, for I have a wonderful collection at the present moment to select from. Few other low prices:—

Cocks, 5/-, 6/-, 6/6, 7/6, 8/6, 10/6, 15/-, 20/- upwards. Hens, 2/- (three for 5/6), 2/6, 3/6, 5/- upwards. Pairs, for breeding, 6/6, 7/6, 8/6, 10/6, 15/-, 20/-, 30/- upwards. Cages, 3d.

State what you require, show or stock bird, and a faithful description will be given.—

W. RUDD, The Bird Specialist, NORWICH.

DO YOU FANCY

a Roller with a long-drawn out monotonous roll like a railway whistle? If so, don't bother to read this advt., because my Leipzig Rollers have a good variety of changes in their song instead of the one long roll. Another difference is that the Leipzig Rollers retain their song for years, whereas the ordinary Roller is at its best for a few months only. I want you to test the truth of my statements by having a Leipzig Roller from me on week's trial, and test it side by side with an ordinary Roller at any higher price and keep the one which suits you best. Hundreds of people have tested my Rollers in this manner, and I have published many letters saying the Leipzig Rollers have proved better birds than those costing three times the amount elsewhere. I now have an enormous stock of genuine Leipzig Roller cocks, in full song, day and gaslight, with sweet hollow rolls, hollow bell rolls, silvery trills, water bubble runs, soft roulades, piccolo trills, jug-jug of Nightingale, bell, harp, gong and flute notes, etc, etc., and guaranteed entirely free from any harsh or objectionable notes whatever, price 7/6 and 8/6 each. Special Bandmasters, which excel in the deep bass and hollow bell rolls, 10/6 and 12/6 each. Hens, guaranteed of exactly same strain, but unrelated, 2/- each, 3/6 couple. For those who like a loud noisy songster, I have a splendid lot of free singing Hartz cocks, in full, vigorous song day and gaslight, just the thing for coffee-house or public bar, where plenty of noisy song is required, price 5/6 each, seven 31/6. Roller singing cabinet cages, with loose front and folding doors, 2/6 and 3/6 each. Ordinary singing box cages, 1/6, 2/- and 2/6 each. Please note, all Roller cocks are stamped on wing "Hans Weber, Leipzig," and I am the only importer of this strain of Rollers. All are safely and warmly packed in special travelling cages, free of extra cost, and sent on full week's approval at my risk immediately on receipt of cash or "Cage Birds" deposit system; and unless fullest satisfaction is given and your every expectation realised, money is instantly returned in full. Kindly note, full name and address given with each letter printed below, which are all guaranteed entirely unsolicited and are open to inspection at any time: "76, Kilburn-lane, Dewsbury, November 12th,—Sir,—Received the two birds safely and am more than delighted with them and the honest and straight-forward way you have dealt with me.—Yours, C. Newsome." "High-st., Kington, November 13th.—Sir,—Rollers arrived safely, and am very pleased with them. They began singing directly unpacked. Thanks for sending such good birds.—Yours, A. Hussey." "119, York-st., Nuneaton, November 17th.—Sir,—Roller arrived in fine condition, and was singing less than an hour after arrival, and has been singing lovely ever since.—Yours, C. Butler." "48, Normacott-rd, Longton, November 7th.—Sir,—The pair Bandmasters I had from you last year turned out real toppers. Please quote price for cock and three hens.—Yours, A. Tudor." "Station-rd., Cullyhacky, Ireland, November 8th.—Sir,—Roller arrived safely after so long a journey, and was singing 10 minutes after I got it into cage. I am well pleased, as it is a real beauty.—Yours, G. Wiseman." "Shippool, Innishannon, Co. Cork, November 15th.—Sir,—Roller arrived safe and in perfect condition. He is singing away in grand form to-day, with lovely soft trills. I am much pleased with him and so are all my family.—Yours, A. Harrick." "142, Icknield-st., Birmingham, November 10th.—Sir,—After having two of your Rollers this week I am writing to say I am more than satisfied, as they are two beauties. After being taken down by others I must say you are one of the most straightforward men I have dealt with.—Yours, C.B." "48, Normacott-rd., Longton, Staffs, November 16th.—Sir,—Thanks for safe arrival of Bandmaster cock and three hens. I think them fine birds and well worth price paid. The cock sang as soon as unpacked. I am well satisfied.—Yours, A. Tudor." "10, St. Andrew-st., Dublin, November 13th.—Sir,—Three Rollers arrived in pink of condition. They are in grand song and doing well. You will be getting more orders for them from Dublin.—Yours, T. Henry." "5, Green-rd., Yoker, Glasgow, November 17th.—Sir,—The Rollers I received a week ago prove to be all that any person would be proud to possess. The Bandmaster cock sings us a song so uncommon to the ordinary Canary; rich deep notes, and warbles like a Nightingale.—Yours, T. Smaith." "55, Lauriston-st., Edinburgh, November 19th.—Sir,—Roller arrived in excellent condition. Many thanks for prompt attention, and I am compelled to say I am quite well pleased, as it began singing half an hour after arrival. I shall not hesitate in recommending you to my friends, since I have received more than value for money.—Yours, J. Moran." I have published thousands of similar letters to above, all speaking in highest terms of praise of the Leipzig Rollers. If you have been previously disappointed with Rollers please let me send one of my Leipzig Rollers on approval for a week, just to let you hear and see that it is possible to get a really high-class bird at a moderate price. See British Bird and Appliance columns for further advt. (306)

Matched Pairs, correctly mated for breeding winners and sex guaranteed, 8/6, 10/-, 12/6, 15/-, 17/6, 20/-, 25/-, 30/- per pair. I can supply these in Clears, Ticks, Green Marked, Cinnamon Marked, or Self Greens.

WINNING YORKSHIRES.—I have a few real gems ready for immediate benching, sure winners at small Shows, at 15/-, 17/6, 20/-, 25/-, 30/-, 35/-, 40/-, 45/-, or 50/- each, Cocks or Hens. These can win their cost in prize money. I have also a few real toppers, able to hold their own in hottest open competition. Kindly state wants. The following is only one taken from scores of letters recently received, and which considerations of space alone prevent me from publishing:—

FIRST IN A CLASS OF 24.

17, Wann Goch, Nantymoel, Dec. 5th, 1912.—I am very well satisfied with the Yorkshire cock you sent me. He took 1st prize for me in a class of 24 at Cardiff Show.—M. Ley to J. Thomas. To every customer I give a guarantee of absolute satisfaction, or cash returned in full.

CHAMPION NORWICH PLAINHEADS. THE BULL-DOG STRAIN.

20/-, 25/-, 30/-, 40/-, 50/- per pair.

This strain needs no bounce. It has made a name for itself and is still going strong. (See reports of L.C.B.A., Coventry, and other Champion shows in this and last issue). My customers also are winning every week with birds supplied by me. Testimonials in proof of this are filed here for the inspection of all my visitors. I am now offering a few grand birds bred from my strain. Yellows or Buffs, Cocks or Hens, ready for benching and able to win their cost in prize-money, at 10/-, 15/-, 20/-, 25/-, 30/-, 40/-, 50/- each. I am also offering a few pairs, personally matched by me, at 20/-, 25/-, 30/-, 40/-, 50/- per pair upwards. Strain guaranteed. I have a few grand birds from other strains, good thick-set birds, Cocks on full free song, at 6/-, 7/6, 8/6, 10/- each; Hens, grand smart-feathered birds, 3/6, 4/-, 5/-, 7/6, 10/- each. Fed good Sib Hens for Light Muling, 4/-, 5/-, 6/-, 7/6, 10/- each.

HIGHLY-TRAINED ROLLERS.

Pure-bred Seifert or St. Andreasburg Roller cocks, direct from Germany, with good length of song and many changes, in fact, trained to perfection and in full rolling song by day and gaslight, 7/6, 8/6, 10/6, 12/6, 15/- each; specially selected schoolmasters, at 20/-, 25/-, 30/- each; hens, guaranteed same strain, 3/-, 4/-, 5/- each; Cages, 3d. extra.

REAL SIBERIAN GOLDFINCHES.

A really choice consignment just to hand. These are EXTRA LARGE BIRDS with big square blaze, and in perfect health and condition and in full song. Cannot be surpassed for Muling, 5/-, 5/6, 6/6, 7/6, 8/6 each. A few specially selected for Exhibition, real stormers, and ready for benching, 10/6 and 12/6 each. For full particulars of all other varieties send a post-card for my free illustrated Catalogue.

Remember this, please: I send every bird on seven days' approval at my sole risk. I guarantee absolute satisfaction to every customer, or cash returned in full. Easy payments can be arranged to suit the convenience of Genuine Fanciers.

AMBLER'S Champion Yorkshires need no misleading bunkum; they have been before the Fancy for over 30 years, and speak for themselves, as the hall-mark of purity, the oldest and most reliable strain in the world, winning thousands of prizes at leading shows, three times championship for best Yorkshire in show, Crystal Palace; as we are greatly reducing our stock, and not exhibiting this season we have a clinking lot of birds for disposal, winners and stock birds, of wonderful length, shape and style, feathered to perfection; pairs matched to breed the biggest winners, from 15/-, 20/-, 30/-, 40/-, 50/-, 60/-; single birds proportionate; a really good investment for fanciers wishing to get into the front ranks of the Fancy; approval; satisfaction guaranteed: Messrs. Ambler, Langton Lodge, Scotton, Knaresboro', Yorkshire. (297)

Yorkshires.

Exhibition, Stock Birds, and Songsters.

Read following testimonials, which are only a sample out of scores received last week:—From 9, Holmscroft Street, Greenock, Scotland, Dec. 7th, 1912.—Received pair of Yorkshires in grand condition, and please me well in every way. My friends are placing some orders with you shortly. I could not get such a pair in this town for double the money. Enclose order for another cock.—R. Kerr to J. Taylor. Another from Frizington, Cumberland, Dec. 8th, 1912.—Yorkshire cock arrived quite safe, and we are all highly satisfied. Will send you more orders soon, and recommend you to my friends.—J. Douglas to J. Taylor. Another from 63, Cross Row, Haswell Plough, Co. Durham, Dec. 7th, 1912.—Bird to hand in tip-top condition, and is a gem all over. I am sending for another one next week.—J. Wilkinson to J. Taylor.

ROOLEY AVIARIES

Dealers write for our latest wholesale price list for good large colour-fed Yorks. Canaries: 403, Rooley-lane, Bradford. (292)

Knight's Yorkshire Aviaries

My new season's stock (about 200) of Yorkshires, in all varieties, are now fully moulted, in hard, dry feather, and in the very pink of condition and health; unlike the professional exhibiting deck-sweeper advertiser, who perhaps spends annually what amounts to a decent working-man's fortune in purchasing exhibition stock, every bird I possess (excepting own breeders), is for immediate and absolute sale. These include a few fine, untried birds, which at all events will be preferred by the intending amateur and novice exhibitor at the forthcoming Palace show rather than perhaps will be the many worn-out exhibits which to their owners are now useless as such; all cold-room bred, reared, and kept; unrelated, personally matched pairs, from 10/-, 12/6, 15/-, 20/- upwards; stock cocks and hens proportionate; exhibition specimens from 20/- upwards; all on strict approval; terms, cash or deposit. N.B.—30 years' breeder of Yorkshires only; same old address: Jonas Knight, Allerton, Bradford, Yorkshire. (307)

COOPER & SON

Breeders and exhibitors of high-class Yorksbires, over 25 years' experience. Having had a very successful season we have about 100 young Yorkshires for sale; type and quality is our speciality. Matched pairs, 15/-, 20/-, 25/-, 30/- upwards; fine lengthy cocks, feathered like wax, 6/6, 7/6, 8/6, 10/6, 12/6 upwards; splendid racy hens, feathered to perfection, 4/-, 5/-, 6/-, 7/6, 8/6, 10/6 upwards; satisfaction guaranteed or money returned; write now: 69, West Park-rd., Girlington, Bradford. Stamped reply. (303) winner of trophies and prizes at all the principal shows for many years, including championship diploma for best Yorkshire, Crystal Palace, 1912; Yorkshires now ready, pairs from 10/6 upwards; birds suitable for exhibition at reasonable prices; export orders at the cheapest possible rates; full satisfaction guaranteed, on approval; cash or deposit: Colne-rd., Glusburn. (9)

H. H. TOWERS

CRAWHALL

Chemist, Newcastle-on-Tyne, some excellent Yorkshires for sale, the same strain as all his winners at Newcastle, Shields, Hartlepool, Sheffield, Blaydon, Whitehaven, Bradford East, L.C.B.A., etc.; prices reasonable; approval, deposit. (294) have won 6 championships and over 30 first and special prizes, at Crystal Palace alone. This season my customers are again taking leading honours all over the country; some splendid show or stock birds at reasonable prices; approval cash or deposit, stamp for reply: W. H. Shackleton, Melrose Aviaries, Lytton-rd., Girlington, Bradford.

Bennett's Champions

Still winning; every bird my own breeding, from my winners of thousands of prizes, Yorkshire challenge and other cups, gold and silver medals Crystal Palace, etc.; cocks or hens from 5/- to £5, clears, ticks, green or cinnamon marked. Bennett holds not the largest, but undoubtedly the purest, finest, and oldest strain of champion Yorkshires in the Fancy. Send direct to fountain head; pairs 10/- up, properly mated to breed winners by lifelong expert; invitation to all fanciers or birds on approval: T. Bennett, 14, Cumberland-rd., Lidget Green, Bradford. (302)

Special To Parrot Buyers

A splendid lot of very fine acclimatised Amazon Parrots, actual talkers; these are well worth the attention of those wanting a genuine talking bird at a reasonable price, and birds that with attention are almost sure to become very valuable; can be sold with or without their own cages. Also extra fine Budgerigars, etc. Full particulars, receipt of stamp, with the abominable Parrot trick exposed: W. Rudd, The Bird Specialist, Norwich.

PARROT PROBLEM

solved. For full proofs send postcard at once for my large book, "Parrot Prattle." This is the most wonderful book ever offered free of all charge to all Parrot fanciers. (This "Parrot Prattle" is registered copyright, and all infringers and imitators will be proceeded against). It contains hundreds of testimonials from all parts with full names and addresses, many interesting facts, and gives valuable advice and hints to all Parrot buyers. Full details of our original system of selling Parrots on four weeks' trial, at our risk, which we were the first to introduce. We sell Parrots of all descriptions on four weeks' trial, at our risk, before settlement. Cheapest and best in the Kingdom, and any Parrot sold by us and not giving full satisfaction, will be exchanged any time within twelve months. Remember we lead and others try to follow. Write to other dealers as well as us, and judge for yourselves. Lists of Parrots for sale and above book post free on receipt of postcard. Telephone No. 40 Morecambe.

Club Reports.

EDINBURGH WESTERN O.S.

Monthly meeting, held December 5th, at Rugo street, Hall. Mr. Ballantyre presided over a good attendance of members. Five new members were admitted. Fanciers desiring to join should do so at once.—Charles Grant, Sec.

BONNYRIGG C.B.S.

Monthly meeting, held December 7th, Mr. Alex Jardine, President, in the chair. Agreed that rule 6 be strictly enforced. The balance sheet was next read and adopted, and showed that we could pay 8s per class, which was considered satisfactory. Mr. Jardine was re-elected president, Mr. Wrighley, vice-president, and Mr. Stirling secretary. The meeting closed with a vote of thanks to the President, and also the retiring secretary.—James Hamilton.

BROUGHTY FERRY C.B.S.

Annual general meeting held at headquarters, Dec. 4. Mr. Carnyllie, pres., in the chair. The financial statement was read by the sec., and it showed the society to be in a healthy condition. Office bearers were elected for the ensuing season: Pres., R. Carnyllie; vice-pres., W. Keill; show manager, Chas. Low. Owing to business reasons, Mr. R. Whitton resigned the post of secretary, and Mr. Jas. Langlands was elected secretary and treasurer. It was agreed to alter the date of open show to October 18th, 1913. Jas. Langlands, Sec., Victoria Cottage.

CHESTER C.B.S.

Monthly meeting held Nov. 26 at headquarters, Mr. F. C. Parker in chair. Prize money was paid to members present, also specials won at annual show. Messrs. Menard, Spencer, and Rowbottom were elected members. Ticket money was also received. Will members having unsold tickets, also money, please return same to secretary so that books may be made up and balance sheet completed? Decided to hold general meeting on Dec. 30. Will members please note and turn up in full strength?—R. L. G. Simpson, hon. sec.

VALE OF LEVEN C.B.C.

Second annual meeting was held in Village Schoolroom, Alexandria, 5th inst., President Hannah in the chair. Secretary intimated colossal success of their two years' work—67 members first year and 89 this year; 241 entries first year, 394 this year; 84 spls first year and 123 this year; 6s., 4s., 2s. prize-money first year, 10s., 5s., 2s. 6d. this year; so that when the entry money which is pooled is added to above 89 members are better off financially than when competing at open shows. Prize money, pool money, and specials having been handed out, the meeting proceeded to elect office-bearers for the ensuing season, but owing to time being up had to postpone this until next meeting, Jan. 9, when alterations in rules, etc., will be considered.—A. H. McLean, sec.

LOCHGELLY C.B.S.

Meeting held in the Drill Hall, Dec 4, Mr. Thos. Wildridge in the chair. The usual business of the society for the past year was taken up, Mr. Grewar having forwarded the annual report and balance sheet, which disclosed the pleasing fact that the society has now a bank balance of £16 or thereabouts. Officers were appointed as follows:—R. Muir, sec.; P. McCue, treas.; M. Kelly, assist. sec.; and two auditors. Enthusiasm being high in the district, we have decided on holding a members' show on Dec. 28. Prize money to be paid by overplus takings, only after all expenses have been paid. This will be another opportunity for the usual hardworking committee to show their skill in dealing with the cage bird exhibitions. All communications in future please address to R. Muir, Anderson's Cottages, Station Road, Lochgelly.

CITY AND SUBURBAN.

Meeting held Dec. 9 at the Church Institute, 60, Paddington-st., Mr. W. A. Shepherd in the chair, Mr. Dickinson, hon. sec., and over 30 members present. One nomination for membership was received, and seven new members elected. As all these are novices it augurs well for competition in novice classes during the coming year. Two classes of Borders were staged for judging competition, Mr. Large acting as final judge. The results will be announced at next meeting. The feature of the evening was the paying out of special prize money won at annual show, by Mr. V. Wynn, and also the presentation of cups, medals, and diplomas by Mrs. L. M. Thynne. On the motion of Mr. Weston, seconded by Mr. Dickinson, a very hearty vote of thanks was accorded to Mrs. Thynne by the members for her kind services, Mr. Weston remarking that it was the first time in the history of the society that a lady had taken such a part in their proceedings, and trusted it would be repeated annually. Nominations were received for judges for young bird show 1913, and two names in each section, Canary and British, were selected to be sent out to members for final ballot. Notices of alterations to rules at annual meeting were received, and the compiling of schedule for pair show was left to the secretary and council. A very interesting meeting was brought to a close with a vote of thanks to the chairman.—Fred Thynne, Asst. Hon. Sec.

LEYTON C.B.A.

On Dec. 2, a Bohemian concert was held in connection with the distribution of challenge cups and special prizes won by members at the annual show. Our president, S. C. Rhodes, Esq., occupied the chair, and opened the proceedings by extending a hearty welcome to a very large audience. On behalf of the Leyton and Dis. C.B.A., he hoped that all would make this concert Bohemian in spirit as well as in name. Mr. Bartholomew accompanied, and the following artistes delighted the company with songs, recitations, etc. The Misses Talbot and Heliens, and Messrs. Penn, Hellens, Stevens, Parr, Mantz, White, Hill, and Saunders. Mr. J. A. Bartlett very ably carried out the duties of musical director. During the interval the president handed the challenge cups and other valuable special prizes to the respective winners, and the company availed themselves of refreshments in the form of coffee and sandwiches. These good things having been disposed of, the programme was proceeded with. The chairman ultimately called attention to the fact that time was getting on, and, like all good things, the evening must come to a close. He remarked that he was sorry some of the artistes had been obliged to leave early, but thanked those who were still with them on behalf of the association. Mr. B. F. Forse proposed a hearty vote of thanks to the chairman, which was duly seconded, and responded to in a few well chosen remarks.—Forse and Son, Hon. Secs.

BURTON-ON-TRENT C.B.S.

Monthly meeting, held Dec. 3, at the Staffordshire Knot, Mr. Hathaway presided over a fair muster of members. After the correspondence was read Mr. A. Emery judged the table show, for which, owing to a wet night, members had only brought a few birds. YELL. CK.: 1, Hathaway, 2, Ford. BUFF HENS: 1, Hathaway; 2, Wood, 3, Lee, 4, Ford. Buff cocks and yell. hens for next meeting.—A. Wood, sec.

ANFIELD PLAIN C.B.S.

Meeting held December 7th, at Mr. Hannigham's, Mr. S. Foster in the chair. We made four new members, Messrs. R. Goodchild, J. Oxley, W. Knowles, and J. Biggs. Decided to hold a meeting on Tuesday night, before show, Dec. 17, to go over the classes. Decided to have an open Linnet class, with prize-money guaranteed. We expect a good entry, as there are a lot of Linnet fanciers around here. Our members are doing well as regards specials, and we expect to have one for every class. Table show same night. Mr. J. Emmerson judged, and gave every satisfaction. Results: NOR. BUFF: 1, Williams; 2, 3, vhc, Humphrey. YORKS. BUFF: 1, 2, 3, vhc, Robinson. BORD. BUFF: 1, Cresswell. BRIT.: 1, vhc, Robson; 2, c, Humphrey; 3, Williams; hc, Peart.—R. Peart, Sec.

ABERTILLERY C.B.S.

Meeting held at Jackson's Rooms, Nov. 30, there being present Messrs. R. Cleaves, E. Bulton, W. Newell, J. Parfitt, J. Hillman, A. Parfitt, J. Pritchard, W. Bower, H. Parfitt, R. Richards, A. Moule, H. Mortimer, and G. Broome. After opinions had been expressed as to the desirability of forming a cage bird society at Abertillery, it was put to the meeting and carried unanimously that we start one, to be known as the Abertillery and Dis. C.B.S., and open for membership. The election of officers was next proceeded with, and resulted as follows:—Chairman, J. Hillman; vice-chairman, J. Parfitt; treas., H. Mortimer; sec., G. Broome, 19, Powell Street, Abertillery. Decided that entrance fee for membership be 1s., and 6d. per month afterwards. It was decided to look up a few local gentlemen with an invitation to act as president. It is the intention of the society to run a few first feather shows next season. Also an open show. Now, there are many good fanciers in the surrounding districts, and I hope they will roll up at our next meeting and try to make this society a success. Next meeting called for Dec. 14 at 7 p.m sharp at 94, Alma Street.—George Broome, sec.

NEWCASTLE-UPON-TYNE C.B.S.

Monthly meeting, held Dec. 5th, Mr. M. C. Potts in chair. Secretary gave a short report of open show, which has been a success financially. Decided to pay 5s. per class in members' classes, to be paid at next meeting, January 9. The open show for next year has been fixed for October 17 and 18. Mr. Atkinson was elected an auditor. Decided to have table show next meeting, with 3 classes each for Nor., Yorks. and Bord. (yell ck., buff ck., and hen), a and A.O.V. Can.; entry, 6d. per class. Mr. Crawhall will give 2s. 6d. for most points. The judges are Messrs. Curry, Tindale, and Potts. Will members please note that the next meeting will be Jan. 9th, when nominations will have to be sent in in writing for officials of the Society for 1913? Will those members who have tickets for social of Dec. 18, Co-operative Hall, kindly let me have the number they have sold on Monday, December 16, so as to give the caterer some idea how many he will have present for supper. Let us try and make this a huge success. Wishing the members a merry Christmas and a Happy New Year, and hoping that next year may be as good for the society as this has been.—J. W. Reed, Sec.

READING AND DISTRICT C.B.S.

Meeting held December 4th, before a very fair attendance. Six new members were elected: Messrs. Taylor, and Chubb (Caversham), Wren (Oxford), Giles (Sonning), G. Dowley, jun. (Woking), A. Cooke (Guildford). Hon. Sec. gave a detailed report and balance sheet of the late show, which was listened to with great attention, and considered very satisfactory. A discussion took place with regard to a special prize allotted at the show, which was claimed by two members. Agreed to buy another one to clear the matter up. Then a question regarding a bird claimed at show came up, and a hot discussion ensued, but eventually the matter was disposed of satisfactorily. A number of letters were read congratulating us on our late show, one gentleman very kindly promising us 10s. as a special prize for foreign classes for next year, an offer which was received with great satisfaction. A suggestion was brought forward to hold the pair show in February instead of March, and sec. was requested to write to get terms for judging and lecture afterwards. Will members please note that next meeting will be on January 8 instead of January 1, and as this will be the first meeting of the year, I wish to appeal to all member to make a record start by getting one new member each. If you are not sure of him, let me have his address. You will get the credit for it.—W. H. Pyke, Hon. Sec.

SUTTON-IN-ASHFIELD (Eastfield Side) C.B.S.

Annual supper and special prize distribution held Dec. 7, at headquarters, Masons' Arms, when 63 members, friends, and their wives sat down to a good spread laid down by the host and hostess (Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Bradbury). After supper, the evening was spent in song, etc. Mr. A. Wright, our favourite comedian, sang, "Last Night," "I've been pushed," "Dear Little Jessie," and "Down by the Swanee River." Mr. Leadale sang, "The Loss of the Titanic," "Thora," Killarney," and "The Holy City." Mr. G. Humphry and R. Nuttall, and others also contributed. The specials were a grand show (Messrs. R. Nuttall, G. Hall, and J. J. Bradbury being congratulated on the selection when buying), and these were distributed by Mr. J. W. Burton, who was in the chair—a right man in the right place, who made a few appropriate remarks with each presentation. The specials were for points won throughout the year, and were won as follows: 1, Messrs. Count and Keeling, 42; 2, Nuttall Bros., 40; 3, C. Connat, 38; 4, Shaw and Booth, 34; 5, J. Norwood, 25; 6, W. Vardy, 25; 7, G. Ward, 24; 8, R. Weston, 23; 9, J. Ellis, 22; 10, 11, 12, Jim Norwood, M. Norwood, and S. Hawksley, 15 each; 13, 14, C. Waldron and Hall Bros., 14 each; M. G. Marshall, 12 points; 15, W. Owen, 11; 16, 17, H. Handley and G. Hymas, 8 each; 18, S. Woolley, 7; 19, A. Spencer, 5; 20, G. Norwood, 4; 21, Mrs. Bradbury, 3; 22, F. Holmes, 2. Mr. J. Carlen was presented with a tea urn for his long services at the piano. Mr. W. Osborne also received a special. A hearty vote of thanks was given to the host and hostess, also to the local tradespeople who had kindly given specials. The singing of the National Anthem brought a merry evening to a close.—R. [illegible]

NOTES BY THE SECRETARY.

I had the following letter during the past week:—

Sir,—Having taken Cage Birds during the last three months, I have learned that there are people who are "up in arms" against the hobby of keeping birds in confinement. Now, Sir, have these people been against us in the past, or is it a new movement? I never heard it till I took Cage Birds, and read it in its pages, and will you tell me if they are directed against British Birds only, or is the Canary included also? If it is cruel to keep birds in confinement, the pigeon, rabbit, mouse, etc., fanciers are also guilty. If these pets are excluded on the plea of domestication, surely Canary-keepers can call their birds domesticated, too. I suppose it would take an Act of Parliament to abolish bird-keeping. What would they do with the thousands of Parrots, Foreigners, Canaries, etc., which, if liberated, would die in this country? I expect the Zoo would get an exemption clause. Looking at the question fairly, Sir, I think if it has to go through Parliament, it will never come to pass. Now, Sir, I hope you will forgive me for bothering you, but I shall esteem it a great favour if you can spare time to answer the letter of a working bird-lover.

C. Hunt.

Bolnhurst.

If our friend's acquaintance with Cage Birds had extended over the past two years he would have gathered that the opposition against the hobby of bird-keeping is no new thing. The professional humanitarians take the view that the keeping of any kind of bird in a cage is "an acted blasphemy," and they have over and over again expressed their intention to put a stop to bird-keeping. One of their methods is the publication of sensational pamphlets, such as "The other Side of the Bars," the extravagant exaggerations of which I have exposed in these columns. Their mouthpiece in Parliament, the Mr. Greenwood to whom I referred last week, has expressed his intention to get an Act passed rendering illegal the keeping of any bird in any condition whatever, and this would of course include the domesticated Canary, whose ancestors have for generations been reared and tended by humane fanciers, until the many varieties have reached the perfection now to be seen on our show benches. Whether such an Act of Parliament stands a chance of getting through the House of Commons is open to doubt, and members of Cage Birds League must see that if it does it will not be because they have been silent when they ought to have been speaking their minds. In the members of the League, the Associates, and those of our readers who have signed our weekly coupons, we have a united body of thousands of bird-keepers, and it would be strange indeed if such a body could not make its influence felt when it comes to electing those who are to make our laws for us.

TERMS OF MEMBERSHIP.

PATRONS.—A donation of not less than Ten Guineas in one amount, or an annual subscription of not less than Two Guineas, shall constitute the donor or subscriber a Patron.

LIFE MEMBERS.—A donation of not less than Five Guineas in one amount shall constitute the donor a Life Member.

VICE PRESIDENTS.—An annual subscription of not less than Half-a-Guinea shall constitute the subscriber a Vice President.

HONORARY LIFE MEMBERS.—The payment to CAGE BIRDS LEAGUE of a legacy of £20 and upwards shall constitute the administrator or executor making the payment an Honorary Life Member. A form of bequest will be sent, post free, on application.

ORDINARY MEMBERS shall pay an annual subscription of Two Shillings and Sixpence.

JUNIOR MEMBERS.—Members under the age of fourteen years at the date of joining shall pay an annual subscription of One Shilling.

Leaflets setting forth the aims and objects of the League will be forwarded, post free, to any reader upon application.

BADGES.

Neat and unobtrusive badges are supplied to members, without any charge beyond their subscriptions as above. The badges may be had either in button form, or mounted in rolled gold in two forms, one as a brooch for ladies or for cycling caps or coat lapel, and the other as a pendant for bracelet or watch-chain. The kind required should be specified clearly.

MEDALS.

Gold, Silver, and Bronze Medals are offered for competition among Cage Birds League members at Open Shows. The terms under which these will be given may be had upon application.

CAGE BIRDS FREE TO PATRONS.

A copy of Cage Birds, the official organ of the League, is forwarded to patrons weekly, post free.

Henry J. Fielljames,
Secretary Cage Birds League,
154, Fleet Street, London, E.C.

How to become an Associate.

Many readers of Cage Birds have written to say that they would like to join Cage Birds' League, but cannot afford the subscription. To meet their wishes we have decided to form, in connection with the League, a body of Associates. All we ask of these Associates is that they will promise to give every possible attention to the wants of their birds. And they must induce others to see that their birds are kept happy and contented.

All that the intending Associate has to do is to sign the coupon herewith, get five of his or her friends to sign each a similar coupon, and send the six, together with a penny stamp, to the Secretary of Cage Birds' League, who will forward by return an enamelled Button Badge of the League. There will be no other charge. NOW, THEN, BIRD LOVERS!—USE YOUR BEST EFFORTS IN THIS SPLENDID CAUSE.

THE BIRD LOVER'S PLEDGE.

HASTINGS UNITED.

Fourteenth annual show held Dec. 4 and 5. Entries came up well, nearly 500 in all, the quality in Norwich, Yorkshires, and Foreign being excellent. Mr. Ellis won the Norwich cup, Mr. Wraight the Yorkshire cup, and the Rev. Paterson cup for best bird. The exhibits were nicely staged in a well lighted hall. The committee had everything in good working order, with Mr. Thos. G. Coombs as hon. sec., who is most courteous and obliging. Mr. W. R. Miles judged. From the catalogue received we gather that the principal winners were: CHAMP., YORKS.: Messrs. Wraight, Morris and Son, George and Miss Hinton, Bullock, Dawson, and McDonald. NOR.: Messrs. Morris and Son, Ellis, Coombs, Rev. J. M. Paterson, Pettiels, Douch, Elliott, and Miss Hinton. NOV. YORKS: Mr. Greengrass and Mrs. Slack. NOR.: Messrs. HAYLE.

Annual show held in the Skating Rink Dec. 4 and 5, a good place for a cage bird show, having plenty of room and light. The birds were staged in the centre on both sides, which gave ample room for the visitors who, we were glad to see, turned out in good numbers. It was very gratifying to learn that the entries were up to last year, and hope by another year to see them increase. The Norwich section was well filled, and contained some very fine and typical exhibits. The winning non-flight, was a gem, and a credit to its breeder. The Yorkshire classes were extra good, and this variety is becoming more popular with the Cornish fanciers. The mule and British sections, as usual, had amongst them some of the finest specimens going, and for merit and condition could not well be surpassed. The silver cup for the best three nominated birds shown by a member was won by Messrs. Rowe and Richards with three grand dark mules, closely followed by three lovely Goldfinches shown by Mr. Coombe. The challenge bowl for most points went to Mr. F. Collins with 101 points. The management was splendid, and in Mr. Coombe the society has one of the most able secretaries. He is well supported by a splendid chairman, Mr. J. Roskrow, and an equally energetic show manager, Mr. Ware, also a good working committee of fanciers, who looked well after the interests of the birds. Mr. E. White judged, and his awards were well received.

PRAISE FOR "CAGE BIRDS'" WATCH.

I thought, writes Mr. H. W. Lane, W. Ealing, that I would like to say a word in favour of "Cage Birds" watch. It is a really well made article, neat in appearance, and keeps splendid time. It is a marvel of cheapness, and I can honestly recommend fellow fanciers to invest 5/- to advantage by having one. I can offer nothing but praise for such a genuine opportunity as now presents itself through your enterprise.

SHOW HONOURS!

THEIR SIGNIFICANCE TO EXHIBITORS.

HOW TO MAKE THE MOST OF SUCCESS.

Every exhibitor at one time or another wishes to sell some of his birds, and in this connection it has been proved that there is no selling force so powerful as a catalogue of wins, especially if it be published with, or shortly after a report of the show at which they have been gained.

The report of every show of importance during the season is published in the columns of "Cage Birds," in the first available issue after its occurrence.

The wise exhibitor, especially if he secures honours, will not miss the opportunity of inserting a small advertisement, giving particulars of his wins, in the issue reporting the particular show, or, if that is not possible, in the issue following.

Rates are: 18 words 6d., 2 words 1d. after, prepaid.

"CAGE BIRDS" ANNUAL FOR 1913.

Is now in preparation, and with the co-operation of our readers will be a greater success than any of its predecessors. Any suggestions for new features or for the improvement of present features will be welcomed by us.

TO SECRETARIES OF SOCIETIES.

We will insert free: Full particulars—name of society, latest list of officials, place, time, and nights of meetings) in the Alphabetical List of Cage Bird Clubs. Remember, no society should be missing, for this feature of "Cage Birds Annual" is the only Directory of its kind in existence. Secretaries who have moved please let us know your new address.

TO JUDGES OF CAGE BIRDS.

We will insert free your name and address and the varieties in which you specialise, in the List of Judges. The only condition is that judges must have officiated at one of the recognised shows. Remember this list is the only complete list published, and is universally consulted by show officials.

TO OUR TRADING FRIENDS.

We will insert free: Names, addresses, and specialities in the Bird Trade Directory. No matter what you sell, so long as it has to do with the Fancy, particulars are inserted free. This directory is of exceptional value, and fanciers the world over find it indispensable. For one shilling names can be thrown up in heavy black type.

Breeders, Exhibitors, Judges, and Advertisers generally: Do you want something that will bring you orders throughout next year for a "mere song"? If so, just try an advertisemen in the "Annual."

A single small outlay will bring you persistently persuasive publicity for a whole year.

Mr. J. C. Barnes (Sheffield) has, we hear, been appointed judge at Loughborough show, held Jan. 4 next.

Mr. Thos. Pewick writes that he has removed from 144, Esk St., Windy Nook, Gateshead, to 94, Belford Terrace, North Shields.

In our review last week of High Wycombe F.S. schedule, the prize-money appears as 6s., 4s., 2s.; this should read 10s., 5s., and 2s. 6d.

Having posted our schedules, writes Mr. W. Ayers, anyone overlooked please write out entry form from Dec. 7th advert. in CAGE BIRDS, of Jarrow show.

Schedule of Manchester, Salford and Dist. Amalgamated show, writes Mr. J. Spencer, hon. sec., should read British classes open and amateur show together; novices alone.

Mr. F. Knight (64, Chaplin Road, Wembley) asks us to request members of the L.C.B.A. to kindly send on to him at once all ticket-money for the Horticultural Hall Show.

Happy New Year
To Bird Lovers the world over.

Please allow me, writes Mr. A. Walker, Hon. Sec. Darlington Can. and B.B.F.A., to thank all exhibitors who have kindly written me thanking me for the early receipt of their prize-money.

We have decided to hold our first Roller contest at the Commercial Hotel, Stacksteads on Saturday, January 11th, 1913, writes Mr. H. Wantling, Hon. Sec. Rossendale C.B.S. Will all Roller fanciers kindly note date and oblige.

If an exhibitor has received a Norwich Plainhead in mistake from the show held at Pontypridd on Dec. 4, will he communicate with the secretary, Mr. A. A. Gordon McLucas, 48, Rosser Street, Maesycoed, Pontypridd.

Our very best thanks to all who did the work, cared for the birds and arranged the sending away of them at the Royal Horticultural Hall—the best we have ever had any sent back, write Messrs. Andrews Bros. (Woodbridge).

Members of the Liverpool and District Amalgamated societies, writes Mr. Geo. W. Morton, sec., will be pleased to hear that Mr. C. A. House has promised to judge the annual members' show at Birkenhead, December 21st.

We are informed that prize-money has been paid in respect of the following shows. Anyone who may have been overlooked should apply to the respective secretaries: Cowdenbeath, Cramlington, Carnarvon, Darlington C. and B.B.F.A., Cardiff, Coventry Godiva, Rotherham, City and Sub., Bradford Natl., Whitburn, Musselburgh, Headless Cross, and Coaltown of Wemyss.

IMPORTANT HOLIDAY NOTICE.

Owing to the Christmas Holidays this year falling on Wednesday and Thursday (December 25th and 26th), advertisers, correspondents, and our readers generally, should note that any communications for insertion in our issue dated December 28th should reach us not later than FRIDAY, DECEMBER 20th NEXT (or first post Saturday at latest), as our December 28th issue must go to press on the Monday afternoon, December 23rd. Any communications arriving after Saturday, the 21st, may have to be held over. All advertisers should take advantage of the special offer made them on this page.

Crystal Palace Cage Bird show, Feb. 7 to 11, 1913. Fanciers should remember that a win at the Palace enhances the value of their stock by 50 per cent.; also that the Palace show is the best place to dispose of surplus stock at good prices. Special classes are provided for surplus stock.—(Advt.)

The Barnsley and District C.B.S. are holding their second members' show to-day (Dec. 14) in the large club room at the Clarence Hotel, writes Mr. F. C. Sims, the sec. Local fanciers will find it a treat in store (open from 4.30 to 8.30 p.m.). Anyone wishing to become a member of this society can do so.

Would you kindly mention, writes Mr. Grewar, that I have resigned the secretaryship of Lochgelly C.B.S. Mr. R. Muir, Anderson's Cottage, Station-head, has been appointed to the office. Any who won specials at the late Lochgelly show and who have not received same, should kindly drop a post card at once.

Fanciers wishing to exhibit at the Liverpool show of the Anfield, Everton and Dis. C.B.S., held Dec. 26, should drop a postcard to me, writes Mr. R. B. Wright (Worcester Drive, Clubmoor, Liverpool), for schedule. Birds will be received from all railway companies and boats on Xmas Eve, and all Xmas Day and night.

At Abersychan show, writes Mr. Couch, chairman, we had an entry of 126, which I think was very good, seeing it was a Saturday show and a very wet day, which made the gate a bit low. We shall pay out all prize-money, and it will be paid this week. We thank all friends for their support. The judge was Mr. J. R. Houghton, and his awards pleased everyone

OBITUARY.

It is with deepest feelings of regret, writes Mr. Wilson, sec. Leeds C.B.S., that I have to announce the death of Minnie, the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Hall. She passed away Sunday, Oct. 8th, at the early age of 22 years, and was laid to rest in the New Wortley Cemetery, Oct. 11th. All fanciers who are acquainted with Mr. Hall, who is Chairman of the Leeds C.B.S., and well known in Yorkshire Union circles, will, I feel sure, extend their heartfelt sympathy to him and his family in the hour of their great trial.

It is with deep regret, writes Mr. W. B. Smart, Sec. Loanhead C.B.S., that I have to announce the death of Master Stewart Yule, aged 7 years, second son of Mr. John Yule, after a very short illness. I am sure the sympathy of all fanciers will be extended to Mr. and Mrs. Yule in their sudden and sad bereavement.

It is with deepest regret, writes Mr. H. Webster, Assistant Sec. Llanelly and Dis. C.B.S., that I have to report the death on the 3rd of Dec. of Mrs. John, the beloved mother of our worthy secretary, Mr. Daniel John, at the ripe old age of 80 years. At a meeting of the society on Saturday evening last a vote of condolence was passed toward Mr. John in his sad bereavement, and I think all fancier friends will also extend their sympathy towards him in his loss.

I beg to inform the various exhibitors who enquired after my Greenfinch 4th L.C.B.A., that I have sold same to a prominent British exhibitor, writes Mr. W. Sharp (Bathgate).

After time of closing, writes Mr. C. I. Young (sec. Frome F.A.), we only had 50 entries. Please thank fanciers for their generous support in reply to our appeal, as we have closed with over 500. We were very sorry to have to send out an appeal, but were bound to.

Will secretaries and exhibitors, writes Mr. J. W. Reed, Sec. Newcastle-on-Tyne C.B.S., note that we have fixed our open show for Oct. 17th and 18th, 1913. Will those members who have tickets for social and dance of Dec. 18 kindly let me know how many they have sold on Dec. 16th.

I "benched" some birds for the first time on Saturday at the Aintree, Fazackerley Society's show, writes Mr. E. Battersby. The joy of my two children at my success was worth all the trouble and expense. Beware, Messrs. Top-notchers! There's another Richmond in the field.

Through the illness and death of my beloved mother, writes Mr. D. John, hon. sec. Llanelly C.B.S., I have been unable to send out my prize-money of our last show, held on Nov. 26, but hope that the same will be in the hands of the exhibitors ere the time of your next issue

Owing to pressure of business, writes Mr. R. Whitton, I have been forced to resign the secretaryship of the Broughty Ferry C.B.S., and thank the fanciers who have supported our society during the time I have conducted its affairs. I trust they will continue to give my successor, Mr. J. Langlands, Victoria Cottage, the same forbearance as that they have given me.

TWO INSERTIONS FOR THE PRICE OF ONE-AND-A-HALF.

In order to save our advertisers trouble during the Christmas Holidays, we will insert advertisements in our next issue and the one following (Dec. 21st and Dec. 28th) for the price of one insertion and a half. Read the Important Holiday Notice on this page.

This offer is open to all small prepaid advertisers, so that our readers who want to make money for Christmas should take advantage of it. Rates: 18 words 6d., 2 words 1d. after, prepaid. Enclose the fee for the two insertions at the price of one and a half; also write on your order, "Two Weeks' Special Offer."

Offer closes Tuesday, Dec. 17th.

New Society for Abertillery (Mon).

As will be seen from our Club Reports column, a Cage Bird Society has been formed for Abertillery. The secretary is Mr. G. Broome, 19, Powell St., Abertillery.

The Strike and Gateshead Show.

Kindly inform exhibitors, writes Mr. J. G. Greason, that Gateshead Society intend holding their show in face of the strike. Birds on main line north and south will get through all right. Exhibitors need have no fear of their birds, as we are making arrangements to keep the birds until able to get them away, should the strike not be settled by Saturday.

Corrections in Show Reports.

At Musselburgh, Mr. J. Skinner won 3rd and 4th in non-fed cks., not Burns, as reported; at Sale, Messrs. Schofield and Addison won 4th, buff unflig. Nor., not Woods; at Tonbridge, Miss Bachelor's pair of Gouldians won 1st, not 2nd; at Pentrebach, Mr. A. Hotchkis was he in yell. cks., not vhc, and in buffs Hotchkis won 2nd, not George.

Birds Delayed Through the Strike.

Owing to railway strike, writes Mr. Smailes, sec. Broomhill C.B.S., we could not get birds on rail on Saturday night, as the railway company refused to accept them. Sorry to have put fanciers to so much trouble. This has meant a great deal of work to the committee, also a great loss to the show. I hope every fancier has received his birds all right.

Stalls at Bradford Show.

Mr. Wm. Errington of Four Lane Ends, Bradford, had an excellent display of his "Fanciers' Blend" of bird seeds, X.L. colour feed, and other specialities. Mr. Joe Thomas of Amblethorn, Halifax, had on view a wonderful collection of Yorkshire, Norwich, and Roller Canaries, Siberian Goldfinches, cages and other fanciers' requisites. His stall made quite a show in itself.

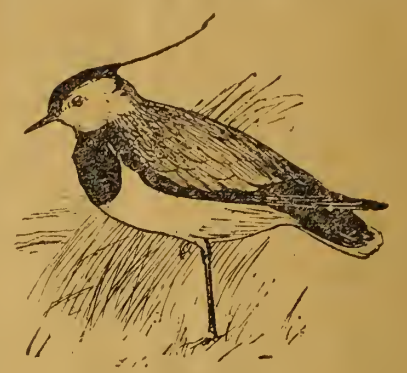
A Loss Foreshadowed.

We heard a whisper whilst at the Bradford National show that the highly esteemed and worthy secretary, Mr. H. Hill, would resign at the end of this season. We hope both for the sake of Bradford and the "Cinderella" show's welfare that he will be able to reconsider his decision, and continue in the good work he has so long upheld. Such an office as Mr. Hill holds wants a deal of filling.

Rotherham's Next Show,

I spent a few very enjoyable hours amongst the Rotherham fanciers, writes our representative. They are a jovial and happy lot. Their show of next year, we presume by the remarks we heard, will take place at an early date. They intend issuing a capital schedule, and are endeavouring to bring their show up to the brilliant standard of a few years ago. When this function comes round I hope fanciers will respond with a bumping entry.

Curious Incident at Bradford.



At Bradford National show on Friday last a very valuable clear buff Yorkshire cock was found to be absent in its class. Mr. H. Simonett, the owner, was at an utter loss as to the reason the bird was not on the bench. His cases (along with all the rest) were examined, with no result, so he journeyed home, but found the bird was missing, and had been packed up with his team. We hope by this Mr. Simonett has safely come across his treasure. It seemed a curious business and extremely hard lines on the indefatigable Bradford National show assistant secretary. He had plenty to do without this additional bother and worry.

During your Xmas Holidays don't forget our Competitions.

Wild-Bird Life.

How Birds Flock to Roost.

The Starlings that frequent the meadowlands never seem to leave us. In the summer they nest in the hollows of the old walnut and elm trees, a few pairs under the eaves of the buildings, but the trees appeal to them most, consequently in the early spring months there are incessant quarrels among them for particular sites. They are feeding now in the meadowland, working, hurrying for dear life. So greedy are they, that they only skim the surface, making haste to cover as much ground as possible for fear their companions should get more than they. Their method of feeding is so unlike that of the Plovers that one cannot but notice the difference. The Plovers settle in a flock, keeping fairly close together with their heads all facing the same way, presently a number of the hindmost birds take wing, fly to the front of the flock and commence to feed, then another lot do the same, and so they cross a field, each in its turn getting a new piece of ground to hunt over; there is no apparent haste or rush to get the best positions, none of the greediness evinced by the Starling, who all want to be first, and so a small flock of the latter will cover as much ground as one three times the size composed of Plovers. Across the downs where the woods are, the Starlings converge from all quarters to roost. When gathered together for the night the flocks consist of hundreds of birds. The manner of gathering is worthy of notice, they do not individually fly to the roosting site, but go in flocks of various sizes. In each district there is a favourite tree or clump of trees. Round an old road leading from the village across country is a large ash tree. As the day declines a few birds may be seen, perched among its branches, some singing quietly, others preening or whistling shrill calls. Presently a party of some half a dozen join them, then more and more. When the tree is full they all take wing, making a bee line to the woods across the downs, some two or three miles away. When these have gone the nucleus of a fresh flock takes possession, until sufficient have gathered for another flight, and so on until the district is cleared of Starlings. Thrushes and Finches may all be seen making their way to this common lodging house, mostly flying in flocks, seldom singly or in pairs.

Our Painting Competition.

A Prize for Artistic Bird-Keepers.

(See frontispiece this week).

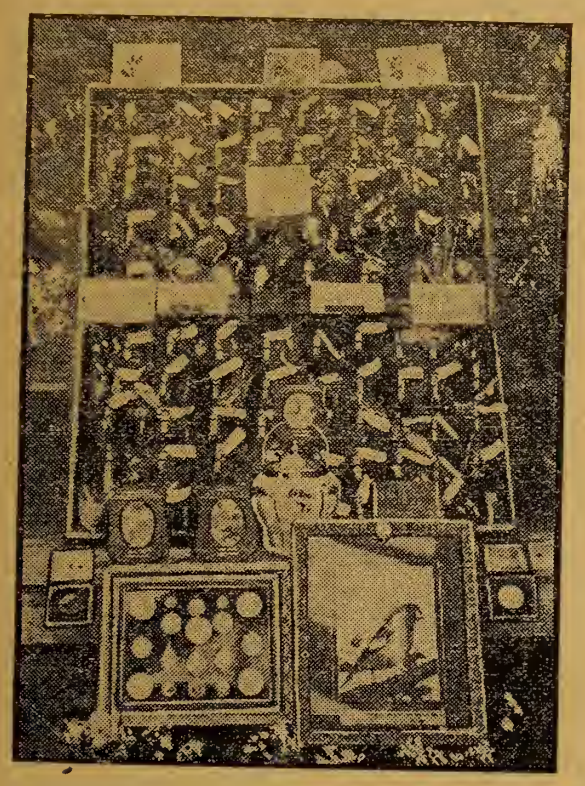
Following our usual custom at Christmastide, our Frontispiece this week is designed to be coloured. We offer a cash prize of one guinea for the best attempt at colouring the same which reaches us from one of our readers on or before Friday, January 3rd.

The medium to be employed (oil, water-colour, or crayon) is left to the discretion of the competitor. The finished attempt should be packed flat, or rolled in a tube, and have the sender's name and address written on the back.

The whole of the front page must be coloured, not merely the frontispiece (centre picture) alone.

In this competition entries are received only on the understanding that the Editor's decision shall be accepted as final.

Please thank all fanciers who replied to my advt. of Greenfinch cock, writes Mr. A. Bishop, Aintree. This bird was claimed by telegram by a Darlington fancier.



WAYSIDE SEEDS AND BERRIES FOR BRITISH BIRDS.

By that well-known authority, JAS. B. CLARKE, (Rothesay).

A remarkable article on the food of our seed-eating species when in a state of nature, the result of a lifetime's experience of Birds in field and aviary.

IN writing this article on our wayside flowers and seeds, I wish to state that I have to thank the birds themselves for my education. I have been fortunate in being able to lead an out-door life among the birds for the past thirty years, and being specially interested in British birds, having kept most varieties in an aviary or in cages as a hobby, when I noticed any bird feeding on any particular seed I took a note of it in a diary, which is a good plan for all fanciers to follow. Many a one asks me if I never weary when in the country, and they seem surprised when I tell them that nothing gives me greater pleasure than to be amongst the birds and flowers. I will now endeavour to write down that which the birds have taught me in field and aviary.

FIELD SCORPION GRASS (Myosotis arvensis).—Better known as "Forget-me-Not." A common plant and a favourite with most Finches. It grows about 18 inches high, has radical leaves, small blue flowers and glossy black seeds. I have seen all the Finches feed on this plant, and Bullfinches simply revel in it; they will rarely trouble any other seed when this is in season. I gather a large amount of this for moulting Bullfinches, and for fresh caught birds it is most useful. I gather the seed heads when ripe, rub in the palms of my hands and blow the chaff away, when the seed will be left in the hand. Blooms in June; seed ready in July.

SHEPHERD'S PURSE (Capsella bursa pastoris).—Has small white flowers, heart-shaped seedpods, and small round yellowish seeds. I find this seed a great favourite of all Finches, and have used it with the best of results in cage and aviary. To preserve this seed, spread out a newspaper, pull as many ripe heads as the paper will hold and leave in the sun for a few days, when the seed will be found loose in the paper.—Should the weather be very wet, I put the seed heads in a slow oven for ten or fifteen minutes, and this acts splendidly. I find shepherd's purse seed is of a binding nature, and other laxative seed should be given along with it.

A Seed with great Tonic properties.

COMMON AGRIMONY (Agrimonia eupatoria).—This plant grows about 2 feet high, with dented leaves, round hairy stalks and small yellow flowers. The seed when ripe is black, similar in shape to Inga. This plant is generally found on banks, near the sides of hedges. The seed is grand, with great tonic properties, and very fine for the liver during the moult. Fanciers will find this a most useful seed and tonic.

HEMP AGRIMONY (Eupatorium cannabinum).—This grows three or more feet high, with dark purple stems, and brownish yellow flowers, and is generally found in marshy places. It is largely used in the medical world for dropsy, jaundice, worms, colds, etc. The seed has the same properties as those of the common agrimony, and is grand for moulting and winter use.

COMMON AVENS (Geum urbanum).—Often called Herb Bennet; grows two feet high with small yellow flowers at top. It is a great favourite of the Chaffinch and Greenfinch, and a most useful seed for these birds during the moult and winter months. I find it aids digestion, and is a great heat producer. Found near hedges and thickets.

CORN SPURRY (Spergula arvensis).—Better known as mouse ear; leaves cylindrical, flowers white on slender stems, which hang down owing to the weight of the seed, which is black, similar in size and shape to maw seed. I have tried this seed for many years with British Birds, but they don't care for it, unless in extreme hunger. The corn and turnip fields in Bute are polluted with this weed, which shows that the birds do not care for it when at liberty.

MOUSE-EAR CHICKWEED (Cerastium vulgatum).—There are several varieties of Chickweed. These are common weeds, known to most, with small white flowers, straggling stems, and small yellow seeds. I have seen all Finches feed on this seed, and find it eaten readily by all of them in confinement. Fanciers will find this a grand seed for fresh caught Finches; also most useful during the moult and winter months.

RED CAMPION (Lychnis diurna).—This is a pretty plant with reddish flowers and small dark seed, generally found by hedgerows and the sides of woods. The seed is most useful for Linnets, Twites, and Redpoles. Flowers in May; seed ready July. Widely known as "Red Robin."

PALE WOOD VIOLET (Viola canina).—Similar to our garden violets, but scentless. Found in copses on heaths and in hedgerows. A favourite of the Chaffinch, Greenfinch, and Bullfinch, which simply glory in this seed. I have seen them feed for months on this plant. A most useful seed for moulting these birds and a grand "pick-me-up" for them when fresh caught. Often called the Dog Violet.

COMMON SCURVY GRASS (Cochlearia officinalis).—A weed common along our sea shores, with thick flat leaves, white flowers and reddish seed. This seed is hot to the taste (similar to cress) and is readily eaten by all Finches, especially Bullfinches, and for Bullfinch hens in the early summer there is nothing better. Hybrid breeders should use this seed freely during the breeding season. I find it also most useful during the moult. Medical properties: Used for scurvy in sailor's blood and as a liver purifier; also it makes a splendid mouth gargle for ulcers and other sores.

SELF HEAL (Prunella vulgaris).—A low, creeping plant, with small roundish pointed leaves and bluish-purple flowers gathered into a head. A very common weed in pastures and woods. A general favourite with and a most useful seed for Bullfinches, Linnets, Twites and Redpolls when fresh-caught. A medical plant of great value. An old German proverb says: "He needeth neither physician nor surgeon that hath self heal and sanicle to help himself."

COMMON SORREL (Rumex acetosa).—Better known in Scotland as "Suriks." A great favourite with Linnets, Bullfinches and Greenfinches, and a grand seed for these birds in early summer; also a very good seed for these birds when fresh caught and very useful during the moult. Used in the medical world for jaundice, worms, heart trouble, inflammation, itch, etc.

A Seed and Live-food combination.

CORN BLUE BOTTLE (Centaurea cyanus).—Has a very pretty dark blue flower, grows about two feet high, with cottony leaves. Seed similar to knapweed. Common in cornfields, and a favourite of all the Finch family, and one of the finest seeds I know for moulting Goldfinches and Siskins, and most useful for these birds when fresh-caught. In districts where this is scarce, it is a good plan to get a packet of seed from your seedsman and sow it on a waste piece of ground about the end of April. Gather the seed heads when ripe, and dip in boiling water to kill the maggot which is inside of the seed head; unless this is done the latter eats up all the seed and there is nothing but chaff left for the birds. Flowers in July; seeds in August.

MARSH RED RATTLE (Pedicularis palustris).—Named from the Latin, pediculus, a louse; this plant is supposed to produce lice in sheep. An erect growing plant, 18 inches high, with large crimson flowers and brown seeds, generally found in marshy places. A favourite seed of the Linnet, Twite and Redpoll, and a most useful seed for these birds in confinement, bringing out the rich brown colour so much desired by all exhibitors. Flowers in June; seeds in August.

DOCK (Rumex crispus).—A well-known weed, of which we have several varieties, such as Bloody-veined dock, Shore dock, Long-leaved water dock, Broad-leaved dock, and a few others. A general favourite and a grand pick-me-up for fresh-caught Bullfinches. This plant is best cut in bunches when ripe, and then dried for moulting and winter use. Medical properties: Good blood purifier. Those who are troubles with sores, should boil the roots with vinegar, and sponge same with the juice.

A Splendid "Head" of Dandelion.

This remarkably fine photograph depicts a Dandelion plant just at the period when it is most useful to the Bird-keeper, i.e., when the "clocks" carry masses of ripe seed ready for gathering.

A favourite of the Bullfinch.

MEADOW SWEET or QUEEN OF THE MEADOW (Spiræa ulmaria).—A very common plant along our shores and in moist meadows. Grows from two to three feet high, with creamy white flowers; seed similar to carraway seed. When ripe, it is a great favourite of the Bullfinch. I have used it with good results during the moult. It is very easily gathered. Just pull the ripe tops and rub in the hands, when you will find the seeds separated from the husks.

RYE GRASS or WAY BENT.—A very common grass, and known to most. It grows from one to two feet high, and can be found on any waste piece of ground. Siskins, Linnets, Twites, and Redpolls are all fond of this seed, and I find it most useful for winter use.

RED BARTSIA (Bartsia odontites).—A pretty plant, grows about twelve inches high, with spikes of small pink flowers; very common in waste places and cornfields. Seed when ripe similar to chickweed. A favourite of the Linnet, Twite, and Redpoli, and very useful during the winter.

RUSH (Juncus) of which we have several, such as Soft rush, Common rush, Many-flowered wood rush, etc., better known in Scotland as "rashies." It is not easy to separate the seed from the husks of this plant, and I find it unnecessary to do so. Just draw up the stems when the seed is ready for use (will be left in the hands). A favourite seed of the Linnet, Twite and Redpoll, and one of the best for moulting these birds, being most useful for bringing out the rich nut-brown colour.

THORNTON.

Seventh annual show, held Nov. 30th, in the Public Hall. The exhibits were nicely staged in a room by themselves, free from draughts. We were sorry to observe so small an entry, some of the classes even being cancelled through lack of support, while others only contained a single entry, which was not very encouraging to the society, considering the classification given. The committee were a band of hard-working officials, who did all in their power to make things pass off smoothly. The secretary, Mr. T. M. Aitken, is a very capable one, and had all his arrangements well forward. During the afternoon the show was well patronised by the public. The judges were: Scotch Fancies; Mr. J. Laing; Crests, Plainheads, and Borders, Mr. G. Arnott; and Mules, British, and Foreign, Mr. R. Gilmour, and their awards were generally well received.

WALTHAM ABBEY.

This fixture is gaining popularity year after year, and some high quality exhibits are to be seen here, and we are pleased to record this advance at the 15th annual held in the Town Hall, on December 4. Mr. Medley's challenge cup winner at Edmonton repeated the performance, but not so easily, the second running him very close. While most classes were well filled, the Yorks. were poorly represented. There were some first-class Britishers staged, notably Mr. Hodgett's Goldie, Mr. Elliott's Bullie, and Mr. Briar's Siskin. The management was of the highest possible character, and reflects very great credit on the hard-working secretary, Mr. W. D. Ward, the chairman, Mr. J. S. Jackson, and the vice-chairman, Mr. Brooker. Mr. A. E. Enfield judged.

The Critique.

NOR. YELL. THURSO O.S.

Twenty-fourth annual show held in the Town Hall, Dec. 4th; the merit of the exhibits was quite up to the usual high standard, and the judge, Mr. J. Fulton, had not at all an easy task in making the awards. All the arrangements in connection with the show were carried out in an exemplary manner by the secretary, Mr. D. Shearer, who was indefatigable in his efforts for the success of the exhibition. He was ably assisted by Mr. H. Gerry, treasurer, and the office-bearers and members of committee. There was a good attendance of the general public at the show, especially in the evening.

GALSTON.

Annual exhibition, held December 7th, at the Good Templars Hall, Galston. It is hard to account for the meagre support given to this deserving society, as the members are very assiduous in their attention to exhibits placed under their care. Many of the classes had unfortunately to be cancelled, and most of those left in were very poorly filled. Of the seven classes for Scotch Fancies, no fewer than 3 were cancelled, and Mr. Stewart had a very easy job in placing his awards. Mr. Gavin Alston, Darvel, judged the other classes, and his awards were well received. We sympathise with the management in their discouraged endeavour to make the show a success, and wish them "better luck next time."

The Critique.

SCOTCH (5): 1, sp., Robertson, yell., decided drive, splendid shoulders and body, beautiful front and fine action; 2, hc, Smith, another beauty, erect, fine reach and drop, grand shoulders and body; 3, Borland, yell., fine reach and drop, grand body; vhc, sp., Ralston. EXMOUTH.

21st annual show held December 4th at the Market Hall; 214 entries in 28 classes were nicely staged in a warm corner of the building. British especially had some exceedingly good specimens, and the classes were all well filled. The arrangements were carried out in an up-to-date manner, everything being done for the welfare of the birds. The British section was under the management of Mr. A. H. Evans, and the success in this department was mainly due to his efforts. Norwich made a good show also, and Yorkshires were a very nice lot. The small Foreign class was distinctly better than is seen in many western shows. The committee for our section were Messrs. Evans, Bastin, Linford-Brown, Mitchell and Webber. Mr. Field made an obliging secretary. Mr. J. Dummett (Tivertou) judged Canaries, and Mr. W. P. Smith the remainder, their awards being well received.

ILFORD.

Show held Nov. 28 and 29 in the Skating Rink. Our section was well staged in a good light, and some good birds were put down. In the Canary section, Messrs. Brown, Reynolds, Lawrence, and Stevens were the principal winners. The Golding memorial bowl for best cage bird, was won by Mr. E. F. Reynolds, with a very smart typical buff Yorkshire hen, Mr. H. Stevens staging the runner-up. Some good Hybrids and British were on view, Mr. Oliver, of East Ham, staging the principal winners, his smart Siskin-Can. winning 1st and sp. for best Hybrid. The show was ably managed by the secretary, Mr. Priestman, who is well up to the work, Mr. H. Norman judged.

LIVERPOOL B.B.A.

Annual show held in the Caledonian Schoolrooms. There was a grand total of 375 exhibits, any of which were fit to put in the open shows. If you want to win at this show you must have real toppers. Competition was keen all round, this being the final of the season's specials, which resulted as follows:—CHAMP.: Metcalfe 68 points, Robinson 55, W. Jones 51, McNulty 50, Handley 46, Knowles 37. NOV.: Crowe 50, McMahan 36, Darlington 35, Whiteside 26, J. Knight 26, W. Bell 24. GRAND TOTALS: McMahon 121, W. Jones 117, Crowe 96. Border medal, W. Pullman. Champ. Brit., J. Lloyd. Nov. Brit., W. Whiteside. Illuminated certificate, J. W. Metcalfe. This show concludes one of the most successful seasons the Liverpool fanciers have ever had. We were pleased to see our old friend, President John H. Isaac, about again, taking a keen interest in the show. The secretaries, Messrs. Eccleston and Lloyd, got through their work in good time. List of specials were soon up, and all prize money paid out by 5.50 p.m. Messrs. W. A. Cowgill and A. Wellings judged, and their awards were well received.

PEMBROKE.

Annual exhibition held in the Market Hall, Dec. 4. The birds were staged in one corner of the building, and the gangways were very much crowded; in fact, at times, with the number of people present it was difficult to get near the cages. Entries came up well, and we should like to see larger classification, feeling assured that in such case the committee would get a good entry. Mr. Sennett, the secretary, worked hard, and his committee rendered valuable help. Mr. T. Owen judged, and his awards gave general satisfaction.

WIRKSWORTH.

This well managed show was held Nov. 30. The sec., Mr. R. L. Pearson, had arrangements well in hand, and everything went well. The entry was only a small one, due doubtless to lack of publicity. Judicious advertising should do much to avoid a repetition of this in future years, as fanciers are plentiful in the district. Mr. Chas. Ward judged, and seemed to give very general satisfaction. NOR. CK. (6): 1, spl, Williams, chubby cl. buff, nice feather and good col.; 3, Lelt, shapely, nice wings, good carr.; res, Else; vhc, Dean; hc, Grey. HEN (6): 1, res, Dean, leader, bonny lady, neat wings, cl. buff of nice shape; 3, Williams, also buff, shapely and stylish, very good one, nice col.; vhc, c, Lelt. A.O.C. CK. OUR 1913 CALENDAR.

Some interesting notes upon the Robin so charmingly portrayed by the late J. G. Keulemans in the picture which adorns CAGE BIRDS Calendar for the coming year.

Readers should find a Calendar in colours in every copy of this Christmas Number.

THE charming picture which adorns the Calendar accompanying this issue, and which is entitled Wintry Weather, ("Wintery Weather," the artist has it) is from the brush of the late Mr. J. G. Keulemans, and that it is worthy of the reputation of that great artist will, we are sure, be conceded by our readers unanimously. It is not only a life-like representation of a bird known to everyone, but it is a picture in the highest sense of the word. The expression in the eye of Mr. Bobbie bodes ill luck to some unfortunate insect, which, maybe, has been warmed into life by a transient gleam of winter sun, not sufficient to melt the snow, only to furnish a sadly needed morsel for our ruddy breasted friend. The naked tree branches and the sombre hues of the pines and the other trees, which winter does not denude of their leaves, combine to form a worthy background to one of the most beautiful pictures which ever came from the brush of the talented artist whose death we have recently had to deplore. It is a picture which will be treasured, we think, by everyone into whose possession it may come.

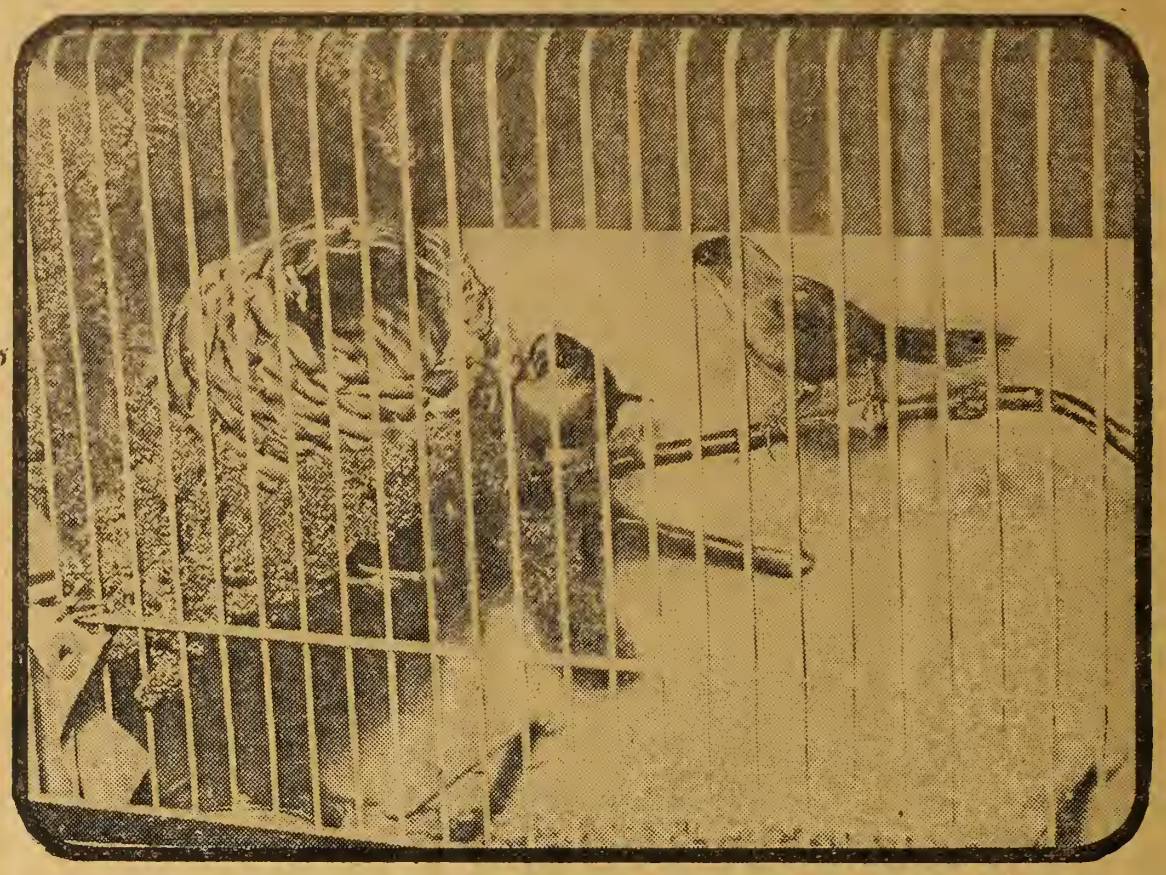
And what shall be say of friend Bobbie himself? Firstly, that by common consent he has been chosen by generations of artists as the most appropriate subject for an outdoor Christmas picture. Time was when a Christmas card was scarcely considered a Christmas card unless it portrayed a Robin. Nowadays, our seasonable greetings are conveyed in a much more pretentious fashion, but they are not more welcome than when our much loved little bird formed the subject of five in every six of them.

Tame and confiding as the Robin is, coming to our very doors for a crumb, or even inside, yet he is a terror to his own kind. Every Robin has his own "cabbage patch," and it is bad luck for any intruder of his own species thereon. Standing in one's garden, or in a suburban road, or country lane, one may hear them challenging each other to the effect that each had better keep to his own territory. There seems to be a somewhat widely spread idea that a Robin lives for one year only, and that the young ones kill their parents as soon as they are able to dispense with their services as universal providers. This belief, it is scarcely necessary to say to readers of CAGE BIRDS, is a mistaken one, for the same Robin will frequent year after year the garden or piece of territory which he has made his own landed property. The natural mortality must be very great, or they would be even more in evidence than they are, and this is the case, of course, with all wild birds, but to say that Robins live only for one year is an absurdity.

One fact which accounts for the species not increasing until even friend Redbreast would be a nuisance is that, as with most of what are known as "resident" birds, that is, birds which are bred here, and of which examples are to be found all the year round, an extensive migration to the continent takes place in the autumn, and untold numbers of those which leave us do so never to return. The bodies of such birds are consumed as food in restaurants of Southern Europe, under the name of petites betes, and thousands are trapped for this purpose by the peasants of Spain, Italy, and the South of France. A cross migration of birds from the continent takes place in the autumn, and many of the Robins found here in the winter are aliens, but these cannot be in more than a very small proportion to those which have departed, and each one on his arrival has to find a residential claim which he carefully "pegs out" against all intruders of his kind.

ASKED AND ANSWERED.

YOUNG SPORT: "Will you kindly tell me what a Scotch Fancy Canary is?



OLD SPORT: Yes, with pleasure; it's a Yorkshire caught bending.

AN EXCELLENT EXAMPLE OF ARTISTIC STAGING.

This fine pair of St. Helena Waxbills were photographed at the last Crystal Palace Show, where they were exhibited by Miss Jessie A. E. Smyth (Catford). As will be seen, the interior of the show cage is pleasingly embellished with twiggy branches as perches, a rush "nest" (or roosting basket) and millet sprays.

Much sentimental objection attaches to the keeping of a Robin in a cage, but why this should be so is difficult of understanding. If we catch the Robin which affects our own garden as a residence, his place will soon be taken by another, and we shall have a bird which will take more kindly to cage life than perhaps any other which could be mentioned. A Robin, properly treated, will sing in a cage within a week of its capture. Its confiding nature makes it fearless of its keeper, and after a short time of the experience of having its food and shelter provided for it, it will refuse its liberty if the opportunity of escaping be offered.

The cage for a Robin should be a roomy one of the "box" pattern, i.e., open only in front, and the wire front should be removable for convenience of cleaning. It should not be less than 24ins. x 12ins. x 12in., as the Robin is a very active bird, and needs room for exercise. A bath is an urgent necessity, and the floor should be well covered with sand or dry earth, and kept scrupulously clean. The food need not be of an expensive nature; a good mixture such as any of those advertised in the columns of CAGE BIRDS will answer as a stock food, and if this is supplemented by some ants' cocoons, and such live insects, small worms, or smooth caterpillars as may be obtainable, not forgetting as many spiders as can be captured, friend Bobbie will live for many years in a cage in happiness, and become a most fascinating pet. In short, a Robin is quite the most desirable of any cage bird which might be mentioned; easy to get, as easy to keep as a Canary, a most captivating songster, and the most intelligent of all household pets.

HENRY J. FULLJAMES.

THE VERY, VERY LATEST!

Will It Come To This?

An imaginary conversation recorded by GEORGE GARDNER.

"I SAY, old man," said Tom Brown to his pal, Charlie Green, "Have you heard the very very latest in our Fancy?" "The very very latest? What the dickens do you mean?" "Sit down, Charlie, and I'll tell you a tale, and a Gospel 'un too, it'll either break your heart, or you'll split your sides a laughing! One evening last week, old Pearl had just got home from graft, and was sitting down to a nice feed of bread and butter and shrimps, when a rattling rat-tat-tat came at the door! 'Look out, missus,' said old Pearl, 'here's the haristocracee come, I'll be bound. None of our bird chaps knocks like that!' Mrs. Pearl answered the door, first putting on a ''evenghly' smile, as old Pearl told me.

"There stood a toffish kind of a party, who said: 'Does Mr. Pearl live here! He keeps Canaries, I believe. Has he any for sale?' 'I think so, but he's just getting a few shrimps, so if you'll come into our parlour and wait a few minutes, he'll be done his tea, and then he'll see you.' Wheeling round the very best 'easy' into position near the window, Mrs. Pearl saw the toff snugly seated, and then popped back into the kitchen. 'Pearl, I believe it's a haristocrat; he spoke like one, and if you can sell him £10 worth, do, for we all wants a rig out, and it'll clear the cages in the little room, and save the seed bill.'

"Quickly finishing his tea, old Pearl hastened into the parlour. 'You wants to see my Yorkies?' he says. 'If you please,' replies the toff. 'If you'll come up to the room, I'll show you. But, excuse me, I ain't up to no ceremonies. I'm only a plain chap and mine's not a big house.' And up into the room they went. 'Now, you can see the stock, and pick out any you'd like,' said Pearl.

"The bloke nosed into the cages and seemed to be a measuring of 'em, like! But Tom didn't mind, as maybe he was thinking of going in for bird-breeding, when he says in a funny sort of a way: 'Mr. Pearl, why do you keep sawdust in the bottoms of your cages. I thought birds required sand and grit?' 'Oh!' says Pearl, 'that's all right. We does that to keep 'em clean. And here's the sand vessel in the corner with the grit in it!'

"'Yes, that's all very well,' said the toff, 'but they require more grit, and they dust themselves in the sand for insects. Besides, they might get the sawdust into their poor little eyes and partially blind themselves. It is cruelty, I think?'

"'What's that you say, guvnor?' replied Pearl. 'Me and my missus cruel to our birds?' Pulling out a book, the toff goes on: 'Your correct name, please; I am an inspector for the society whose special care is to prevent cruelty to animals, and here is a case of distinct cruelty—keeping birds on sawdust! I had some sawdust in my own eye once, Mr. Pearl, and I know the agony! You will hear of this again.

THE GREAT TIT'S XMAS DINNER.

This photograph shows a Great Tit pecking at a piece of suet secured to the branch of a tree. Suet, or fat of any kind, is greatly appreciated by all wild birds during severe weather.

in due course. And if this is the way you men torture the birds, we shall have to keep a sharper look out than ever. You will receive a summons in a day or so.' 'A summons, shall I, and for sawdust! I didn't know your little game when my missus went to the door, or I'd ha' gone, and you wouldn't ha' got sawdust, you'd ha' got knuckle-dust!'—'Remember, Mr. Pearl, I'm an officer of the Society, and that's a threat. I shall inform the magistrate of it at the trial!'

"'Here, missus,' shouts Pearl at the top of the stairs. 'All right Pearl, I've got some show cages clean! How many do you want?' 'Show cages be hanged!' said Pearl. 'Just open the door and show this bloke out, or I shall soon fling him out!' And down the stairs into the street went the toff."

"What I'm wondering now," says Tom, as Charlie rose to go, "is how much we shall have to put in the hat to pay old Pearl's fine!"

ULSTER O.A. (Belfast).

Twentieth annual exhibition held in Clarence Place Hall, December 6 and 7. The receipts at the gate were on a par with previous years, but entries were about 15 short of last year. This show boasted a few years back of being the largest in Ireland. It is remarkable (in recent years) that the society should never be favoured with an entry that can be described as a "bumper." We would venture to say that the classification has a lot to do with it, for instance, light Mules have to compete against Hybrids, and dark Mules against Canary Bullies. Why not classes for field moulted British birds? Then again, in specials the Scotch Fancy section claims the largest share, although there is always a loss on the classes. Norwich (the best paying in the show) have to take what they get, with the result that birds in open classes have to compete against birds in limit classes for specials. The president, Mr. James Stewart, an enthusiastic Plainhead breeder, was one of the hardest workers in the hall. The society once again had the invaluable assistance of Mr. Robert Trimble as secretary, and a more popular, genial, and hard-working fancier it would be hard to find. He was ably assisted by Mr. T. H. Smyth, who had everything at his finger tips, and saw to the despatching of the long-distance exhibits. Mr. J. F. Dewar, Edinburgh, judged Scotch Fancy, Mule, and British sections, and Mr. W. Vardy the Norwich and Yorks., their awards giving general satisfaction.

FORRES O.S.

Twenty-sixth annual show held in the Mechanics' Institution, Dec. 4. A splendid hall, beautifully lighted and of fine size. The birds were nicely staged up and down the hall, with plenty of room left between the rows. Entries numbered 200, which were in excess of last year. Norwich turned out fairly well, as also Crests and Crestbreds, but the outstanding feature of the show was the British section, among which some grand classes were benched. The handsome silver cup presented by Mr. Wm. Smith for best pair of Norwich was won by Mr. J. A. Grant, Keith, with a grand pair, suitable for Crest breeding. The society's silver medal for best Norwich was won by Mr. Wm. Allison, Aberdeen, with a very typical yell. hen of good size and substance. CAGE BIRDS LEAGUE cup, presented by Mr. D. Ross, for best bird in show belonging to a member of the LEAGUE, brought out a large number of entries, and the competition was very keen. The judge had some little difficulty, but finally awarded the cup to Mr. J. A. Grant's dark crested cock, grand size, well formed crest of dense formation. The secretary, Mr. Cummings had everything up to date, and was well backed up by his committee, who all worked with a will to make the show a success. Mr. John Lyon, Aberdeen, made the awards, which were well received.

BEDFORD O.S.

Annual show, held in the Town Hall, Dec. 5th, the total number of entries reaching nearly 200. In the Norwich classes there were a number of very fine exhibits. The British classes were very well filled, and Mr. Timeaus, as usual, had a fine team of Foreigners on view. A special feature of the show was a large aviary containing a number of pure white Canaries, exhibited by Mr. C. H. Goodman, which were very much admired. The show was opened at 2 o'clock by G. Hargreaves, Esq.; the awards were made by Mr. J. Robson.

ROTHERHAM.

Twelfth annual show held December 7, in the St. George's Hall, which has a nice light, is spacious, and free from draughts. The entry was a good one, being an improvement on last year's. Yorks. were a nice assortment; Nor., although not over numerous, were exceedingly meritorious; Yorkshire Greens and British especially were far away the best collection ever seen at this South Yorkshire fixture. Truly a superb array. Novice classes, both in the "long and slim 'uns" and the "short and thick 'uns," contained many exquisite specimens, and amongst the members' classes one saw some really grand birds. His Worship the Mayor (Alderman P. Bancroft Coward) officiated at the opening ceremony with a very appropriate and encouraging speech. President is Col. Sir C. J. Stoddart, J.P., with a capital list of vice-presidents. The committee are a band of well known and enthusiastic fanciers, who all lent a helping hand, utilising their efforts to an untiring degree, great praise being due to Messrs. T. Twigg, W. Ducker, W. Brotherton, A. Hunt, G. Stafford, R. J. Smith, W. Browning, J. W. Jones, J. E. Taylor, and G. Tupman, while Mr. B. Bailey, the worthy secretary, proves himself a capable and a very competent official, keeping top side of his work all through; courteous and obliging, a better man it would be difficult to locate to fill such an important office. He works like a Trojan. The show manager, Mr. W. T. Turner controls admirably, having at his finger tips, every detail appertaining to the correct manipulation of an open venture. He is certainly a great asset to the society. Staging was of a very neat description; every bird could be seen at a glance. Prize cards were displayed promptly, as each class was adjudicated upon. Judging was over in good time, and the show opened by about one o'clock. Attendance excellent. Management throughout superb. For care and attendance to exhibits our Rotherham friends are hard to beat. The members' cup for best young Yorkie went to Mr. W. Brotherton, with a very lengthy and stylish cl. yell. cock. Cup for best Nor. fell into the hands of Mr. W. T. Turner, his ticked buff cock doing the needful. Hyde's was captured by Mr. B. Bailey with a smart yell. Nor. hen; Ramsden's for hottest fed went to a cl. buff Nor. cock, full of fire, owned by Mr. H. J. Mennard; and Sandiford's to Mr. L. Havenhand, his cl. yell. Nor. cock possessing the "heat" necessary. Mr. J. C. Barnes (Sheffield) judged, and his awards were well received.

The Critique.

YORK., YELL. (12): 1, Norton, mkd. neck, wonderful length, straight as a gun-barrel, feathered to perfection, rich tone of col., well on leg, gem; 2, Dykes, beautifully clothed cl., slim and upstanding, full of nerve, grand back and wing carr., beaten in length only; 3, Bingham, very lengthy cl., capital pos., nice col., good legs, not the texture of feather, yet a smart exhibit; 4, Thomas, nicely fed cl., stands like a guardsman, clever leg, well filled back, shade short; vhc, Pyman; hc, Whitaker; c, Potter. BUFF (11): 1, Norton, el., of magnificent feather and col., straight as a pencil, rare length and style, grand back and wing carr., beauty; 2, Jefferys, lovely salmon col., delightful pos., full of nerve, shows well, hardly so lengthy; 3, Stobart, smartly moulded cl., tight as a Java, slashing pos., fine back and flights, clever legs, close up; 4, Dykes, mkd. wing and head, full of character, smooth as a bottle, not of the biggest but of the best; vhc, Potter; hc, Whitaker; c, Huddleston. HEN (12): 1, Dykes, yell., four-pointed, smooth as wax, straight up, rattling back and wing carr., plenty of leg, extremely bewitching damsel; 2, Sampson, very lengthy cl. buff, A1 qual., capital pos., little on the strong side, still nice specimen; 3, Stobart, yelk., lightly var., lovely col. and qual., and lengthy, appearing somewhat chilly, would not show, no doubt good one when in cond.; 4, Pyman, cl. buff, shooty, and of good col. and length, little patchy over beak, good back, flights and legs; vhc, Smith; hc, Huddleston; c, Norton. UNFLIG. (11): 1, Norton, with a superbly feathered cl. buff, slashing col., delightful pos., best of backs, A1 wing carr., true character; 2, Brotherton, cl. yell., rich tone of col, straight as a rush, full of swagger, 1912 bred, exceedingly promising, beauty (wins members' cup); 3, Dykes, very lengthy cap mkd., nice feather, good pos., well on leg, very close up; 4, c, Thomas, cl. buff, erect and of capital qual., lengthy and well on leg, crosses wings a little, which tells against it; vhc, Sampson; hc, Pyman. GREEN (11): Nice class; 1, hc, c, Walker, foul, rare length, neat and narrow, fine stand, lovely tone of col., superior feather, very stylish, wins; 2, Symonds and Son, self, even better col., A1 qual. and pos., nice back flights and tail, beaten in length and style; 3, Eason, foul, feathered superbly, rich tone of col., not overdone with size, yet sweet; 4, vhc, Dyett, self, good length and pos., nice back, neat wing carr., bit rough in feather. BUFF (9): 1, 2, 3, vhc, hc, Walker, with a grand team, leading with one possessing superb col. and qual., neat and narrow, straight as a pencil, lovely back and wing carr., clever legs, gem; 2nd, pressed his stable companion very hard, if anything hardly so rich in col.; 3rd, full of col. and qual., grand outline, well on leg, hardly so stylish, yet a smart specimen; 4, c, Eason, stands well, A1 col. and feather, very lengthy, rather stronger. NOV. YELL. (13): 1, 2, Chew, with a brace of exceedingly neat exhibits, mkd. eye and cl. respectively, both of magnificent feather and col., capital pos., plenty of leg, winner has it in style; 3, Bishop, mkd. wing red hot, smooth as a Java, stands well, not overdone with length, otherwise as good as above; 4, Groom, green, rich tone of col., slim and upstanding, well gowned, good on leg, worth its place; vhc, Wood; hc (2 ab), Smith; c, Hibbitt. BUFF (20): Grand class: 1, Hall, mkd. neck, lovely feather, tight as a Java, grand head expression, very stylish, stands finely, well on leg, gem; 2, Bishop, mkd. wings and head, more lengthy, capital feather and position, nice back, clever legs, not quite so neat in general outline as winner, yet a grand specimen; 3, Chew, very lengthy cl., fine stand, well filled back, nice carr. of flights, trifle loose on front; 4, Priestley, rich coloured cl., straight up, A1 feather, beaten in character a shade; vhc, Shears; hc, Charlesworth; c, Chew. NOR., YELL. (6): 1, 2, Havenhand, former mkd. wings and head, ablaze in col., silky feather, lovely head and neck, bold fronted, capital wings and tail, clean sweep, gem; 2nd, well fed cl., plenty of subs., A1 qual., wee bit longer in barrel, flights and tail; 3, vhc, Parlett, cl., good in feather and col., sweet expression of head, thick neck, not quite so deep fronted, clean cut away, not far behind; 4, Dodd, cl., superb clothing, nice col., rattling shaped body, wanting in head and neck somewhat, jaunty carr., well worth its place; No. 6, Wilson, absent. BUFF (10) 1, 2, Wilson, bouncing cl., magnificent shape, col. and qual., neatly frosted, grand carr., all front, very choice; 2nd, cl., rattling subs., A1 col. and feather, good head and neck, little longer in build, yet close up; 3, Mennard, red hot cl., very shapely, not quite so massive, still true Norwich, and one greatly admired; 4, Hobson, cl., lovely feather and col., sweetly moulded, jaunty carr., beaten in size only, in the pink; vhc, Havenhand; hc, Waters; c, Dodd. HEN (9): 1, Wilson, cl. yell., wonderful subs., rare shape and carr., superior feather and col., extremely fascinating damsel; 2, Smith, buff, mkd. wings and head, tight as a Java, model for type, full of col., clean under, very close up; 3, Dodd, yell., mkd. wing, marvellous size, rattling shape, qual. and col., moves gracefully, tail feathers deficient, or might have won; 4, Hobson, grand bodied cl. buff, rich col. and feather, nice subs., not over strong in head points, yet a charmer; vhc, Parlett; hc, Tupman; c, Stafford. UNFLIG. (9): 1, 3, Wilson, cl. yell. and cl. buff, both of superb feather, winner ablaze with col., short and thick-set, lovely wing carr.; 3rd, very shapely and of nice size, clean cut away, good subs., not quite so rich in col. as 2nd; 2, Waters, teeming with qual. and col., nice shape and size, very promising, pressed hard for premier honours; 4, Millward, buff, mkd. head, true type, plenty of col., tight as wax, moves gracefully, on the small side; vhc, c, Havenhand; hc, Butler and Barlow. NOV. YELL. NOR. (6): 1, Atkinson, mkd. wings and eyes, cobby and of exquisite qual. and col., nice subs. and carr.; 2, Butler and Barlow, capitally fed variety., tight as wax, sweet shape, very close up; 3, Stafford, mkd. head and tail, full of col., A1 feather, neat head and neck, longer in body; 4, Harrison, mkd. neck, true shape, superb feather, hardly the size or col., yet one we liked; vhc, Gascoigne; hc, Wilshaw. BUFF (9): 1, Butler and Barlow, mkd. head, lovely col., close feather, grand shape and carr., not of the biggest but of the best; 2, Smith, nice shapely cl., good in qual. and col., neatly mealed, close on the heels of winner; 3, Stafford, red-hot variety., well clothed, nice head and neck, not so deep through, moves well, good 3rd; 4, Harrison, mkd. neck, A1 feather and col., nice subs., wee bit longer in barrel, flights and tail; vhc, W. Dyson; hc, Cawson; c, J. Dyson. GOLD OR BULLFINCH (20): Very fine class, and easily two sets of winners could have been selected, one of the best classes we have seen for some time; 1, Blanchon, with a lovely Goldie, superb col. and shape, good size, rich and large, well cut blaze, rattling buttons and bars, a picture, Doncaster winner; 2, Kelsey, Bullie, and a gem right through, fine subs. and shape, large, dense and well cut cap, magnificent breast col., grand carr., beauty; 3, c, Parlett, Goldie, superior col. and feather, not quite the expanse of blaze, yet of rich col., neat bars and buttons, very close up; 4, Poole, Bullie, plenty of size, A1 col., grand cap, just beaten in col. of breast by 2nd; vhc, Wright, exceedingly smart Goldie, in the pink; hc, Lee, charming Bullie. LINNET, ETC. (12): 1, 2, Parlett, leading with a slashing Linnet, grand shape and subs., rich tone of col., prettily and profusely pencilled, steady as a top, gem; 2nd, Twite, fine shape and size, magnificently mkd., topping col., one of the best; 3, Bearder, Linnet, even better col. than 1st, hardly the size or shape, yet of a very meritorious description, and not far behind; 4, Williams, Lesser Redpoll, capital subs., col. and qual., neatly mkd., well staged; vhc, Brown; hc, Haigh; c, Milne. CAGE BIRDS, 154, Fleet Street, London, E.C

AINTREE, FAZACKERLEY.

The many beautiful exhibits at the Aintree, Fazackerley and Dis. Fanciers' show, afforded hours of quiet enjoyment to those who had the good sense and opportunity to be present. But, alas! how slow the public must be. Here, in the Church Hall, Long Lane, was a collection of birds, etc., the like of which had never before been gathered together in Aintree. Willing hands had laboured hard to complete the arrangements, and all for love. Pretty show bills had announced the event, and a tireless secretary had used his best endeavours to ensure a financial success. But the door of the Hall was never blocked with visitors! Still, there was a gentle flow, and no doubt "ends will meet." The new vicar of the parish, the Rev. R. G. Bell, M.A., made his debut. Introduced by the chairman of the society, Mr. Bell briefly addressed the company on the necessity and advantages of live-stock hobbies. (His happy little speech was frequently interspersed with the crowing of roosters, etc.). In the cage bird section there was a predominancy of Yorkshires, and some high-class birds. Mr. H. V. Deacon's (president of the Green Canary C.A., who was down to judge, but who was, unavoidably absent), special prize for best bird went to a charming buff cinn. mkd. Yorks., the property of Mr. Gregory. The Norwich were only sparsely represented, and a lamentable shyness was noticeable in the Border section, also several Britishers were on view. Somewhere near 100 birds were exhibited, and considering that the classes were confined to members, it is very satisfactory. The cage bird section will boom shortly. Mr. Geoff Benson (New Brighton) judged, and his awards were well received. Mr. C. Eaton made an excellent manager of the section, and there is nothing but praise for the gen. hon. sec., Mr. J. A. Anderson, supported as he was by a band of willing workers.

ATTERCLIFFE C.B.S.

Seventh annual show held Nov. 23 in the Vestry Hall. The entry of 260 birds was considerably in advance of previous years, and the attendance throughout the day proved very satisfactory. The society is to be congratulated on being able to acquire such a suitable hall, the light being all that could be desired. Quality was far in advance of previous shows, some very fine birds being staged, and the competition for the cups being very keen. Mr. Walker staged a very fine team of Yorkshire Greens, notable amongst them being his last year's Crystal Palace winning Buff. Mr. Havenhand, the worthy president, staged a very fine lot of Norwich. Mr. Hailstone put down a grand team of British, winning a good number of prizes. Mr. Walker took silver cup for Yorkshires, also special for best Yorks in show, this bird securing a CAGE BIRDS LEAGUE Medal as well. Mr. Havenhand won the Norwich silver cup, this being twice he has won it; also special for best Norwich in show, along with CAGE BIRDS LEAGUE Medal. Mr. Hailstone won silver cup for British, also CAGE BIRDS LEAGUE Medal and special for best British with a charming Lesser Redpoll. Sandiford's medal for best colour-fed bird was won by Mr. Havenhand, and Rameden's medal by Mr. Hibberson. The following officiated as judges, their awards giving every satisfaction:—Mr. Browning (Yorks), Mr. Taylor (Norwich), M. P. Walsh (British).

Alleged Borrowed Birds at Darlington Show.

Sir,—I should like to speak about the borrowed birds at Darlington show. I might say that when I visited the show I was surprised to see birds borrowed by members. When this is carried on, it is not fair to the other members.

Exhibitor.

The Points of the Exhibition Linnet.

Sir,—I should like to ask through the medium of your most valued paper, the proper points which constitute an exhibition Linnet. At the recent L.C.B.A. show, a bird with beautiful breast markings takes 1st, while the 2nd prize bird is absolutely void of breast markings. To my mind this seems ridiculous. I should like to know the opinion of other fanciers.

E. H. Hull.

The Rough Treatment of Birds on Railway Journeys.

Sir,—Sometime since I sent a bird away by G.W.R., and the person to whom I sent it, never received it. I wrote to the Company but have had no reply, and that is some weeks ago. I have made a claim for the amount, but still no reply. I received another lot of birds properly addressed and labelled, with one of the cages broken in, all the seed out and the water vessels empty. Fortunately, no birds were the worse. This week I received another lot, consigned via G.W.R. The Midland Railway Company picked them up, sent them round a longer way. When delivered and the package opened, every bird was wet through, one of the cages broken in at the side, and another pushed out of shape. The consequence is, one died next day, another is expected to, and all are hoarse and suffering from shock and cold. I should like to know if I can claim full compensation, as the birds must have been grossly ill-treated and handled to get in the state they were when received. I take it that reasonable care should be taken, and if gross carelessness can be proved, the Company should be made to pay full compensation. When are bird fanciers going to co-operate and get fair treatment for their birds? What are the hunmanitarians doing in this matter?

Hy. A. Batchelor.

[We are certainly of opinion that our correspondent can claim full value, providing he can prove that the package was delivered into the company's hands in good condition.—Editor.]

A Vexed Point.

The Half Prize Money Rule.

Sir,—It is evident by his letter, that Mr. John Andrews does not belong to any Cage Bird Society. He is like many more so-called fanciers, I am sorry to say, simply an exhibitor, and, I must say, a very poor one at that. He seems to be willing for others to work hard in connection with Society's shows, and take all the risk of a heavy deficiency after it has taken place. There is a large amount of work in running a show, and the number that have balances on the right side are few and far between. We know that the great majority of societies to-day are comprised of mostly working men. These men form a society, and decide to hold a show. They do not hold this show for the gain that they ever get out of it, but simply for the love of the Fancy. If their show turns out a failure, where does the money come from to clear off the debt? Too often from their own pockets, after devoting time and expense to try and make a success of it. There are several causes of these deficiencies—clashing of other shows, perhaps a very wet day, with the result that the gate is not half what they expected it to be. Yet such exhibitors as Mr. John Andrews cry out: "Do not support these shows unless they pay full prize-money," or, as he is willing to admit, half prize money on 5 and under—a small loss surely of 1s. 3d. But, as your entries are fewer, so is your loss greater. Take the six entries, when you pay full prize-money you receive 9s. and pay out 17s. 6d. That is, of course, entries of all outside the society. But, as the general rule is, members are allowed to enter at reduced fees, then the losses are greater. The members, after paying perhaps their 5s. subscription fee, and working hard during the show time, after all have to make up the deficiency out of their own pockets. Are you not, Mr. Andrews, as a fancier, prepared to make a little sacrifice and take a little of the risk? If exhibitors did, it would not be necessary to pay out half prize-money, as the classes would be filled. Again, let us look at it in another way. In many shows to-day the Committee withhold prizes in small classes. This is done, of course, to protect themselves, and rightly so. Which, therefore, is the better plan, not only to the society, but to the exhibitor as well? I maintain that the half prize money scheme is the fairer. We will take the class of four; and I should say all under this should be cancelled. On the half prize system under 8, you receive 6s., and pay out 8s. 9d., that is a loss of 2s. 9d. (that is, if there are no members in, or your loss will be greater). Every exhibitor gets his award cards, which the true fancier thinks more of than the money. You also pay prize-money to three exhibitors. Let us now take the other side: Four entries, you still receive 6s., and withhold 1st prize. You pay out 7s. 6d., less than what the society pays out in the former case. You also only pay two exhibitors instead of three. Perhaps you have shown this bird many times, and it has always taken a first, but you only receive a second card. This is hard, though you have received the same money, 5s., in each case. It is evident, therefore, that Mr. Andrews has not considered the question as, I say, a true fancier should. No matter where the money comes from as long as he is paid his prize-money! I am a secretary myself, but consider that exhibitors should take a little of the risk, and I am pleased to say that amongst the thousands of exhibitors with whom I have come into contact, they have with very few exception been thoroughly satisfied to accept a first prize card with less prize-money, where there have been small classes. Do not, therefore, Mr. Andrews, try and prevail upon exhibitors not to support these shows who give half prize-money under eight entries, but rather ask them to support these shows, and then it will not be necessary to give half prize-money at all. Form a society, Mr. Andrews, and help them to carry out successful shows—it is a glorious work for a fancier.

Another Secretary.

The Challenge Cup at Chichester Show.

Sir,—Kindly grant me a few lines respecting the challenge cup for best Canary in Chichester Show. Your reporter says it was won by Miss Townsend. This is not so, as it was awarded to my clear yellow Norwich, and because I had not been a member long enough before the show it was taken away and handed down to the 2nd prize Buff. I resigned last year, after being a member seven years, and then reconsidered it, but rejoined a bit too late. Still, honour to whom honour is due.

C. E. Silk (Emsworth).

The Treatment of Fresh-caught Bullfinches.

Sir,—In answer to Mr. Rogers re fresh-caught Bullfinches, I have caught these birds for the past fifteen years, and have had no difficulty in getting them on the hard seed by the following means: (1) Feed on canary, teazle, small sunflower, dock, forget-me-not, sorrol, privet, and other wild seeds available: (2) crush the sunflower and hemp for the first week, also scald the teazle. I have saved hundreds of birds with scalded teazle alone; this is a grand seed for fresh-caught birds; (3) always have a good sized cage, say two feet by twelve inches; (4) on no account put fresh-caught birds with birds that have been caged for some time, as the older birds will simply scalp them. If Mr. Rogers cares to write me, I will answer him more fully on the Bullfinch or any other British bird, he is in difficulties with.

James B. Clarke,
Ascogbank Lodge, Rothesay.

Sir,—Mr. A. Rogers is asking for advice and I have had some experience in these birds. What I do is as follows, and I very seldom lose a bird. Put them in a store cage 18 inches long and 8 inches high with perches. I find these birds are often lost for want of water, so I have a good row of drinking holes and a long drinker (say six inches long). Before putting them in the store cage, dip their bills in water. I give them whole hemp seed and a few bunches of privet berries. Also I put a small bag of fresh water sand, well soaked in clean water, over the top of the store cage, so as to let water continually drop into the drinkers. You will soon see the birds come and drink, and after that they generally look round for their seed.

FINE FEATHERS MAKE FINE (SHOW) BIRDS.

Mrs. Bullfinch: "However is it you weren't at the Show, Miss Goldie?"
Miss Goldie (tearfully): "I haven't a single costume to wear, dearie—I'm moulting!"

The Lizard Classes at Rochdale Show.

Sir,—In reply to Mr. House, I take great exception to his explanation as to why the bird was left out. The sentence is this: "He knows, as I know, that the bird was a feather short." Now I am quite aware when the tail feathers were counted by Mr. Naden there was a feather short, but I emphatically deny that previous to that examination being made there was a feather short in tail. When I caged the bird on the Thursday, previous to packing it up, I followed my usual course of examining each bird's tail and wing feathers, and there were twelve feathers in tail then; further, Mr. House if he has once again examined the bird, which has been judged by him at Bradford, can testify whether it was a white feather or not. I can assure Mr. House that to the best of my knowledge the bird was intact in wing and tail when it left my hands to be placed by the steward on the Thursday night, and I am quite within my rights in wondering did the feather get knocked out whilst being handled by Mr. House, as he confesses in his reply such a thing is easily done. Anyhow, I have not seen the missing feather yet. How were all the owners to know your reason for wrong classing their birds? There are other things besides broken caps being in clear cap classes—they might even be mistaken for golds under some judges. What I claim is this, Mr. House: Let everyone know your reasons, don't give it only in an isolated case. I see Mr. House accuses me of acting as censor for other exhibitors. Well, it is not the first time I have been accused of doing that. I am only surprised that Cage Birds was not full of grievances of these gentlemen concerned, as I fully believed they were all intending writing to this paper. However, I will take a case in which I have an interest, and which Mr. House has carefully evaded, that is: why he put a broken capped silver hen first in a clear cap class. I was third in this class, with a hen which, unfortunately for me, showed three or four feathers tipped at the ends. If so, my bird paid a heavy penalty in being put third for that reason alone. The former bird, as I mentioned in my other letter, was distinctly broken over beak and eye, and yet it wins in a clear cap class. Now, as regards the cocks in hen classes, Mr House perhaps forgets that such birds come from cold rooms, and I find that with any birds of mine, if they are as far advanced as the so-called hens were at Rochdale in their vocal attainments, the early morning is generally the time to hear them, although I admit in some cases heat and excitement also help. Does Mr. House seriously tell me he cannot form an idea of the sex of a Canary without hearing it sing; are colour, size, and general appearance no guide? If so, I consider that this vexed question is never likely to be satisfactorily settled, as some birds, either with heat or not, will not sing in a strange room, and a judge has not time to wait and see if they sing or otherwise. Mr. House says he never handles a Lizard unless forced to do so. Well, the general talk at Rochdale was that he was forced to handle a good many, and he might with profit have handled some of those doubtful damsels, and I am quite prepared to wager he would not have been long in being satisfied as to their sex. To hark back to the passing of my clear Gold, which he states he had made a winner, if he judges to the L. and L.F.A. standard, where does he get his authority in that for throwing the bird out of competition? I can find none. Can he at the same time justify himself in putting birds white in face (or, as we call them, bald-faced birds) at the top of the class, and this is a fault which under a breeder would be considered good reason for throwing out of competition? Mr. House tells us, if either myself or any other exhibitor had questioned him at the show, he would have given his reason fully for his action. I may tell Mr. H. that I have visited the show on the Friday night, but when asking for the judge, the reply has been: He never stops long after the judging is over. I have met Mr. House only once to my knowledge, and that was in my first year's showing at the Palace Show, when I was then a very raw novice. He put me a clear-cap Silver out of competition for being deficient in cap, and when tackled by Mr. F. W. Baker on the spot, he owned that he might have made a mistake. But when "Fur and Feather" (then one of our means of getting birdy information) was published, my cage number was published in that paper and the reason for being left out of the money. I can tell you, sir, it was a very narrow escape of my severing my connection with Canary breeding right there. Now, Mr. Editor, I am accused of accusing Mr. H. of deliberately hitting at myself. Am I to consider it a coincidence that if there is anything brought prominently before the fancy in Lizards, it always drops upon me? I may echo his remarks and also say there are more honest fools than himself, as I seem to be one of the same fraternity. But I do try to play the game, and if ever I meet Mr. House, I shall endeavour to stand by anything I may pen. If acting as censor will help him to judge a bit more consistently, there will be no one more pleased than myself, as it is not in the best interests of any breed for judges to indulge in their own particular fads. I am still a disappointed exhibitor.

What is a Novice?

Sir,—I notice in your correspondence the question is raised, what is a novice? As an exhibitor, I have always understood that it means all who have not won three firsts in novice, or £5 limit, classes. But to win a first in open competition would place the exhibitor out of his novice stage, though should he enter birds in novice classes at a subsequent show before the awards are made in the open show, then I should say he is eligible to compete in novice classes.

BREEDER OF BIRDS

The Date of the Crystal Palace Show.

Sir,—I should like to say how much I regret to notice that the dates of the Great National Crystal Palace show are Feb. 7, 8, 10 and 11. I am quite sure there must be hundreds like myself who have spare time only on Wednesday or Thursday afternoons, and who on other evenings do not finish work until after 8 p.m., thereby being deprived of a visit to the show. I also feel sure that the show would profit by extra gate money. I wonder if it is too late for Mr. Ramsden to get it altered for 1913?

A Failure at Linnet Catching Explained.

Sir,—In answer to "A Very Old Subscriber's" letter for information as to how flue nets or drop nets are used, I cannot answer that question, as I am only dealing with clap nets. If these are the nets he means, I can give him all the information he requires, but I do not know of flue nets or drop nets. What I can make out is that they are nets that stand up straight, instead of lying flat on the ground. If this is the case, no wonder "Old Subscriber" is not getting any Linnets, as they are likely to frighten them away. I may mention that with clap nets I would guarantee to catch a Swallow, as it flies across. I have an old cycle inner tube to act as a spring, so that it will pull them over sharp. The reason that the birds do not disentangle themselves immediately is because you have your nets too slack—what I call too much bagging. Stretch your nets out, say, a yard, and it will make a lot of difference. Don't stretch them too much or else it will not mesh them at all. Will "Old Subscriber" give me a slight idea what his nets are like? My nets lie flat on the ground, and when I pull, the nets come over in an opposite direction at the same time. When my nets are set (15 yards long, 6 feet wide) you can hardly see them at a distance of 30 yards. They are made of the very finest thread, at the same time being very strong.

The Troubles and Trials of Exhibitors.

Sir,—After reading Mr. F. J. Wickham's letter in CAGE BIRDS, of last week, I should also like to ask some of the readers their opinions. Like Mr. Wickham, I keep a lot of birds, and have shown for several years. The vhc Redpoll-Greenfinch Hybrid at Tonbridge Show last week, was 3rd prize at Maidstone Show 1911, 2nd Maidstone Show 1912, and 1st prize Malling 1912. At Canterbury Show, Nov. 13th, with only 10 Hybrids and Mules, it came back without even a card. On turning up my CAGE BIRDS to see the report, I find that a Canary-Bullie took 1st, Greenie-Canary 2nd, Siskin-Canary 3rd, Goldie-Canary 4th, and others vhc, hc, and c. Now, although my Hybrid was not mentioned, in my opinion my bird was the only Hybrid in the class—any birds that have the Canary as one partner, must be Mules. Of course, it was a Mule and Hybrid class, but my reason for writing this is to ask what is the use of trying to breed the real Hybrid between two different species of British birds, when they have to take a back seat behind Mules, and are ten times as hard to breed. Then, again, I have sent to various shows, 1st prize and 1st and special winners at Maidstone Show, in classes with the same number of entries, those they have won at Maidstone (I am not a member of the Maidstone Fanciers' Society, so that I am not favoured for that, and they usually have a fresh judge each year from away), the birds have done next to nothing. I have sometimes even followed the Maidstone judge to other shows with the above birds, and they have come back cardless and not mentioned. Now working men cannot afford to support either the judges or the shows where they do not get better results, for the exhibitor is practically eaten-up with rail charges and show entries. Societies appeal for entries but neither judges nor shows will get any entries from me, unless I meet with better results. An exhibitor shows under a judge that awards him 1st and 2nd, and he follows him up to the next show about a week later, some distance up the line, and the birds don't get looked at! That's how I find it. I think that I know quite as well as some of the judges what is a good bird when I see one, as I usually keep a stock of about 50 of all kind of British. I catch all my own.

"Cage Birds" Picture Puzzle: Can You Solve It?

Half-a-Guinea (Cash) for the Successful Competitor.

The "jig-saw" picture above hides in its jumbled-up pieces two birds "mated" to breed Hybrids. A cash prize of half-a-guinea is waiting for the reader who cuts out the pieces and pastes them on a sheet of paper or cardboard so as to produce the original picture of this couple before it was cut and jumbled up. The key to the correct arrangement of the pieces (as given by our artist) is locked in the Editor's desk. In the event of no reader correctly solving this puzzle, the prize will go to the effort which comes nearest the said key-picture; should two or more readers be correct, the prize will go to the one who sends in the most neatly arranged attempt.

In solving this puzzle, every jumbled piece appearing on the drawing must be utilised—any picture sent in which is made up of less than the said number, or to which extra pieces have been added, will be disqualified.

All solutions should be sent packed flat, with the full name and address of the competitor clearly written at the foot, and be posted to reach CAGE BIRDS Offices (154, Fleet Street, London, E.C.) not later than first post Friday, Jan. 3rd, when the competition closes. The Editor's decision will be final.

A Visit to Lurgan Show.

Sir,—I decided to spend a few hours at Lurgan C.B.S. annual show, and a grand show it was, too. Just as I entered the hall I met Mr. Joseph Lavery, and a good fancier he is. Just 43 entries he made, and won the Challenge Cup, too, with a grand Scotch Fancy. I next came across Mr. J. H. O'Neill, another good fancier. In the Secretary's office I found Mr. McCollum working as hard as a Weaver, and everything going like clock-work. Coming down the hall, I next met the worthy President. Mr. has a right to be proud at having such a Herbert Malcolm and the Lurgan Society gentleman at their head. Next I heard a motor-car stopping at the door. It was some of the Banbridge fanciers, Mr. McCammon (the Treasurer), also Mr. R. J. Hamilton, Mr. Harvey, and Mr. Woods. Mr. C. J. Faith was all smiles when he heard he had won the Society's Challenge Silver Cup for Best Norwich Plainhead in the show. Mr. Woods won the special for the Best Yorkie in the show. A look at my watch told me I had only half an hour left to catch my train. Just as I was going I met the Belfast contingent coming in—Mr. Trimble, Mr. J. Randleston, Mr. Teasey, Mr. J. Neill, and Mr. J. Barclay.

LIGHT MULE.

The Future of the Sheffield O.S.

Sir,—Sorry I have to again trespass on your valuable space in reference to the above, but seeing Mr. Dawn has broken his faithful promise to me on Dec. 3, I feel I am justified in replying to his second edition. To cut the matter as short as possible, I will keep to the financial parts, in which Mr. Dawn is most interested. In my letter I stated Mr. Dawn and his friends contributed £13 4s. out of the total donations of £28 towards our open show, and this I still hold is true. Mr. Dawn says he has a receipt from me for £17 15s., which I don't deny; but why does not Mr. Dawn say what it is for, as follows: £13 4s., donations towards total £28; £4 4s., for tickets sold towards total £21 10s.; 7s., entry fees towards total £65. He also contributed 1s. towards total £8 for catalogues and photos, a small item he has omitted. I don't mention these figures to contradict Mr. Dawn, but to comply with his first request that the Fancy should know it is not a one-man society. Mr. Dawn tells us his financial aid is over £40; the balance carried forward. I should like to remind him the members' contributions are £40, so they might claim the balance. He wishes to remind me a member gave a cup. This I well remember, as will the exhibitors and friends to whom I wrote soliciting entries. Mr. Dawn says: "Let there be no fear or favour." Fear, I have none, for what I have done has been straight and above-board. Favour—well, seeing I have not favoured the clique and its methods is the sore place. "Away with cant and humbug."—I am quite content to leave the members of the S.O.S. to judge who uses the cant, who are the humbugs, and who has done the work. Why did not Mr. Dawn read out the letters on Tuesday last? Why would he not allow the members to say what they had to say? What did he fear? In conclusion, I hope the new secretary will get fair play, and not be insulted and abused if his views and habits are not with the party.

The Forthcoming Scottish National C.B.S. Show.

Sir,—We have agreed to give two classes for Rollers at our show on Dec. 31 and Jan. 1 next, one confined to members of the S.R.C.C., and the other open to all comers, both being guaranteed against loss by that club. Mr. Bradfield, the founder of the B.R.C.C., is to place the awards. Exhibits are to be staged in a separate room, which will be made as comfortable as possible. Mr. Forrest, Hon. Secy., S.R.C.C., 11, Garrioch Quadrant, Glasgow, with myself, will be pleased to answer any enquiries anent these classes. We hope Roller Fanciers will rally round. The classes provided for foreign birds will again be under the management of Miss Peddie Waddell (Edinburgh). It is well-known the special care she bestows on them, and we would ask the foreign exhibitors to make Miss Waddell's work more arduous this year by increasing entries in their section. Mr. J. F. Dewar (Edinburgh) is supplying all seed, etc., needed by exhibits while in hall; and Messrs. Sykes and Hoyle (Musselburgh), whose services last year in the softbill section gave so much satisfaction, are again officiating. All rail work—the receiving and dispatching—is in the capable hands of Mr. R. Craig, our show manager, ably assisted by members of the committee. Schedules will be issued Dec. 14 (it speaks for itself). The Scottish National Exhibitions have always proved notable gatherings, and this year the committee hope to create a record in entries. We make a strong appeal to fellow-fanciers to give the needed support. (See adverts.).

The Judging at Small Cornish Shows.

Sir,—In answer to Mr. Toy, calling attention to the 19 entries at St. Columb, I promised Mr. Salmon at Bodmin Show that I would give him a good entry, as their society was nearly "gone in." It was not through confidence in a local judge. Mr. Toy, have you been asleep for three years, as as I have been in the Fancy for six years as an exhibitor, and not a disappointed one at that. Who doesn't like their birds to have fair play? I do. I have won about 100 prizes besides specials since I have been a breeder, and not a purchaser of all exhibition specimens. I suppose Mr. Toy never bought a bird. Did he breed Canaries from Cochin fowls? What fanciers don't buy birds? What my birds did at Launceston under Mr. Payne has nothing to do with it. I don't expect to win where there are Crystal Palace birds. Mr. Payne has awarded me at an open to all England show first and special, also special for best Norwich in the show, besides other prizes. The birds I bred last year won at every show in Cornwall where they were shown under Judges House, Robson, Roe, and Poole, and were only back to third twice, and then they were judged by local judges. I have sent my hen to a judge who has got good sight, and he is satisfied that it is a cinnamon yellow. In conclusion, I wish all fanciers, and even judges, fair play; if it was not for the exhibitors there would not be any shows, nor any judges. Now, local men, don't sneer at exhibitors because you have the pleasure of being the judge.

Questions and Answers.

DOUBTS AND DIFFICULTIES SOLVED BY SPECIALISTS

Queries will be answered under the following conditions:—

(1)—All questions must be clearly written in Ink (or typewritten) on one side of paper, and must conclude with either the correct name of querist or a pseudonym, or initials.

(2)—The proper name and address in full of querist must always be written on a separate sheet of paper, and enclosed with the query. In no case must the address appear on the query.

(3)—Queries intended for different specialists must not be written on the same sheet of paper.

(4)—Queries must not include or be included in orders for books, instructions re advertisements, or any other matter for publication.

(5)—The department to which the queries refer must be stated in bold letters on the left-hand corner of the query.

(6)—If an answer in the same week's issue is desired, queries must be posted to reach us by Monday's first post at latest. Queries will be dealt with in the order in which they are received, and only as space permits. The earlier queries are received the better attention they are likely to have.

(7)—Queries relating to illnesses of birds, except enquiries as to cause of death (for which see Post Mortems will be answered by return of post on receipt of a postal order for sixpence and an addressed stamped envelope. Queries of an ordinary nature will be answered by post, if desired, on receipt of a postal order for one shilling and a stamped addressed envelope.

(8)—All who require letters of complaints written to advertisers must state grounds for doing so clearly and fully, and enclose a fee of sixpence,, otherwise their letters will not receive attention. All the fees received from this source will be handed over in full to the "Referee's" Poor Childrens' Fund (London).

(9)—All queries must be addressed to the Editor, "Cage Birds," 154, Fleet Street, London, E.C. Only queries so sent will be answered. Postcards are not admissible.

THE following gentlemen represent CAGE BIRDS staff of ADVISORY EXPERTS. Queries must in no case be addressed to any of them individually, but to the Editor.

Canaries.—Claude St. John. British Birds, Mule and Hybrids—G. E. Weston. Foreign Birds—Wesley T. Page, F.Z.S., M.B.N.H.S., &c., Wild Bird Life—H. Norman.

NOTE.—If an answer is required concerning the proper mating, etc., of Norwich, Yorkshires, Crests, Cinnamons, Greens, Borders, Lizards, Scotch or any other variety of the Canary family, we shall, should the querist desire us to do so, be pleased to submit his questions for answer to some leading specialist of the day on the variety concerned.

CANARY QUERIES.

Answered by CLAUDE ST. JOHN.

CONTINUALLY DROPPING FEATHERS (A Novice).—If you are convinced the bird is free from draughts, make yourself equally satisfied that it is not exposed to extremes of heat and cold, such as may occur in the vicinity of burning lights at night. Give a staple diet of plain Canary. Every second day give separately half a teaspoonful of summer rape and a morsel of banana, and on the alternate days a similar quantity of crushed sponge cake with four drops of sherry and two of cod-liver oil emulsion mixed in it, and sprinkled with maw seed. Twice a week give a small teaspoonful of a mixture of equal parts hemp, black rape, millet, and teazle. Dissolve half a drachm of ammoniated citrate of iron and quinine in one ounce of sherry, add a teaspoonful of glycerine, and give 20 drops of this mixture in the water two days in every three for a week, and every second day afterwards until feathers cease dropping.

TWO QUESTIONS (Amateur).—(1) This query puzzles me. You say you have a cinnamon Crest-bred hen, but have a little doubt of its being so. What is your doubt about? The sex or the colour? If you doubt the sex, look up these replies for a few weeks backward for enlightenment. If it is the colour, and you wish to reproduce the cinnamon colour, your only course is to mate it with the soundest cinnamon, bred from cinnamons, at your command, and thereby make sure of the chance of your bird being cinnamon. You might have sent a few of the coloured feathers, or described the colour. If this is not interpreting your wish correctly, please write again and explain more fully what you wish to know. (2) The structure of your proposed outdoor bird-room is very well planned. See that it is properly ventilated, and you may confidently look for your birds to thrive there. As your stock is quite hardy and normally treated, you will not require any form of heat in the new room.

CROSS-BRED NOT SINGING (F.H.N.).—You do not say whether the bird has always made efforts to sing as now. If this feature is only of recent occurreuce, I should suspect it was now suffering from loss of voice through exposure to draughts. Otherwise I should doubt it being a cock. Try the treatment advised to "Watte" in this issue, for a month. Also make up a paste with a tablespoonful of honey, a small teaspoonful of cod-liver oil emulsion, as much chlorate of potash as will cover a shilling, and the same quantity of powdered grain of paradise. Place all on a heated plate, mix well together, and add sufficient finely crushed biscuit to make a paste about the consistency of soft cheese. When cold it will cut solid. Stick a oube in the wires for bird to peck at, and renew it as often as necessary.

HAS A KIND OF FIT (S.R.).—It is "stage fright," or nervousness pure and simple, which makes the bird act in this way when you run it in a show cage. When a bird is badly affected in this way there is always a certain amount of risk of syncope ending its career in a moment when any particular attention is paid to it, such as handling or moving from cage to cage. The bird ought to have been gradually trained to the show cage when quite young. Still, patience and gentleness will do much now. Let it learn that your presence near it generally means some pleasure to itself. Withhold some dainty, such as hemp, niger, and green food, from its bill of fare entirely. Then pay it frequent attention, and always contrive to leave it a grain or two of one or other of the seeds, or a morsel of green food, but never enough to satisfy its appetite for them. It will soon get to associate your presence with these good things, and forget to be afraid of you. Then go on to handling its cage, then to moving it to a slightly different position, then more, next place it beside a show cage, then ditto with doors open for it to pass voluntarily to the show cage, in which a pinch of tempting food or green salad may be placed as an attraction, then you may drive it in gently with a pencil or something similar, and close the door and keep it there a short time, then for an hour, then for a day, and so on. It is a rather tedious business, as you must progress very gradually, but by working along these lines you will eventually be able to show it to your admiring friends in its show cage, without any great risk of alarming it.

EXTERMINATING INSECTS (G.S.B.).—As you only mention cleaning insects away from Canaries I surmise you mean they live on the birds, in which case they are probably the common grey lice. Red mites live in the cages, and only frequent the birds' bodies at night. To clear out lice hand-washing is the best and quickest method, a teaspoonful of creolin being mixed in each pint of the first two waters used. Full details for dealing with both pests have been given several times just lately in these replies. To get the fullest information in a permanent form, get Parts II. and III. of "Our Canaries."

COCKS OUT OF CONDITION (Geo. Cartwright).—First I should advise you to separate the birds at once. Leave the hen in the flight, and cage each cock separately to bring them in song. In addition to the staple of plain canary, give the cocks a half-teaspoonful of summer rape, and a morsel of banana every second day. On the alternate days give, in turns, first a piece of bread and milk the size of a hazel nut with two drops of cod liver oil emulsion on it, and sprinkled with soft sugar, and next a spray of watercress and a half teaspoonful of a mixture of equal parts hemp, niger, millet, and teazle. Add ten drops of syrup of buckthorn to the water for two days, and afterwards four drops each of tincture of gentian, tinct. of calumba and aromatic sulphuric acid every second day for a week.

RIDDING CAGE OF RED MITES (J. W., Notts).—As you have already made application of the spirit and camphor solution, your very best plan is to continue with it. Dissolve an ounce of camphor in half a pint of the spirit, and with a camel-hair brush apply a brushful to every joint, or likely harbour, of the insects twice a week for a month. Leave no possible harbour untouched, including the nails on which the cages hang, if they do hang. Wipe fluid off varnished parts of cage at once. At the end of the month you may confidently expect to be perfectly free from the pest. Then, if necessary, you can re-varnish cages. The solution may be quite safely applied whilst birds are in the cages, but it will, of course, be necessary to remove them for re-varnishing, if this is necessary.

CHANGING QUARTERS (J. F. P.).—It would certainly be most advisable to let the birds remain in their present quarters, but as that appears out of the question, you can only make the best of the proposed change. With careful attention there is no reason why the birds should not thrive very well in their new quarters. To make the best of circumstances, do not place the birds near the fireplace, but keep them as far away as possible consistent with freedom from cold draughts. When the fire is burning and the gas alight, you might also keep the top of window down half an inch or so, which will be sufficient, and put it up again the last thing before retiring in order to prevent too sudden a drop of temperature after lights are out. Leaving a very little fire to die out gradually in the early morning will be a good method, if you can do so with perfect safety.

A LEARNER'S STOCK (Nemo, Bfd.).—Your query is really too vague. I am not clear whether you are starting in business as a dealer or taking up Canary breeding as a hobby. Your query certainly suggests the former, and if this is correct, I am much afraid you have started at the wrong end to make it a success, as a would-be dealer above all else should know how to feed and manage his stock, as a preliminary to entering seriously on the financial stage. In a general way a dealer's stock should be fed the same as any other, and to get full details of this you cannot do better than invest in a copy of "Canary Breeding for Beginners," 7d., post free, from our manager. You will find details there for feeding stock in winter. As regards what a learner's stock should be, if you are referring to starting breeding as a hobby, Rollers, Borders, or Norwich are about the best breeds to begin with to acquire some practical knowledge. If this is not what you require, write again, and say just what you wish to know, and I will do my best to help you.

PAINTING AND PAPERING BIRDROOM (Novice, Sheffield).—If you have any considerable amount of surface to paint it certainly will not be quite safe to do it without removing the birds. The fumes of drying paint, especially at night, when the room would doubtless be shut up, are very apt to prove dangerous to the health of birds. Papering also is not the best method of covering walls in a room devoted solely to birds, because unless very skilfully hung it is apt to afford harbours for red mites, which are exceedingly difficult to discover. I think you would be better advised to cover the walls with Sanitary Distemper, say, a light stone colour for upper part of walls, and a pea or electric green coloured dado around the bottom. If you wanted more decoration you could easily manage by stencilling some simple designs—a fleur de lys, for instance—in some other colour, on the stone coloured background, and a stencilled border design to separate the dado from the upper portion. Then you could paint door and window frames on a good drying day without much risk of harming the birds, if you keep the room nicely ventilated whilst these operations are going on. But do not attempt painting large areas without removing birds until paint is dry, even if you have to crowd them together somewhat and keep them in odd corners in other rooms for a few days.

POINTS ABOUT WASHING (G.B.F.).—I have not taken the actual degree of heat of drying cage during use, as I prefer to exercise some discretion in the matter. Probably somewhere between 80 and 90 degrees in the archway, and just below 80 degrees in the drying compartment, is about the correct thing. You should have the floor of the archway very warm, but not uncomfortably, so even when you hold the tender part of the front of your wrist flat on it for some time. From ten to fifteen minutes is long enough, as a rule, to leave birds in this portion. But here, again, discretion comes in very useful. Unwrap the bird in about ten minutes, and if the feathers seem inclined to separate and spread, and the tips here and there are opening out, put bird in drying compartment, but if the plumage still seems very damp, and shows no signs of spreading, wrap it up in a fresh, dry, warm cloth, and place it in archway a little longer. The actual time required in this section depends to a certain extent upon the thoroughness with which moisture is absorbed out of plumage after rinsing, to the absorbent nature of the cloths used for wrapping, and to some little extent upon vigour or activity of the bird. Leave them in drying compartment until the plumage is quite dry and the birds are preening themselves nicely. An hour is usually sufficient, if the cage is needed for other birds. When taking them out of drying cage, put them into scrupulously clean cages, and keep in a comfortable temperature free from cold draughts until next day.

THE BEST SONGSTER (Amateur).—(1) It is wholly a matter of individual taste whether a well-trained Roller or a Nightingale is the best songster. Both may be said to be masters in different phrases of bird music, and each incomparable in his own particular branch. But they can scarcely be compared with each other, and the question of which singer is best can only be decided by each individual for him or herself. The Roller, however, is much the easier to manage, and sings considerably longer each year than the average Nightingale. (2) As a staple diet a mixture of two parts canary to one part summer rape. Occasional luxuries the same as you may frequently see advised in this column. But for full details get the nutshell booklet, No. 10, 2½d. post free.

YORKSHIRE (Novice).—(1) The digestive organs of this bird were probably upset during its stay at the dealer's, most likely by the linseed, which should never form part of the regular diet of caged Canaries. Give a staple of plain canary only. Every second day give separately half a teaspoonful of summer rape and a morsel of banana, and on the alternate days a piece of bread and milk the size of a hazel nut sprinkled with soft sugar. Twice a week give a pinch of a mixture of equal parts hemp, niger, millet, and teazle, and on each of the remaining days a spray of watercress. In the drinking water give the rhubarb and soda aperient every second day for a week, and in the next week four drops each of tincture of gentian, tinct. of calumba and aromatic sulphuric acid every second day. (2) You might try putting these birds in a room where no fire is kept for a week or so, but see that it is free from draughts and damp. Beyond this, as they appear in quite good health, I do not advise you to interefere with the course of nature. The birds probably moulted last spring before you bought them.

BARE NECK (Sen).—It is a not uncommon, and a very obstinate trouble, and is not very amendable to treatment at any time other than the proper moulting season. Mix well together ten drops of glacial acetic acid and a teaspoonful of water that has been boiled and allowed to cool. Bottle this, and slightly moisten the bare skin with it by means of a small feather twice a week for a month. Give a plainer mixture, say, two parts canary to one part summer rape, as staple, and give a pinch of the more varied mixture twice a week, and a spray of green food or morsel of banana three times a week. Twice a week for a month give a morsel of bread and milk slightly dusted with flour of sulphur and sprinkled with soft sugar, and on two other days add to the drinking water as much chlorate of potash as will cover a threepenny-piece.

NOT SINGING (Watts).—(1) You give no idea about the age of the birds, nor whether you are certain of the sex or not. Most cocks ought to be in very good song now. See reply to "A.M.T." in this, remedy any faulty environment suggested in that reply, and treat the birds generally as therein advised for a month, except that in your case before giving the quinine mixture add 10 drops of syrup of buckthorn to the water for two days, then give the mixture for one week only. (2) You could, of course, save yourself trouble by keeping the birds altogether in the aviary for breeding. But in this case you must not put in an equal number of sexes, and must also be careful not to overstock it at the beginning of the season. You say nothing about size of aviary, so I cannot tell you how many birds you require to stock it. About the middle of March would be the best time to put in the cocks, providing they and the hens too, are in good condition.

SUCKING NOISE (Goldemith).—See that both Norwich and the Crest are kept quite free from cold draughts and damp. Keep them in a fairly comfortable and equable place, but do not overheat them, and let the place be quite free from foul or heated air. In addition to staple seed diet give the Norwich, each, a piece of bread the size of a hazel nut, soaked in cold milk, drained, two drops of cod liver oil emulsion on each, and sprinkled with soft sugar. Give this every second day for a fortnight. Give a spray of watercress four times a week when it is obtainable in good condition. In the drinking water add ten drops of syrup of buckthorn for two days, and afterwards 20 drops of whisky, five each of oxymel of squills and ipecac. wine, and two of eucalyptus oil, well shaken together, every second day for a fortnight if necessary. Give the Crest a little bread and milk as above, but omit the sugar, and sprinkle instead with maw seed, and on the intervening days give a pinch of summer rape and a morsel of banana. Add six drops of syrup of rhubarb and as much sulphate of soda as will cover a threepenny-piece to the water every second day for a week, and in the next week give instead six drops of tincture of gentian and three of dilute sulphuric acid every second day. Report progress at end of fortnight, and give fuller particulars about the swelling you refer to, and the general condition of the bird.

THE DRAWBACKS (A Beginner).—(1) The drawbacks of breeding young by turning a cock and two hens into a double breeding cage and leaving them to take "pot luck" are not long in becoming apparent. The hens may not keep "on speaking terms" long when the desire to nest seizes them, then trouble is not far off; or they may rob or otherwise interfere with each other's nests and make a hash of things generally in this way; and the cock may assist in making confusion worse confounded. Very seldom will matters run smoothly to a successful issue in these circumscribed surroundings. Your best method of procedure is to keep a hen separately in each compartment of the double breeding cage, and when the nesting season arrives mate the cock with the most forward hen. When she commences to sit, remove cock and mate him with the second hen. When this hen commences to sit, remove cock, and cage him alone until the first hen is ready for him again, then repeat the above programme. You will, of course, leave hens to hatch and rear the broods by themselves. In using a three-compartment breeder keep the cock in centre and a hen in each end division, and proceed as above. (2) "Yorkshire Canaries," by H. W. Battye, post free 1s. 2d., from our manager, will give every information about breeding Yorkshires.

FREQUENT MOULTING (A.M.T.).—The cocks are not in the least likely to resume singing whilst these frequent moults are taking place. The birds being kept in the same room would have no effect whatever on keeping the cocks out of song, rather the reverse. The moulting is probably due to cold draughts, damp, or extreme and rapid fluctuations. You must see that these things are remedied; give a staple diet of plain canary. Every second day give separately half a teaspoonful of summer rape and a morsel of banana, and on the alternate days a similar quantity of crushed sponge cake with four drops of sherry and two of cod liver oil emulsion mixed in it, and sprinkled with maw. Twice a week give a small teaspoonful of mixture of equal parts hemp, millet, and teazle. Dissolve half a drachm of ammoniated citrate of iron and quinine in one ounce of whisky, add a teaspoonful of glycerine, and give 20 drops of this mixture in the water every second day for a fortnight, then omit it for a week, and give it again for another fortnight.

WHAT MATE? (A Beginner).—As a mate for the Norwich cock you had better get a healthy, active young hen of the same breed. You give no particulars at all about the cock, but the hen to mate with him should, as far as possible, excel in any typical points in which he is weak or deficient. If he is a yellow, the hen should be a buff, and if he is clear she should be ticked or lightly marked, and vice versa in both cases. A single breeding cage of the box pattern would be best for you to start with. A good size is 20ins. long, 10ins. deep, and 15 or 16ins. high, and a movable wire front made on punched bars is advisable. I am sorry I cannot go into detail of construction here through lack of space. Our manager could doubtless send you back numbers in which full details of cage making are given. Or you would find all necessary information and diagrams in the handbook "Aviaries, Bird-rooms, and Cages," 2s. 3d. post free, from this office. Of course, you would require a spare cage or flight for the young when ready to leave the parents.

FOREIGN BIRDS.

Answered by WESLEY T. PAGE, F.Z.S.,

WHAT ARE THEY? (George).—(1) It is a Queen (Racket-tailed) Whydah, worth 30s. to 40s., according to its condition, they are well known, but have never been plentiful on the market. (2) Impossible to tell you exactly without a proper detailed description of its plumage, but apparently you have one of the Serins (the genus Serinus is a large one), all of them are good songsters, as also are the various species of Siskins—and your bird may be one of these. Sorry I cannot be more definite, but I think it is some species of Serinus.

BICHENO'S FINCHES (F.M.L.).—You will not go far wrong if you treat them as Gouldian Finches, but Bicheno's are very susceptible to a changeable temperature, and during the cold months of the year keep them where the temperature is most regular, I should keep a millet spray continually in their cage, and during the winter season you can meet their wants by growing canary and millet seedlings in thumb-pots in your window; the seedlings after being picked pretty low by the birds soon grow again when the pot is returned to the window. A piece of a lettuce leaf (tender and fresh) can also be offered. If they care for them a mealworm per bird daily will not come amiss. Bicheno's have a way, unfortunately, of "going off" suddenly with no apparent cause.

BLUE-MOUNTAIN LORIKEET (Perplexed).—Change your treatment, and I opine the trouble will disappear. Let them have access to a tin of canary and millet seed, but the main dietary should be as follows:—Milk sop, made from condensed milk and sponge cake, with a pinch of Mellin's food is best, it should be rather sloppy; ripe fruit ad. lib. Also give it a leaf of tender and fresh lettuce after cutting out the centre rib. I expect your bird is tame, and if you can let it out of its cage occasionally, and while out it could have a bath in a large shallow dish. In the spring, as early as you can get it untainted by frost, supply liberally wild grass in flower (seeding grass). These birds can also have dry biscuit, figs, dates, sultanas—the above gives you ample opportunity to supply a changeable dietary, and the bird should soon improve under the altered conditions.

BOURKE'S PARRAKEETS, ETC. (C. W. P.).—These show themselves fairly ready to breed in roomy quarters, and they do so annually in a Berkshire aviary, but they are not numerous in captivity. I am sending you a sketch of a suitable log. Some Parrakeets favour small barrels. Red-headed Finches are notorious for laying eggs and rearing but very few youngsters, and some pairs of Ruficaudas suffer from the same complaint, but some few are reared annually. It is very probable you'll have some reared next season. Californian and Chinese Quail are also notorious for laying clutches and not incubating. However, do not lose patience—you'll bring a brood off yet. A hen Californian Quail in my aviary this summer laid four clutches of 19 or 20 eggs each clutch. She incubated the second clutch, hatched out 17 chicks, of which 12 were fully reared and are now in full adult plumage.

WHAT VALUE, ETC. (C. H., Tiverton).—If you really have a specimen of Chloropsis malabarica, it should be worth £5. I do not know of any previous instance of a specimen reaching here alive. I presume you know the difference between the two species, malabarica has the centre of the throat right up to the base of the lower mandible black, in aurifrons this area is blue, but many, if not all specimens of aurifrons have the throat black till after the second moult, I have had and seen several such, but they all proved to be aurifrons in the end. If your Grey parrot has been moulting in this irregular way during the past eleven years, there cannot be much wrong, at the same time how can I tell you if diet is at fault, when you do not say how you feed? Put half a teaspoonful of Byno-phosphates in the drinking water every other day for a couple of months.

WHAT PARRAKEET? (F. G.).—It is the Yellow-naped Parrakeet (Platycercus semitorquatus), an Australian species. It requires a diet of principally canary and white millet seed, with oats and a little hemp and sunflower seeds; also ripe fruit, greenfood, grit and cuttlebone. For such individuals as care for it, a piece of plain dry biscuit, or dry crust of household bread (stale) is wholesome and adds a little change to the regular dietary. The Platycercine are a hardy group, but like all species of birds must not be subjected to draught; the more exercise you can give it, the better it is likely to thrive.

INDOOR CAGE FOR LOVEBIRDS (Foreigner).—A plain box cage of the size you name will be the best. Do not waste time with fancy work, but make all the joints tight and sound. Do not have a draw tray, but a flap along the front (see sketch per post) divided into three sections, and use gritty sand for bedding them down on, line the back with twigy branches, and hang up any four hooks and a couple of small barrels. Also grow grass in pots, and put one of these into the cage every other day; if you have say, six pots, and look after well as to water, etc., these would last you some time, only letting each pot remain in two days, thus each pot would only be called upon to do duty every twelve days. If you get our Budgerigar Nutshell, 2½d. post free, this will tell you all details as to feeding, etc., and the treatment will be the same both for Lovebirds and Budgerigars. Black-cheeked Lovebirds are very handsome as to plumage, but as they often turn out very quarrelsome with Budgerigars, I think you had better have for your cage one pair each Green Budgerigars, Yellow Budgerigars, and Blue-wing Lovebirds. When the latter show signs of nesting give them branches from a tree, they will strip off leaves and bark and line log with them.

BRITISH BIRDS, MULES AND HYBRIDS.

Answered by G. E. WESTON.

PUZZLED OVER THE FITS (Worried).—As I have frequently explained in this column, "Fits," I have found, generally arise through improper or insufficiently nutritious feeding, and a consequent low state of health generally. If you immerse a bird's head in cold water for a moment it usually suffices to end a fit at once. Also drop into the beak three or four spots (not more) of a ten-per-cent. solution of potassium bromide, which any chemist will prepare for you. Give two or three drops daily for a time, and at once on any sign of a fit. If you are not an adept at handling birds, half a teaspoonful of the potassium bromide mixed with the drinking water (say every two tablespoonfuls) will doubtless answer as well. But you must feed correctly and well, or medicine will be of little avail. Mixing a small half-teaspoonful (not more) of tasteless cod-liver oil with the daily soft-food supply would greatly benefit the bird. If you find the fits do not yield to treatment, it would be a very wise plan to give the bird its liberty, and try another specimen.

THE BRAMBLE'S DISPOSITION (J. T. Fulcher).—The frequent references that you say you see to the Bramblefinch's quarrelsome disposition and noisiness are certainly founded on fact. In the first place, they are savage and treacherous by nature, unsafe companions for any birds (especially their own kith and kin) in a cage or small bird-place. The accuracy with which they manage to "hit in the eye" the bird attacked is something diabolical. And the force they put behind that powerful beak of theirs spells blindness, and even a gouged-out eye. They pitch into others (even the most inoffensive) with but little or no provocation; a dislike to see them come down to the food or water while they themselves are eating or drinking being all-sufficient. I have seen some piteous sights in the dealer's store-cages, when a number of these little demons have been lodged together therein; even when they have been each in a separate wicker cage, but able to reach their next-door neighbours through the bars. "Wicked" the dealers term them, and the word fits. Then, when kept in the bird-room, Mr. Bramble is apt to wake up in the night, start squalling "Ja-a-ack" at the top of his voice, and indulge in mad scrambles all over the cage, the racket he makes terrifying all other birds near, and bringing disaster by causing them to knock in their fright. However, I'm not denying that he has his good points—the two chief being his beauty of plumage and usefulness as an exhibition bird.

MANAGEMENT OF NUTHATCH (Young Novice).—You can show your bird with a fair prospect of winning if it is good in plumage, rich in colour, and reasonably steady. There is no regulation size and pattern of show cage. A box-pattern cage, about 14ins. long by 14ins. high by 8ins. or 9ins. wide, would answer well, with a piece of bark (as flat as possible) fixed to the back, so that the bird can not get behind it, and water and food vessels which fit inside, preferably swinging from the front. The inside and wires should be enamelled a warm cream colour. In the stock cage I strongly advise you to have two pieces of cork (or "bark," as some term it) and change them fairly frequently, thoroughly scalding the one last used with boiling water, or stoving it for a time in a fairly warm oven. This is necessary to keep down insect pests. The bird is very fond of bathing, and should be allowed to freely. Its main food should be good quality insectivorous mixture, such as is supplied to small softbill birds, moistened with grated raw carrot, or finely-chopped lettuce, or other greenfood. Several very good "soft-foods" will be found advertised in our columns. Suitable live-foods must also be given, according to season, and a few small nuts (cracked, if necessary) and sunflower and hemp seeds. One bird I had, possessed a wonderful appetite, and very varied tastes. He liked (in addition to the above things) hard-boiled eggs, bits of cake, currants and things, all sorts of nuts (especially the mixed shelled nuts from the grengrocers), mealworms, live ants' eggs, wasp grub, gentles, flies and tiny beetles, and many kinds of fruit, peeled grapes being considered a great delicacy, apparently.

BREEDING MULES (Anxious to know).—You are anticipating in good time next season's delights (as I hope they may prove). The proper time for running mating couples together depends almost entirely on the birds themselves. If one's British birds are proved breeders, it is unnecessary to run them with their future Canary wives through the winter; the pairing can be left until the latter show signs of being desirous of nesting. If the Britishers have never before bred in captivity, then it is an excellent plan to let them make the acquaintance of their future partners during the Winter. The absolute best method of achieving this end is to place the cock in one compartment of a double breeding cage, and the hen in the other, a wired slide being run down the centre. You are thus able to feed each bird on the seeds most suited to it. Further, if the cock is a likely breeder, and "takes to" his partner, when the proper season approaches he will commence to "talk to" and feed her through the wires, thus affording you some indication of your chance of success, and of when the couple are ready to be run together and given a nest box. Pairs for Hybrid breeding (two British birds) should be kept together as long as possible before the time for breeding comes round; most breeders keep them together right through the winter. This is not altogether necessary, however, for such couples are invariably very late breeders (late in starting) and if put together at the latter end of February, or during March, have ample time to "become acquainted" before any egg-laying is likely to take place. Still, to let would-be Hybridising couples fly together through the winter is not by any means a bad plan.

BACKWARD IN THE BLAZE (Hugh).—I expect your bird's slight lapse from health has had something to do with the "patchy" state of its blaze. The blaze will no doubt come up in colour with time, seeing that the bird's condition is again A1. Here is a little "dodge" that will help it along: Get a badger-hair tooth-brush and a small quantity of toilet ammonia (Scrubb's cloudy ammonia is excellent). Into an egg-cupful of fairly hot water, let fall two or three drops of the ammonia. Dip the tooth-brush into this, and brush the blaze over with it for a minute or so every day, in the morning. Keep the brush out of the bird's eyes, of course, and the water, too; in fact, don't let the brush be really wet, so that the water runs over parts of the plumage it is not required to reach. Another don't: Don't brush the wrong way of plumage, but only in the direction the feathers lie naturally. A good tonic is quite likely to be helpful.

FAILING IN POLISH (E. C. K., Croydon).—The "shining like silk," "good sheen," "grand polish," etc., which you read about in show reports is (for all mean the same thing) acquired in several ways, all, however, having some close relationship. The quality of feather possessed by a bird may, however, be said to govern the lot, for without it no bird can expect to possess polish, or bloom, or sheen—call it what you will. Thus a buff Greenfinch, or a buff Linnet, or a buff Goldfinch (or any species you like to name) can never be made to carry the same fascinating polish on its plumage as a jonque (or yellow) specimen of its kind. If you look over these classes at any of our large shows, it is quite easy to pick out the jonques and the buffs therein—even, I should think, for the little-experienced eye. A jonque bird can practically always be depended upon to moult out carrying a good sheen, providing he be intelligently fed and moulted, and allowed unlimited opportunity for bathing. This polish is improved after the moult by feeding the bird into high condition (show condition, as it is termed), and is brought to the highest pitch of perfection by skilful hand-washing (not too often), and the use of a few drops of best quality glycerine in the final spraying water, before he makes his appearance on the show bench. Don't use too much glycerine, or the result is disastrous.

THE SEXING OF GOLDFINCHES (T. Outram).—It is quite possible for the mistake to have been honestly made. To sex Greypates is a very puzzling job (well-nigh hopeless) for beginners. Bird-dealers do not often make a mistake (that is, buy hens as cocks), or catchers either; but even experienced fanciers get a bit "fogged" over some of the youngsters. Briefly, the cock Greypate has a longer, flatter head when viewed in profile, and the wing-butts are bright dense black, with a greenish tinge, as against dull greyish-black, with a brownish tinge, in the hen. A tinge of yellow on the breast is also a good sign, especially in connection with the above. When one sees a lot of Greypates together, as a rule it is not difficult to find one or two appreciably richer than the rest in tone of colour all over, and these can be bought with certainty as cocks. In the adult birds there are still the "henny" and the "cocky" shapes of head, as it were, one long and flat, and the other short and round, broadly speaking. But the best sign is the blaze. If it extends backward over the cheeks to the far edge of the eye (if beyond it better still, and this generally is the case on the top of the head), one can be practically certain one is buying a cock. The more blaze the greater the certainty. The cock, of course, will also have the same distinguishing characteristics on the wing-butts and breast, but these are not certain signs, for I have found old hens with the yellow tince on the breast, though slight, and also hens with dense black wing-butts. The blaze is the best test of all.

POST MORTEMS.

Mr. G. Yates, M.R.C.V.S., 1, College Road, Harrow, Middlesex, will examine and report upon dead cage birds for a fee of 1s. 6d. each bird; for reply direct, 2s. 6d.; analysis, 21s. Subjects for post mortem examination must be sent packed in a box direct to Mr. Yates, with the fee, this and any accompanying letter being kept from contact with the dead bird. Send by letter-post; it is cheaper and quicker than parcel post. Any bodies sent to the office of this paper will be thrown away, and if a fee is enclosed the loss will be the sender's.

Rachel S. Hird.—There were no worms present, nor was there any contagious disease. The affection had its origin in weak and faulty digestion, and death resulted from inflammation of the bowels.

C. Barlow Massicks.—Pneumonia caused death of Bearded Tit. The remains were otherwise healthy. Travel, excitement, and change of surroundings were the exciting causes.

GENERAL.

Answered by THE EDITOR.

A. Smithson.—We will try to struggle along. Your postcard would have been more convincing had you put your address on it—and correct name.

Newspaper Cuttings (N. Bourne, W. Pick, and others).—We are much obliged to you for sending the cuttings, which shall be utilised if space permits.

F. Litchfield—Your letter has been duly forwarded.

George Green.—The laws of libel stands in the way of the publication of letters such as yours. You should communicate with the police and ask them to make enquiries as to the whereabouts of the man, when it is quite likely they may secure the return of the money which you complain he holds. We will see if we can get any reply from him.

Enquirer.—It is always a nuisance when the classification is loosely drawn up, and often the judge is the person left to decide whether a bird is eligible to compete or otherwise. Why not write the secretary and ask whether the class headed "Mules" was intended to cover all crosses, no matter whether part Canary or between two British birds? In any case, we cannot decide, as there is no definite ruling upon the point.

BANKFOOT AND DIST. C.B.S.

Fifth show of the season held Nov. 30th at the Red Lion Hotel, Bankfoot. Owing to illness of the appointed judge (Mr. F. Allen), the services of Mr. L. Hodgson, sen., were sought, and kindly given. All fanciers will, we are sure, join with us in wishing Mr. Allen a speedy recovery. Some really fine birds were staged. Mr. E. Self's yell. hen (winner of its class and also of spl. for best hen) changed hands before the close of the show, as also did the winner in the hen-selling class. A keen struggle is sure to take place for the society's premier prizes at our next and final show of the year, to be held on Dec. 28. Messrs. F. Smith and C. Hardaker tied for first position with 79 pts. each; Mr. G. Hudson came next with 74 pts.; and others followed close on their heels.

CL. OR TKD. YELL.: 1, Hudson; 2, Hardaker; 3, Crowther; 4, he, Lawson; vhc, Self; c, Mitchell. BUFF: 1, 2, Hardaker; 3, vhc, Smith; 4, Mitchell; hc, Lawson; c, Self. EVEN, ETC., YELL.: 1, Wilman; 2, Smith; 3, Lawson. BUFF: 1, Lawson; 2, Hudson. FOUL: 1, Self; 2, Wilman. A.V. CINN. MKD.: 1, 3, Mitchell; 2, Lawson. CL. OR TKD. YELL HEN: 1, spl, Self; 2, 4, Smith; 3, Hardaker; vhc, Lawson; hc, Mitchell. BUFF: 1, Wilman; 2, Lawson; 3, Smith; 4, Crowther. EVEN OR UNEVEN YELL.: 1, Hudson; 2, Wilman; 3, Lawson; 4, Smith. BUFF: 1, Mitchell; 2, Hudson; 3, Lawson; 4, Smith. CINN. MKD.: 1, 2, 4, Mitchell; 3, Wilman. Will all members kindly note that the next meeting of the society will be held on Dec. 17? Several important items are down for decision at this meeting.—F. Gelder, Sec.

Through a Bird-room Window

This article on the Common Avadavat is No. 32 of the new series of personal birdy experiences related by that eminent aviculturist, the Rev. C. D. FARRAR.

No. 32. My Avadavats.

I SUPPOSE it is not really good for anyone to be without troubles and worries, because then one begins to regard content as a right rather than as a blessing. I remember one summer years ago I was full of anguish because somebody had presumed to breed a certain species of bird before me; but I determined that, Fortune favouring, it should not occur again. Accordingly, I looked round for something that nobody had bred, so far as I could discover. I may say that this quest grows harder year by year, as now the most unlikely species go to nest and rear their young like common or garden fowls. Only last month I read in the "Avicultural Magazine" of the successful rearing of two young of the Grand Electus, a bird I never should have said would nest in captivity, as they seem to have such an objection even to living for any length of time.

An Economical Species.

This time I determined to try low down, so I selected Avadavats. They are cheap, for one thing, and like the poor they are always with us; and by buying a dozen you are fairly certain of getting some of either sex. I had a very nice compartment in my outdoor aviary unoccupied at the time, and I determined, with all the confidence and cocksureness of youth, that this should be the future cradle of the Avadavat family. I sent off a wire for a dozen Avadavats, and I asked that I might be told when they would be sent off. This is a very necessary precaution in the country when you live a mile from the station. When a man is going to be hanged, he prefers to know the date of his leaving the world; and so when birds are on the way I always like to know when they are likely to arrive. An hour or two at a cold draughty station makes all the difference, especially when porters are of an enquiring turn of mind and tear off the brown paper, just to see what is inside, and then forget to put it back again.

I must say that the porters here are very good, and display a truly laudable lack of interest about the inside of parcels. They usually approach the house with the laconic words: "A box with summat alive inside." I always tip them well, and so there is no delay. Indeed, I am credibly informed that there is such keen competition about bringing birds up, that it has before now almost ended in blows.

Not the First one, either.

When my dozen arrived, I put them at once into an empty compartment of my indoor birdroom. In doing so, I made a big mistake. I believe I have warned my readers on this point before. It never does to turn birds straight out of a warm travelling cage into a big place, even although it be indoors. The difference in temperature is too great. The birds take a chill and die. When you make a mistake, don't make a second one by keeping it to yourself. Own up, as I am now doing. The time to spot rotten eggs is in the nest. The deeper you hide them in the case, the longer they stay in circulation, and the worse impression they will make when they finally come to the breakfast table.

I regret to say that I lost the whole of that dozen Avadavats in the course of ten days. They behaved just like the "Ten little Niggers," till there was none. The loss was not very great from a pecuniary point of view, but I never like seeing anything die, more especially when I feel that I am morally responsible for their demise.

There was, however, nothing to be done but to look about for a new supply. My readers will quickly say that this would not be a very difficult task. That may be. You can always get Avadavats, but there are Avadavats and Avadavats. You will always find it a safe rule to take a good thing just as soon as it is offered—especially a bird. It is never easy to get one except when you don't want it, but when you have to get one and go after it with a gun, you find it is as shy as an old Crow that every farmer in the country has had a shot at.

A Spry Little Lot.

Tuesday is market-day at Leeds, and in the market is a bird department, to which I, of course, always betake myself in search of happy finds. This particular Tuesday I thought I would try some Avadavats. I could buy them by personal inspection, and save all the risk of the long journey from London. The Bird Market at Leeds is also the draughtiest place, I should say, in Creation; so I thought that if I could see any Avadavats looking spry, they must indeed be hardy annuals, and the sort I wanted. On putting my head round the corner I was at once conscious of the draught, and glancing at the stall, I soon saw what I was in search of—a cageful of Avadavats in really tip-top condition. Looking them over, I soon spotted out two healthy hens and a fine little cock, and, having transferred them to a brown paper bag for greater protection from draught, and offering up a fervent prayer that in a fit of absence of mind I might not sit down on them, I carried them off to the station.

How to Land A Good Thing.

My prayer must have been answered, for we reached home quite safely, and I put them for a few days into an ordinary box cage, to get used to things. On looking at them next day I did not regret my judgment, for they were as tight as wax, and hopping merrily about the cage. There's nothing comes without calling in the world, and after you've called, you've generally got to go and fetch it yourself. I had exemplified the truth of this saying in my own person. The birds I sent for all died (I allow it was mea culpa, mea maxima culpa) but that didn't alter the fact. The birds I went and fetched, lived and multiplied.

If you want to succeed in breeding a new species of bird, you want a place where you can put them all to themselves; we all know that young married folk like to be alone, however charming their mother-in-law may be, and it is just the same with newly-mated birds. Then you want an unlimited supply of patience. If you don't succeed at first, try, try, try again, and lastly you must put a curb on your curiosity. Birds won't have their nests looked at.

People are always writing me for advice about how to succeed. They seem to think I have some wonderful secret I carefully keep to myself, and when I send them my receipt they say I am dealing out commonplace generalities. Of course I am, but that's where the receipt comes in, and if anyone will take these commonplace generalities and knead them into his dough, the mixture will be cake.

The Next Best Thing.

Never having been to Africa, I know nothing about where Avadavats build in a state of nature, but I concluded that they probably built in the long coarse grass everywhere so common. As I hadn't got any and couldn't make any, I thought the next best thing would be a privet hedge. Accordingly, I planted a nice clump of privet close to the window of the aviary; and one glorious June morning I opened it wide, and out popped my Avadavats to view the land. They seemed delighted with their surroundings, and evidently thought from the heat of the weather that they must be back where, as the hymn tells us,

"Afric's sunny fountains Roll down the golden sand."

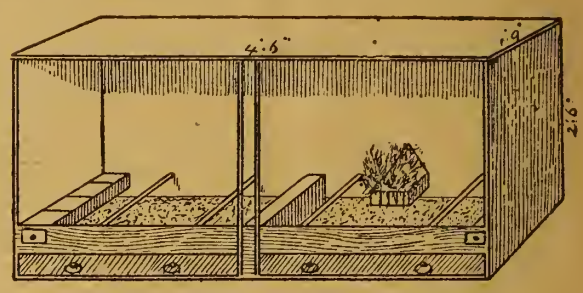
They darted hither and thither and never seemed to grow tired of exploring their new home.

Not many days after I was charmed to see one of the hens carrying about bents of grass in her beak, and evidently seeking a place where she could make her nest. Eventually she selected a site at quite the bottom of the privet bush, and there constructed a wonderful ball-shaped nest, with a tiny hole towards the light. The nest was of dried grass, warmly lined inside with feathers I considerately plucked from one of my White Cochins. Some folks would have wanted to put a finger in that nest, just to feel if there was anything inside. I once did that in my school days, and thereby lost a fine chance of a brood. I had read in some idiotic bird book that birds didn't mind, and I believed it. There is no easier way to cure foolishness than to give a man leave to be foolish.

Everything went happily for ten days, and then it began to rain as if an angel was emptying buckets out of the sky. I said to myself: "This will never do; if that rain keeps on my Avadavats and their nest will be washed away." I was in a very awkward position. The hen had sat well, and I felt confident that she would bring off a brood, if only she could be kept dry; but how was it to be managed? I was rather in the position of the boy chased by the bull—open to congratulation because he reached the fence first—but to condolence because a fellow up a tree in the middle of a four-acre field is in a mighty bad fix.



Not Yet out of the Wood.

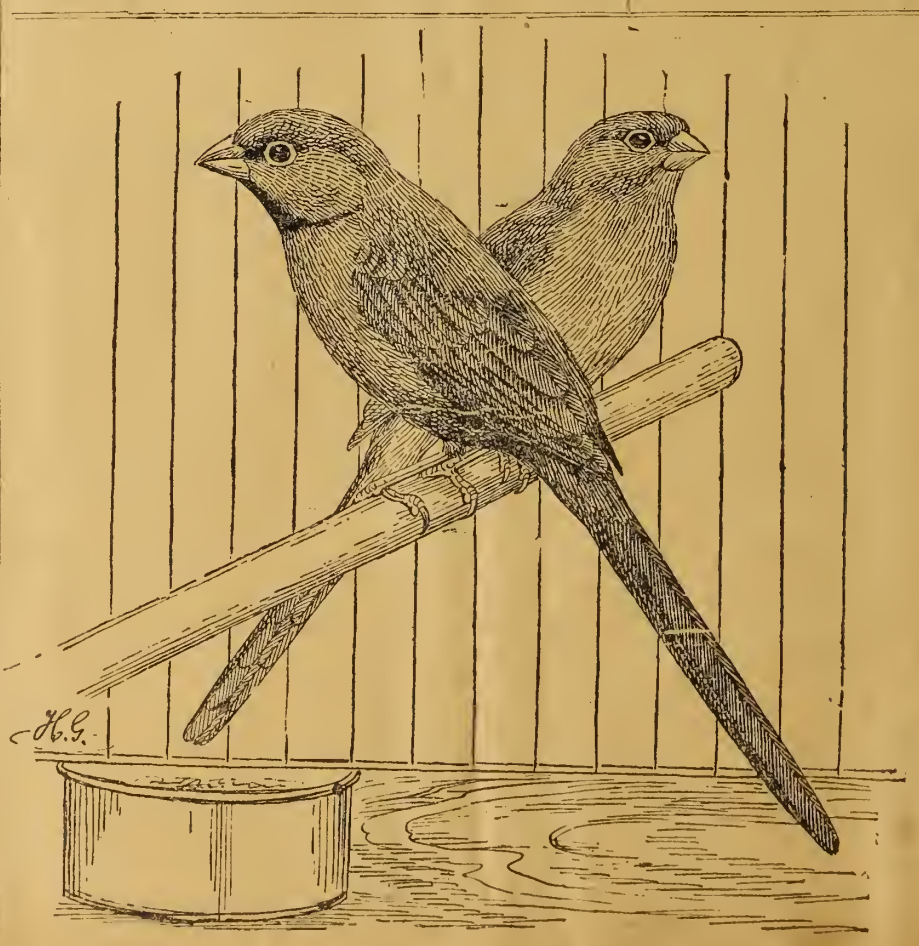
I was open to congratulation, for I had got to the fence first, and had secured a nest; but, like the boy, I was in a mighty bad fix, because of the rain. How was I to keep that nest dry? It was a choice of evils. If I did nothing, the nest was doomed; if I did anything, the hen would probably forsake incontinently. Something had to be done, and done mightily quickly. I rushed up the garden, seized one of the garden "lights," and carefully fixed it over the nest. I thought glass would be better than a box lid, which would make everything so dark. Luckily the hen did not seem to mind—perhaps she did not notice the light; or fancied that the day was a bit darker than usual. Anyhow, she went on sitting.

One day, as I was looking out of the aviary window immediately above the nest, I detected the faintest little chirping; it was so faint that I had to listen hard to catch it, but I was lifted up with pride, for I knew that now, if nothing untoward happened, "on my arm hung victory."

Celebrating the Occasion.

About a fortnight later (I had religiously let that nest alone in the meanwhile) I heard a great excitement in the aviary. The Avadavats flitting anxiously about, and calling loudly and incessantly. At first I was full of fear, and my heart played postman's knock at my ribs. I needn't have been frightened, it was merely the Avadavats introducing their offspring to the world. There they were on the ground in front of the window, three queer little snuff-coloured mites with black beaks, and in full feather. My, but weren't their parents proud of them! They might have known that they had done something out of the common, as indeed they had. I can't tell you all I felt about them. A lady was once expatiating to Douglas Jerrold about the beauty of an infant. "I can't really," she said, "find words to convey to you even a faint idea of its beauty." "I see," said Jerrold, "it is a child more easily conceived than described." That was just my position. And that is the true story of the breeding of my first nest of Avadavats.

A CAGE FOR HYBRID BREEDERS.



This is the type of cage used by Mr. E. Collins, of Barnstaple, a well-known and successful fancier. It will be noted that it may be divided into two compartments, that the perches are placed very low down, to safeguard eggs dropped on the cage floor, and that the nest-box is screened by means of bunches of dried grasses, or bits of fir, etc., branches.

A Fit of Bad Temper.

After a time, I had to take away the youngsters, as the cock turned spiteful towards them. Probably he wished to go to rest a second time. The hen was very angry at his proceedings, and turned as grouty as King Ahab when he turned his face to the wall and would eat no bread. However, after a few days she recovered her temper, and dutifully built a second nest near the first; but as I had done what I wanted, I ruthlessly pulled it out and hung it up in my study, and "it is there unto this day."

And now I think I had better end, or else you will be saying to me what Sydney Smith once said to a bore. On one of his visits to London he met Young, the actor, at Holland House, and after the actor had been monopolising the talk for some time, Smith turned to him and said: "Do you know, Mr. Young, I had much rather be listening to you than to the lowing of oxen or the bleating of sheep." As I shouldn't like you to say that: Good-bye.

How Exhibition Canaries Should be Bred.

Two well-known Fanciers—one from the North and one from the South—give this problem their consideration.

The Views of Mr. Frank Cole, of East Dulwich.

A PROMINENT Exhibitor—words flattering to many, but how dear to all; dear in one sense because they are justly earned by much thought and careful breeding, dear in another sense because they have emptied pockets (which, by the way, they seldom fill). How soon the man with the full purse finds truth in the words, "there's no royal road to success," and 'tis well, for herein lies the opportunity of many. He pays his £8 or £10 for his show birds. You and I will be content with stock birds, and, although we cannot beat him this year, our time will come. First of all, he buys from the show bench, but knows nothing of how the birds are bred; and then show birds always have a tendency to breed smaller than themselves. Our "v.h.c." will give us more pleasure than his "first" because we have, as it were, made it, while his show bird is but "filthy lucre," after all. If he breeds a good one he deserves it—all honour to his selection. But enough; I want to give my views on how to breed winners.

Of course, what I am about to say will, in general principle, apply to any variety, but I think it better to adopt one in particular, and, for choice, the Norwich Plainhead. This, to my mind, is the poor man's bird, ever ready to sing, of good appearance, and full of life; an ornament to any exhibition, a companion in the drawing-room, and equally at home in the cottage.

In The Beginning.

First of all, get to know your variety. Study the drawings in CAGE BIRDS. They will show you what kind of bird is winning, therefore what you must breed. Then go to a good show, shut your eyes to the tickets and try and pick out the winners in your section, or try and find fault with the awards. Keep your thoughts to yourself, though, or you may hurt someone's feelings and be dubbed "disappointed exhibitor." Of course, there is no harm if you have a friend with you in saying "that is my choice," but be careful not to give offence, and try to make sure of your ground—that is, of the correctness of your critical views. Having learned something of the variety, now for No. 2 question: Where shall we buy our birds?

If you have not joined a society, do so. You will learn much that is useful at its meetings, and soon find the chief breeders of your variety—mind, breeders, not exhibitors. If you play your cards nicely you will soon be asked to "come and see the birds." You go; you may be pleased with the birds or not. If not, well, you thank him for the visit and try someone else. If you find there is plenty of "go" in his birds, that they are of good and uniform shape (not varying in type from a Border to a Lancashire), this is your man.

Of course, you have kept a pair or two before, and know something as to how to start in real earnest. Sell out all your old stock except one pair, which should be kept as foster-parents in case they are wanted, and if you can raise say, £3, well and good, and this should be sufficient, although even this amount is not absolutely necessary to buy one cock and two hens.

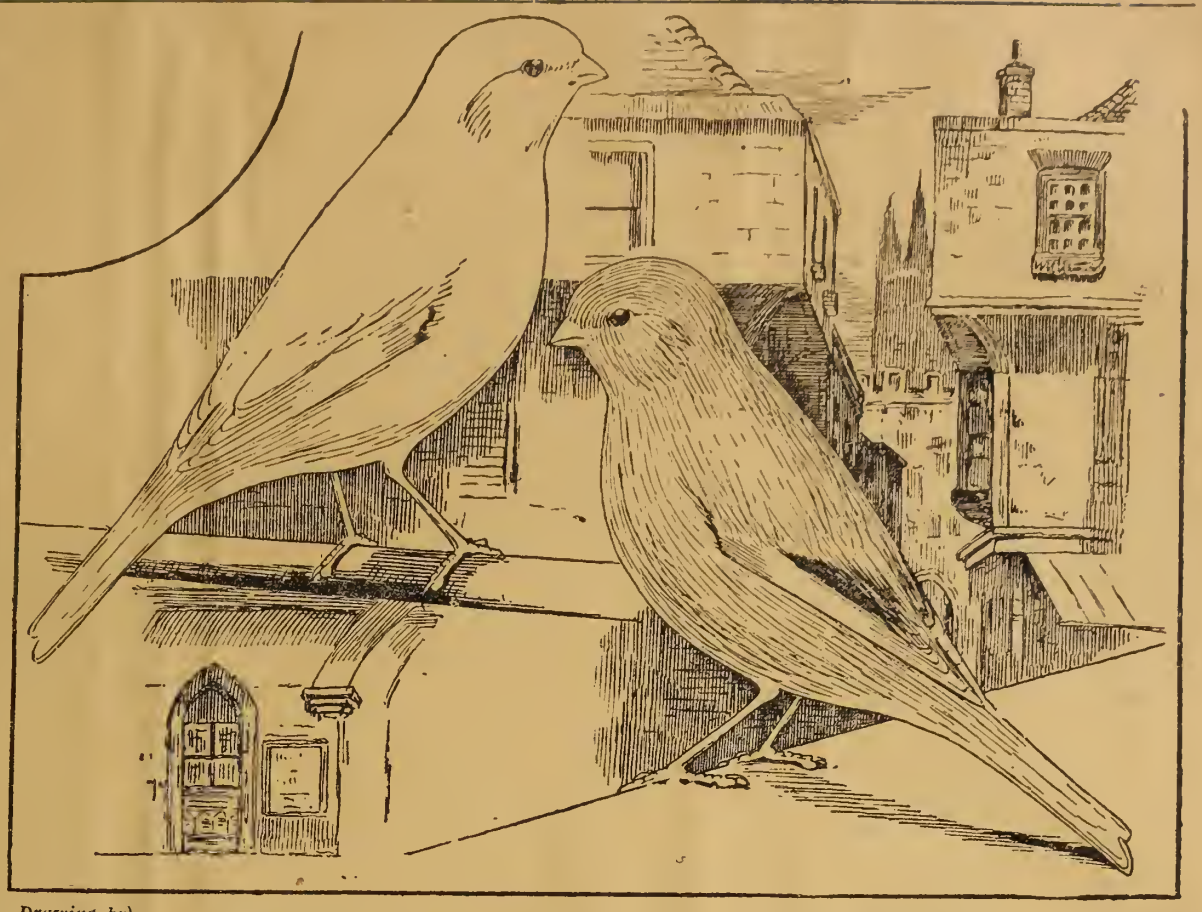
Now the third question arises, and we ask ourselves what we must look out for. Although you will allow the seller to assist in your selection, you must look after yourself. Let me describe the hens first. They must be unflighted. Old hens are never cheap. These can be either two yellows or two buffs, but must be the shortest and most typical you can get for your money. One can be heavily marked; or, if bred from marked stock, both clear or ticked. I like the green blood on the hen side, as it is then easier to work with. I like hens that are just too small for the show bench.

A Point Oft-times Overlooked.

Give as much attention to that part of the bird behind the perch as that part in front of it. A nice round skull—not flat, and not browy—thick neck and chest, short wings, and a tail sticking out, as it were, from the end of a pear—what is termed nicely filled in at the vent, not one of those that look as if the tail feathers were stuck in a plum. The latter only means "trousers." The tail should be carried quite stiff and slightly cocked up, if you can get it, not drooping down like that of a Lancashire. This latter is a serious fault, and will give you much trouble to breed out. You don't want to see daylight between the tail and wing tips. Good tail carriage means good wing carriage. Crossed wing-tips are an abomination, and must be carefully guarded against. In fact, as I have said, let your hens be small show birds. Small necessarily, because your money is not enough to buy good big ones. As a friend of mine often remarks, "the hen is the mould," so you cannot be too careful. Of course, if the hens are bred from good-sized stock, they will be the better.

Now for the cock. He must make up for the hens in size—be as big as possible. If your hens are buff, the cock must be yellow; if they are yellows, then get a buff cock. One a year old is best, if he has proved a breeder, with plenty of body, plenty of feather, and a good colour. Size and colour come from the cock, just as surely as type comes from the hen. One of those "surly-looking" beggars will do, but don't let him be too flat on the head. As your hens are clean in head, just a little brow is not a serious drawback, because it will help to make the skull look broader.

Let him be clear bred, or with the hens I have suggested you will get too many "circus horses." The acme of perfection is a clear yellow—a ball of fire—but dark blood cannot be ignored or your birds will soon become washy in appearance. Of course, type must be considered, but in the cock it is a secondary consideration, and if, as I have suggested, you went to a good breeder, type will have been inbred.



I hope the breeding season will be a good one. Result, perhaps 8 or 10, or even a dozen youngsters from those two hens. It may be more or it may be less; but don't take numbers into consideration—look at the quality. Like the man who was reminded that he took his wife "for better or for worse," you may be tempted to agree with him when he said "aye, but there's o'er much worse." Never mind, that young cock is an improvement on his father, and that young hen better than her mother. Or you may find that a cock from one hen and a hen from the other make a good pair. If so, next year—and, mind you, for one year only—pair father to daughter, son to mother, or half-brother to half-sister, and if your birds are in good health you will not lose either in size or stamina. This is, of course, in-breeding, but it is concentration, and concentration means success.

Sticking to the same Blood.

You can also in this, your second year, use the same pairs as in the first year, and you will find in all probability the youngsters will be larger. Why? Because the birds are more mature. While last season you had only two hens, in this you have 3 or 4. But don't overdo it. Unless there is a marked improvement in one bird, don't inbreed to save buying another hen. This is false economy.

In adding to your stock go first to the breeder who started you. If he has anything suitable to improve yours, buy it, even if you pay a shilling or two more. If not, don't rush to the show bench and chance spoiling all your work. If, say, yours are poor in head, or a shade long, look on the show bench or in CAGE BIRDS reports, and find someone whose winners are often stated to have "good heads," or are particularly "short and chubby." Write to that breeder if you cannot visit him, tell him what you want, and have on approval. Pay as much as you can afford; but don't be tempted to ride the hobby horse too hard.

Remember that in building up a strain the greatest care must be exercised not to lose one point in gaining another, as one may easily do in adding new blood. Let "here a little, there a little," be your motto, and in the words of the good old song, "something attempted something done" will eventually earn not a night's repose, but the title of "a prominent breeder and exhibitor."

WINNERS AT HISTORIC CANTERBURY.

These two grand Norwich Plainheads won first prizes. On the left is the clear buff cock exhibited by Mr. F. J. Wickham, of Chatham. On the right is the marked yellow cock exhibited by Mr. H. E. Taylor, of Canterbury.

WHAT A YORKSHIREMAN THINKS OF IT.

The Views of Mr. W. Wharton, of Bradford.

IN mating Canaries to breed exhibition specimens, the first consideration should be type, which should not be lacking in either of the two birds we intend to mate up, because without type we have not proper material to work with, and without the proper material we cannot build anything of any value. Therefore, in the first instance, we must have type.

What is type? To my mind it is the general outline of the variety, such as we see week after week depicted in CAGE BIRDS. That is type. Colour, quality, steadiness, size—you can have all the other good points that go towards making up the exhibition specimen, but without type they are of no use. Obviously, therefore, we must have type above all things.

The second consideration is quality, which, when combined with type, goes a long way towards making up the desired show specimen. What is quality? It is that waxiness of feather, that smoothness, that solid, boxwood-like appearance of the plumage, which we see on the show bench. Therefore these two things we must have, in the Yorkshire, the Norwich, the Border Fancy, and most other varieties.

The next thing to consider is steadiness. This to my mind is a very important factor. It is an old saying (which is very true), that Like Begets Like. We find that we cannot do without steadiness, therefore it will not pay us to ignore this point in our stock.

Next comes size, which is another important item to be taken into consideration. Therefore we must mate up with birds that are somewhere near the standard size. We may get over the standard if we can, a good point in our stock birds, without fear of the youngsters being too large. But we must not get much under, as the youngsters might be too small. For my own part, I do not care for the method which some fanciers adopt, that is, pairing a large cock to a small hen. I myself like them both to be about of a size; and that is the standard size.

Some Important Items.

The next item in our stock pair to consider is position which, in the Yorkshire, corresponds with action and carriage in the Norwich. Therefore without position in the Yorkshire and carriage in the Norwich, we shall be a long way behind. Next comes colour, which we are bound to consider to some extent, because we find that where two birds are equal in all points with the exception of colour, the best coloured bird takes precedence. In a Norwich colour is of even more importance than the Yorkshire.

Another very important item is the health (strength and robustness) of our stock birds. If we do not breed with healthy birds, we cannot expect to breed healthy youngsters, and without they are healthy we cannot expect them to stand the trials of the show bench.

Having all these items firmly rooted in our minds, we must also consider the pedigree of our stock birds, which is very important, because a show bird is seldom bred straight away—it takes years of judicious pairing to produce the necessary material to breed show birds.

We will suppose that we have the requisite stock birds, having taken into consideration all the aforementioned items, and proceed to consider the preparations for mating. A very good plan, which I have adopted and found successful, is to put the pair (or pairs) together during the winter is very important, because a show bird is seldom breeding condition. I find that this saves time and trouble when the pairing season comes round. I generally separate them again about the middle of January. From this time constant attention must be paid to them. You may give a little egg food about twice a week, also two or three drops of treacle in their drinking water once a week. Half a teaspoonful of mixed seed, too, about twice a week is good, but don't overdo the tit-bits or you may get your birds over-conditioned. If it is very cold weather, you can give about a dozen hemp seeds now and again, or a few rolled oats.

A Good Enamelling Hint.

I have adopted the following plan when enamelling my cages: I get a half a cupful of ground glue and dissolve it by pouring boiling water on to it, and then give a thin coat to the cage. The glue has the effect of stopping up the pores of the wood, making one coat of enamel quite sufficient. Add a small quantity of petrol to your enamel, and you will get an even and glossy surface. I think this will be useful to all bird fanciers. —T. W. Johnson, 57, Morris Street, Birtley, Co. Durham.

Simple Cure for Diarrhœa.

The most simple cure I know of for diarrhœa in birds is to fill up the drinker with fresh brewed tea every morning. I have tried it with much success, with my Larks, and I find it work wonders with fresh caught birds, which are likely to be affected by the change of food.—Thos. Shannon, Belfast.

Rough on Red Mite.

A splendid insecticide for washing out cages can be made in the following way:—Get ¼-lb. carbon, half a pint of paraffin oil (in a pint bottle), 2lb. of soft soap, and 2 ozs. of powdered sulphur. Put the soft soap into an old saucepan with about a tablespoonful of water, and bring to a boil; dissolve the carbon in paraffin oil, and when dissolved stir into the soft soap, adding the sulphur at the same time, and well stir. Put into a tin, and when washing cages use two tablespoonfuls to half a gallon of warm water, stirring until dissolved. It will kill all red mite and other insects. It is also a grand remedy for blight on rose trees, used in the same proportions.—O. C. Smith, 77, Audley Street, Reading.

The Safe Heating of Aviaries.

As most lamps are not reliable without attention, I think the following simple idea will meet most cases of small aviaries. Heat bricks in the oven to a good heat, number of bricks put according to size of aviaries, and stand on cold bricks. This idea is cheap, safe, and clean, and takes the chilly air away.—W. Southgate, Parkstone.

The Getting of Fresh Caught Linnets on Food.

Procure half a cupful of the following seed mixture: Dandelion, thistle, dock, or any other wild seed mixture procurable at this time of the year. Dip the mixture mentioned in a little water, then mix it among the ordinary seed. Then place it in a shallow dish containing a little water, in a little corner of the cage. The Linnets will start picking among it very quickly, and I find they soon get into seed condition with this little hint. Further, it acts as water and food.—F. MacPherson, Oban.

Keeping Privet Berries Fresh.

Privet berries may be kept fresh for a much larger period if treated as follows:—Immediately they are gathered, take each bunch and push the stalk well down into some moist soil, in the garden, or in a flat box. Always take plenty of stalk with the berries, when gathering them. If the berries are bought from a collector, see they are gathered with as much stalk as possible, even if you have to pay a little extra postage. If treated as above, the berries will keep quite fresh for two or three weeks. —W. H. Teat, Grantham.

Tile Baths and Nest Boxes.

With some small sample tiles from a builder and a little plaster of Paris, or cement, you can make serviceable baths and nest boxes, to suit your own cages and bird rooms, and at very little cost. I have made one bath to fit inside a travelling cage (Hartz Canary) which I hang outside; but it could also be used as a nest box.—R. Spencer, Herne Hill, S.E.

Rolling Pin as Seed Crusher.

Crushed seed is an every-day necessity for young and fresh-caught birds, and possibly every housekeeper possesses a pastry rolling pin: so ask mother to lend it to you for a few moments. Then put required quantity of seed on the table and roll it with the pin, as mother rolls her pastry, and by this means you have fresh crushed seed, with little labour, and no extra cost.—Hy. Broom (Bridgwater).

Please thank all applicants for British birds advertised in "CAGE BIRDS" two weeks ago, as I would need a secretary to reply to them all. The advt. was 2/6 well spent, and could have sold double the stock easy.—J. Leach (Portobello).

The Young Naturalist.

Prizes of 1s. and two of 6d. each will be given weekly for the best three anecdotes about birds written on postcards. Competitors must be under sixteen years of age, and state whence stories are taken. Two stars indicate the Winning Contribution, one star the runners-up.

* A One-legged Husband.

I was staying with my grandpa for three weeks in August. He had a poor cock Sparrow with one leg, which had come into his garden in the winter. He put a box up for it under the roof, in which it used to sleep. In it he had a wife and four young ones, ready to fly when I was there, and they seemed so happy. Sent by Doris Pulsford (age 7), 5, Alfold Road, Cranleigh, Surrey.

* Lining the Horse Collars.

Last spring a man came to our door and asked father for a job at repairing any harness. Father had two collars in the carthouse that wanted re-lining, and went to get them. To his surprise he found a Wren's nest in each of them—one finished and the other being built. Father is a bird-lover, and he returned and told the man that birds were lining the collars, and with feathers this time! He said he thought it was only fair to leave them to complete the job, and that the man would have to call again.—Sent by Gladys Griffiths (age 9), Tyrhiw, Cnwes, Kilgerran, Pem.

* * Poor Old Snail!

A sober old snail was crawling along,
When up came a Mavis to find
Some trifle to eat, by way of a treat,
The fat old snail suited his mind.

But into his shell popped wise Mr. Snail:
"I'm not at home, Throstle, to you,"
"I don't wish," cried he, "to be eaten, you see,
"Though tasty I am, it is true."

Now this did not please the Mavis at all;
With sharp beak he picked up the shell,
And knocked it in vain, again and again,
On the stone at the edge of a well.

The house of the snail was certainly strong;
But then in went the roof with a crash,
The Throstle was pleased, as the dainty he seized,
And he gobbled it up in a flash.

The Stranger in the Syringa Bush.

An amusing instance of much ado about nothing.

IN the smaller towns in the United States the librarian is usually looked upon as a public official who is at the beck and call of the community, and it is quite the usual thing to telephone to him for information on all imaginable subjects. Here is a yarn, told by Mr. Edmund Pearson in "The Librarian at Play," which shows the result of one such telephone inquiry: Miss Patterson, the assistant reference librarian, was seated at the telephone, when the bell rang and the following conversation ensued—"Is this the Library?" "Yes. This is Mrs. Humphrey Mayo." "Have you any books on birds? I'm much interested in a large bird that's been perching on our syringa-bush for the last half-hour. It's a very extraordinary bird. I do not dare to go nearer for fear of startling it. Now, if I should describe it, could you look it up in some of your books?" "Why, I think so!" "Well, it's a large bird, like an Eagle, nearly all black. Its feathers are rumpled up, and it has a ruff and a splash of scarlet on its head. It must be some tropical bird that's lost its way. Perhaps it's hurt." "I haven't any bird books right at hand. I'll send to the reading-room. Hold the wire, please!" After an interval the messenger returned from the reading-room. "He says it's a Crow." "A Crow!" exclaimed Miss Patterson. "A Crow?" echoed Mrs. Mayo at the other end of the wire. "That's impossible! I know Crows. Why this has a ruff and a magnificent red——"

A long wait ensued, but after fifteen minutes the assistant reference librarian and Mrs. Mayo were again in communication. "We think it may be a Californian Grebe—we can't say positively. But, if it has tufts behind the ears, it might be the White-legged Hoopoe. But Mr. Reginald Kookle happens to be in the library, and we've asked him." "What, the author of Winged Warblers of Waltham?' What does he say?" "He's not sure, but he's much interested. He has already started for your house." "Oh, that will be perfectly lovely! Thank you so much! Good-bye!"

Mr. Kookle, the eminent writer on birds, approached Mrs. Mayo's house carefully from the rear, since the mysterious stranger was on the front lawn. Mr. Kookle was dressed in his famous brown suit, in perfect harmony with the colour of dead grass, to render him as nearly as possible invisible against the snowless winter landscape. He had his field-glasses already levelled on the syringa-bush, when Mrs. Mayo greeted him, "Right there, do you see, Mr. Kookle?" "Yes, I see him all right." A light mist hung over the wet grass. The interesting stranger sat near the ground, with his feathers much ruffled and his back towards his observers. It was possible even at that distance to see the magnificent crimson crest. "I suspected it." "What? What is it?" asked Mrs. Mayo eagerly. "Madam, I envy you! You have the distinction of being the first observer of the only specimen of the Bulbus clariscus giganticus ever known to come north of the fourteenth parallel." Mrs. Mayo was moved nearly to tears. "Are you sure?" "If I could only get a nearer view of his feet—I will make a detour from your drive—you approach from the house."

The strategic movement began, stealthily, until they stood opposite, with the syringa-bush between them. The bird now took an interest in the proceedings. He raised his head, uttering a peculiar hoarse note that sounded like "Craw-w-w!" Mr. Kookle and Mrs. Mayo stopped, electrified. Then the bird hopped out of the bush, giving vent to this remarkable song—"Cut, cut, cut, cut, ker dar-cut! Ker-dar-cut!" It gave some more raucous squawks, flew over the fence, ran across the road, and joined the other Black Minorca fowls in Higgin's yard. Mrs. Mayo entered the house; Mr. Kookle returned his field-glasses to the case, turned up the collar of his famous brown coat, and walked rapidly away!

DO YOU WANT TO MAKE MONEY?

A chance for every bird-keeper and breeder during 1913.

SEIZE IT AT ONCE!

If the cage-bird shows that have been held already this season are anything to go by, it is probable that after the great Crystal Palace show in February next we shall be able to look back upon 1912-13 as having been a record.

Certain it is that the splendid hobby of bird-keeping is on the up-grade; those who have studied CAGE BIRDS must hold this opinion strongly. The 1912-13 show season will be looked back upon with pleasure by those (and there are hundreds of new names) who have secured honours in the lists, and it is this that will secure for CAGE BIRDS ANNUAL for 1913 a huge sale, because, in the contents of this most handy reference book for bird-lovers will be included the only complete review of all varieties during the present show season, and the only list of winning exhibitors. Exhibitors of British, Mules, and Hybrids, and of every variety of Canary and of foreign birds will read this feature with avidity.

Now how does this affect breeders? Well, as the interest in the hobby of bird-keeping grows, so the demand for exhibition and stock birds increases; and among the most prolific buyers are the thousands of breeders and exhibitors and prospective exhibitors who will turn to the ANNUAL for guidance. Thus, those breeders who can meet the demands for good birds that this record show season must inevitably create, will derive enormous benefit from an advertisement or "breeder's card" appearing in the review of whatsoever variety they cater for. This card will give persistent, persuasive, publicity during the whole of next year, and the outlay necessary is very small. A one-inch "card" (one inch deep and 4½ inches across) only costs 5s., and a half-inch card 2s. 6d.; cash with order. Space being limited, all progressive breeders should send their orders along immediately. A 5s. card will entitle the advertiser to a free copy of the ANNUAL.

Remember; the hobby of bird-keeping can be made to yield substantial profits if you will take all the opportunities. And advertising in CAGE BIRDS ANNUAL for 1913 will prove one of the best. Rates for page or smaller spaces are very moderate; note the announcement elsewhere in this issue; or write for particulars.

A Rare Lot.

One of those zoological rarities—the egg of the long-extinct Great Auk—which occasionally find their way into the auction room, was recently offered for sale in London. At the present time there are not more than seventy specimens of this egg known to collectors, and the highest recorded price at which one of them has changed hands in recent years has been over 300 guineas. The history has been attended with a good deal of romantic interest. In 1865 the late Professor Newton, the famous naturalist, discovered a splendid set of ten in the rooms of the Royal College of Surgeons, and so little was known of them that the box in which they were contained was labelled "Penguin's Eggs." One also which fetched over 300 guineas some years ago was bought at a furniture sale in Kent by a youth, who brought it back to London with another strapped on the back of his bicycle, unaware that they were the valuable product of the long-extinct bird.

WHITBURN C.B.S.

Seventh annual show held Dec. 7 in the Town Hall. Unfortunately, owing to the dull day, the light was very bad; the judges, however, did their best under the circumstances. The executive are a splendid band of workers, and did their utmost to please all. Mr Lambie, the secretary, had everything in order, but we are sorry to say the entries were down somewhat from last year, particularly in the Norwich Section. British and Borders made a grand display, some fine exhibits being on view. Mr. R. Martin (Kirkintilloch) judged the Norwich Section; Mr. J. Thomson (Newtongrange), Borders; and Mr. James Strachen (Bathgate), Britishers. Very little grumbling was heard over their respective awards. The Ure Cup was won by Mr. H. Bennett for most points with six nominated birds, also the B.F.C.C. medal with a grand Border staged to perfection. Novice Border medal confined to the parish went to Mr. W. Lambie; Norwich ditto, Mr. Reid. Spl for most points over Nor. Section, Mr. Lambie; ditto British, Mr. R. Gentleman; runners-up, Stewart and Dalling; spl best nov. Brit. confined to parish, Mr. R. Allen. There were no catalogues of awards this year, which made the situation very awkward for visitors on the look-out for purchases.

Competitor's Name and Full Address.....

One Guinea (Cash) for the Reader who successfully names them.

The six drawings seen above are pictorial representations of the names of six birds, Canaries, British, and Foreign, which are well-known to all our readers. We offer a cash prize of One Guinea to the reader who correctly fills in the names of these birds in the spaces provided underneath the pictures. All competitors must observe the following conditions or their efforts will be disqualified.

THE RULES TO BE OBSERVED.

(1) The names of the birds must be clearly written in the spaces provided.

(2) Only one name must appear in each space.

(3) Competitors can send in two or more attempts, but each attempt must be made on a separate form cut from a copy of CAGE BIRDS.

(4) The name and address of the sender must in all cases be given in full.

(5) In case of two or more competitors guessing the six birds correctly, their names will be written on slips of paper, the latter placed in a hat, and one slip drawn out by some independent person, and the name appearing on the slip so selected shall be the name of the winner of the guinea prize.

(6) All solutions must reach us on or before Friday, January 3rd next, or they will be too late to compete.

(7) Entries are accepted only on the understanding that the Editor's decision shall be final.

NOTE.—In the unlooked-for event of no competitor correctly guessing the six birds, the prize will go to the competitor whose form gives the greatest number correct (subject to rule 5 in case of ties).

OAKHAM.

Annual show held in the Poultry Hall. There were only five classes for cage birds owing to lack of classification, and there was a very poor entry. If the society would open out and provide more classes they would get far better results. Mr. O. Smart was down to judge, but owing to illness Mr. F. Martin officiated.

ABERSYCHAN & DIST. C.B.S.

First show held at the Co-operative Hall, in a very cosy room, with good light, and free from draughts. Mr. Sweeting, the sec., had everything in apple-pie order, and with a capable band of stewards such as Messrs. Cleaves, Crouch, Parry, Walters, Sweet, Workman, and Cooper, the society is likely to prove a greater success in the future, as entries came up well for the first attempt. Mr. J. R. Houghton made the awards, which gave general satisfaction.

TONYPANDY.

The first show of the Mid-Rhondda C.B.S. was held at Tonypandy, December 11, in the large room of the White Hart Hotel. The quality in most of the classes was first-class, Yorks. and British especially, and the competition was keen. The exhibits were nicely staged, and were well looked after by a strong committee of keen fanciers. In the members' classes were some nice birds, but we would suggest that these classes be somewhat curtailed another year, and the system of duplicating entries be avoided. When birds are entered in two or three classes confusion is exceedingly likely to occur, especially where specials are concerned, and delay is inevitable. Mr. Legg, the hon. sec., had matters well in hand, and was most courteous to all. The awards were made by Mr. J. H. Payne to the satisfaction of everybody.

SWANAGE.

The cage bird Fancy is not strong in Dorsetshire, therefore we did not expect to see many entries at Swanage on Dec. 11th; but we were pleased to find an improvement on last year's quality. The show was held in the Drill Hall, the cage birds being staged in one of the ante-rooms, and very comfortable and happy they looked. Mr. R. E. Cann made a most efficient and courteous secretary, and he was ably backed up by a strong committee. Mr. C. A. House judged, and his decisions gave general satisfaction.

CARNARVON.

North Wales C.B. Society's second annual show held December 7, in the Assembly Rooms, Market Street. The room was well adapted for the purpose, and the attendance very fair. The entries totalled 315 in the 25 classes, 44 Canaries A.V., nominated for the challenge cups, 19 for the Mule or Hybrid cup, and 26 for the British cup. Yorkshires opened the show, and a grand lot were on view, competition being very keen in this section. Norwich mustered well, and the winners were of exceptional merit. Borders were also a neat lot, and fairly well filled. The Goldfinch classes were an excellent lot, also the British and Mules. The Foreign made a good class, and some cheap ones were in the Selling classes. Novice classes were also well to the fore. The arrangements were excellent. The officials are a hard-working body. President Mr. H. R. Brown, Vice-President Mr. J. L. Pyke, who were present, took a great interest in the society; also Chairman Mr. James Jones; vice-chairman, Mr. George Jones; treasurer, Mr. R. E. Griffiths; committee, Messrs. R. Angel, R. Green, J. W. Jones, Edward Jones, J. O. Parry, J. L. Sweeney, R. W. Taylor, and the energetic secretary, Mr. J. Wynne Parry, all being worthy of their positions, and seemed to work very well together. The Canary challenge cup was won outright by Mr. W. Nolan, with his well-known Yorks. and Norwich Mule or Hybrid, cup by Mr. R. E. Griffith, with "Carnarvon Hero" and "Welsh Prince." Mr. W. A. Cowgill, Bradford, made the awards, which were well received.

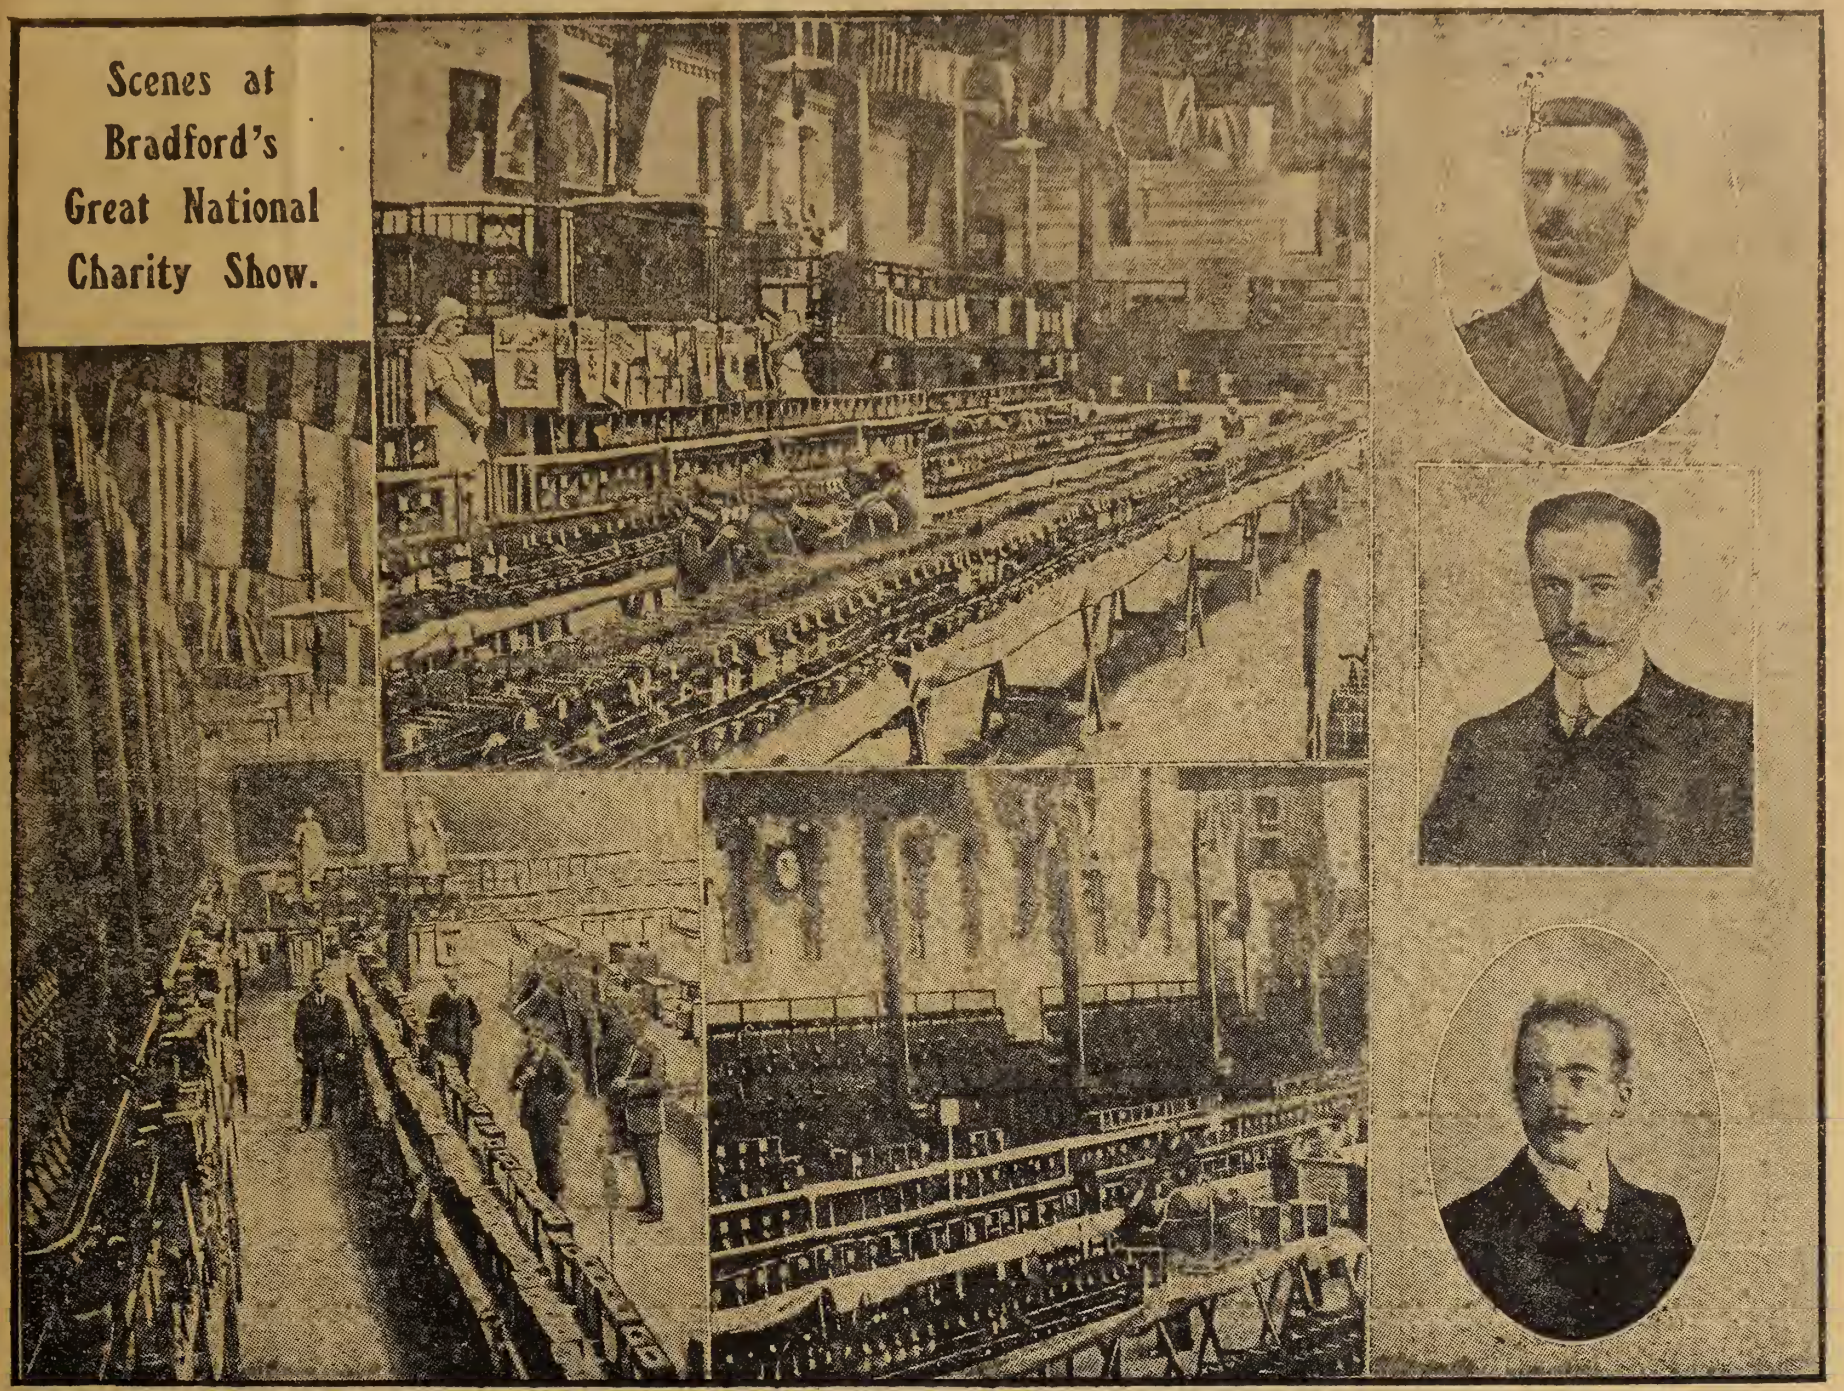
HYSON GREEN (Notts.) C.B.S.

This society wound up its show season successfully at headquarters, "Cricket Players," Lindsay Street, December 7. A nice array of birds was on exhibition. Norwich were a fine lot, whilst Crests, British, etc., though poor in numbers, excelled in quality. The gift class provided fine sport, as eight useful prizes were generously given by enthusiastic members and friends, for which there were 11 entries, the birds being sold for the benefit of the society. Mr. T. Pyatt kindly obliged again as hon. auctioneer, and though the company was small, this talented gentleman drew forth a goodly sum. The cup winners are as last year, viz.: Nor. Mr. Sharpe, Crests Mr. White, Brit., etc., Mr. Hayter. Messrs. Sharpe and Hayter tied for top special, with Mr. Barnes a good third. Mr. T. Barker placed the awards, which were generally satisfactory.



NOR., CL., ETC., YELL.: 1, Sharpe, big bouncing cl., easily 1st; 2, Boaler, good sized, well mkd. bird, some thought should have given way to 3, Royce, good big cl., better in head and neck. WALSALL AND DIST. C.B.S.

Second annual show at the "White Harte" Hotel, Nov 30. Nearly 100 birds were staged and competition was very keen, especially in British classes, and grand teams were staged by Messrs. Barrett, Platt, Lines, Gibbons, Onions, Spencer, and Price. Mr. F. J. Weaver (Wolverhampton) judged, and his awards were well received. The capable secretary, Mr. F. Price had his work well in hand, and the show proved a great success.

THE BRADFORD NATIONAL CHARITY SHOW.

A Huge Success. 1420 Entries. A Triumph of Enthusiasm and Magnificent Management.

Yorkshire Canaries reach the astonishing total of 756, Many Rare and Beautiful British and Foreign Birds.

A success altogether unprecedented was achieved by the executive of the Bradford National Cage Bird show at its second exhibition which was held in the Central Baths at "Worstedopolis" on Dec. 6 and 9. It seems almost beyond belief that at one show there should have been gathered such a mammoth total as 756 of one variety of Canary. It speaks volumes for the breeders of the popular and graceful bird of the county of the White Rose, that they should have been able at almost the end of the season to bring together such a wonderful collection. And be it remembered that the collection comprised the flower of the variety. All the prominent studs of the county of Broad Acres contributed to this astounding result. Truly a great achievement in the sacred cause of charity.

What Working Men Can Do.

Of the immensity of the task undertaken by the committee some idea may be gained when it is remembered that the entries only closed four days before the opening of the show. That the work was all done, and done successfully, without a hitch, proves that the organisation must have been as perfect as human thought and skill could make it. In considering how great this achievement really was, it must be remembered that it was not accomplished by a staff of trained and skilled clerks, not by a band of business men, but by earnest, enthusiastic working men fanciers, many of whom leave home at five o'clock in the morning for the mills, factories and warehouses, and do not return till six or seven at night. One hardly knows which to wonder at the most, the workers, or the result of their labours. The whole thing is indeed astounding, and we can but look and wonder. No words of ours can convey what we feel, or what we should like to say about such self-sacrificing efforts, such wonderful organisation, such attention to detail, and such enthusiasm. All honour to such men.

Who were they? How did they bring about such results? These are questions which many of our readers will ask. We give their names, and in giving them show how by division of labour, by concentration on the work allotted to each, they achieved such a striking success. At the head of the executive, as chairman, was that good fancier Mr. H. H. Towers, and his colleagues who attended to the different sections of the work in connection with this unequalled, and altogether magnificent event were as follows:—Executive Committee: Messrs. W. A. Cowgill, R. Halliday, F. W. Norris, W. Crabtree, F. Hammond, H. Simonett, H. J. Chittenden, H. Hill, H. H. Towers, S. Dean and J. Lane. Show Stewards: Messrs. W. B. Atkinson, J. Chippindale, W. Laycock, Crabtree, F. Archer, L. Dykes, W. Stahles, Lane, Chittenden, J. Greaves, J. A. Taylor, G. R. Rushworth, C. Cowgill, Halliday and J. Overend. Railway Committee: Messrs. J. Farrar, J. W. Kaberry, L. Ogden, J. R. Taylor, T. H. Inman, H. Gornall, H. Grange, F. Rhodes, G. White, T. Ogden, A. Huddleston, Lane, J. Rhodes, R. Wilkinson, W. Long, J. Holroyd, A. Morley, G. Riley, C. E. Walker and H. Long. Sales Committee: Messrs. W. B. Atkinson, C. Cowgill, Dean, Hammond, H. Martin, Rhodes. Staging Committee: Messrs. W. Crabtree, J. Rhodes, F. Rhodes, C. Cowgill, T. Tidswell, J. W. Kaberry, Chittenden, J. W. Whitwham, Inman, R. Wilkinson. Advertisement Committee: Messrs. W. E. Dent, T. Ogden, Farrar, Simonett, Grange, F. Rhodes, Gornall, White and Lane. To these must be added the good "slave" of the Yorkshire Fancy, Mr. F. Hammond, who acted as treasurer, Mr. H. Simonett, the assistant secretary, and Mr. H. Hill the secretary. A noble band, a splendid crew, one and all worthy of the highest encomiums that may be lavished upon them.

The Central Baths is a magnificent building for such a show; it is lofty, has a good top light, is beautifully warm and free from draughts. It was gaily decorated with flags and bannerets, and presented quite a festive appearance. Staged at a most convenient height, the exhibits were as happy and comfortable as in their own cages at home. No less than 343 exhibitors supported the show, and in connection with this we may say that every exhibitor, as well as each exhibit, was numbered, and as the exhibits arrived and were unpacked the exhibitor's number was affixed to the case or hamper and it also appeared opposite his name in the catalogue index. Ten judges were engaged. Messrs. J. C. Barnes, H. W. Battye, W. A. Cowgill, F. Finn, A. Hirst, C. A. House, J. Maddison, W. Massey, W. Mundell and J. Robson. Their selections seemed to be received with general approval.

Distinguished Guests at the Opening Ceremony.

The opening ceremony was performed by the Lord Mayor (Ald. Fred Foster, J.P.). Sir George Scott Robertson, K.C.S.I., M.P. for Central Bradford, had kindly consented to take the chair, but owing to the pressure of Parliamentary duties was unable to get away from London, and his place was taken by Mr. H. C. Derwent, the chairman of the Bradford Cinderella Club Committee, who was supported on the platform by the Lord Mayor and Lady Mayoress, Miss Hilda and Miss Gladys Foster, Mr. H. H. Towers (President of the show Executive), Mr. W. Gill (Secretary of the Cinderella Club), Mr. H. Hill (Secretary), Mr. H. Simonett (Assist. Sec.), Mr. R. Halliday and Mr. C. A. House.

Mr. Derwent, in introducing the Lord Mayor, referred in appreciative terms to the support given by the Society to the Cinderella Club, which existed to help the poorest children of the city, irrespective of creed, and to alleviate their suffering. When the show was inaugurated last year the Society kindly contributed £50, and on behalf of the officers of the Club he thanked them for that gift. The money could not be given to a more deserving institution, and whatever the balance this year—he understood they were more ambitious—it would be put to good uses. In conclusion he said the inauguration of that exhibition in Bradford was a progressive step, and they hoped the show would grow year by year. (Applause.) He had been privileged to attend one of their meetings, and more wholehearted enthusiasm he had never seen, whilst as to their methods the success achieved told its own story.

The Lord Mayor, in declaring the show open, said that was the first exhibition of the kind he had visited, and he was delighted with it. He had been simply amazed with the variety of birds. He was told it was the finest show outside London, and those who visited it could quite believe it. He was astonished at what he had seen, and he could not understand how such diminutive objects as cage birds could be kept in such wonderful condition. Their owners must brush and comb them—small tooth comb them—very carefully. His knowledge of such subjects was very limited. He had learnt much that day of the care and attention bestowed upon cage birds by the working men fanciers of the city, and he was delighted to come there, and by his presence assist them in the good work they had undertaken. The object of their show was a very commendable one, and he was sure that any money subscribed to the Cinderella Club was very well spent. Were the rich people of Bradford to send £5 or a £10 note to the funds of the Club this Christmas they would gladden the hearts of scores of poor children and be no worse off themselves.

Secretary's Tribute to his Colleagues.

In moving a vote of thanks to the Lord Mayor, Mr. C. A. House said he was proud to know that Bradford fanciers were the first in England to do something for that cause which the Cinderella Club had so much at heart. He had never seen in any show outside London such quality of exhibits as was being shown that day, and so far as the foreign section was concerned they had birds which had not even been seen at the Crystal Palace. Mr. Finn had expressed himself as being astounded at the wonderful quality of the birds. He hoped that although this was the first bird show the Lord Mayor had visited it would not be the last, but that for many years he would continue to visit the show, and bring past and future Lord Mayors with him to encourage the fanciers of the city in continuing the good work in which they were engaged. Mr. H. H. Towers seconded the vote, and it was carried with acclamation. Mr. R. Halliday proposed, and Mr. Gill seconded a vote of thanks to Mr. Derwent. In supporting it Mr. Hill spoke of the energy, enthusiasm, and loyal-hearted way in which the members of the Show Committee had supported him in his labours. He, personally, had done his best, but the large measure of success had been achieved by the self-denying manner in which the Committee had taken up the work, and had laboured to bring it to a successful issue.

On the Saturday, before a crowded audience, the exhibition was opened by Lady Priestley, wife of Sir W. E. B. Priestley, when the chair was taken by Ald. J. Arnold. Saturday's gathering assured the venture of success, and we hope to hear that the efforts of the promoters have resulted in an even larger sum than last year's £30 being handed over to the deserving charity in whose interests the show was run. A great crowd of well-known fanciers was to be seen in the show-room and we noticed that the popular manager of the Crystal Palace exhibited, Mr. J. W. Runnalden (who had with him Mrs. Runnalden) was taking a keen and sympathetic interest in the proceedings.

Our final note must be a personal, a very personal, one. In all such efforts there must of necessity be one strong personality at the head of affairs, one who has the power of organising, directing, and controlling. That man in this case was Mr. H. Hill. To him are fanciers indebted for the National Show; but for him the movement would not have been started. We hear much nowadays of the commercial side of the Fancy, but that the true fancier's spirit still exists is shown by the work which Mr. Hill does for his fellows, and that under great difficulties. He leaves home every morning about five o'clock, and it is often seven or eight before he is back at night. Yet under such circumstances he does the secretarial work of the Bradford East O.S., a society with a membership approaching the century, and which holds three or four meetings a month; he is secretary of the Yorkshire Union of Cage Bird Societies, the work of which is no light task; and in addition to all this he boldly tackles and brings to a successful issue the largest show ever seen in the county of Yorkshire. How does he do it? By working strictly to method, leaving nothing to chance, and by great concentration of energy. On Friday morning after superintending the in checking of the exhibits, seeing that the stewards were all at their posts, he at once began to make his preparations for the payment of prize money, making up his totals as the judges' slips reached him. On Saturday the prize money was ready for those who chose to take it. It is in no spirit of fulsome flattery that we speak of these things, but only to give honour where honour is due. If ever a man deserved well of his fellows that man is Mr. H. Hill. His work speaks for itself.

CHAMPION YORKSHIRES.
Mr. J. C. Barnes' Classes.

Champion Yorks. were the great feature of the show; and truly a glorious collection, the most superb and unique array ever seen. The "cracks" were present in full force, and fought great "bloodless" battles. Those who were lucky enough to attend the function saw the "cream of grace and beauty," birds of wonderful character, of great length, magnificently gowned, standing like Guardsmen, and staged by master hands, faultless in condition and of most marvellous order. It required a great effort to tear oneself away from creatures so beautiful, so fascinating and so bewitching. Competition bang through the whole section was as keen as "Colman's," and many birds amongst the "also ran" were quite capable of being voted heroes at the majority of shows. What a difficult task to be sure had Messrs. Barnes and Mundell, in separating them. Nevertheless they came up smiling appearing quite happy and content with their selections. Championship Diploma for best in classes 1-10 went to Messrs. Ogden Bros., with near on the best unflighted buff cock (thigh tick) seen benched for ages, shall we say the "Ideal" and leave it at that? This same wonder also accounted for spl. best unflighted, silver cup for best in show, spl. best in champion classes, and championship diploma for best Yorkie, quite a field day of highest honours. Mr. J. Bailey once again won well with his noted yell. cinn. mkd., without doubt the best living, and looking as well as ever and fit to fight for a kingdom; capturing the diploma. Mr. E. Clegg won well with a very smart unflighted buff hen, a most promising damsel. Special winners are as follows:—Best green mkd., Mr. L. Dykes, best opposite colour to spl. winner in open or novice, Mr. W. Broughton, best hen (open or novice) Mr. J. Thomas.

YORKS. CL. BUFF (23): Grand class. I, Radley (A), exquisite qual., delightful position, wonderful length, lovely back, fine wing carr., pipe tail, eye opener; 2, Bailey, straight as a gun barrel, feathered to perfection, long sided, beaten little in length only; 3, Tidswell, pos. and qual. all one could wish, full of style, best of backs, delightful car. of wings, real beauty; 4, Atkinson and Firth, capital feather and col., erect, good length plenty of leg, beaten a little in style here; vhc, Dykes, hc, Broughton; c, Clegg; No. 9 Simonett ab. TKD. BUFF (17): 1, Dyson, mkd. head and root of tail, charming position, marvellous length, as though chiselled out of marble and highly polished, gem of gems; 2, Radley, mkd. head, superbly clothed, stands like a guardsman, lengthy and full of nerve, clever legs, hardly the col.; 3, Whiteley, mkd. wing, straight as a rush, smooth as a bottle, capital col. and feather, plenty of thigh, not far away; 4, Dykes, cheek mkd., not a feather misplaced, beautiful back flights and tail, not of the biggest, but of the best; vhc, Sutcliffe and Son; hc, Shaw Bros.; c, Broughton. HEN (18): 1, Thornton and Bower, very bonny cl., perfect in position, fine length, lovely back, flights and tail, well on leg, staged to the moment; 2, vhc, c, Ogden Bros., trio of beauties, mkd. wing, good length and qual., delightful position, best of backs, neat car. of flights, wee bit thicker in waist; 3, Clegg, very stylish cl., superior feather, rare length, well up and on good legs, draws a little thin in neck, yet a gem; 4, Bailey, mkd. wing position, feather and style all one could wish, not overdone with size; hc, Brown and Son. UNFLI. BUFF (26): Rare class. I, and five spls. Ogden Bros., thigh tick, unique in position, neat and narrow, feathered to perfection, shows delightfully, magnificent back and wing carr., closely folded tail, a knock out; 2, Sutcliffe and Son, thigh tick, beautifully clothed, rich in col., dashing position, shade longer than winner, not quite so neat in waist, yet another "topper"; 3, vhc, Charlesworth, mkd. wing, sweetly moulded, clinking position, perfect back and wing car., not far behind; 4, Towers, more length, A.1. qual. and col., stands well on clever legs, loses a little in style; hc, Thomas; c, Lunn. HEN (22): 1, Clegg, cl., wonderful outline, tight as a Java, rare length, rattling back and wing carr.; 2, Robertshaw, cl., smooth as wax, splendid position, capital back, neat wings and tail, well on leg; 3, Ellis, mkd. wing, qual. superb, very lengthy, grand type, plenty of leg, full of style, hardly so neat in expression of head; 4, Sutcliffe and Son, cl., shade shorter than those above, yet of fascinating character, and well worth its place; vhc, Thornton and Bower; hc, Ogden Bros.; c, Crabtree. YELL. GREEN MKD. (20): 1, Craven, mkd. wings and eyes, slim and upstanding, marvellous length, superior qual., and col., fine legs, quite a dandy; 2, Morrison, mkd. wing and cheeks, smooth as polished metal, lovely col., grand position, beaten in length only, gem; 3, Ogden Bros., mkd. wings and eyes, marvellous length, warm col., A.1. feather, well on leg, when handled pulls bit thin in neck, still a beauty; 4, Thomas, mkd. wing, breast, and eyes, full of fire, superior feather, delightful stand, capital back, flights and tail, shade less length; vhc, Chittenden; hc, Farrar; c, Thornton and Bower. No. 10 Dykes, soft, no doubt good one when right. EVEN. ETC., YELL. HEN (13): 1, Stobert, mkd. wing and eyes, rich tone of col., sweetly drawn, capital length, smooth as a Java, pretty as paint; 2, Dykes, mkd. wings and head, lengthy, superb feather, delightful position, well on leg, pressed hard; 3, Wilkinson Bros., mkd. wings and eyes, lovely condition, long sided, rattling back and wing carr., not quite so good in expression of head; 4, vhc, Ogden Bros., mkd. wing and head, capital length, straight as a gun barrel, clever legs; hc, Towers; c, Thomas. CINN. TKD. YELL. (14): 1, Bailey, mkd. wing and eye, ablaze in col., smooth as marble, perfect in almost every detail, admitted by experts to be the best living, truly a stormer; 2, Towers, mkd. wing and head, position, qual., length and style all that one could desire, hardly the richness of col., yet close on the heels of winner; 3, c, Ogden Bros., mkd. wing and head, wonder for length, straight up, well filled back, wing carr., neatness itself, beaten slightly in qual.; 4, Pickup and Son, mkd. wing and eyes, marvellous length, rattling qual. and col., nice stand, not far away; vhc, Thomas; hc, Brown and Son. YELL. HEN (12): 1, Allen, mkd. wings and eyes, feathered to perfection, lovely col., grand position and length, delightful style; 2, Ogden Bros., mkd. wings and eyes, teeming with qual. and col., slashing position, lovely back, flights and tail, good legs, not quite the size; 3, Towers, mkd. wing and head, capital feather, good length, nice back, neat carr. of flights, hardly so stylish, yet fine exhibit; 4, Mallinson and Son, mkd. wings and eyes, red hot, tight as a Java, true type, not so lengthy, worth its place; vhc, Moss; hc, Thomas; c, Morrison. EVEN YELL. (5): Poor class, this we were sorry to see, as the even mks. are perhaps the most handsome of all the varieties. 1, Armstrong, mkd. wings and eyes, longest in class, slim and upstanding, good markings, well on leg, bit thin in neck; 2, 3, King, cinn. mkd. wings and eyes, capital col. and feather, nice stand, on the short side, 3rd mkd. wings and eyes, again not the length, but nice outline, col., and feather; 4, Edmondson and Son, mkd. wings and eyes, A.1. qual. and col., fair size and markings; vhc, Farrar. FOUL MKD. (19): Good class. I, hc, Bennett, yell. green pied tail, superb feather, lovely col., slim and upstanding, rare length, plenty of leg, gem; 2, Clegg, buff var., smooth as wax, full of nerve, lovely col. and frosting, A.1. back and wing carr., well shown; 3, Crabtree, yell. var., well clothed, rich in col., stands like a soldier, not of the longest, but of the smartest; 4, Priestley, buff var., smooth as glass, stands well up, not overdone with length, yet all there otherwise; vhc, Walsh; c, Dykes. A.O.V. (5): 1, 2, 4, vhc, Radley and Son, choice quartette, leader magnificent buff green pied tail D.C., wealth of feather, capital subs., crest large and thickly thatched, delightful radiation, beautiful droop and centre, gem, 2nd buff mkd. C.B., abundance of feather, fine size, grand cushioned skull of rare width, finely lashed, 4th buff mkd. wings D.C., plenty of A.1. qual. feather, crest of good back and frontal, runs wee bit narrow, neat droop and centre; 3, Hattersley, White Canary, Border type, capital qual., nice condition, put down well, greatly scrutinized.

GREEN YORKSHIRES.
Judge, Mr. C. A. House.

The quartette of classes provided for these Northern favourites brought the good entry of fifty-eight, and a really grand lot they were. Competition was exceedingly keen, and there was very little between the first and last of the birds which caught the judge's eye. Messrs. Rowlands, McNulty, Metcalfe, Robinson, Walker, Simpson, Morement, Benson, and Riley all staged exhibits of most excellent type, combined with style, and richness of colour. The Buffs, cocks, pleased as more than any, and we were delighted to notice the freedom from bronziness and smokiness.

YELL. (17): 1, 4, Rowlands, fine head, neck, and shoulders, beautiful carr. of wing and tail, rich, bright col., grand shape and style; 4th, splendid rich, bright col., capital body feather, long, stylish, well-tapered body, not so smart in wing carr.; 2, Walker, long, slim-bodied bird, pied tail, neat head, splendidly coloured wings and tail, rich, sound col., hardly so silky in feather; 3, Benson, capital head, shoulders, and back, well piped tail, trifle slack in wing carriage, sound grass green col.; vhc, Robinson; hc, Morement; c, Moore. BUFF (16): 1, and Champ. Diploma, McNulty, wonderfully sound in col., free from smokiness and bronze, beautifully feathered, grand shape and length, gets well up on his legs, grand carr. of wings and tail, in rare form; 2, Simpson, pressed hard, grand length and shape, tapers well away, grand wing and tail carr., rich col., very nicely feathered, shows well; 3, vhc, Walker, hardly so bright in col., showing just a suspicion of bronziness, very nice head, wings, and tail, grand shaped and well feathered body, gets well up on leg; 4, c, Rowlands, splendid length and shape, fine head, grand back, wings and tail, gets well hold of perch, shows for all he is worth, just a shade stouter; hc, Handley. HEN, YELL. (14): 1, Metcalfe, wonderful length for a yell. hen, fine head, rare back, wings and tail, splendid, rich, grassy col., full of qual., gets well up on her legs, pied wings and tail; 2, Morement, not so much length, finely drawn, beautiful feather and col., neat head, grand wing and tail carr., in rare fettle; 3, McDermott, gem for col. and feather, grandly modelled, beautifully balanced wings, inclined to open tail, gets well up on a good pair of legs; 4, Robinson, nicely drawn body, capital head, wings and tail, splendid col., full of qual., does not stand quite so well when handled; vhc, Benson; hc, c, Handley. BUFF (11): 1, Robinson, pied wing and tail, grand shape and style, rare col., rich, deep, bright green, full of qual., neat head, good shoulders, nice clean run over back, stands well; 2, Riley, superior to winner in richness and brightness of colouring, grand head and neck, well-balanced wings and tail, very nicely feathered, not quite so stylish; 3, Benson, rather stouter in body beautifully feathered, lovely rich col., gets well up on a good pair of legs, shows well; 4, Simpson, splendid length, shape, and style, brilliantly rich in col., grand back, wings and tail, not quite so tight in front; vhc, Rowlands; hc, Townsend; c, Metcalfe.

OPEN NOVICE YORKSHIRES.
Judge, Mr. C. A. House.

In this section was found the largest class in the show, thirty-four unflighted birds, and a grand lot they were. But the two classes for Hens were even better, and from amongst them came the winner of the Championship Diploma—Mr. Crabtree's beautiful Ticked Yellow. By this win Mr. Crabtree loses his right to remain amongst the novitiates. Mr. Crabtree shou'd prove next season a thorn in the side of some of the older breeders. The weakest class of the section was that for Buff cocks. In this many of the exhibits showed a tendency to stoutness somewhat foreign to what is required in a high-class Yorkie. The five classes gave an average of over twenty two per class, so that the Open Novices made a good section, and the breeders are to be congratulated upon the birds.

YELL. (22): 1, G. Midgley, mkd. head, neck, and vent, not a handsomely mkd. bird, perhaps, but streets ahead in outline and slimness of body, grandly feathered, and nice col.; 2, Sutcliffe, slim and lengthy, heavily mkd. bird, fine head, splendid back, well-balanced wings and tail, gets well up on a grand pair of legs, just a bit thin in neck; 3, Brook and Oldfield, finely feathered clr., beautiful col., lovely head, grand back, wings, and tail, full of style, gets well up on legs, not quite so finely drawn in shoulders; 4, Lee, very long, racy, stylish clr., good; vhc, Farnish; hc, S. Midgley; c, Walker. BUFF (17): 1, Anderton, rather pale in col., but grand length, very fine and silky feather, grand head and back, capital carriage of wings and tail, stands well up on a good pair of legs, and handles well; 2, Naylor, not so much length of side, but very compactly carried wings and tail, magnificently feathered, carries more col., nice head and back; 3, Linford, smart and stylish, good head and shoulders, nice level back, well-balanced wings and tail, splendid position; 4, Sutcliffe, capital shape and style, fine head, neck, and shoulders, gets well up on leg, smart wing and tail carriage; vhc, Riley; hc, Shackleton; c, Fowle. HENS, YELL. (19): 1, and Championship Diploma, Crabtree, long, racy, wing tkd., beautiful head and neck, nicely moulded shoulders, grand level back, round and level in colour, light, compact, silky feather, in rare form; 2, Anderton, warm-coloured, thigh mkd., grand head and back, splendid car. of wings and tail, grandly feathered, stands like a soldier, not quite so slim; 3, Walker, charming cinn.-mkd., capital head and shoulders, beautifully balanced wings and tail, nice level back, very tight in feather, but not so well burnished; 4, Smith Bros., beautifully feathered, gets well up on her legs, hardly so rich in col., and a trifle shorter in body; vhc, Peace; hc, Sutcliffe; c, Pearson. BUFF (19): 1, Beaumont, fine head and neck, beautifully tapered wings and tail, tightly braced, and grandly carried, stands well, plenty of nerve, in A 1 form; 2, Craven, grand shape and length, good head, nice level back, capital wing and tail carr., but takes a bit of handling to get into position; 3, Fowle, smart, firm feathered, nicely drawn Cinn.-mkd., grand top end and well piped tail, not so smart in wings as she might be; 4, Sutcliffe, very long-sided, nicely tapered, cheek-mkd., beautifully feathered; vhc, hc, Ireland; c, Gregson. UNFLIG. (34): 1, Crabtree, long-sided buff wing-tkd., grand head and neck, very fine shoulders, rare wings and tail, beautiful, fine, silky feather, nice length of leg, stands like a soldier; 2, Ingham, very heavily mkd. yell., grand type, quality from end to end, full of col., grand shoulders, wings and tail, rare legs and position, but not quite tight in front; 3, Naylor, rare shaped clr. yell., capital head and neck, finely braced shoulders, nice level back, splendid position, full of quality, and grandly shown; 4, Pearson, wonderfully built Buff, magnificently feathered, neat head, grandly piped tail, but would not get up so well as others; vhc, Fowle; hc, Snead; c, S. Midgley.

BORDER FANCIES.
Judge, Mr. H. W. Battye.

Lovers of the neat and natty Border Fancy did not give that support to the exhibition which had been expected, and five of the nine classes had to be cancelled, amongst them, strangely enough, four which should have filled the best—those for Yellow and Buff cocks and hens—and the Evenly Marked. Mr. Johnstone's team of Greens and Cinnamons were much admired, and deserved to be, as was Mr. Pearson's almost four-pointed buff, which won the Championship Diploma. We hope that next year the Border men will see to it that this section is more adequately and generously supported.

VARIEG. (5): 1, vhc, and Champ. Diploma, Pearson, very handsome four-pointed buff, with a run on shoulder, lovely feather, splendid shape and style, full of qual.; 2, 3, Davidson, 2nd, eye, head, and wing-mkd. yell., very slim and stylish, grandly balanced wings and tail, beautiful, silky feather; 3rd, four-pointed buff, cheek and silky, grand shape and style, not quite so steady; 4, Large, nice head

GREEN YELL. (5): 1, 2, Johnston, 1st, grand head, back, wings, and tail, lovely col. and feather, full of style; 2nd, sound col., very finely drawn, rare shape and style, lovely wings and tail, not quite so fine in body feather; 3, Middleton; beautiful col. and feather, rare wings and tail, very showy and stylish, little stouter in chest, in grand form; 4, Hay, grand shape and style, beautifully feathered right through, splendid wings and tail, bit light on thighs; vhc, Williams, absent. 1, Pope; 3, Ellwood. BUFF (6): 1, hc, Johnston, bonnie little bird, sweet head, grand back, wings and tail, lovely col., grand qual., in rare form; 2, Montgomery, rather stouter, grand head, back, wings and tail, rich, grassy col., beautiful feather and style; 3, vhc, Ridley, sweet head, capital wings and tail, beautiful col., grand feather, more of the old fashioned type; 4, Hay, splendid carr., good back, wings, and tail, in grand fettle.

NORWICH PLAINHEADS.

Judge, Mr. J. Robson.

The Norwich were a very charming lot; symmetry and quality of a delightful order, wonderful substance, and colour of the hottest nature were to be observed in most of the classes. What an eye opener was the clear buff cock, the property of Mr. J. E. Davies! We never remember seeing a buff so hot in colour before, lovely feather shining like satin, perfect in shape, and "oh, the size," and of the most dainty carriage; one to be remembered for many a long day. The tkd. buff cock owned by Mr. W. Jonnson, found hosts of admirers, being "hot enough to set his happy home on fire," and of marvellous merit all over, a gem of gems. The unflgn. yell. and buff, staged successfully by Messrs. W. Wrigley, and W. E. Seed, respectively, are "knock-outs," and another year with luck will be hard nuts to crack. Mr. S. Cock once again took premier honours in the yell. hen class, with his noted dainty damsel; and Mr. J. Thomas placed on view a most charming little lady in the buff hen class. Amongst the novices were some rattling exhibits. In fact, many possessed merit quite sufficient to gain the "top pegs" in very keen competition. Greens although not over numerous, contained some "good uns." Specials were gained as follows: Championship diploma, best Nor., Mr. J. E. Davies, also best in show; diploma, best Nor. green, Mr. V. H. Deacon; best amateur's, Mr. H. Kitchen; best Nov., Mr. J. A. Kerberry.

CL. YELL. (8): 1, 4, Davies, fine brace, former like a ball of fire, magnificent feather, grand symmetry, lovely carr., real eye opener; 4, rattling qual., extremely bonny; 2, Proctor, very shapely, capital subs., A1 qual., not so warm in col., good carr.; 3, Humphries, teeming with qual. and col., good size, neat head, neck, and chest, smart wing carr.; vhc, Mallinson and Son; hc, Vardy; c, Thomas. BUFF (14): 1, sp, Davies, well nigh unbeatable hero, looking better than ever, many envious eyes were cast upon this most amazing beauty, truly a topper; 2, Thomas, superb feather, rich in col., delightful shape and carr., not quite so bold in build, yet fascinating, and close up; 3, Heap, beautifully fed and clothed, lovely head and neck, shade longer in harrel, smart carr. of flights, clean sweep; 4, Proctor, smooth as wax, A1 col., nice subs., moves well; vhc, Wrigley; hc, Ball; c, Chambers. TK. YELL. (10): 1, Wrigley, mkd. wing, marvellous size, ablaze with col., rattling shape, graceful movement; 2, Raynes, thigh and wing mkd., even more col., delightful feather, well up in subs., hardly so chubby, yet a gem; 3, Heap, tkd. eye, hot as a stove, plenty of size, capital qual., loses a little in outline, nice carr., worth its place; 4, Davies, mkd. wings and head, ablaze with col., silky feather, grand head, neck, and chest, somewhat square behind to-day; vhc, Mallinson and Son; hc, Humphries; c, Thomas. BUFF (14): 1, Johnson, mkd. wings and head, round as a ball, wonderful subs., slashing feather, neatly frosted, best of carr., gem of gems; 2, Vardy, mkd. eyes, Ilkeston winner and Preston 2nd, pressed very hard, a delightful specimen, in the pink; 3, Humphries, mkd. wing and head, full of fire, superb feather, A1 type, crosses wing sometimes, which tells against it; 4, Simonett, lightly var., sweetly moulded, superior qual. and col., jaunty carr., worth its place; vhc, Wrigley; hc, Davies; c, Cook. YELL. UNFLI. (16): 1, Wrigley, well know cl., close on the best out, truly a "knock out," and a stormer, wins well; 2, Proctor, cl., beaten in head character slightly, equal or thereabouts in all other points, absolutely perfect condition, a treat; 3, Miss A. Scott (Bravo the ladies), cl., superb feather and col., very shapely, delightful carr., not quite the subs.; 4, Parlett, bouncing cl., fine qual. and col., very promising; vhc, c, Thomas; hc, Pickles. BUFF (10): 1, Seed, giant of a cl., exquisite qual., gorgeous col., gem for shape, dainty carr., found many friends; 2, Wrigley, beautifully moulded, cl., brimful of col. and qual. richly frosted, beaten in size only; 3, Hirst, lightly var., short and thick-set, capital feather, not overdone with subs. or col., should make up all right with a good moult; 4, Parlett, cl., rare size, A1 col. and qual., good head, neck, and chest; vhc, Heap; hc, Crawshaw; c, Hayhurst. YELL. HEN (12): 1, Cook, cl., giantess, not a feather misplaced, symmetry of the very best, lovely col. and carr.; 2, Thomas, lightly var., heaps of col., grand shape and size, capital carr., clean cut away; 3, Hirst, mkd. wing and head, delightful feather, light as a Java, not quite so large; 4, Clegg, very shapely, grand qual., cl., lovely carr. of flights, neat tail, clean cut, falls a little in col.; vhc, Ball; hc, Vardy; c, Heap. BUFF (16): grand class: 1, 2, Thomas, brace of clinking clears, leader, magnificent feather and col., beautiful shape and carr., well up in size; 3, short and thick set, rich col., sweet movement, not quite so massive in stature; 2, Vardy, mkd. wings and head, smooth as wax, rare shape and subs., capital col. and creating, Ilkeston winner, looking a picture; 4, Cook, grand model of a cl., feathered to perfection, plenty of subs., lovely col. and frosting, very charming; vhc, hc, Heap; c, Pickles. NAT. COL. CK. (7): 1, Wrigley, cl. yell., wonderful subs., splendid shape, qual., and col., great carr.; 2, Davies, var. buff, a monster, delightful shape, superbly clothed, richly fed, in the pink; 3, 4, Thomas, cl. yell., of good size and shape, A1 col., not so tight in feather as might be, but nice carr.; 4, yell., mkd. wings and eye, not quite so thick through, but good subs., qual., and col., moves well; vhc, c, Hayhurst; hc, Raynes. HEN: void. NOR. GREEN SELF or FOUL YELL. (12): 1, Lawson, self, well up in size, shone like satin, grand shape and carr., delightful col.. 2, Walker, foul, sweetly moulded, rattling subs. and col., A1 feather, neat carr., very close up; 3, 4, Harding, foul and self; 3, shapely, capital col. and qual., not one of the biggest, but one of the best; 4, rare subs., col., and feather, good shape, not put up high a condition as might be; vhc, Metcalfe; hc, Deacon; c, Bloor. BUFF (15): 1, Hankey, foul, full of col. and qual., rattling shape and size, grand carr.; 2, Harding, foul, shapely, A1 qual., rich col., nice size, hardly so thick in front, yet close up; 3, c, Walker, foul, smaller, teeming with qual. and col., neat carr., full of true character; 4, Lawson, self, A1 qual. and col., well up in size, loses a little in symmetry, longer in barrel, wings, and tail; vhc, Seed; hc, Walker. YELL. HEN (6): 1, sp, Deacon, self, round as a ball, magnificent qual. and col., rattling subs. and carr., real stormer; 2, Malone, tightly feathered, self, good subs. and col., not so cobby, but clean cut away; 3, Handley, self, shapely, delightful col. and qual., light as a Java, neatness itself; 4, Lawson, foul, A1 col and size, capital qual., good head, neck, and chest, little loose behind; vhc, Metcalfe, hc, Walker. BUFF (10): 1, c, Lawson, self, a bouncer, teeming with qual., superb col., grand shape, graceful mover; 2, Dormer, self, wonderful col. and qual., very shapely, A1 carr., hardly the size; 3, vhc, Harding, self, capital qual. and col., well up in size, not so deep fronted, yet bonny lady; 4, Walker, foul, rare feather and col., true type; hc, Malone. AMAT. NOR. YELL. (7): 1, Blease and Son, capitally fed, cl., smooth as glass, cobby in build, nice size and carr., well staged; 2, Fielding, finely feathered, cl., full of col., good head and neck, rather longer in barrel flights and tail; 3, vhc, Grey, cl., rare substance, full of col., nice feather, little heavy behind, yet good one; 4, Wilford, red hot cl., tight as a Java, sweet carr.; hc, Kitchen; c, Jones. BUFF (12): 1, sp, Kitchen, massive var., lovely qual. and col., neatly frosted, jaunty carr., capable of winning many champion classes; 2, Barton, mkd. neck, richly fed, well up in subs. and nicely clothed, moves grandly, wee bit longer; 3, Bailey, cl., full of fire, A1 qual., nice size, hardly so good in shape, wants bit more chest; 4, Fielding, very fine, lightly var., rare subs. and col., sweet shape, clean sweep, some thought might have gone up one; vhc, Worthington; hc, Stafford; c, Roe. YELL. HEN (11): 1, Fielding, mkd. eyes, short and thick set, not a feather misplaced, rich tone of col., beauty right through 2, Hattersley, well fed. cl., good subs., silky feather, neat head and neck; 3, c, Stafford, very shapely, cl., A1 qual., col., and carr., not far behind; 4, Worthington, cobby, thigh tick, rattling col. and feather; vhc, Huggins. BUFF (14): 1, Bennett, charming, cl., superb feather and col., slashing shape, well up in size, 1912 bred, extremely promising; 2, 4, Barton, cl., gem for shape, feather, and col., not the subs. of winner, grand carr.; 4, var, plenty of subs., A1 col. and qual., neatly frosted, good shape, bit wanting in head and neck; 3, Fielding, lightly var., cobby, and jaunty in carr., full of qual. and col., nice size, one we liked; vhc, Blease and Son; hc, Roe; c, Rhodes. UNFLIG. YELL. (12): 1, Harris, grandly fed cl., delightful feather, rare shape, and carr., should make up into a very fine specimen; 2, Fielding, richly clothed cl., sweetly moulded, not the size, yet neatness itself, worth its place; 3, vhc, Huggins, hy. mkd., short and thick set, ablaze in col., A1 qual., graceful mover, very close up; 4, Kitchen, mkd. wing, head, and neck, good in col. and qual., grand shaped body, wanting a little in head and neck; hc, Rhodes; c, Midgley. BUFF (10): 1, Fielding, tkd. eyes, superb qual., col., well up in subs., rattling shape, full of true character, beauty; 2, Worthington, var., rich col., A1 feather, nice size and shape, not quite so full fronted; 3, Stafford, lightly var. short and thick set, superior feather, nice tone of col., not the biggest, but of the best; 4, Grey, cl., plenty of subs., good in col. and qual., vhc, Blease and Son; hc, Midgley; c, Plowright.

CINNAMONS.

Judge, Mr. H. W. Battye.

Cinnamons made a good display, one of the best we have seen for some time, and they were well handled by Mr. Battye. Mr. Dormer's old champion Yellow easily secured the Championship Diploma, an award that admitted of no cavilling. Mrs. Deacon staged a grand team, and it did not go empty away. The Unflighted class contained a lot of most promising youngsters, birds of good type and excellent colour properties, and the tussle for the leading positions was very close indeed. We much admired Mr. Hartup's winner, also his exhibits in the Hen class, in which that good old lover of the breed, Mr. E. Godley, won with a most charming Buff. Messrs. Proctor and Smalley both staged some capital birds in the Novice section, and we look forward with interest to the future career of these young fanciers.

YELL. (9): 1, hc, and Champ. Diploma, Dormer, fine big bouncing bird, wonderful depth of col., grand head and back, splendid feather and style, in the best of form; 2, 3, Mrs. Deacon, 2nd not so large as winner, magnificent col. and feather, grand head, full of style, not quite so solid at thighs; 3rd, larger, but not so neat in wings and tail, lovely col. and feather; 4, vhc, Godley, very hot, grand quality and shape, not so tight in wing; c, Roberts. BUFF (9): 1, 2, Mrs. Deacon, 1st, fine big bird, splendid shape, bold head and neck, nice level col., beautifully feathered, very stylish, in the pink; 2nd, very massive, longer in flights and tail, good head and neck, capital col.; 3, c, Dormer, bold, upstanding bird, not so clever in wing carr., but lovely col. and feather, shows well; 4, Godley, good shape and style, nice head, grand, rich col.; vhc, Roberts. UNFLI. (13): 1, Hartup, handsome yell., grand shape and size, rich, sound col., beautifully feathered, very stylish; 2, Mrs. Deacon, bouncing Buff, grand shape, stands well, good head and neck, most excellent feather, level col., very fit; 3, 4, Dormer, hot-coloured Jonque, not quite so large as winner, but full of quality, grand shape, beautiful feather, very stylish; 4th, good-coloured Buff, big and massive, not quite so stylish; vhc, hc, Roberts; c, Godley. HEN (12): 1, Godley, very smart, stylish Buff, lovely colour, rare feather, grand shape, splendid wings and tail; 2, 3, c, Hartup, yell., rare col., nice feather, splendid shape, good carr.; 3rd, lovely feathered buff, level, sound col., neat body, carries herself well, very nicely shown; 4, Mrs. Deacon, sweet yell., not so stout in head, beautiful feather, plenty of col.; vhc, hc, Dormer. NOVICE (9): 1, and Champ. Diploma, Smalley, bouncing yell., magnificent col., hot, and deep, grandly feathered, rare shape and size, splendid carr.; 2, 3, hc, c, Proctor, rather square-headed buff, plenty of size, good body feather, very rich, sound col., stands well; 3rd, hot-coloured yell., capital shape and style, nicely feathered, good form; 4, vhc, Mrs. Tweddle, grand coloured yell., bit rough at thighs, and not quite so short in wings and tail. HEN (8): 1, 2, vhc, Proctor, very finely feathered buff, beautifully sound and rich in col., stands well, in first-class fettle; 2nd, rich col. yell., rather fine in head, but rare, sound, deep col., beautifully feathered and very stylish; 3, 4, c, Mrs. Tweddle, grand shaped buff, not quite so much col., good body feather, hardly so neat in wings and tail; 4th, smaller headed yell., plenty of col., in very showy and stylish; hc, Smalley.

LIZARDS.

Judge, Mr. C. A. House.

For a show outside the confines of Lancashire the "dark 'uns" made a nice display. Most of the exhibits met at Rochdale and were fighting their battles over again. Naturally the differences of light and place made some changes in the awards, but between such high-class exhibits this was not to be wondered at. As at the great Lancashire fixture, Messrs. Ollerenshaw and Hamer were the most successful exhibitors, and every credit is due to these two gentlemen for staging such grand teams. The honour of winning the coveted Championship Diploma fell to Mr. Hamer's magnificent Broken-capped Silver, but it was a tight race between it and Mr. Ollerenshaw's Broken-capped Gold. A very near thing indeed!

GOLD, CL. CP. (8): 1, 2, Hamer, lovely, rich, sound col., clear and distinct in spangle, capital wings and tail, good legs and beak, in rare form; 2, rather better shaped cap, magnificent col. and feather, plenty of work, but not quite so distinct in rowing, and hardly so good on chest; 3, hc, Barnes, not so rich in col., but full of fine, clean, bold spangling, which shows up well on a good level back, grand shape, size, and feather; 4, Rukin, beautiful col., grandly feathered, full of rich, sound col., wealth of spangle on nice level back, not quite so neat in wings; vhc, Ollerenshaw; c, Lord. SILVER (7): 1, hc, Ollerenshaw, neat, well-shaped cap, level back, distinct black spangling on rich ground, nicely frosted, full of qual., grandly shown; 2, 4, Hamer, not quite so large in body, grand cap, splendid clear spangling and plenty of it, lovely col. and feather; 4th, nice shapely cap, good shaped back, plenty of well formed spangles, not quite so well creeled on chest; 3, Rukin, very nice head, grand shape and size, a mass of spangling, but not quite so sharp and distinct as leaders; vhc, Lord; No. 6, Barnes, passed as wrong class. BROKEN CAP GOLD (7): 1, 4, Ollerenshaw, magnificent col., rich, bright and sound right through, grand shape, size and style, wealth of spangling, finely put on; 4th, grand shape and size, sound col., but not quite so bright, carries a lot of work; 2, 3, Hamer, smart and shapely, rich, sound col., grandly feathered, grand rows of spangling on back, not quite so well creeled on chest; 3rd, better on chest, but not quite so good on shoulders, lovely col., and feather, beautifully rowed, with bold, distinct black spangles; vhc, Bosworth; hc, Barnes; c, Rukin. SILVER (9): 1, 4, Championship Diploma, Hamer, wonderfully sound and rich in col., plenty of size, grand shape, broad, level back, well defined rows of rich, bold spangling, grand feather and frosting; 4th, almost as good, but not quite so sharp and bright in spangle, and one feather in tail was only partly grown; 2, vhc, c, Ollerenshaw, looked like Rochdale 2nd, fine, bold bird, plenty of work on a good level back, capital shoulders and chest, not quite so bright as winner; 3, Barnes, grand shape, not quite so large, and thus, though beautifully spangled, not so imposing as leaders, nice feather and style; hc, Rukin.

ROLLER CLASSES.

Judge, Mr. W. Massey.

Young Bird Champion (12): 1, 23 points; 3, 21 points; vhc, 18 points, Turner; 2, 22 points, Percival; 4, 19 points; c, 15 points, Waring; hc, 15 points, Wirth. Young Bird, Novice (7): 1, 20 points, Eaton; 2, 18 points, Smith; 3, 14 points; 4, 14 points; hc, 1, point, Fouls; vhc, 12 points, Firth. Open, any age (13): 1, 25 points, Turner; 2, 23 points; 3, 22 points; 4, 21 points; Kremner; vhc, 21 points, Allsop; hc, 17 points, Waring; c, 14 points, Mawhood.

MULES AND HYBRIDS.

Judge, Mr. J. Maddison.

The Hybrids created admiration with their "mixtures of variety," and were voted a capital assortment. Messrs. Martin and Archer's "stable" did its usual share of winning, the noted clear buff Linnet-Can. and grizzled neck buff Greenie-Can, and Greenie Chaff., being greatly admired; truly a trio of toppers. A magnificent Can-Bullie successfully shown by Mr. J. M. Walsh found many friends; and the well-known yell. Greenie-Can, now the property of Mr. R. D. Parlett once again added to his very long list of 1st prizes. Diplomas for best Mule or Hyb., best Light and best Hyb., Martin and Archer.

CL. ETC. (8): 1, 2, 3, vhc, Martin and Archer, unique team, leader well-known cl. buff Lin.-Can, often described as a gem, and rightly named "Perfection," the picture of health, 2nd buff Greenie-Can, griz. on neck, the best of its kind known, in the pink of condition, and shown in masterly fashion, 3rd unevenly mkd. buff Goldie-Can, fine substance and shape, capital feather, showing parentage distinctly, greatly admired; 4, Durston, cl. buff Goldie-Can., good in col., qual., and size, when taking notes appeared not well; hc, Poole. In this class the judge passed Nos. 6, Jowett, and 7, Fisher, as being, in his opinion, Canaries. CAN. HYB. HY. VAR. (6): 1, 3, Inman, buff var. Goldie-Cans., former fine size and shape, rich col., of delightful qual., capital face; 2nd, full of col. and qual., sweetly moulded, nice carr., good head points, not of the biggest; 2, Pitchford and Stocker, buff, Lin.-Can., mkd. wings and tail, shapely, good size, nice col., mixture very pronounced; 4, Alexander, buff Siskin-Can., nice col. and qual., good size, capital trim; No. 1, Jowett, and 4, Durston, alleged as Canaries. BULLF. HYB., ETC. (10): 1, J. M. Walsh, magnificent Can.-Bull., rare size and shape, magnificent qual., rich col., a topper; 2, Inman, Gold.-Bullie, sweet shape, A1 qual. and col., good face, in absolutely best possible form, a gem; 3, Martin and Archer, Greenie-Bullie, very shapely, capital qual. and col.; 4, Lamb, Lin.-Bullie, fine shape and subs., delightful qual. and col., fine carr., well worth its place; vhc, hc, H. Walsh; c, Dr. M. A. Wilson. DARK GOLD.-CAN. (9): 1, Martin and Archer, yell., marvellous subs. and shape, slashing col., shone like satin, mag. face, topper; 2, Williams, buff, well up in size, rich col, grand shape, beautiful face; 3, Lamb, yell., wonderful col., A1 feather, nice well cut blaze, smaller yet neatness itself; 4, H. Walsh, yell., sweet shape, superior feather and col., again on the small side, in the pink; vhc, Mays and Allinson; hc, Wilson; c, Hattersley. A.O.V. DARK (11): 1, Parlett, well-known yell. Greenie-Can., winner of upwards of 50 firsts, looking capable of adding many more; 2, Pickles, yell. Lin.-Can., good size, grand shape, col. and quality, in fine fettle; 3, Middleton, buff Sis.-Can, very shapely, capital feather and col., worth its place; 4, Brunskill, buff Greenie-Can., rare size and shape, not a feather misplaced, good col. and car.; vhc, Taylor, hc, Martin and Archer; c, England. A.O.V. BRED FROM TWO BRIT. (4): 1, Martin and Archer, the much talked of Greenie-Chaff., a very difficult "mixture," and in the best possible condition, 2, Lamb, very smart and stylish Goldie-Redpoll, rich col., neat markings, tight as wax, gem; 3, Dr. M. A Wilson, Greenie-Goldie, shapely, nice subs., good col. and feather, capital bloom; 4, Durston, yell. Gold.-Sis., nice shape and size, superior col and qual., very taking.

BRITISH BIRDS.

Judge, Mr. J. Maddison.

Never again can it be said that British Bird exhibitors will not support Yorkshire shows. The excellent response to the appeal of the Bradford National executive proves that, given a popular classification, and the knowledge that their birds will not be in the hands of the railway authorities on the Sabbath, British men will support Yorkshire shows. Thirteen classes were provided, one, that for Blackcaps and Nightingales, had to be cancelled, but the other twelve yielded an entry of 126, an average of over eleven per class, which but for the poor support given to the Albino and A.O.S. classes would have read very much better. The honour of being selected as the champion bird of the section fell to Messrs. Pitchford and Stocker's Goldfinch, a bird most gorgeous in colouring, and whose coat fits him as though it has been waxed. Greenfinches were a very level lot, and in making his awards, Mr. Maddison evidently paid the greatest attention to quality of feather, and did not heed size. Goldies were indeed splendid. We have already referred to the winner, but the exhibits of Messrs. Lane, Wilson, Kilner, and others, although beaten, were by no means disgraced. Mr. Pickles' winning Twite certainly had size, and that probably pulled it home, but we much admired the colouring and marking of Mr. Morley's representative, whilst another bird we liked much was Messrs. Woodhead and Son's Mealy Redpoll. Chaffinches were good, without being super-excellent, and the London pair were well up, though, given a bit more size, Dr. Wilson's second would have walked home. Linnets were a very level lot, and as good as they were level. A most interesting class were the Bullies, and such colour and finish is seldom seen as that possessed by the magnificent pair shown by Mr. Woods. This gentleman only had these two birds in the show. Lucky man! Mr. Marley's Hawfinch was in the pink of condition, and greatly admired, as was Mr. Walsh's beautiful Corn Bunting, which kept up a serenade whilst the judges and committee were at luncheon. Beautiful indeed was the winning Thrush of Messrs. Hemmings and Brereton, and it was followed by other grand exhibits. Larks were just a nice class. Of Mr. Walsh's Waxwing we cannot say more than that we have rarely seen a better. Albinos were interesting, but few.

GREENFINCH (14): 1, P. Walsh, rather dark col. jonque, great depth of col., grandly feathered, nice shape and carr., good wings and tail, very fit, a beauty; 2, vhc, Marley, grandly feathered and mealed buff, sound, rich green col., magnificent wing bars, feathered like wax, very steady; 3, c, Brade, fine, large, silky feathered buff, magnificent bird, rather to hotly fed; 4, Parlett, lovely bird for size and shape, splendid col., grand wings and tail, not quite so fine in feather; hc, Blincoe. GOLD (12): 1, and Championship Diploma, Pitchford and Stocker, magnificently bright, rich coloured, well cut blaze, lovely collar, beautiful back, sound and rich in tan, splendid bars and buttons, pink of condition, good winner; 2, hc, Lane, hardly so well finished, but a really tip-top Finch, grandly cut, rich col. blaze, nice, sound, nutty-brown chest and back, splendid bars and buttons, bit more condition would have made all the difference; 3, D. Wilson, very bright, rich-coloured blaze, but not so much of it, the best cheeks in the class, grand collar, very distinct buttons, pink of condition; 4, Kilner, plenty of size, nice blaze, good back and bars; vhc, Mays and Allinson; c, England. SISKIN, ETC. (15): 1, Pickles, large, good shaped, well feathered Twite, capital col., very distinctly mkd., in nice form; 2, Brade, large, good coloured, well mkd. Siskin, capital back, wings, and tail, lovely feather, very steady; 3, Marley, magnificent Twite, richer in col., and more quality of feather than the winner, but not quite so large; 4, Woodhead and Son, grand coloured Mealy Redpoll, capital markings, very nicely feathered, shows well; vhc, Dormer; hc, Forster; c, Parlett. CHAFF. (10): 1, 3, Marley, very rich coloured breast, beautiful cap, grandly mkd., in the pink of condition; 3rd, larger, and more showy, very nicely mkd., not quite so much col.; 2, vhc, Dr. Wilson, magnificent col., very tight and compact in feather, splendid cap, not so stout and robust in body, nicely mkd., in grand form; 4, P. Walsh, rich, bright coloured bird, nice shape and size, not quite so clean cut in his markings; hc, Lane; c, Shaw. LINNET (18): 1, 4, Parlett, grand shape and size, rich nutty brown col., grandly mkd., good head, lovely feather, full of style; 4th, grand col., beautifully mkd., not quite so stylish; 2, Inman, splendid all-round exhibit, full of rich col., clearly and distinctly mkd., grand full chest, and broad back; 3, Marley, wonderful qual., lovely col., rich, bright and even, neatly mkd., in rare form; vhc, Woodward and Son; hc, Kliner; c, Bell and Nelson; a magnificent class, and well judged. BULLFINCH (14): 1, 2, Woods, two of the finest Bullies we have seen this season, magnificently rich and deep in colouring, large, deeply cut, glossy cape, beautiful soft coloured backs, well defined bars, not a feather out of place, of the two we liked 2nd the better, it being, we thought, rather more shapely; 3, Dr. Wilson, larger, magnificent col. and feather, splendid cap, very nice back and bars, not quite so shapely, looked over fat; 4, Hattersley, grand, rich-coloured breast, splendid shape and feather, not so glossy in cap; vhc, Blincoe, looked like Rochdale winner, good bird, but beaten here; hc, Mays and Allinson; c, Inman. A.O.S. HARDBILL (9): 1, c, Marley, very finely mkd. Hawfinch, beautifully rich in colouring, sharp and clear in marking, good head and bib, in rare form; 2, P. Walsh, large, rich coloured, nice shaped Corn Bunting, splendid feather, in the pink of condition, and singing away most merrily; 3, Lane, very rich coloured Yellow Bunting, grand shape and size, beautiful silky plumage, lovely markings, looked like the Great Horton winner; 4, vhc, Parlett, very large, rich bright coloured Bramble, beautifully spangled, grandly feathered, and another topping Hawfinch; hc, Blincoe. THRUSH, etc. (7): 1, Hemmings and Brereton, very rich coloured Thrush, splendid shape and size, beautifully feathered, very large distinct moons, in rare form; 2, hc, Middleton, rich, deep, lustrous coloured Blackie, lovely crocus bill and cere, fine bold eye, magnificent feather, grand form; 3, Wilkinson and Danby, finely mkd. Thrush, grand shape, feather and col., not quite so large; 4, Isherwood, lustrous, grandly spangled Starling, bold showy bird, in rare form; vhc, Blincoe; c, Lane. LARK, ETC. (7): 1, Bishop, handsome Tree Pipit, large and shapely, beautiful col. and feather, grandly mkd., in rare form and very steady; 2, vhc, P. Walsh, grandly mkd., good coloured, shapely Skylark, in grand feather; 3, Fletcher, very pretty Meadow Pipit, beautiful col., very evenly and distinctly mkd., shows well; 4, hc, Dr. Wilson, nicely mkd., good coloured, well feathered Wood Lark, in good form, and very steady; absent, No. 1, Mackwell. BLACKCAP, ETC.: Cancelled. A.O.S. INSECTIV. (11): 1, Fletcher, very handsome Redstart, large and shapely, grandly feathered; 2, Miss Smith, pretty Grey Wagtail, lovely col., very tight and sleek in plumage, shows well; 3, Hattersley, nicely mkd., sound coloured, well feathered Lesser Whitethroat; 4, Wilkinson and Danby, nicely feathered, well mkd. Wryneck, in good form; vhc, Dr. Wilson; hc, Miss Fishburn; c, Elliott. ALBINO, ETC. (5): 1, Martin and Archer, well known self Yellow Bunting, in the pink of condition; 2, Dr. Wilson, cream coloured Skylark, capital shape and size, in grand feather; 3, P. Walsh, very large, nicely feathered Silver Starling; 4, Tupholme, large, shapely pied Blackbird; vhc, Lane. A.O.S. (4): 1, P. Walsh, one of the largest, richest coloured, and most superbly mkd. Waxwings we have ever seen; 2, Dr. Wilson, another Waxwing, magnificent bird, but lacks the size and polish of winner; 3, Blincoe, shapely, well mkd. Waxwing, grand feather; 4, Hattersley, large, well mkd., nice coloured Jay.

THE FOREIGN BIRDS.

Judge, Mr. F. Finn.

Never before in the history of the Fancy has such a magnificent collection of rarities been seen at a Yorkshire show, and considerable was the wonderment expressed by visitors at the magnificent and unique specimens staged by Lady Kathleen Pilkington. This enthusiastic lover of birds sent a team which held quite a levee during the show. Apart altogether from their intrinsic value, the exhibits from the Chevet Park aviaries were the cynosure of all eyes by reason of their great rarity and the beauty of their plumage. Richly, indeed, did they deserve all the honours which fell to their share, and these included the championship diploma, the Foreign Bird Club medal, and a cup for the best exhibit in the section, all of which fell to that handsome Loo Choo Robin which headed the A.O.V. class. Mr. Fletcher's Parrakeets came in for much appreciation, as did Mr. J. M. Walsh's Sugar Bird and Wood Swallow. Visitors to the show will long remember the Foreign section.

PARRAKEETS, ETC. (9): 1, 2, Fletcher, very handsome Barraband, gorgeous frontal and throat markings, splendid wings and tail, in the pink of condition, as lively as a cricket; 2nd, magnificent King Parrakeet, lovely head and body col., capital wings and tail, in the best of feather, a charming exhibit; 3, 4, Edmunds, very handsome Many-coloured, beautiful frontal, neck, and shoulder markings, very gorgeous on belly, superb body col., lovely feather, neat wings and tail; 4th, very fine, large, grandly mkd., well feathered, rich coloured Barnard; vhc, Pickles; hc, Fawcett; c, Hollins. SHORT-TAILED PARROTS: Cancelled. AVADAVATS, ETC. (10): 1, 2, 4, Howe, grandly mkd. Diamond Sparrow, lovely bills, beautiful feather, full of vivacity; 2nd, most beautiful pair of Orange-breasted Waxbills, the cock the most gorgeous coloured bird we have seen, in grand condition; 4th, fine pair of St. Helenas, very large, most excellent col., grandly feathered; 3, Hattersley, charming pair of Zebra Waxbills, clearly and distinctly mkd., capital col., good bills, in nice fettle; vhc, Miss Dooly; hc, Inman; c, Beatty. FINCHES, ETC. (8): 1, Lady Kathleen Pilkington, most charming Rainbow Bunting, most lovely colouring, splendid head, neck and back, rare wings and tail; 2, 4, vhc, Beatty, very fine Yellow-backed Whydah, beautiful rich col., well mkd., hardly so steady as we should have liked; 4th, Black-checked Waxbills, very handsomely mkd., grandly feathered, very showy and steady, in the best of form; 3, hc, Simpson, rich coloured Black-headed Gouldian, beautifully mkd., and shown in the pink of condition; c, Fletcher. TANAGERS, ETC. Black-backed Tanager, wonderful head and chest colouring; 4, vhc, J. M. Walsh, another magnificently coloured and mkd. Black-capped Green Sugar Bird, not so large as winner, but in wonderfully fine feather; vhc, handsome Black-throated Tanager, a living picture, splendid col. and feather, grandly mkd. A.O.S. (7): 1, 2, champ. diploma, cup, and medal, Lady Kathleen Pilkington, rich coloured Loo Choo Robin, magnificently coloured, very nicely mkd., splendid feather, and full of life and vivacity; 2nd, handsome large White-capped Black Redstart, magnificent colouring and feather, beautifully mkd., in grand form; 3, J. M. Walsh, very fine Wood Swallow, beautifully soft and refined in its colouring, grandly mkd., in splendid condition; 4, Dr. Wilson, most charming Shama, rich brilliant colouring, grandly mkd., rare tail, splendidly feathered; vhc, Simpson; hc, Hattersley; No. 2, Watson, a Green Cardinal, was passed as "wrong class." LOCAL PARROT (5): 1, 2, Wilson, large, rich coloured and grandly mkd. Blue-fronted Amazon; 2, Lee, large, rich coloured, well mkd. Budgerigars; 3, Rayner, another good Blue-fronted Amazon, nicely mkd., good colour and feather; 4, Overton, nice pair of Budgerigars; vhc, Hattersley. A.O.S. (4): 1, Hattersley, magnificent Long-tailed Glossy Starling, very rich col., grand feather; 2, Mackwell, pretty little pair of Zebra Waxbills; 3, Hattersley, nicely feathered pair of Bronze Mannikins; 4, Overton, nice Java Sparrows.

USHAW MOOR.

First members' show held in the Workmen's Hall, Dec. 7, one of the finest halls in the county of Durham for a bird show. There was a good attendance all day, and some very nice birds staged. The judge, Mr. Stanger, gave a pair of Borders for three nominated birds, which W. Turnbull won with 19 points, J. Hanson gaining 18, H. Briggs 17; it was a good race. Owing to the strike, the trains were not running, and the judge had a stiff day before him; he had to walk 16 miles at the least. All details were nicely arranged by a hard-working committee, and the hon sec., Mr. H. Briggs, and the assist. sec., had a busy time. Chairman T. Hanson is one of the old fanciers.

NOR. CK., TKD. OR VAR.: 1, 2, Briggs, buff, varieg., grand size, good head and neck, wins on size, 2nd another good buff bird, with a black tail; 3, Foster, nice yell., lowers on perch; 4, Russell; 5, Ruggles. NOR. C.B., nice pair, a good win; 2, Turnbull, nice pair of Nor., grand col. yell. var. cock and buff hen; 3, Calvert, buff cock var. yell. hen, bit faulty in tail; 4, Hanson; 5, Russell.

PELTON FELL.

Sixth annual show held Dec. 7 at the Colliery Inn; 155 birds were staged, and there were some grand ones among them. Notwithstanding the railway strike there was a good attendance, but without it there would have been more birds and more visitors. The birds were very nicely staged, and with Mr. J. Stanger as chairman, Mr. W. Foster sec., and a very painstaking committee, everything went well. Mr. Riseborough (Sunderland) judged, and everyone seemed satisfied.

NOR. CLEAR TKD. OR VAR. YELL.: 1, 4, Stanger, yellow clear, Chester winner, good size; 2, 3, Foster and Son, leader wing and eye mkd., both set down in good form; 5, 6, A. Foster. COALTOWN OF WEMYSS Annual show held Dec. 7, a very successful fixture. Canaries were a shade low in numbers. Norwich were on the whole a good turn out, and what were there were hard to separate. However, after Mr. Bishop finished, he left nothing to be desired. Borders (judge, Mr. Arnot) were a shade disappointing, but the competition was very keen, many winners being forward and having their turns for coveted awards. A splendid team of 22 was put forward by Mr. Henderson, and we were pleased to see him among the winners. Mules and British were the feature of the show, such an array being seldom drawn to a country show; many well-known winners were forward, and some young fanciers had teams which upset calculations at times. Mr. A. Anderson's Goldfinch won spl for best Brit., and it was a gem; seldom, if ever, has such a Brit. Goldie been seen with such a blaze. The award was a very popular one indeed. Mr. J. W. Bruce judged, and his awards were well received. The show was well patronised, and grumbling was conspicuous by its absence. The committee deserve every encouragemnt, as they are an enthusiastic body of workers, and did their utmost for the welfare of the exhibits, all being carefully seeded and watered, and many were being packed for the return journey by 4.30. Mr. Clelland is an idcal secretary, and had everything in apple pie order. The hall is a shade on the dark side when arranged, but judging took place at the windows, and all had the benefit of the light.

GLASGOW & WESTERN COUNTIES.

Annual show, held in Good Templar Hall, Ingram Street, Glasgow, December 7th. The hall is an ideal one for a show, being well lighted from the roof, and well protected from draughts; altogether a very cosy room. The executive is a set of good fellows, and grand workers, from the President, Mr. Knox, vice presidents, Messrs. Edwards and Rankin, and treas., Mr. McFarlane, while the committee, Messrs. Bannerman, Young, Cathcart, Munro, Adams, Martin and Campbell, and were very active in their duties, and had the whole work well in hand. The stewards, whose names we did not catch, deserve a special vote of thanks for the great help they rendered the judges in their work. The secretary, Mr. Walter Connelly, is the right man for the work, and had all his arrangements well in hand, and was very courteous and obliging to all with whom he came in contact. The entry was good, fully 60 up on last year, and totalled about 300, and quality, especially in Norwich and British, was very good, many of the birds being capable of winning in any company. Mr. A. McFarlane had forward a grand team of Norwich, and was a big winner, having cup for best bird in show with a grand variegd. buff cock, one of the right sort; also Silk's cup, and the Malcolmson's cup for best unflighted Nor., with a dandy cl. yell. cock. Ramsden's goblet for best colour fed bird was also won by Mr. McFarlane, with a cl. yell. cock. The Border cup was won for the second year in succession by Mr. W. Hamilton, with a nice buff cock. Cup for best young Mule or Hybrid was won by Mr. J. M. Edwards, with a stylish Greenie Mule, and Mr. Adams' gold medal for best Brit. went to Mr. A. C. Findlayson, with a grand Redstart, which was also runner up for best in show. The show was well patronised during the afternoon, and everything passed off well, and the society is to be congratulated on such a grand turnout. A feature of the show was a beautiful collection of seeds and grasses, nuts and berries, neatly labelled and described, in several cases, kindly lent for exhibition by Mr. Clarke, Rothesay, which took the attention of the visitors, and was very much admired. Mr. R. V. Raine, Cathcart, judged Brit., and Mr. Jas. Kerr, Perth, Canaries, and their awards seemed to please, very little grumbling being heard.

ILFORD AND COUNTY F & F.S.

Annual show, held at the Skating Rink, Ilford, Nov. 28th and 29th. Entries did not come up to expectations, being nearly ninety short of last year, owing to the L.C.B.A. and other societies holding their shows on the same day. Mr. H. Norman judged to the satisfaction of all. Mr. E. J. Reynolds won the Golding memorial bowl for best cage bird, with a Yorkshire hen, also special for 2nd best Yorkshire. Mr. H. Stevens was runner up for the bowl with a Border Fancy. Special prizes were also won by Mr. J. W. Lawrence for best Norwich, Mr. H. Stevens with Borders, Mr. H. Brown with Yorkshires, and Mr. H. Reed Softhills. YORKS., CK.: 1, sp., H. Brown; 2, E. J. Reynolds; 3, H. H. Lock. HEN: 1, bowl, and sp., vhc, E. J. Reynolds; 2, H. H. Lock; 3, G. Oliver. UNFLIG.: 1, E. J. Reynolds; 2, H. H. Lock. HETTON-LE-HOLE.

Eighteenth annual show held December 7th in the large club room above the Crown Inn, a very nice place for a show, with plenty of space and very good light. Entries came up well, totalling 96, just about the same, we understand, as last year. As is usual in this district, Norwich were well to the fore, this section being quite the feature of the show, the quality of the exhibits being really tip-top and several of the birds well-known winners. The other sections, though smaller, contained some very creditable exhibits, while the British, from the quality point of view, were excellent. The silver cup for best young bird was won by Mr. H. Wilson, with a very nice yell. Norwich, the cup now becoming his own property. Mr. J. Appleby also staged a splendid cl. yell. unflighted Norwich, but the bird had unfortunately broken some of its flights. The genial and obliging secretary, Mr. A. J. Notley, had everything well in hand, and he got through his work in grand style, everything passing off without the slightest hitch. Mr. Notley informed us that he was seriously contemplating resigning the secretaryship, but we sincerely hope he will stick to it, as he is a man they can ill afford to lose. The society is well favoured in the matter of officials, the President, Mr. F. Piper, being one of the best, and we understand he is already prepared to give another silver cup to replace the one won outright by Mr. Wilson. The workers are all grand fanciers, Mr. H. Wilson heading them as chairman, with Mr. R. Lawson as vice-chairman, and Mr. G. Vipond as treasurer. The committee consist of Messrs. J. Appleby, R. H. Dixon, M. Dixon, H. Kilner, C. Kilner, R. Lawson, G. Vipond, and G. Gowland. The whole of the members are strong CAGE BIRDS LEAGUEITES, and each one was displaying his badge. The gate was fairly satisfactory, and we understand the show will prove a financial success. Mr. W. Reid (Sunderland) judged.

The Critique.

SHEERNESS.

30th annual show, held in the Hippodrome Assembly Rooms. The birds were staged in a large room, and proved quite an attraction. Some very nice Norwich and Yorks. were shown by Messrs. Ost, Ditch, and Hayes. The society has a most obliging secretary in Mr. C. Murphy, well backed up by an enthusiastic committee, which promised well for the success of the show. F. J. Wickham judged. MEMBERS' CUP CLASS, Bred 1912 (7): 1, cup, 2, 3, vhc, hc, Ost, 1st, marked buff, nice all-round, good head, neat wings, very compact, but on small side, 2nd, wing and eye mkd. buff, very similar, 3rd, cl. yell., really good, fails a little in wing car.; c, Hayes. STUFFED SPECIMENS (8): This was one of the attractions of the show, some grand cases being on view: 1, 3, Turker, a grand case of mixed birds, 3rd, another hard to choose, both very interesting; 2, Crosby, two King birds of Paradise, stuffed to perfection; vhc, hc, c, Walters.

ADWICK-LE-STREET.

First Inter-club competition for the Thellusson C.B. Challenge Cup, kindly presented by C. Thellusson, Esq., Brodsworth Hall, for competition between Doncaster, Hemsworth and Adwick, to be won on points gained at the three shows, held at the "Forester's Arms," a splendid room for a cage bird exhibition, well lighted, spacious, and quite suitable for staging an open show. Competition was very keen in Yorkshires and British, several open winners putting in an appearance. In Yorkshires there were some smart exhibits put back, no doubt owing to the severe weather. Mr. Lee is an enthusiastic fancier, and has done much to bring about this competition, and the forming of this society. Mr. Robinson, Sec., though a trifle new to the business, had things nicely in hand, and great credit is due to him for the grand display that resulted. Mr. Vardy (Hucknall Huthwaite) judged, and his awards gave general satisfaction.

The Critique.

YORKS. YELL.: 1, Edmondson, nice col. and qual., fails only in pos.; 2, Middleton, fine qual., col. and pos., should have gone up; 3, Hunt, good bird, but fails in wing carr.; vhc, Blanchon; hc, Knowles; c, Lee. (unflig.): 1, 2, Baxby, good all round; 2nd, very nice, rather long behind; 3, Hodgson, fairly good body, rather poor crest; vhc, hc, Wilkes; hc, Baxby. GOLDFINCH: 1, Blanchon, noted winner, in fine trim; 2, Knowles, grand blaze, not the type of winner, should improve; 3, Truman, rare fine square blaze, rich col., small in body; vhc, Pogmore; hc, Beecoby; c, Davis. BULLFINCH: 1, Kelsey, fine Bullie; 2, Truman, pale col., but good type; 3, Lee, the old champion, well beaten to-day, age will tell; vhc, Edmondson. GREENFINCH: 1, 2, Lee, grand col., nice size; 2nd, the old warrior left behind; 3, Wade, small, rare wing bars; vhc, Bradshaw. LINNET: 1, hc, Scrivener, nicely pencilled, col. A1; 2, Bradshaw, not so good in col. or qual.; 3, Pogmore, fine size, trifle pale in col.; vhc, Edmondson; hc, Scrivener; c, Lee. SISKIN, ETC.: 1, 2, Pogmore, a bouncing Twite; 2nd grand Mealy; 3rd, Bradshaw, small; vhc, Mottram. A.O.S. HARDBILL: 1, Truman, Bramble, fine body col. and spangling; 2, 3, Lee, Yell. Bunting, fails in head mkgs.; 3rd, very large Snow Bunting, needs another moult. MULE or HYB.: 1, Spittlehouse, a grand Goldie, rare type, face and back, with a little more body col. would take some stopping; 2nd, very good Linnet, but wild; 3rd, not type of winner.

CAGE BIRDS will sell your surplus stock at once. Advertise and see for yourself.

BRISTOL CHARITY SHOW.

The third annual charity show was held under the auspices of the Crecker United Fanciers' Society, Dec. 7, at the Old Library, Trinity Road. The cage bird section made a good show, most of the local fanciers supporting. Under the able management of Mr. G. H. Lane, Sec., and Messrs. Greenslade, Pace, and Williams, Superintendents, it should turn out a financial success. Proceeds will be devoted to the poor of Trinity Parish and Postman Brown, who lost his eyesight while on duty in the Soundwell shooting affray. Mr. Isaac Haynes judged and gave general satisfaction.

Cup for most points, J. A. Greenslade, total 67; special for 2nd most, F. J. Yorke, 45.

DERBY C.B.S.

Annual members' show, held at the Derwent Hotel Dec. 7. This show proved to be quite as successful as previous shows, and the type and quality of the birds were excellent. In the challenge cup for the best young Norwich, Mr. J. H. Sharman won with a grand buff bird, teeming with type and quality, Challenge cup for the best young yellow crest went to Mr. G. Colledge with a typical yellow dark crest: the same exhibitor put down the remarkable young buff dark crest, the sensation at the late Bristol show, and without doubt the finest young crest in Great Britain to day. Medal for the richest coloured Canary was won by Mr. J. Pegg. Mr. J. H. Roo (of Birmingham) judged the 260 birds with great satisfaction to the fanciers generally, and the arrangements for the show were in the hands of an energetic body of fanciers, headed by the organising secretaries, Messrs. Wharam and Bamsey.

CUPAR O.S.

Twenty-fifth annual exhibition held December 7th. This year the society launched out in new lines, engaging a separate hall for the cage bird section, but unfortunately this did not have the desired effect. The entries showed a sad drop in numbers from last year. The whole of the Scotch Fancy classes had to be cancelled, and several of the Norwich, which is very discouraging to the management, but we hope another year to see the Fife fanciers rallying at the Cupar show. The birds which did put in an appearance, however, were of very high quality, a fact which will be readily understood on glancing at the names of the prize winners. The Corn Exchange, in which the show was held, is an exceptionally fine place in every way, the birds being staged in an upper room. The committee and officials did their level best for the exhibits under the circumstances, which were well calculated to depress them. The Committee was all that could be desired, a class of energetic workers who always take a keen interest in their show, and are blessed with two most capable and painstaking secretaries in Messrs. Ritch and Westwood. The judges were: For Norwich, Mr. A. Dickson (Kelty); Borders, Mr. J. Hutchison (Dysart); British, etc., Mr. J. Goodfellow (Edinburgh), whose awards seemed to meet with general satisfaction.

The Critique.

NOR., CL. OR TKD. BUFF CK. (4): 1, spl. BANNOCKBURN C.B.S.

First annual show held in the Public Hall, Nov. 30. This is one of the finest lit halls we have ever seen for an occasion such as this, being well lighted from the roof and also from both sides. There is nothing in the way to mar the light from the exhibits in any part of the hall, staging being round the hall, and one tier up the centre. In the centre of the hall was a splendid array of show cages for exhibition made by Mr. Anderson, a crippled boy. We believe the cages only need to be seen, and he would be well advised to take the advantage of advertising in CAGE BIRDS columns to make his occupation of cage making a success. The show is confined to a twenty mile radius, and conducted by a well known body of fanciers, such as President Mr. Geo. Hamilton, secretary and treasurer Mr. Jas. Auld, who seems to be master of the situation, and an enterprising committee composed of Messrs. Henry Wilson, Wm. Stevenson, Wm. Clubb, Wm. Ritchie, Andw. Baxter, Jno. Jeffrey, and Wm. Hunter. Some well known faces we met at this show such as our old friend, Mr. Moreland, whom we were glad to see in good health. Many more, too numerous to mention, were also present. The principal prize winner in the Scotch Fancy section was a buff cock, shown by Mr. A. Hamilton, taking two specials and medal for best Scotch Fancy. Mr. F. Strathearn took medal for best hen in section. In Norwich young birds Mr. David Smart's clear yellow hen carried away the medal for best Norwich, this being the fourth time this bird has won the chief honours around this district. Mr. Jno Moreland gained the medal in the Crest or C.B. section with a grand crested cock, Mr. Jas. Auld medal for best Border, with a clear yellow cock, a real wee model: medal for best British bird or Mule went to a nice natural coloured Siskin, exhibited by Messrs. Jeffrey and Stevenson. One very curious remark passed by the Judges was that it is getting quite common now to see "field moulted" colour fed Linnets and Twites, Siskins, and Greenfinches, appearing on show benches, and Bannockburn is no exception to the rule, as we saw several here. The judges were Mr. Jos. Higgins, Hamilton, Scotch Fancies; Mr. G. Martin, Hamilton, Norwich; Mr. M. Craig, Glasgow, Borders; British being judged by Messrs. Martin and Craig, and the awards seemed to give general satisfaction, as we heard no grumbling whatever.

PENDLETON AND SALFORD O.S.

Annual show held Nov. 23, at headquarters, Irwell Castle, Lr. Broughton. Mr. J. Beswick, Stockport, judged, and gave every satisfaction. Best bird sp. in each section was won by: J. Whittle (open Yorks.), T. Butler (Nov.), J. Critchley (open Nor.), H. Lewis (Nov.), S. Oldham (Brit.), H. Lewis (Mule). Mr. J. Critchley's bird also won for best bird in show a position it was well worthy of. It was considered to be an ideal Norwich, and no doubt will be heard of again. There was a large attendance of visitors at the show, amongst whom we noticed were Messrs. A. G. Davis, H. Boothman, Fulcher, Royle, Spencer, F. Mort, Furness, and other well-known fanciers. A great attraction to the show were a very rare Indian bird and White Albino Linnet put on view by Mr. R. G. Metcalfe. These were greatly admired by the visitors.

LINCOLN C.B.S.

Annual show held at the Central Hall, Lincoln, and again proved very successful. Entries numbered 120, which easily beats previous years. The quality as a whole was much better than that of previous years, the Yorkshire yellow class being exceptionally good. The judge was Mr. G. Browning, of Rotherham, and his awards were very well received.

MACCLESFIELD.

Eighth annual show, held Dec. 7th, at the Assembly Rooms, Chestergate. About 176 exhibits were staged in the different classes, forming a varied and most interesting show, which was visited during the afternoon and evening by a considerable number of people. A high standard of excellence was reached, indicative of the progress made since the establishment of the Society, and especially was this the case in the Norwich classes. The principal prize was a challenge cup, presented by the President, Dr. McConaghey, for the exhibitor gaining the greatest number of points with four nominated birds. The winner on this occasion was Mr. William Lee, who had 21 points, compared with 16 for Mr. C. Oliver, the winner last year, and a similar number for Mr. W. Cundiff. The opening ceremony was performed shortly after three o'clock by Lady Hugh Grosvenor, who very kindly attended at considerable inconvenience. She journeyed especially from London in order to be present and returned to town the same day. Dr. McConaghey presided over a large attendance, which included, in addition to Lady Hugh Grosvenor, his Worship the Mayor (Councillor F. W. Adshead), Mrs. McConaghey, Alderman and Mrs. Frost, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Brown, Mrs. J. C. Close-Brooks, Councillors W. M. Maughan and W. S. Williamson, Mr. W. Bowyer (Leek), who adjudicated, Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Ware, Messrs. R. S. Compston, T. Brown, J. B. Kirkham, A. Ingham, J. Wellings, H. Corbishley, W. Lee, etc., with the Secretary, Mr. F. Broadhurst, and the Treasurer, Mr. J. Bunting.

QUEEN'S PARK AND DISTRICT (Glasgow).

Fourth annual show, held in the Victoria Rooms, Victoria Road, Glasgow, December 7th, with an entry of nearly 400 birds. Yorks were an outstanding feature, Nor. and Border coming close up, and the quality of the birds all over was excellent. Patrons were Capt. Gilmour, M.P., T. E. Byrom, Esq., James Wylie, Esq., etc.; president, Andrew Hunter; vice-president, Richard Thomson; secretary and treas., Robert Heggie; committee, Messrs. B. B. Cairns, E. Holliday, D. Wilson, R. Jeffrey, T. McCubbin, Wm. Rose, G. Morgan, J. R. Steel, J. Fulton, etc. Judges Norwich section, Mr. Allan Chalmers, Kirkintilloch; Bord., Yorks., Mules., Brit. and For., Mr. Charles Campbell, Glasgow. Secretary Heggie, assisted by a splendid working committee, had every arrangement made to ensure a successful show, and also won the cup and gold medal with his champion Yorks. yell. ck., a well-known winner this season. Mr. Colley, with a typical Nor. buff hen, won the rose bowl, and silver medal for the best in Nor. section, and for the best in Border section. Rose bowl and silver medal went to Mr. J. R. Steel, with a nice type of Border (a fair beauty). Secretary Heggie also won the rose bowl and medal for best in Mule, Brit. and foreign sections, with a nice even mkd. Goldie Mule. A lot of handsome specials were allotted to birds out of cash prizes. Marked catalogues were on sale by 2.30, and the gate will no doubt prove a good one, the hall being packed during the afternoon. Mr. Heggie, who is joint secretary with Mr. Young, of the City of Glasgow Show, is very popular in the Fancy, and deservedly so. The judges' awards gave general satisfaction.

BIDEFORD.

Annual open show, held in the Market Hall, December 4th, and proved a record entry. The exhibits were of a high-class order, and nicely staged in 3 tiers, and the apartment was comfortably warmed. Messrs. S. R. Sing and A. J. Bishop, hon. secretaries, were most obliging, and with a good staff of committee men, who were all fanciers, everything went off without a hitch. Mr. Geo. Dix judged, and his awards were received with the greatest satisfaction.

The Critique.

NOR. (10): 1, open and local sp., c, Shaddick, buff, beautiful qual., good deep chest, nice and cobby, good head and neck, wins; 2, res., Copp, yell., nice round head, good body, but a little gone in neck, through too small a drink hole; 3, vhc, West, buff, beautiful qual., little out of condition to winner, nice head and chubby body; vhc, Richards, Lewis; hc, Lemon. UNFLIGHTED (7): 1, Copp, yell., var., a bird of beautiful qual., not the largest, but an excellent model, good head and neck, fine depth of chest, nice chubby body; 2, 3, West, 2nd, yell. tkd. hen, a beauty, and no mistake, good head, full neck, nice chubby body, well compact wings and short tail, 3, buff, wing mkd., similar to 2nd; vhc, Richards; vhc, c, Shaddick; c, Lemon. YORKS. (13) Adult and 1912 amalgamated. Some grand birds in both classes, a pity for 1912 to compete with adults. 1, 3, res., vhc, T. Richards, 1st, yellow griz. head, a beauty, grand length, stands like a guardsman, straight as a rush, beautiful waist and finished off with a nice pipe tail, wins; 2, vhc (2), hc, Boundy, 2nd yell., lovely qual., nice length, beautifully drawn, fails only in general finish to winner; 3, vhc, T. Richards, buff, best feathered in class, like wax, of beautiful qual., fails only in length to winner, res., grand feathered, wing mkd. buff; vhc, Williams; hc, Williams; c, Copp and Oatway. GOLD. OR BULLFINCH (10): 1, Lewis, Goldfinch, very nice bird, fair size blaze, good chestnuts, and nicely buttoned, and in nice condition, wins; 2, Southcombe, Bullfinch, another nice exhibit, good cap and nice pink breast and finish; 3, Halls, Goldfinch, larger than 1st, not quite the condition of winner; res., Potter, another nice Goldfinch, but very unsteady, which told no doubt against him, quite equal to any of above if steadied; vhc, Oatway, Goodman, and Boyd; c, Potter, and Southcombe. BRIT., A.O.S. (7): 1, sp., best Brit., 3, E. Collins, 1st Hawfinch, a stormer, in grand fettle, feathered like wax, and tight as a Java, put down in A1 style, 3rd, Chaffinch, a regular swell, shown in the pink; 2, Davey, Hawfinch, another fine bird, but outclassed here to-day with winner; res., Hughes, Tawny Owl, nice exhibit, had damaged tail, which no doubt went much against it, greatly admired; hc, E. Collins; c, Lewis. LOCAL CAN., A.V. (9): 1, 2, 3, vhc, R. Taylor, 1st, yell. Cinn., Nor. type, nice exhibit, wee bit rough at thighs, 2nd, yellow P.H. Nor., very good qual.; 3, N.P.H., similar to above; res., Oatway; vhc, Hughes; c, Oatway, Copp, and Williams. GOLD. OR BULLFINCH (11): 1, Oatway, ck. Bullfinch, nice cap and rich shade of pink breast, good shape; 2, vhc, Potter, 2, hen Bullfinch, a grand hen, quite equal, 1st must have pressed; 3, hc, Barrett and Lake, 3rd, Goldfinch, good bird, but in poor con.; vhc, Stevens; c, Taylor.

WHITBY.

Twenty-seventh annual show, held Nov. 27, in the Market Hall. Entries in the Canary section came up very well, 68 in five classes. Brit. classes did not fill so well, 55 in six classes. The birds were very nicely staged, and their every requirement supplied by a very hard working lot of stewards, Messrs. Calam, Fletcher, Porritt, Stamp, and Watmough, while the section had a special secretary in the person of Mr. B. Harland, who saw that everything went well. Special for best Yorks. went to Miss Pyman with her well-known clear yellow. Mr. E. J. Freeman won special for best Norwich with a very typical and nice coloured clear yellow. Mr. J. M. Fletcher won cup for best bird, and also the Miss Coble cup, with a really good C.B. and an unfighted yellow Nor. Mr. H. W. Battye judged.

FALKIRK (Good Intent).

Third annual show held Dec. 7 in the Oddfellows' Hall, a very suitable place for the purpose, being well lighted and free from draughts. Entries were slightly down from last year, the falling off being in the Border and British sections, the Norwich being up. The management was all that could be desired, and everything done for the comfort of the birds and visitors. What a pity it is that the fanciers of this district cannot see their way to combine and run an open show. There are plenty of fanciers in the surrounding districts. Mr. Walter Clarkson, the sec., had everything well in hand, and was ably backed up by a very obliging committee. Everything passed off well. The judges were:—For Norwich and Crests, W. Grewar (Lochgelly), Mr. Dan Hamilton (Hamilton); British, Mules, Mr. L. J. Arright (Edinburgh), and their awards seemed to give general satisfaction. Special for best young Norwich was won by Mr. J. Marshall; for best Border, H. Conner; Mule, W. Heard; best British, W. Robertson; and best For., R. Reid.

ANFIELD, EVERTON C.B.S.

First annual members' show held in St. Cuthbert's Mission Hall, Burleigh Road, South, Anfield, Liverpool, Nov. 16, some very fine birds being staged, competition was very keen all round. Mr. Alston wins sp. for best Yorks, Mr. Young best Greene, Benson best yell. cl. unfligh., Wright best unfligh. buff, cl. and best unfligh. green, Mr. Hamilton's yell. (gr. mkd.); and Messrs. Leatherbarrow, Wilson, Kelly, Ritchie, Crow, and Benson, the stewards, worked hard to make the show the success it was. The show was visited by hundreds, and everybody enjoyed the grand display of birds; it was a great pleasure to see so many ladies present. The cups, rose bowl, medals, and other specials were all on view, and much admired. The hall is a grand place for a bird show, with two fine rooms, capable of staging 2,000 birds, and we expect it will be filled at our open show, December 26th, opened by the Lord Mayor. Points are now totalled up, including the nest feather show. Members are asked to note that if only two birds are in a class the points will counts. Champ. Yorks Greens: Parsons 44, Plunkett 37, Bell 25, Young 19, Benson 18, Walker 18, Folland 16, Steinart 14, Hamilton 13, Crowe 13, Wright 12, Gore 8, Rawthorne 12, Leatherbarrow 6, Malone 5, White 4, Corbett 2. PREPAID ADVERTISEMENTS

UNDISPLAYED.—6d. for the first eighteen words. One Halfpenny per Word for each word over eighteen. Name and address to be reckoned. MINIMUM, 18 words 6d.

IMPORTANT NOTE.—Two or more Advertisements coming from the same advertiser, even if sent in different names, are reckoned together, and, after the first Eighteen words, are charged at two words a penny, but no single advertisement, even if accompanied by others, will be charged at less than the minimum price, viz., Sixpence.

Headlines or Footlines, 6d., 9d., 1/-, 1/6, according to size.

ADVERTISEMENTS UNACCOMPANIED BY CORRECT REMITTANCE WILL NOT BE INSERTED.

Postal Orders must be sent as far as possible. All moneys should be made payable to F. CARL.

The Proprietor reserves the right to refuse any advertisement, or to cancel any advertisement ordered for a series, at any time, without assigning any reason for so doing.

Advertisements must in all cases bear the bona fide name and address of the advertiser, and no advertisement will be inserted if addressed to a receiving office, or similar place of call.

Small prepaid advertisements of a general nature and not connected in any way with the Cage Bird Trade are inserted at the rate of ½d. per word throughout. Minimum 12 words 6d.

Advertisements close Tuesdays first post in each week, and should be sent to the advertisement Manager, CAGE BIRDS, 154, Fleet Street, London. Terms for Display Advertisements on application.

Advt. Manager. "Cage Birds."

ALWAYS USE OUR DEPOSIT SYSTEM.

We are not responsible for the statements made in advertisements, nor of the bona-fides of either buyers or sellers In all transactions the adoption of our Deposit System should be insisted upon

IMPORTANT.

SEND THE FULL COMMISSION.—If the full commission does not accompany the deposit, the vendor will not be notified of its receipt until the amount deficient, plus the extra postage incurred, has been paid to us.

HOW TO REMIT.—Under no circumstances will Cheques or Post-dated Money Orders be accepted as deposits. Uncrossed Postal Orders must be sent and the numbers taken for safety.

RULES.

1.—PROCEDURE.—The intending purchaser should send to this office the amount of the purchase (our deposit fee included), and at the same time he should communicate with the seller, stating what it is he requires sent on approval. We acknowledge receipt of the deposit to both parties. In all cases the depositor should give his name and address, and also that of the vendor, and must write same clearly and distinctly.

2.—END OF TRANSACTION.—The deposit is retained by us until we hear from both parties that the transaction has been completed. If a sale has been effected, we hand the amount deposited to the seller. If a sale has not been effected, we return the amount to the depositor. The transaction must be conducted by the parties themselves. We merely hold the deposit.

3.—AMOUNT OF COMMISSION.—The fee is 6d. for each £1, or fraction of £1, and it must be sent at same time as the deposit.

4.—IMPORTANT POINTS.—The depositor must decide within forty-eight hours of the receipt of the goods whether he will keep or return the same, unless, that is, some other period of approval (of which we must be advised) is agreed upon by both parties. The depositor must at the same time notify us of the fact that he has returned the goods. If the goods are not returned within the said forty-eight hours, we reserve the right to send the deposit to the seller after the expiration of that period. And should the seller fail within three days to notify us of the receipt of his goods back again, the transaction will be treated as ended, and the deposit will be returned to the depositor.

5.—A SATISFACTORY PURCHASE.—When a transaction has been completed to the satisfaction of both depositor and seller, both parties must at once return the deposit receipts as a guarantee of its completion. The depositor must at the same time instruct us to pay over the deposit to the seller.

6.—GOODS ALREADY SOLD.—If the goods are sold before our deposit note reaches the seller, or if for any other reason he declines to do business, he must at once return the deposit note to us. Failing its receipt, we reserve the right to return the deposit to the sender after the expiration of three days.

7.—FRESH TRANSACTION.—In case no sale be effected, a deposit is available for purposes of a fresh transaction, provided another deposit fee be paid.

8.—GOODS IN TRANSIT.—Goods in transit are at the seller's risk, and any damage or loss sustained on the journey must be borne by the seller. But goods not approved of must be properly packed and returned by the same means as were used in sending the same.

9.—PAYMENT OF CARRIAGE.—The payment of carriage must be a matter for arrangement between the vendor and depositor. We do not undertake to settle disputes affecting question of carriage. But in the absence of other arrangements the purchaser is liable for the carriage of the goods, and if the goods are sent on approval and returned, each party pays the carriage one way.

SOFTBILL keepers, take expert advice before proceeding to buy and keep the larger species of Insectivorous birds. You will then have no trouble in keeping your pets in the best of health. This advice is offered in "Nutshell No. 26," by H. J. Fulljames. It is a wonderful little work, dealing with most varieties in a highly interesting and instructive manner. Foods and their preparation, and the various styles of cages also receive full attention. Can you breed Mealworms? This booklet tells you how. Post free, 2½d., from "Cage Birds," 154, Fleet-st., London, E.C. Look at our list of agents; call on the nearest and get it for 2d.

Knight's Yorkshire Aviaries

My new season's stock (about 200) of Yorkshires, in all varieties, are now fully moulted, in hard, dry feather, and in the very pink of condition and health; unlike the professional exhibiting deck-sweeper advertiser, who perhaps spends annually what amounts to a decent working-man's fortune in purchasing exhibition stock, every bird I possess (excepting own breeders), is for immediate and absolute sale. These include a few fine, untried birds, which at all events will be preferred by the intending amateur and novice exhibitor at the forthcoming Palace show rather than perhaps will be the many worn-out exhibits which to their owners are now useless as such; all cold-room bred, reared, and kept; unrelated, personally matched pairs, from 10/-, 12/6, 15/-, 20/- upwards; stock cocks and hens proportionate; exhibition specimens from 20/- upwards; all on strict approval; terms, cash or deposit. N.B.—30 years' breeder of Yorkshires only; same old address: Jonas Knight, Allerton, Bradford, Yorkshire. (307)

I have the following to dispose of:—Clear Buff hen, 1st Kingstown; variegated yellow, 2nd Dublin, 2nd Kingstown (non-fed); Buff hen, 1st Belfast; 12/6 each; see show reports.

BOUNDY'S CHAMPIONS

Still winning; every bird my own breeding from my winners of hundreds of prizes, Yorkshire challenge and other cups; gold and silver medals Plymouth, Wivelliscombe, etc. See reports Bristol, Newport Exeter, and Torquay; matched pairs from 15/-; state wants; stamp reply: Boundy, St. Teath, Cornwall. (312)

DYKES' YORKSHIRES

The record breakers. On Dec. 14th, with 15 entries, winning 10 firsts, 4 secondo, silver Challenge Cup, 4 Specials, and Diploma for best Canary in show over all other varieties. See reports Gateshead, Cleator Moor, and Bolton Woods. Winners in keenest competition for sale, also for members' shows, very reasonable; also good matched pairs from 8/6, 10/6 12/6, 15/-, 20/-, upwards; odd cocks or hens proportionate; any sent on approval, cash, or deposit this paper; inspection invited; state wants; I guarantee to give you satisfaction, as I hold the very best blood in the Fancy, and have bred and sold more winners this last few years than any other advertiser. Price list post free: L. Dykes, Shann-st., Bolton Woods, Bradford. (319) and many specials, have won this season, with birds of own breeding, from the finest strain in the Fancy. Have 50 for disposal prior to my removal in January; approval, or can be seen any time: F. Tebbs, 12, Macduff-rd., Battersea Park, S.W. (283)

THOUGH they can often be purchased for the modest half-crown, Pekin Nightingales are very beautiful in plumage, have a fine song, and make ideal cage or aviary birds. Some very helpful information on this variety will be found in "Nutshell No. 19," the author of which is Wesley T. Page, F.Z.S. Get it at once. 2½d. post free from "Cage Birds," 154, Fleet-st., London, E.C. 2d. from our agents (list published frequently).

WAXBILLS! (Golden-breasted, Orange-cheeked, Grey, and St. Helena). Than this interesting quartette, which can be purchased at from 2/6 to 7/6 a pair, there are few more charming foreigners. They can be successfully kept, too, with little difficulty if you will follow the hints given by Wesley T. Page, F.Z.S., in "Nutshell No. 20," 2½d. post free from "Cage Birds," 154, Fleet-st., London, E.C. Call at any of our agents and get it for 2d. (list frequently published).

KIRRIEMUIR.

After a lapse of seven years, Kirriemuir held a show on Dec. 14, and brought together a very sweet collection. Norwich opened the programme, and although a shade low in numbers, quality was A1. We never saw such keen competition at a country show, many noted winners being forward, and after Mr. J. Adams selected his winners very little could be commented upon. Borders were a grand array, some gems being forward, many well-known exhibitors again doing battle for coveted honours. The sp. for best was secured by a good all-round buff hen, well put down by Mr. Gilchrist, while the runner-up was a sweet yell. hen, grandly staged by Mr. Stevenson. British were a good lot, the winning Goldfinch and Linnet being outstanding specimens. Mr. J. W. Bruce judged all except Norwich, and his awards were well received. The officials are composed of a band of workers, everyone trying to excel another in getting through work. The worthy president, Mr. Lawson, was prominent as show manager, and he was ably seconded by Mr. Buttars. Mr. J. Stevenson held the secretarial reins, and right well did he do his duty, having everything in apple-pie order, while the finance was under the charge of Mr. Ewart, who proved to be able to uphold his reputation as a pay-master. The hall is an ideal one for a show, being well lighted and free from draughts. The show was well patronised by fanciers, and many sales took place. Kirriemuir, although in an out of the world position geographically, has a splendid railway connection, and the exhibits were well looked after, many of the birds being returned at 4 o'clock in order to reach their destinations that night. Fanciers should note this for future shows.

FOR. BIRDS: (4): 1, 3, Robb, grand Pin-tail Nonpareil, in lovely order, and a clinking Crimson Weaver, in full bloom, both well staged; 2, vhc, Colville and Son, pair of Yellow Budgerigars and a Whydah.

INVERURIE.

Annual show held in the Drill Hall, Dec. 14, and turned out, we regret to say, a poor affair. We heard it suggested that the Canary section at this fixture should be done away with (as it seems to be more of a poultry and pigeon show), which would allow the Canary fanciers to carry on their own show, as Inverurie is too small a village to run two Canary shows in one season, and it causes some friction. Mr. T. L. Morrison, the Town Chamberlain, carries on the duty of president, and as this gentleman has had a vast and wide experience in connection with shows, it is bound to be well conducted. He is well backed up by the vice-president, Mr. J. Philip, and the clerical work is in the able hands of Mr. A. Mackie, who makes an ideal sec. and treas. He is well supported by a large committee, who all work with a will to make the show a success. Norwich were the outstanding feature of the show, some very good specimens being forward. The two best birds in the show were Mr. W. B. Mackie's yell. ck., a bird of grand substance and qual., and Mr. A. Shearer's cl. yell hen, rare type, grand col. and qual. This hen won the sp. for best bird in show. Mr. A. Wood, Aberdeen, judged, and his awards were well received.

SELKIRK.

A very successful show, held Dec. 14. Borders were a very nice collection, all the classes being very keenly contested, and the winner of the medal was a grand yell. cock, sluged by Mr. J. S. Wilson, while we were pleased to see Mr. J. Arnot (late of Arnot and Jamieson) again to the front with some like his old former winners. The show was judged by Mr. H. Bennett, and his awards were well received, grumbling being conspicuous by its absence. The committee are a hard-working band, and were skilfully headed by an ideal secretary, Mr. Emond, while Mr. J. Pringle had the show arrangements in good order.

NOR. CK. (6): 1, Wilson, gem, var. buff, rare size and qual, of feather, grand head and full front, sweetly staged; 2, 3, D. Wilson, hard to separate, var. yell. and foul buff, lovely pair, close up; 4, vhc, Cameron, sweet bird, falls a shade in head, grand feather; vhc, Thomson. CL., ETC., YELL. (8): 1 B. & C. medal, J. S. Wilson, gem and no mistake, lovely size, perfect head, and grand body and wing curr., sweetly drawn, looks like medal winner at Cockermouth; 2, Patterson, very stylish, a shade longer than winner, grand front, not so good in head, well balanced wings; 3, Buchanan, sweet shape and qual., rather nervous, will improve, a likely bird; 4, McKenzie, good stamp, sweet feather, all there, beaten in taper; vhc, Voy; hc, Johnston; c, Irons. BORD., CL., ETC. HEN (10): 1, Halliday, taking one, grand head and lovely front, splendidly drawn, sweet all round, well placed; 2, Wilson, rare body, lovely wing carr., good head and front, beaten in finish; 3, McKenzie, good stamp, rare head and front, not so well drawn; 4, Thomson, stylish, inclined to be a shade thinner in front, sweet all over; vhc, Lambie; hc, Voy; c, Patterson, jun. CL., ETC., BUFF CK. (8): 1, McKenzie, wins, lovely shape, grand front and correct weight, sweet head and nicely balanced, in full bloom; 2, Briggs, not so shapely and a shade stronger across, neat head and lovely finish; 3, Shields, stylish and well drawn, lacks the bloom of winners; 4, Patterson, all there for style, inclined to be softer in feather, sweet cut below and free pose; vhc, Torrie; hc, Egerton; c, Linton. HEN (8): 1, Arnott, sweet one, lovely shape, rare body, grand head and wing carr. and extra well drawn, a wee gem, well placed; 2, Lambie, fuller in front and not so shapely in head, nice qual. of feather; 3, Egerton, good stamp, not so stylish as winner, fails in pose, sweet wing carr.; 4, Halliday, good head and front, but a shade plain in body, nice size and qual.; vhc, Torrie; hc, Reid; c, Buchanan. EVEN MKD. (8): 1, vhc, hc, Watson, jun., leader well known, ideal eye marks and splendid wings, fine qual. of feather, well staged; 2, Patterson, jun., another good one, close up, fine mkgs., not so good in front of eyes; 3, Arnot, sweet taking yell., falls in type, but well mkd.; 4, Briggs, good body and shape, falls a bit in eye mkgs., grand class; c, Murray. UNEVEN (13): 1, 4, Arnot, two nice ones, leader the best in type, grand head and front and finely balanced, 4th a shade longer in feather; 2, Lambie, sweet Cinn. tkd., grand pose and well drawn, not so well finished as winner; 3, J. S. Wilson, good stamp, lovely pos., nice front and wing carr., falls a shade in head; vhc, J. Buchanan; hc, Thomson; c, Hamilton. CINN. Thomson. BRIT. SMALL (4): 1, Craig, a tip-top Bullie, grand cap and breast col., wins; 2, Beattie, sweet Goldie, scarcely up in face yet, good tanniugs and buttons; 3, Hughes, sweet Greenfinch, wants more col.; 4, Reid, a very nice Siskin.

KEITH C.B.S.

First annual show held in the Longmore Hall, Dec. 11, when 156 entries faced the judge, Mr. Sandison (Aberdeen). The hall is one of the best for a cage bird exhibition, being well lighted on both sides, and the birds were staged to advantage. For a first venture the association is to be congratulated, and but for the fact that colour-fed birds, save in one class, were debarred, a very much larger entry would have been secured, especially in the Canary Section, as Mr. Sandisou is one of our best judges. We understand that this is to be remedied another year. We hope the venture has turned out a financial sucess, although the gate did not appear to be so large as it should have been. The officials are:—President, Mr. Isaac Sharp, the well-known and very successful breeder and exhibitor of sporting dogs; vice-presidents, Messrs. George Murray and Alexander Wilkirson; sec., Mr. Alex. Rhind, who, along with the treas., Mr. William Geddes, worked hard in the interests of all concerned. The birds were carefully fed and watered on arrival. Mr. Sandison's awards were very well received.

BORD. YELL. (4): 1, Blackie, nice variegated, closely pursued by 2nd, Gentleman, sweet Green in lovely order, very distinct markings on back; 3, Connachie, good, not far behind; 4, Bain. BUFF (6): 1, Smith, good bird, very shapely, wins; 2, Connachie, close up, in rare order; 3, Blackie, on large side, otherwise all there; 4, Gentleman; 5, Dey; 6, Bain. NOR. CL. OR TKD. YELL. CK. (3): 1, Ironside, fine size, in splendid trim, whis well; 2, Shearer, not the subs. of winner; No. 3, Christie, grand Buff, wrong classed, could have won in its own class, hard lines. HEN (2): 1, Clark, good bird; 2, Bain, fine fettle, but hardly so shapely. BUFF (2): 1, Clark, easy win; 2, Shearer. HEN (4): 1, Kerr, easy win, rare substance and fine shape; 2, McLean, smaller, does not show to advantage; 3, Geddes; 4, Bain. VARIEG. YELL. (1): 1, Findlater, only fair. BUFF (8): 1, Kerr, again leading, grand Green, great subs.; 2, Ironside, another good one, beaten shape; 3, 6, Walker, fails size, but in good order; 4, 5, Clark. FED NOR. (9): Splendid class, the best in the show: 1, Bird, clear win, in faultless condition, beautifully fed, a credit, takes spl over seven classes; 2, 3, Kerr, good, beaten though not disgraced; 4, 6, Ironside; 5, Shoolbraid, really good bird, wanting a few of the tail feathers, appears as if some had been cut. FED YORKS (10), a grand class: 1, 3, 4, Rhind, wins well, cinn mkd. hen, lovely shape, A1 colour, one of the best going the Northern shows; 2, 6, Junor, another very good bird; 5, Wilkinson, good but outclassed to-day. YORKSHIRE UNFED (1): 1, Junor. CRESTS (4): 1, spl best bird in show, 2, Mackie, well known faces, need no comment; 3, Grant, another well known winner, centre of crest slightly open, otherwise might have gone up one, its crest was slightly wet when judged, which no doubt was against it, hard lines; 4, Pirie. C.B. (5): 1, 3, Mackie, great subs., but with a damaged foot, not a "club foot," as we heard some say; 2, 4, 5, Grant, Inverness, etc., winner, might, we think, have gone up. PAIRS BRED 1912 (1): 1, Rhind, lovely pair of Yorks, these should breed some grand stuff. A.O.V. (1): 1, Findlater. BOYS' OR GIRLS' CLASS (12): 1, McLean, jun.; 2, Anderson, jun.; 3, Pirie, all fairly good Norwich; 4, Rhind, jun., Yorks, shown in a cage not suitable, which no doubt told against it; 5, Walker; 6, Stuart, Border, again badly staged in a box cage. This class was quite a credit to the youthful exhibitors, but they should use proper show cages. CL., ETC., CAN. HYB. (1): 1, Bird, Inverness winner, looking better than ever. DARK HYB. (2): 1, Watt, yell. Goldie, we heard a youngster four months old, tremendous blaze and col., should be a stormer with another moult; 2, Shoolbraid, Siskin, not a bad bird at all, but outclassed to-day. A.O.V. HYB. (5): 1, Bird, Bramble-Chaffinch hen, lovely shape, showing parentage distinctly, lovely Chaffinch shape, minus a claw; 2, Junor, Linnet-Bullfinch hen, small, might be in better bloom and shown in a cage with perches lower down; 3, 4, Watt, 3rd another Bramble-Chaffinch hen, the Buckie and Forres winner, inclined to be wild, better marked than winner and in perfect order, some thought might have gone up; 4th, Goldie-Greenie cock, unfed, in splendid order, on small side; 5, Strachan. HYB. PAIR (2): 1, Gentleman, Goldie-Bullie, very nice indeed; 2, Milne, Goldie-Bullie, not far behind. GOLDFINCH (5): 1, spl Watt, lovely house-moulted, perfect order, well shown, very steady, wins easily; 2, 3, Harcombe, Inverness winner, but outclassed to-day. BULLF. CK. (5): 1, Anderson Bros., Inverness winner, feathers round eyes seemed completely gone; 2, Watt, the Glasgow winner, one of the best house-moulted Bullies going, last year's winner here, excels in breadth of cap, bars, colour and condition; 3, Gentleman, nice Bullie; 4, Watt, another H.M. bird, lovely col., fails cap; 5, McAdam. HEN (4): 1, 2, Gentleman, well known pair of winners often described; 3, Rev. Kissick, good one; 4, Angus. LINNET (4): 1, Watt, bit too open in breast for liking of some, but well marked, good in col., very steady; 2, 3, Hird, Inverness, Buckie, and Woodside Linnet, polished like marble, pity so light in col., otherwise would take some stopping in the best of company; 4, Johnstone. SISKIN (5): 1, Junor, sweet exhibit, showing a few light feathers in cap; 2, Cowie, good one, grand cap and mkgs.; 3, Gentleman, lovely lacing; 4, McAdam; 5, Cowie. GREENFINCH (3): 1, Gentleman, Inverness 2nd, needs no description; 2, Strachan; 3, McAdam. REDPOLL OR TWITE (8): 1, Watt, one of the best Mealy Redpolls we have seen, nice size, marvellously laced, easy win; 2, 3, Gentleman, Twite leading, nice one; 3rd beauty of a Lesser Redpoll; 4, Milne; 5, Junor; 6, Johnstone. The only full class in the British section, and a really good one. BRAMBLE, CHAFFIE, AND BUNTING (5): 1, Watt, lovely Bramble, very steady, well marked, will hold its own in good company; 2, Junor, nice Chaffinch; 3, Rev. Kissick, good Yellowhammer, hard lines to meet the former birds; 4, Thomson, really good Chaffinch, one of the best we have seen, excels in whites and size, but very wild; 5, Langlands, good Corn Bunting. SOFTBILL (SMALL) (1): 1, Anderson Bros., Grey Wagtail, winner at Inverness, Buckie, etc., not looking so well to-day, takes spl for best small Brit. and spl for best Brit. LARGE (5): 1, Watt, one of the best Hawfinches we have seen for many a day, tremendous bill, steady as a rock, in full breeding condition; 2, 3, Thomson, lovely Blackbird and Missel Thrush, two really good birds, fit to win in good company in softbill classes; 4, Gentleman, Hawfinch; 5, Watt, Missel. FOR. GOLDF. OR BULLFINCH (5): 1, 2, Watt, grand Bullies, former very large; 3, Junor, fine Goldie, in good order; 4, Pirie; 5, Shoolbraid. PARROTS, ETC. (1): 1, Simpson. FOR. SMALL (1): 1, Rev. Kissick. BRIT. SHOWN BY BOY OR GIRL (9): 1, Angus, good shaped Bullie; 2, Cowie, very nice Siskin; 3, Thomson, nice British Goldie; 4, Stewart, Redpoll; 5, McLean, Bullie; 6, Strachan, Bullie; an interesting class, again some very poor show cages, which did not show the birds to advantage. WAXWING (1): 1, Langlands, not looking so well as we have seen it.

NORTH-WEST LONDON F.A.

Annual members' show, held at the Stag's Head, Camden Town, Dec. 14. Entries were excellent, and quality, especially in Mule and British, good. Special for best in show was won by Mr. A. King with a topping little Goldie, in fine colour and feather. The management, under Mr. J. R. Young's secretaryship, was excellent, the specials well worth competing for, and the attendance of fanciers large. Final members' show of season held Dec. 14; 48 birds were staged for Mr. W. A. Cowgill to judge, which he did in his usual admirable manner. The cause of the low entry was the fact that the cup was practically won last show. Mr. L. Dykes was again the winner, this being the second silver cup to become his own property to add to his magnificent collection of prizes. CL. YELL. Singing Contests.

LEIGH.

General meeting, held December 13. Decided to have a contest on Dec. 21 for time and quality for members only, entrance 6d. There was a special committee meeting, December 15, arranging contests for next year. Will every member kindly take notice that there will be a special general meeting on December 22, at 1.15 prompt; this is giving all our members that cannot attend on Friday night a chance to come to the Globe Inn and know the business. Anyone wishing to become a member can do so by applying to me. Now then you Salford chaps.—R. Holcroft.

KING'S CROSS.

We had Mr. Moxey, one of the men of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, pay a visit at The Swan, Caledonian Road, N., the other evening, and examine the singers, and he found them every one thoroughly clean, and everything correct. We hope we shall have a few more of the society's visitors, as they are always welcome. We have had several Linnet and Chaffinch handicaps during the week, Tom Hooker being the winner on Dec. 14 with a Chaffinch, and also with his Linnet on Dec. 15.—"Pony."

PENDLEBURY.

Linnet contest held Dec. 14, at Butcher's Arms, Union Street, when 20 birds entered. 1, Siddall; 2, Bate; 3, Marshall. Timekeepers, J. Hyde and G. Bate. Minutes, J. Green. Birdkeeper, J. Jackson. Next contest, open to Manchester and Dist. for time, Dec. 28. First pair up at 2.30. On Jan. 1 we are holding an open contest for time. First pair up at 1.30. Mr. J. Siddall is giving a copper kettle for first prize; other prizes will be as usual. On January 4th we are holding an open contest for field-moulted birds only for time. On this occasion Mr. G. Clarke, of Pendleton, is giving a special prize; first pair up at 2. We specially invite Tyldesley and Leigh members.—E. Hickman, Hon. Sec.

LEEDS.

Weekly contest for quality singing Linnets, was held at Prince Albert Hotel, Newtown, December 15th, when 19 birds sang for 3 good prizes. Result: 1, 2, Clarke; 3, Binns. Judges, Messrs. C. Lorriman and A. Turner.—A. Lorriman, Hon. Sec.

Weekly contest for quality, held at the old bird house, King's Head, Shannon Street, December 14th, when 11 birds sung for 3 good prizes. 1, Johnson; 2, Ward; 3, Wigfield. Judges, Madden, Johnson. Also December 15, when 25 birds sung for 4 good prizes. 1 and 2, shared by Stead and Johnson; 3, Lacy; 4, Wigfield. Judges, T. Hardcastle, Naylor, Sissons. Open contest, for Rollers, held December 15th, when 19 birds sung for 3 good prizes. 1, 2, Buttery; 3, shared by Hayes and Johnson. Judges, Lacy and Naylor. Open contest for Rollers will be held December 22, when our host, Mr. Wm. Tillotson, will give a good substantial prize. First pair to be hung at 8 p.m. prompt.—Walter Naylor, Hon. Sec.

Linnet sing, December 14th, Skinner's Arms, Buslingthorpe. Fourteen birds were hung. 1, Sellers; 2, Birch; 3, Sellors and White. Judges, Clayton and Lorriman. Also December 15, 16 birds were hung. 1, Sellers; 2, Birch; 3, Sellers and White. Next Linnet contest, Dec. 21st and 22nd. Canary contest, Dec. 15, 20 birds were hung. 1, C. W. Smith; 2, 3, Chippendale and Dean. Some excellent singing took place. Judges: T. Summers, Lorriman and Sellers. There will be contests Dec. 21st and Christmas night. Open to all. Welcome to all new and old faces. Don't forget to rally round the above address. Good prize-money will be given. —C. W. Smith, Sec.

Club Reports.

CHESTER-LE-STREET C.B.S.

Meeting, held 14th Dec., when prize-money and specials were paid out; each exhibitor at our annual received a special. Seeing that we are contemplating running an open show next year, we extend to all local fanciers a hearty welcome to join us. Those desirous of doing so please come to our next meeting, to be held January 25th. We had six new members nominated on Saturday.—Jas. Hedley, Hon. Sec.

WELSH C.B.C.

I should like to remind all members that the club show is to be held at Swansea, and the date will be decided upon shortly. You will find in the columns of this week's CAGE BIRDS the result of the ballot for club show judge, of which ballot our worthy Editor kindly consented to act as scrutineer. Mr. S. H. George is appointed club show secretary, and I trust that every member will give him all possible assistance, and if any member will give specials of any kind, will they please let Mr. George know as early as possible.—A. E. Brown, Hon. Sec.

KENT COUNTY C.B.A.

Meeting, held at the Barton R.A. Boys' School, December 11th, Mr. Raynor, chairman, and several members present. Correspondence was read, and points counted that members had gained at shows, that had received patronage of the society. Following are the points gained; and the winners of the different cups: Norwich, Mr. F. J. Wickham, winner, 65; Mr. Taylor 31; Mr. Meades, 3. Yorks.: Mr. Lockett, 43, winner; Mr. Johnson, 37; Mr. Raynor 27. British, Mr. F. J. Wickham, winner, 37; Mr. Austin 32; Mr. H. Wood, 8; Mr. Webb, 6. Borders, Messrs. Burton Bros., winners, 42; Mr. H. Wood, 33; Rev. Soames, 22; Mr. Maycock, 3. Lizards, Mr. H. Wood winner, 32; Mr. E. J. Wood, 31. Mules: Messrs. Soames, winner, 19; Mr. Webb, 6; Mr. Ward, 5; Mr. Reeves, 4.—H. Wood, Hon. Sec.

COLINTON AND CURRIE O.S.

Monthly meeting held Higher Grade School, Juniper Green, Dec. 14, Vice-President, Mr. Jas. Michie, in chair in the absence of President Bigbie, he having met with an accident. The members expressed the hope that he would soon recover and be amongst us at next meeting. Mr. Alex. F. R. Scott was appointed treasurer in room of Mr. J. P. Rodger, who resigned his post owing to pressure of business. It was decided to have a smoker on January 14th, and the secretary, Mr. Michie, Mr. Johnstone, and Mr. Dickson, were appointed to make the arrangements. Two new members were admitted to the society, namely, Joseph McCrum, Weirs Cottages, Currie, and Alex. Johnstone, Annfield, Juniper Green. Decided to have no meeting in January. At the close of the meeting the prize money for our first show was paid out.—J. Nonier, Sec.

HALIFAX O.S.

The members of the above society held a pie supper and smoker at their headquarters, Plummit Line Hotel, Dec. 12, when about 30 members sat down to a good spread, provided by the host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. Harwood. After all had done justice, the evening was spent in a social manner. Mr. T. Pilling, President, occupied the chair. Some capital songs were contributed by the following artists: Mr. Mac Andrews, Mr. Dale, Mr. H. Cundall, Mr. Wilson Bottomley, and Mr. H. Tasker. Mr. Bancroft gave a few humorous recitals in capital style. Mr. J. E. Priestley accompanied on the piano in his usual efficient manner. A hearty vote of thanks to the host and hostess, and also to the artistes was proposed by Mr. J. J. Dunn, and seconded by Mr. Haigh. The singing of the National Anthem brought an enjoyable evening to a close.—H. Clegg.

BEDFORD AND BEDS. C.B.S.

A very interesting and instructive washing exhibition was ably given at headquarters, 16, Hasset-st., on December 11th, by Mr. Martin, of Battersea, who instructed the members how to wash birds in a very skilful and workmanlike manner, and judging by the attention given, was appreciated by everyone present. Questions were fired at Mr. Martin, who answered them in an admirable fashion. After Mr. Martin had washed some birds he invited those present to try their hand, and Mr. Corrie and Mr. Osborn went through the performance very well. A vote of thanks was accorded Mr. Martin for his very instructive evening. The committee are endeavouring to arrange monthly meetings for members' benefit, and full advantage should be taken by them and friends of these opportunities to show their appreciation of the efforts on their behalf. New members were enrolled, and there is every indication of the old society having a prosperous New Year.—T. Wiggins, Sec.

WALLSEND & MID-TYNE C.B.A.

Meeting held Station Hotel, Dec. 11, Mr. J. Hislop in the chair. Several items regarding the show and allotting of specials were severely commented upon, before finally being adopted. The report of accounts and balance by the Assist. Sec., Mr. J. Evans, given in the unavoidable absence of Mr. Macdonald and the Auditor's report were received and passed as most satisfactory, showing a clear balance of £6 to carry forward for next year. Five shillings was added to each class, averaging ten for all the classes, with forty specials, nearly every member winning a special and prize-money. The number of classes, fifty-two, was an extra large number for a members' show, and the entries more than at many open shows. Decided to have an annual supper on the same lines as last year, similar menu and price, in the club room, and that the President be invited to present the cups and prizes, the supper to be held on last Wednesday of January next. Decided to have all cups, and as many specials on view at next show, to save trouble in handing over to winners. Secretaries were especially requested to call a full meeting for next month, for the election of officers, and to confirm supper.—John M. Macdonald.

TARBRAX (Lanarkshire) C.B.S.

A meeting of this newly formed society was held in the Institute, Tarbrax, on Dec. 5. Show date was fixed for 18th January, 1913, and as it is our first venture, it is looked forward to with great anxiety. The following gentlemen were appointed on committee, and all are staunch fanciers: Messrs. T. J. Millar, Jas. Jarvis, G. McGhee, A. Powley, A. McLean, D. Agnew (late of Broxburn Society), J. Gilmour, W. White, R. Brown, and C. McKinven. There will be seventeen classes, viz.: 6 Bord., 3 Nor., 5 Brit., 1 Sell., 1 A.O.V., and 1 Singing. All confined to a five miles' radius, with the exception of the last mentioned, which will be open. Prize money (for the first year), 1st 4/-, 2nd 2/-, 3rd 1/-. Fee, members 3d, per bird, non-members 6d. Annual subscription, 2/6.—Alexr. Dickson, Sec.

SHEFFIELD C.B.S.

Annual general meeting, held December 5th, at the Wentworth Cafe, Pinstone Street, Mr. F. Jones (President) in the chair. There was a good attendance of members, and an interesting meeting was held, the business being chiefly election of officers and alterations to rules. Final arrangements for our open show were also made. The officers elected for the ensuing year are: President, Mr. F. Jones; vice-presidents, Messrs. T. Hemming and J. Thorpe; secretary, Mr. A. Hobson; assist. sec., J. Woolhouse; treasurer, Mr. W. Oxley; auditors, Messrs. J. Thorpe and J. G. Cowley; committee, Messrs. G. Drabble, P. Walsh, J. G. Cowley, W. H. Champion, T. Tow, W. T. Furniss, W. Bingham, J. Memmott, C. W. Hobson, W. Kelly, C. Tomlinson, A. Balley, and J. Curley. Several alterations to rules were made, which will be printed on the new syllabus. The question re novice rules, after a lot of discussion, was again referred to a delegate meeting. The four members elected to attend were Messrs. A. Hobson, J. Woolhouse, J. Curley and W. H. Webster. The question re the annual dinner was left to the committee, to be reported at next meeting. The final table show of young birds was also held, and made a very fine turn-out, 70 birds being on view, amongst which were some very good ones. The winners of the points specials in the various sections are as follows: CHAMP. YORKS.: 1, W. H. Champion; 2, Drabble and Bennett. NOR.: 1, A. H. Waters; 2, J. Woolhouse. CRESTS: 1, J. Memmott; 2, A. Hobson. BRIT.: 1, L. Falding; 2, P. Walsh. NOV., YORKS.: 1, W. Simmonite; 2, Sorsby and Billard. NOR.: 1, J. Curley; 2, L. Marcroft. The winners in the various classes were: CHAMP. STRATFORD & E. LONDON F.A.

Meeting held Dec. 12, a good muster of members being present. Schedule for 25th annual show, Jan. 8, 1913, drawn up. Messrs. J. F. Entwisle and Geo. Gardiner to judge. The hall has been engaged for two days, so that pens can be erected ready to receive exhibits night previous to show; and the secretary will be glad of any help members can give him at the hall day prior to show. Balance-sheet for young stock show read to meeting, showing a nice balance on the right side. New members elected: Messrs. W. R. Sherman and W. Angell.—W. Maxey, Hon. Sec.

SUNDERLAND C.B.A.

Fortnightly meeting held December 7th, Mr. J. Farrer presiding over a very good meeting. The question of section specials for our open show on January 17th and 18th was considered, and it was decided to give, in addition to 2s. 6d. per class: 5s. most points Nor., 2s. 6d. Crests, 5s. Yorks., 5s. Bords., 2s. 6d. Lizards, 5s. British, 5s. Foreign, and a fine pair E. and L.S. fish carvers for most points in Mules and Hybrids, presented by F. W. Goldstone, Esq., M.P. There is also a skin rug value 21s. for most points in open show. With 40 open classes and specials as above we are looking forward to having a record show. H. Greenwood, Esq., M.P., was elected a vice-president. We can still do with a few more donations, which I will be glad to acknowledge.—J. Jeffrey, Sec.

BORDER FANCY C.C.

The annual general meeting will be held in Scottish National Show Rooms (Ediuburgh), Jan. 1. The time of meeting will be advertised in hall. The following is business to be transacted: Minutes of previous meeting, balance-sheet for 1912, election of president, secretary, and treasurer, also district delegates and auditors. The following motions have been tabled: That all drinking glasses in show cages be of the small pattern. Also that rule regarding birds wearlug rings be rescinded, or leave it an open question. That all cage bottoms should be covered with sawdust or rough seed, one material only. That when a judge is judging a class the numbers on the cages should be turned away from him so that he cannot see the numbers. That no club holding a confined show be granted the patronage unless there be eight members of B.F.C.C. in the said club. That colour feeding in Borders be allowed, and rule relating to same be withdrawn from club rules. That two members in partnership be allowed to win six medals in one show season, seeing they are each paying usual member's subscription.—M. Jamieson. Hon. Sec. and Treas.

DULWICH AND PECKHAM C.B.S.

Annual Prize Distribution.

Annual distribution of special prizes won by members at club shows during the year, took place at the Reindeer Hotel, December 10. A good number of members and friends were present. Mr. F. Cole was unanimously elected to the chair, and after a few remarks proceeded to distribute the prizes to the fortunate winners. Mr. H. E. Tringham won the challenge cup for the second year in succession. Mr. E. Baker (I.O.W.) took the "News of the World" challenge shield, and the club's young bird bowls; and Mr. D. Reeks the novice cup. Other winners of specials were Messrs. Gant, Tebbs, Gillard, Fairman, Crawford, Clarke, Botting, Hazell, Tomsett, Bullen, Coombs, Austin. The proceedings were enlivened with music and song, and many thanks are due to Mrs. Reeks for so very kindly presiding at the piano, and to Mr. Richardson and Mr. Reeks for their songs. Mr. F. J. Martin, in well-chosen words, proposed a vote of thanks to the show managers for the able manner in which they had carried out their duties. Mr. Cranford seconded, and the vote was carried unanimously. Mr. Richardson replied thanking the members, and added that he was very pleased to inform them that the show had proved a financial success, and that he had a balance on the right side of over £2. Much applause followed this announcement. Mr. Fairman also replied, and thanked the members for the support they had given to Mr. Richardson and himself as show managers; he would also like to propose a vote of thanks to Mr. Tomsett, who had given them very much help in the show work. This was unanimously carried. Vote of thanks to the many friends who had so generously contributed to the special prize list and show fund. The chairman, on calling the meeting to a close, reminded the members that the next time they met would be at the annual general meeting in January. In the meantime, they would receive voting papers for the election of their committee for 1913. He wished to impress upon them the importance of voting the men they thought best fitted to serve them in this capacity, and also the importance of attending this annual meeting. Incidentally, he mentioned that the probability was that the club would have an open autumn show in 1913. Vote of thanks to the chair closed the meeting.—W. Hodson, Hon. Sec.

WALKLEY AND DISTRICT C.B.S.

Annual general meeting held December 12th, Westmorland Street Mission Hall. Election of officers, etc.: Chairman, Mr. T. Ridal; vice-chair, J. Woolhouse and J. G. Cowley; treasurer, J. Kelsey; auditors, G. H. Cowley and A. Wardley; committee, W. T. Furnies, Smith, R. Hogan, Bailey, Sisson, J. Smith. The next business was the arrangements for our first tea and prize distribution. Decided that the tea take place in the Doncaster Street Friends' Room, Doncaster Street, on January 9th. Tea on tables at 6 o'clock sharp; tickets 9d. Committee were picked, also the ladies' committee—Mrs. Tomlinson, Mrs. Lawton, Mrs. Thompson, Mrs. Hogan. Each member is allowed four tickets. Now, members, rally round and let this be a big success. We shall have upwards of 30 special prizes to distribute. A concert will intersperse this. Dr. Jones is expected to attend to distribute prizes. The next business was alterations to rules, several coming in for a lot of discussion, particularly the one relating to novices. Eventually it was decided to let the rule remain as it is. The only alteration is that we have seven cards—that is, a fourth prize card extra. The donation to room was next discussed. It was decided to pay £2 a year. The next was that the entrance fee be abolished, but it was thought that this would not increase the membership, so it was resolved to let it remain. Catalogues were given to each member at annual show, which cost the society £1 2s. 6d. It was a dead loss, so it was decided that at future shows to lessen the loss that we charge for them. The next was considered the most important arrangement yet made: That we purchase three cups—one Yorks., one Nor., one Brit.—the same to be competed for at annual show for four highest awards, each competitor to pay 1s. for either medal or diploma. In case of a tie, the judge to re-judge the candidate's birds, and in the event of any member winning same three times, not necessarily in succession, it becomes his own property. We have also at a previous meeting decided that point special winners be allowed to choose their own prize. Will those who won same, and were not present at meeting, let me know by post. The winners of point specials table shows are as follows: MEMBERS' YORKS.: Messrs. J. Thorpe and T. Ridal. MEMBERS' NOR.: J. G. Cowley and J. Woolhouse. NOV. YORK.: J. Carr and P. Chadwick. NOV. NOR.: J. Curley and R. Smith. BRIT.: J. C. Scott and A. Bailey. The special winners were for nest feather and annual show points. YORKS.: 1, Furniss; 2, Ridal; 3, J. Carr; 4, C. Marshall. NOR.: A. Lawton, R. Smith, J. G. Cowley, J. Woolhouse. BRIT.: J. and C. Scott, A. Bailey, A. Simpson. The January meeting night is the tea, arranged for February meeting night, pair show, 4 classes—one Members' Yorks, one Nov. Yorks., one Members' Nor., one Nov. Judge, W. H. Champion. March meeting lecture on Norwich by Mr. Taylor (Attercliffe). Bring your new members February meeting.—C. Tomlinson, Sec.

BURTON - ON - TRENT

Jan. 18th.

Only Show ever catered for the small man. Novel Scheme. Special staging for Cage Birds. State section.—F. Cameron, Wetmore Road.

Every exhibitor at one time or another wishes to sell some of his birds, and in this connection it has been proved that there is no selling force so powerful as a catalogue of wins, especially if it be published with, or shortly after a report of the show at which they have been gained.

The report of every show of importance during the season is published in the columns of "Cage Birds," in the first available issue after its occurrence.

The wise exhibitor, especially if he secures honours, will not miss the opportunity of inserting a small advertisement, giving particulars of his wins, in the issue reporting the particular show, or, if that is not possible, in the issue following.

Rates are: 18 words 6d., 2 words 1d. after, prepaid.

Twitterings.

Mr. G. Denham, hon. sec., Metropolitan C.B.A., has removed to 112, Cowley Rd., Mortlake.

We hear that Mr. J. W. Metcalfe (Liverpool) is judging Nantwich Show on Feb. 7 next.

R. A. Newley is "the" man for show cages. Order early. Address: 24, Stockwell Green, London, S.W.—(Advt.).

We are asked to notify the following change of address: Mr. G. Sharp, from Sherwood, to 121 Berridge Road, Hyson Green, Nottingham.

Mr. Robert Bruce, sec, Fraserburgh F.S., writes that in view of the late despatch of schedules, entries bearing Saturday's post mark, Dec. 21, will be accepted.

Mr. W. Stainton (2, Earlsgate, Winterton, near Doncaster) would be glad if Mr. Williams, who some 18 months ago gave an illustration of a hot-water radiator in our columns, could send him his address.

We have fixed our cage-bird show for Jan. 11, writes Mr. T. E. Jones, sec. Brandon Colliery C.B.S. Mr. Wm. Reid, Pallion, Sunderland, will judge. Schedules ready shortly. Show manager, Mr. Geo. Reed, the well-known Linnet judge.

We are informed that prize-money has been paid in respect of the following shows. Anyone who may have been overlooked should apply to the respective secretaries: Abersychan, Dalton, Wandsworth, Gravesend, Uddingston, Frome, Irvine.

Crystal Palace Cage Bird Show, February 7th to 11th.—A new limit class has been provided for pairs for Mule or Hybrid breeding, price not to exceed 30s. Breeders' cards inserted in catalogue, 2s. 6d. each. A cheap and lasting advertisement.—(Advt.).

Kindly inform prize winners at Gateshead show, writes Mr. Greason, sec., that prize-money will be paid as soon as possible. We have had a lot of hard work attending to birds, so hope all will be patient with us until we can attend to their wants.

The winning numbers in the Oldham and Dis. C.B.A. recent draw, are:—1st, 13,477; 2nd, 10,019; 3rd, 14,583; 4th, 11,629; 5th, 11,589; 6th, 13,036; 7th, 13,391; 8th, 12,975; 9th, 10,052; 10th, 12,980; 11th, 11,590; 12th, 11,406.—Jas. Cope, sec. (Advt.)

All my exhibits were absent from Gateshead show owing to the N.E. Railway strike, writes Mr. A. J. Marley. I should like to have had a run for my money, but the railway company would not insure or guarantee anything, so I had no alternative but to keep them at home.

The advertisement of Yarm, Eaglecliffe and Dis. open show on Jan. 11, 1913, was inadvertently held over from last issue. Exhibitors should note it this week, and also the review of schedule. Entries close Monday, Jan. 6 (Tuesday's post in time). We hope fanciers will respond with a bumping entry.

I was agreeably surprised on opening [illegible] CAGE BIRDS of last week to find one of my winning Lizards depicted. It has only been exhibited once previously to the L.C.B.A. show, when it was placed 2nd at Rochdale O.C. show. I think the drawing a very good one and thank you for the honour.—C. F. BOSWORTH (Rawtenstall).

HOLIDAY NOTICE.

Important to Advertisers, Secretaries of Societies, and all our Correspondents.

Owing to the Christmas Holidays this year falling on Wednesday and Thursday (December 25th and 26th), advertisers, correspondents, and our readers generally, should note that any communications for insertion in our issue dated December 28th should reach us not later than FIRST POST TO-MORROW, SATURDAY (Dec. 21st), as our December 28th issue must go to press on the Monday afternoon, December 23rd. Any communications arriving after Saturday, the 21st, (unless bearing Saturday or Sunday's post-mark), MAY HAVE TO BE HELD OVER.

We are having two open British and two open Foreign classes at our annual members' show on Dec. 28th, with Mr. J .C. Barnes (Sheffield) as judge, writes Mr. G. L. Sampson, hon. sec., Stocksbridge and Dist. C.B.S. (Bracken Moor, Deepcar.) I shall be pleased to send schedule to anyone. Prize money 8s., 4s., 2s., and special each class, entry fee 1s. per cage.

Very many thanks for the beautiful portrait of my yellow Norwich hen, 1st and sp., Horticultural Hall Show, depicted in your Christmas issue. It is a very true picture of the bird, and does your respected artist, Mr. Norman, very great credit. The whole issue is simply splendid. I wish CAGE BIRDS the abundant success it deserves.—J. Hodder (St. Lukes, E.C.).

In sending the report of the prize distribution of the Dulwich and Peckham C.B.S., Mr. W. Hodson, hon. sec., writes: May I take this opportunity of thanking you for the valuable assistance and for the many excellent reports of our shows and meetings, during the year, now closing, in the columns of CAGE BIRDS. I must also thank you for the charming calendar with this week's paper. Wishing CAGE BIRDS every success for 1913.

The members of my society, writes Mr. G. Broome, sec. Abertillery C.B.S., wish me to thank the Abersychan society for their promptness in paying out prize money. They all received it within less than a week. I hope the show turned out on the right side. This speaks well for a young society, and I am sure they will get the support of the Abertillery C.B.S. members at their next show.

OBITUARY.

Mr. C. Whiting.

It is with deepest feeling of regret, writes Mr. F. Rhodes, Secretary City of Bradford O.S., that I have to announce the death of one of our oldest members, Mr. Charlie Whiting, who died suddenly, on Dec. 13th. I am sure the sympathy of all fanciers will be extended to Mrs. Whiting and family in their sudden and sad bereavement.

I must say, writes Mr. Wm. Cumming, Sec. Forres O.A., that our show was a great success, mainly due, I believe, to our advertising in Show Dates Fixed of CAGE BIRDS. We had an increase of over 70 on last year's show. The gate was also beyond our expectations. I am getting specials and prize money out as fast as possible. Wishing CAGE BIRDS the success it deserves.

Schedules have been sent to all last year's exhibitors, writes Mr. James Wilson, Sec. Malton, Norton and Dis. F.C., 31, Sutton Street, Norton, Malton, Yorks., and all who have applied. If anyone who has not got one will send their entries on I will classify. At the time of writing entries are coming in very steadily, and I should be pleased if fanciers would send them in good time, so as to help us to get our catalogues printed in good time.

I shall be much obliged, writes Mr. J. W. Norris, hon. sec. British Roller C.C., if you will call attention to the fact that the B.R.C.C. have given their patronage to the Roller classes at the forthcoming Scottish National show, and have allotted a large silver and bronze medal for the best and second best bird shown by a member of the B.R.C.C. in the open class. Unfortunately it is too late to insert same in schedule.

Re Abersychan show, I am sorry, writes our reporter, that I did not send on to you the report of the Norwich classes. I tore them out of my book and unfortunately put them in a wrong envelope. The Secretary drew my attention to it by post to-day, and I wrote and told him the mistake, and said no doubt you would publish them next week. Sorry to have given you this trouble. (These classes are reported under this show this week.—Ed.)

At our next meeting, Dec. 21, writes Mr. Stubbs, Sec. London and Counties Assn. of Canary Breeders, all arrangements will be made for our pair show, 1913. Fanciers wishing to join us should do so at once, as we hope to have a most successful show, several old breeders having promised to fall in again. A table show of Norwich Plainheads will be held on Saturday, Dec. 21st. Will those unable to be present at our last show kindly bring along some good entries.

Exhibitors who have not received a schedule can post entries to me with particulars, and I will classify for our open show on Boxing Day in Yorks, Norwich and Borders, writes Mr. R. B. Wright, hon. sec., 15, Worcester Drive, Clubmoor, Liverpool. Members are requested to note this show is the last for season's specials, and that prize-money in gift class will be 6s., 3s., and 1s. (omitted from schedule). The Lord Mayor and Lady Mayoress will open the show at 2 p.m., Boxing Day. Members are asked to sell all tickets.

Wandsworth Fanciers' Society has moved its headquarters from the Red Lion, to Sutton's Hall, Spread Eagle Yard, High Street, Wandsworth, a spacious and suitable room, writes Mr. W. Lightfoot, hon. sec., 86, Heythorp Street, Southfields, S.W.

In your report of Whitburn Show, writes Mr. Gilchrist, Coldstream, I notice your reporter says my Dark Goldfinch Mule (Border King) is minus a claw. I beg to inform him he has made a mistake, as the bird is complete in the feet, having all his claws, and now is looking as fit as ever. I should not have paid much attention to this, but some judges put great stress on a bird being complete, especially in the feet. Thanking you for your splendid reports of Scotch shows.

New Society for Abertillery.

Mr. Broome, writes that his address which he sent us last week as 19, Powell Street, Abertillery, should be No. 30, not 19.

At Workington Show.

An error has crept into the schedule of Workington show, held Jan. 1, writes the sec., Mr. H. Hyde. Classes 44 to 51 inclusive (Borders and Yorks) should read "Clear ticked or unevenly-marked."

Welsh C.B.S. Judges.

The voting papers for the election of Club Show judge have been duly counted, and the following is the result. Papers received, 20:—D. A. S. Longden 8 votes, G. L. Harber 7, Ben Davies 5.—The Editor, "C.B."

Thanks from Sheffield.

The officials of the Sheffield C.B.S. desire to thank those fanciers who helped with their entries at the open show, writes Mr. J. Woolhouse, the assist. sec. We trust they all received their birds back in the pink of condition. The attendance at the show was capital and everything went off without a hitch.

True Sportsmanship.

To make absolutely certain that all birds from Gateshead show were put on the right trains, the management made a request to the railway officials, to grant them permission to act in the capacity of "porters." We did not hear whilst at the show whether this request had been acceded to. Nevertheless, whether it was or was not, the good-will was there. Besides all the members, many outsiders had proferred their assistance, determined to leave nothing to chance.

Future of the Sheffield O.S.

Mr. T. Dawn (chairman of the Sheffield O.S.) during a conversation with me at the Sheffield C.B.S. show, informed me, writes our representative, that as regards further correspondence, on the controversy that has been going on over various matters appertaining to the secretaryship, etc., of the Sheffield O.S., he has finished. This, I consider, is a wise course to take, as "hitches" like this, do not improve matters. Let harmony prevail.

The L. and P O.S. Annual Dinner.

This will be held in "The Queen's Saloon" Holborn Restaurant on Thursday, Jan. 9th. The committee, writes the hon.sec., Mr. C. W. Law, Brinkley House, Woodhouse Road, N. Finchley, will be pleased to welcome any friends or brother fanciers from kindred societies. Tickets, 4s. each. Ladies are specially invited. An extensive musical programme has been arranged. It is hoped that our New Year's party will exceed last year's, and also see the reunion of many old friends.

What Can It Be?

The room for difference of opinion as to whether a bird is a clear Mule or a clear Canary appears to be as wide as ever. At the Bradford National show, Mr. J. Maddison, the well-known Newcastle Mule breeder and exhibitor, "wrong-classed" as being merely a Canary a bird shown by Mr. H. G. Fisher as a clear Linnet Mule. This week, the same bird was marked "very highly commended" by Mr. John Robson (also a well-known judge) in the light Mule class at Sheffield show.

Xmas Bumper for Poultry-Keepers

Those of our readers who are interested in poultry-keeping, should not fail to secure this week's double-number of THE POULTRY WORLD, on sale to-day (Dec. 20) at all newsagents and bookstalls. This great treat includes a superb calendar for 1913—in colours, a beautiful Art Plate, and a charming Coloured Plate. In addition there are many interesting and additional features, illustrations, etc. If you have any friends residing in the Colonies who have a liking for fowls, you should certainly send them a copy of this Xmas bumper.

Corrections in Show Reports.

We are asked to correct the following errors in Show Reports: In Cinn. Bord. at the Bradford Nat. Mr. Middleton won 3rd, not Williams. At Whitburn, there was not a Novice Border medal in competition; Mr. Fisher won the B.F.C.C. medal, and Mr. Lambie won special for best Border confined to novices of the parish, and also specials for most points in Borders and in Norwich.

Help Both Your Hobby and "Cage Birds" by Distributing Our Calendars.

To Secretaries of Societies and others willing to distribute copies of CAGE BIRDS' coloured Calendar for 1913, or place same where they will be seen by the general public, we shall be pleased to forward a supply if they will kindly make application to our Publisher: CAGE BIRDS, 154, Fleet Street, London, E.C.; a postcard will do.

A Bird's "Fortress."

One of the most curiously constructed bird's nests ever seen is on exhibition at the home of the Denver Dumb Friends' League. It was picked up by Dr. John M. Gower on the sidewalk in front of the court-house, where the wind had evidently blown it. The nest is a Sparrow's, and its maker evidently preparing against the attack of his inherent enemy—man. It might be called a fortified nest. It is made of sweepings, with hairpins and nails woven in at the sides. The points of the pins and the nails stick outward, and remind one of rifles sticking through the portholes of a fortification.

An L.C.B.A. Show Record.

I have read with interest the letters from various fanciers over the able manner your staff got the report of the L.C.B.A. exhibition published in CAGE BIRDS the same day as the show was held. It may interest many to know that I had a copy of CAGE BIRDS in Cardiff the same day as the L.C.B.A. Show (Thursday) before 11.30 p.m. — 165 miles away from London. Thus the report was in my hands ten hours before I received the catalogue of awards. I think this may well be termed a record.—A. Shellam, Cardiff.

Gateshead's Plucky Fight.

Our Gateshead friends were badly hit by the N.E.R. strike, but the entry might have been far worse under the circumstances, was the general opinion. The officials right nobly faced the difficulty and are to be heartily congratulated on the manner in which their show was conducted. We heard from several sources that cancelling of the fixture would most likely come about. Not so; the Tynesiders are too full of grit. They stuck to their guns, "win or lose." Fanciers should make note of this, and when another Gateshead show comes around, send them a bumping entry. They are almost certain to be down on this occasion, so see that their next venture proves a huge success.

The Scottish National New Year Show.

The schedule of the Scottish National C.B.S. Show, to be held, as usual, at the Corn Exchange, Grassmarket, Edinburgh, Dec. 31st and Jan. 1st, is to hand, and also, as usual, discloses a magnificent classification. In all, 133 classes are provided; Nor. have 23, Crests 10, Scotch Fancy 14, Belgians 3, Bord. 20, Cinn. 5, Yorks. 12, and Rollers 2. Nine classes are given to Mules and Hybrids, and British have 21, including classes for non-fed Greenfinches and Siskins and Field-Moulted Linnets. The insectivorous birds seem, however, to be somewhat neglected, only two classes, large and small, being provided; the birds in them will have the careful attention of Messrs. Sykes and Hoyle. The Foreign birds have nine classes, and once again Miss Peddie Waddell will kindly attend to the wants of the birds in the section, so that exhibitors may be assured that nothing will be left undone to administer to the comfort of their birds. Twelve judges will apportion the prizes: Mr. H. W. Battye, Nor. and Nor. Greens; Mr. A. Chalmers, limit Nor., Crests, and Crest-breds; Messrs. Stewart, Maxwell, Black, and Carson, Scotch Fancies; Mr. J. F. Dewar, Belgians; Messrs. W. C. Duncan and J. Watson, Borders; Mr. A. Hirst, Cinnamons and Yorks.; Mr. Bradfield, Rollers; Mr. W. C. Duncan, Mules and Hybrids; and Messrs. J. Maddison and J. F. Dewar British and Foreign. No less than 264 special prizes are offered, including shields, cups, medals, etc. Prize-money, 15s., 10s., 5s., 3s., 2s., for an entry fee of 2s. Entries close Dec. 24th to Mr. J. R. Meikle, 51, Lothian Road, Edinburgh.

I might tell you that I have had good results through advt. in "Cage Birds." Nearly all my stock is sold; speaks well for "C.B."—J. B. Rogers (Afonwen).

Allow me through your columns to thank the many correspondents for offers in answer to my advt. in last issue, writes Mr. Currall (Wednesford). I had replies from Ireland and Scotland as well as England, which shows the popularity of "Cage Birds."

DON'T OVERLOOK OUR

During Your Holiday Hours.

Particulars of three very interesting competitions —"Painting," "Hidden Birds," and "Picture Puzzle"— appeared in last week's great 'Xmas Double Number. Useful cash prizes for the successful competitors.

GATESHEAD SHOW HARD HIT.

Despite the Knox, however, the exhibits made a glorious display, and the management was always superb.

THIRTEENTH Annual Show, held Dec. 13 and 14, by the Gateshead and Dis. C.B.S. The Burt Terrace Drill Hall, which is well lighted, spacious, and lofty, absolutely void of draughts, and comfortably heated, was the venue. Truly a most capital rendezvous for such a function. At the opening ceremony Miss M. Ellis, daughter of the first Lord Mayor of Newcastle, officiated. Her exceedingly appropriate speech was full of encouragement to the members. That well-known Yorkshire fancier, Mr. T. C. Crawhall (Newcastle) voiced a few very complimentary remarks, in a true sportsmanlike fashion; as also did Mr. J. Mackenzie, the local naturalist. Mr. J. Rischorough and Mr. J. Swann came through specially from Sunderland to assist, their additional help being greatly appreciated by the Society, and the Chairman (Mr. R. Tindale) wishes to express thanks on behalf of his colleagues. The patronage of the following Specialist Clubs was in evidence:—English and Welsh Bord. F.C., Nat. B.B. and M.C., Bord. F.C.C., Northern Counties N.P.C., N.B.M. and F.B.C. F.B.C., N.Y.C.C., Northern Bord. and S.F.C. and Northern Liz. C.

Was it an Unlucky Number?

The entry, we are exceedingly sorry to record, was not up to the usual standard associated with this well-known Northern carnival. The North Eastern Railway strike told its tale, and the "Palace of the North" suffered greatly. Eight short of 1,000 was the total entry. The schedule issued was very liberal, with good prize money (guaranteed), and a host of specials, and under normal circumstances it would have drawn a far greater response. Naturally, fanciers were loath to risk their treasures. We tender our sympathy to the Society in the misfortune attending its 13th show (unlucky number).

The President of the Society is Ald. Gillies, J.P., and he is supported by the nobility and gentry of the neighbourhood, as vice-presidents. The Chairman and show manager, Mr. R. Tindale, is a fancier to the core, not solely a figure head, but a real worker and a wonderful manipulator. His efforts were strenuous and many, and a finer controller and organiser it would be most difficult to imagine. Mr. T. Almond acts as his understudy, in praiseworthy and practical manner. A couple of rare assets. The committee is composed of many well-known fanciers, who know to a nicety the duties expected of them. Energetic and untiring in their attention to the various items that an open venture entails were Messrs. W. Longstaff, A. T. Hodson, J. Moor, R. W. Smith, D. E. Kent, J. W. Reed, F. F. Hawkins, J. Mackenzie, T. Tomlinson, G. C. Pettereon, H. Wellsbury, R. Hope, J. Davidson, J. Maddison, J. W. Lawson, A. Holden, A. W. Lord, W. Curry, J. Scott, J. Brown, J. W. Laidlow, and J. Liddle. With such a list as this there can be no wonder that the management throughout the entire show was so superb. The auditors are Messrs. R. W. Smith and A. Holden, a brace of very useful officials. It was Mr. J. G. Greason's first appearance as a show secretary, and from the method in which he handles every detail, his most courteous manner, and business like ability, it is certain that Gateshead has unearthed the right man to strengthen its future carnivals—he has undoubtedly all the essentials. On the eve of show day four tier staging was being erected, saws were grating, hammers were making their presence heard, and under the guidance of Mr. R. Tindale (chairman), were Messrs. Holden, Patterson, Cattell, Laidlow, Cotam (assist. sec., Newcastle Society), Topping, A. W. Lord, Hawkins, Davison, and R. Hope, all giving of their best help, all was being done to have every thing in "apple-pie" order previous to the judge's commencing their work on Friday morning. The night stewards were Messrs. A. Holden, A. W. Lord, J. Brown, R. Hope, and G. Ellis, a capable band of "watchers." Mr. G. Ellis, who officiated so efficiently at Newcastle show as receiver and dispatch clerk, kindly obliged in the same capacity at this show.

Amongst the Birds.

Yorks were a superb collection, and rightly voted the feature of the show—near on the best array ever seen. Competition was red hot, and we did not envy Mr. J. C. Barnes his task in separating the exhibits. Charming creatures were those staged successfully by Messrs. J. Stewart, L. Dykes, S. C. Dix, G. W. Cuthbertson, E. Deighton, T. Mirley, and J. Petch. Messrs. Ogden Bros., had entered a team, but these were absent, held back presumably on account of risk over the strike on the railway. Norwich were not so good as might have been expected; yet although not over numerous, some very meritorious specimens were amongst them, notably the clear yellow ck., owned by Mr. A. Holden, Mr. J. Thomas' very fine marked yellow cock, and Mr. W. T. Mattinson's marked buff cock and clear yellow hen, both unflighted and exceptionally promising. Border Fancies were a fair lot, but might have been much better considering that they had 11 classes set apart for them. Was it the instruction to the judges to disqualify any bird that had been colour fed, or what, that held them back? Hybrids contained some difficult "mixtures." Gems were put down by Dr. M. A. Wilson, Messrs. McVittie, Gilchrist, C. Tarn, J. Johnson, and others. Unfortunately Messrs. Martin and Archer's team did not turn up. British were exceptionally good; our national songsters with their tight-fitting costumes, their magnificent condition, staged by master hands, captivated to the fullest extent. Crests and C.B., contained some eye openers, but were down in numbers. Anyhow one saw representatives from notable stables, such as Messrs. G. H. Hugill (new name to us; the more the merrier), R. S. Bewick, with his noted "Duchess" C.B. hen, and "Prince of Wales" (good enough for a king) also "Young Duchess" quite a Venus; Rev. G. W. Joyce, Y. L. Martin, and Mrs. T. Taylor. Mr. V. W. Laithwaite's birds were absent. Cinnamons; what has become of them? ten birds in two classes (six absent). Scotch Fancies were good, many grand "bent backs" providing a treat to those who swear by the bird of circle. Lizards were nice; the largest "plums" were captured by Messrs. W. P. P. Barnes and W. Reid. Foreign were few, yet gave a touch of tone to the show, and as usual drew the feminine visitors to them.

Stewards, who officiated expeditiously and efficiently, attending to every detail, were Messrs. Kent, Brown, Lord, Robson, Laidlow, Swann, Rischorough, Hawkins, Hope, Petterson, Almond, and Thompson. The house was kept in capital order, and everything went as smooth as wedding bells. When we left, the show room was fairly well crowded, and when the auditors have done their work we hope to hear of the balance being on the right side, after the efforts of the officials to face and fight so very strenuously against the unforeseen railway strike.

Special winners are as follows:—Mrs. T. Taylor's three diplomas went to Mr. L. Dykes (Bradford) best Canary, his noted unevenly mkd. buff Yorke, cock. Mr. McQuiston, best Brit., with a Corn Bunting, a stormer, and Mrs. Taylor, best Hyb. or Foreign, with a magnificent Sugar bird. Silk's cup, for best Nor. (open) went to Mr. Holden, for a massive and grandly shaped cl. yell. cock. Members, dinner set for best bird, Mrs. T. Taylor, with the Sugar bird noted above, second best, Mr. G. H. Hugill, a topping buff D.C., spl. best var. Yorks., Mr. T. C. Crawhall. Cattell's, Mr. J. Petch, very smart cl. yell. Yorkie hen. Ramsden's for best young bird, Mr. S. C. Dix, with a stylish unflighted cl. buff Yorkie, of grand colour.

The judges were Messrs. J. C. Barnes (Sheffield), J. Robson (London), W. C. Duncan (Coldstream), J. Maddison (Newcastle). Mr. Geo. Harland (Hull) was unable to attend through illness. Norwich P.H. had been apportioned to him, and these were adjudicated upon by Messrs. J. C. Barnes and J. Robson, the former taking the odd numbers, and the latter the even. The awards of the above gentlemen were well received.

THE NORWICH PLAINHEADS.

Mr. J. C. Barnes's Classes.

CL. YELL. (9): 1, sp, Holden, exquisite qual. and col., well up in substance, grand shape and carr., clean cut away; 2, Butler, very shapely, capital size, lovely feather and col., moves well, not quite so full in head and neck; 3, Forbes, teeming with qual. and col., neat expression of head, good neck, hardly so thick through, yet a good one; 4, Mattinson, short and thick set, nicely clothed, rich in col., not of the biggest, but of the smartest; vhc, Pierson; hc, c, Davison. TK. YELL. (5): 1, Thomas, mkd. wings and head, ablaze with col., delightful feather, slashing shape and subs., graceful wing carr., a gem; 2, Thompson, mkd. wings and head, full of col. and qua., very shapely, tight as a Java, not quite so massive, beauty; 3, Riseborough, thigh tick, plenty of subs., A1 col. and qual., fails a little in shape to above, yet nice; 4, Walker, mkd. wing, good tone of col., silky feather, neat head and neck, longer in barrel flights and tail; vhc, Anderson. YELL. HEN (7): 1, Thomas, sweetly mounded unflighted, cl., richly fed., stylishly gowned, not a giantess, but most bewitching damsel; 2, Richardson, mkd. head, silky texture of feather, nice tone of col., good size, not quite so cobby in build, still one we liked; 3, Couchman, mkd. wings and head, most subs. in class, grand shaped body, neat wings and tail, bit patchy in col., and rather heavy over eye; 4, Wellsbury, cl., capital col. and size, good head, neck, and chest, neat wing carr., a little free in feather behind; vhc, Birkett; hc, Pickles; c, Mattinson. YELL. UNFLIG. (13): 1, 3, Wellsbury, exceedingly smart brace, leader, cl., lovely shape and col., not a feather misplaced, well up in subs., best of carr., 3, cl., full of col. and qual., A1 type and size, moves nicely, very little behind its stable companion; 2, Holden, thigh tick, shapely, capital qual. and col., good subs., clean cut away, close up; 4, Wyndham, warmly fed, cl., short and thick set, superb feather, deficient in tail, which told against it; vhc, Lumley; hc, Smith; c, Fletcher. HEN (20), Grand class: 1, Mattinson, cl., yell. beautiful symmetry, richly fed, and magnificently clothed, good subs. and carr.; 2, Armstrong, buff, mkd. wing, sweet shape, superb qual. and col., neatly frosted, well up in size, graceful in movement, real charmer; 3, Lumley, finely shaped cl. yell., A1 co.. and subs., not quite so close in texture; 4, Thomas, cl. buff, true type, tight as a Java, rich tone of col.; vhc, Butler; hc, Miss H. E. More; c, Holden; No. 14, Wilson, absent. NOV. YELL. (17): 1, 2, Lawson, couple of beauties, former, cobby, cl., smooth as wax, good size, delightful carr., clean cut away; 2, mkd. neck, fine subs. and shape, lovely feather and col., but for being moulty of head would have won; 3, Armstrong, mkd. head, possessing superior feather, rattling col. and size, good head and neck, longer in barrel flights and tail; 4, Wood, mkd. head, soft silky texture of feather, superior col., neat head, neck and chest, little loose behind; vhc, Pape; hc, Turnbull and Calvert; c, Newton.

Mr. J. Robson's Classes.

CL. BUFF (10): 1, hc, Robson and March, bouncer, full of col. and qual., grand head, neck, and chest, fine wing carr., clean cut away; 2, Carr, best of shape, good subs. and carr., fails a little in feather and col. to winner, yet one we liked, 3, Thomas, rattling shape and size, teeming with qual. and col., jaunty carr., must have pressed; 4, Lumsden, short and thick set, capital undercolour, smart wing carr., not overdone with size; vhc, Davison; c, McKay. BUFF (7): 1, Pierson, mkd. head, fine tone of col., well clothed, very shapely and of good subs., carries itself neatly; 2, Wilcock, mkd. neck, all type, tight as a Java, richly fed, not so massive, still one of the best; 3, Butler, mkd. wing, head, and neck, teeming with qual. and col., fine subs., not so finely drawn, yet worth its place; 4, McKinn, mkd. wings and eyes, A1 qual., capital type, nice carr., less in build, and paler in col; vhc, Laidlow; hc, Pickles; c, Smith. BUFF HEN (20), Fine lot: 1, Thomas, delightfully gowned, cl., glorious col., slashing shape and subs., quite up-to-date; 2, Hope, grand moulded, cl., superb feather and col, not the size, but a charmer from tip to end; 3, Wellsbury, wing mkd., teeming with qual., richly fed., grand shape and subs., again real beauty; 4, Carr, cl., capital col. and qual., nice carr., not the subs. and little open in feather, yet good one; vhc, Pickles; hc, Smith; c, Pierson; No. 1, Cuss, absent. BUFF, 1912 (20): 1, Mattinson, wing and head mkd., smooth as wax, superior tone of col., grand carr., model for shape, should make a gem; 2, Hermeston, cl., even hotter in col., silky feather, well up in subs., capital body, nice neat expression of head, exceedingly promising as Mast rich feather and col., good shape and size, beaten a little in finish; 4, Pierson, shapely, cl., well feathered, moves nicely, not subs. or col. of those; vhc, McGinn; hc, Glass; c, ditto. NOV. BUFF (11): 1, 2, Holden, leader, bouncing buff bird, eye, slashing shape and feather, best of carr., tight under; 2, buff mkd. neck, capital feather, good subs., rattling shaped body, not quite so meritorious in head and neck characters as his mate yet a gem; 3, Hetherington, nicely clothed, cl. buff, good shape, clean cut away, not so massive in build, but worth its place; 4, Richardson, nicely fed, cl. yell., A1 qual. and size, good head and neck, longer in barrel and flights; vhc, Butler; hc, Wilford and Edward; c, Wyndham. NOV. BUFF (10). Rare class, two sets of winners could be selected: 1, Huxham, richly fed and [illegible] cl., wonderful size, best of [illegible] of yard ing high honours in open competition; 2, bi...ett, lightly var., ablaze with col., capital feather, nice head and neck, good body, neat wing carr., close up; 3, Liddell, grandly feathered, cl., plenty of subs., lovely shaped body; 4, Hodson, cobby, cl., tight as a Java, rare col. and frosting, on the small side rather, yet very catchy to the eye; vhc, Duke; hc, Fryer; c, Slack; Nos. 4, 5, Wade; 6, Walker; 11, Cass, absent.

WINSFORD.

First open show, held in the Co-operative Hall, December 14. The Midland Counties Yorkshire C.C. patronised this show, and a very good entry resulted, and a relief judge was secured to assist Mr. Houlton, in the person of Mr. Royle, who took Selling, Gift, and Novice classes. Mr. Houlton judged champion Yorks., Nor., Hybrids, and British birds. The Yorkshires all through were excellent for type and qual., and Messrs. Wells and Clempson, Atherstone, secured special for best Yorks. cock, with a really superb Green variegated Yell. The hen and unflighted specials were won by novice birds in both instances, beating the champions, Mr. Elks, of Crewe, winning with a grand yellow hen, and Mr. J. W. Jones, Runcorn, the unflighted, with a lovely marked yell. ck. Norwich were few in number, but good in champion section, but in novices both quality and quantity were present. The Dark Mule class was a very fine one of 29 entries. Borders were a very choice lot (27 in 3 classes), not bad for a start. British were a treat. The Goldies were headed by the notable champion of the season. Linnets were very grand, 23 of them. Twites, etc., were also a fine class, and Bullfinches were very good, and turned up well. Some class Yellow Buntings and Hawfinches were here, and the Softbills were few, but champion. Taken altogether, it was a very successful first venture. The officials are: President, S. Davies, Esq.; vice-presidents, Messrs. J. W. Dean, J. J. Darlow, E. B. Russell, B. Andrews, S. Oaks, A. Stubbs, F. W. Jones; chairman, W. A. Bennett, Esq.; committee, Messrs. E. Weedall, Hemmings, Perry, Brereton, L. Perry, Tomkinson, Davies, A. Weedall, Hatton, Robinson, Spilsbury, J. Taylor; hon. sec., Mr. S. S. Brooks. The latter carried out his duties admirably, and with such a good first open show he was wearing a rare broad smile that certainly did not come off all that day. He was most ably assisted by his committee. The judging was very well received all round.

The Critique.

FROME.

A Splendid Record Show.

Fourteenth annual show held December 12th in the large Temperance Hall, an almost ideal room for the purpose, being spacious, cosy, and well lighted. The hall was tastefully decorated for the occasion, and looked really well with its bunting and plants among the exhibits. The entry was a record, and, although the Roller classes were cut out, numbered 540. Nearly all the classes were well filled, some, such as yell. Norwich, Nov. Yorks, Nov. Bords. and Goldfinches coming up "Jumpers." The quality all through was magnificent. Not a bad bird was staged in the yell. Nor. cock class, the winner, owned by Mr. Banbury (Yeovil) being a bird of wonderful size and quality; so is Mr. Silk's (Emsworth) clear buff, a truly grand exhibit and much admired by the lovers of the chubby ones. Mr. Houghton (Glos'ter) had out a rare team, and annexed a big share of the prizes. Yorks. were grand, some very fine birds being staged. Borders comprised four well-filled classes, the pick of the West Country. That old enthusiast, Mr. D. Jenkins (Swansea) sent in a fine team, staged in his usual inimitable manner. There was a good class of Dark Mules, and the Goldfinch class was a real eye-opener twenty-six charmers and not a bad bird among them. There was little to choose between the first half dozen, Mr. Richards (Narberth) staging the winner, a perfect specimen, that will require something unusual to stop it. The management was all that one could desire, Mr. C. I. Young being once again at the helm; he has had many years of show management and knows all the details that make for success. Mr. A. S. King undertakes the secretarial work, and very thoroughly he does it, assisted by Mr. P. Edwards. The committee of workers consists of Messrs. Dodge, Tricker, Kelley, G. and R. Pinnell, Payne, Elliott, H. and J. Yeo, Jelly, Hobbs, and Keay. Mr. C. Glass makes an efficient chairman. The show was opened by Vice-Admiral Arbuthnot, who made a few remarks in favour of our hobby. Mr. H. Norman judged. He had a hard day's work, but was so well served that he got through in capital time. Members' entries were not over large, but the quality was quite equal to many in the open.

BOWHILL.

5th annual show held Dec. 14, in the Gothenburg Hall. The weather was very wretched throughout the day, so that the light was not of the best. We were sorry to note the very poor entry, there being a big decrease from last year. The Secretary, Mr. A. Spence, had everything well in hand, and is a most obliging and painstaking official. He is very ably backed up by a willing staff of helpers. The judges were: Norwich and Borders, J. Holmes, Edinburgh; Crests; and British birds, G. Arnott (Kirkcaldy), whose awards seemed to give general satisfactiou.

How Exhibition Canaries Should be Bred.

Another very useful thing about this time is half a teaspoonful of linseed twice a week, which is excellent in warding off that most serious trouble, egg-binding. To attain our object, we must try and steer clear of egg-binding, of which I have had some little experience. 'Tis often said that experience is a great teacher, so my readers may forgive me if I quote a little of mine.

Up to 6 years ago I used to have sometimes five or six hens egg-bound every year. I tried all the various remedies advocated for this complaint, but still they came, until I was advised by an old and esteemed fancier to give them plenty of linseed, which I did, and have done every year since. I might mention also that I have never used any inga seed with the exception of what is in the mixed seed. I have never had an egg-bound hen since. Therefore I have naturally formed an opinion that there is something beneficial in linseed. Another thing we shall require at this particular time is a good supply of cuttle fish bone. I myself save all the shells of the eggs, that have been used for the making of puddings, etc., dry them, and roughly grind them up and throw some into the cage bottoms occasionally for the hens to pick up to help them to shell their own eggs.

We will suppose that all has gone well so far, and that the hen has laid the ordinary clutch of eggs. If she is a young hen (bred the season previous), I should advise you not to disturb her more than is really necessary during the first round, because it is at this time when they get, or lose, confidence in their master. And if once they get this, you can rely on them doing their work providing you do yours in giving them good, clean, fresh food at the necessary time.

When we have a nice brood of, say, four healthy youngsters just about to leave the nest, we shall have to keep a sharp look-out, for fear the parents are wanting to re-line the old nest, or line a new one. I think it is safest at this time to move the young. If they are not picking for themselves, it will be better to hang them in a Yorkshire show cage, or a nursery cage, in front of the breeding cage, so that their parents will be able to feed them through the wires. Keeping in mind that we are dealing with exhibition specimens, we must try to avoid them getting plucked, or this will tell against them during the show season. Sometimes they do not seem to get on so well after they have been plucked, therefore we avoid it if possible.

When we have them doing for themselves, this is the time we should train them up in the way they should go; then when they grow old they will not depart from it. Let them have plenty of baths, so that they may learn to keep themselves clean. We must not forget the show cage. Spare moments spent in training them to this will never be wasted. I maintain that it is at this particular time you are making them into exhibition specimens, for, however good they may be, if they are not trained for their work they are not of much use on the show bench.

The next consideration will be the moult. This, to my mind, is one of the most trying times for young birds. You will find in many cases that birds which have gone on well up to now seem to start going the wrong way. These are the ones that require some help to make them break into the moult. I find myself that cochineal is a very good thing to use; it helps them on wonderfully. You can get it at nearly any chemist's shop, and it costs very little. I generally put about a dozen of the small insects (or pellets, whichever you like to call them) into a breakfast cup and pour a cupful of boiling water on them. Let it go cold, and give this as drinking water until the birds break into the moult.

The Colour-food and the Moult.

Another thing to be considered is the colour food. Don't be tempted to buy any "cheap." Just think for a moment: you have an ideal bird and you go and throw your chance away for the sake of a few coppers. You must have a good and reliable colour food to bring your specimens up to date.

As to the system of moulting, I generally put two birds together in a cage, a cock and a hen; they don't fight as much as if you had two cocks together, and they eat the colour food better. But you will have to keep a sharp look-out, as some birds have a nasty habit of plucking; so keep your eyes open for fear you might have one of this kind to deal with. If so, put it in a cage by itself.

A few drops of Parish's Chemical Food in their water, now and again, is very good while they are in the moult. Keep your birds as clean as possible as long as you can, so that you will be able to do without washing, because they must be properly through the moult before you venture to wash them. If washed too early it is liable to throw a bird into a second moult. I consider now that we have got our specimens ready for the show bench.

Hints from a British Bird Enthusiast

Both Hybrid-breeders and Keepers of British Birds will find many useful "tips" in this Lecture, given by Mr. W. Clark (Larkhall), before the Burnbank and Hamilton West C.B.S.

At a recent meeting of the Burnbank and Hamilton West C.B.S., held in Burnbank Co-operative Hall, a lecture was given on British birds, Mule and Hybrid breeding, by Mr. William Clark, of Larkhall.

Mr. Clark said: It is advisable to have British birds in an outside house, as I believe that if plenty of fresh air is available there will be healthier birds. Wild seeds should only be given as ripe as possible, otherwise they are little or no use. They should be introduced to your birds in small quantities at first, as they come in season. In the early spring give the buds from hawthorn hedges and from yellow plum trees to Bullfinches, if you can get them. A week or two later you will be getting young dandelion leaves; but be careful about the frosty mornings. Next comes the coltsfoot, which is the earliest seed you will get.

After this fanciers are looking out for the heads of dandelions, which I know to be a great favourite with Mule breeders, and I know of nothing better for getting birds into breeding condition. At the same time I don't like to over-do them, as I have lost some of the best Finches I have had through giving them too many. I gradually increase the quantity till the birds are in high breeding condition—that is, fertilising eggs. Then I give about six heads to each bird every day, and keep it up till the heads "blow."

You will then be getting chicken-weed, shepherds-purse, mouse-ear, which will see you through the breeding season, I then run all my birds into an aviary and introduce groundsel, as it is a great favourite of mine at that season of year. After that your birds should be breaking into the moult. Any that are not moulting should be shaded down with a thin cloth, providing they are healthy.

The Moulting Dietary.

It is best to have the birds in different sections, so that you can feed the different species on the different wild seeds to suit them, such as "queen of the meadow" for Bullfinches, shepherds-purse, rat-tails (plantain) for Linnets, thistles, hardheads (knapweed) for Goldfinches and Siskins, and the many other seeds. After the birds are about finished with the moult, I introduce bought seeds, such as getting plain canary with a little linseed for the last hemp, sunflower, teazle, and rape, as they have only been month or two. This will make them plump and fat, and they will be showing any good points they have. During cold weather keep their water from freezing, and given a good piece of mutton suet, they should pull through the winter all right.

Before going in for Softbills one should study insect life a little; that is, likely places to search for them, how to breed maggots of different kinds, and the best way to keep them after you have got them. About the summer and autumn I know of nothing better than a Softbill to keep down earwigs in your outhouse, if it is a wooden one, the bird being allowed to fly up and down it.

In breeding for dark Mules, only good pairs should be put up, so that if you breed any you will have something to look at. Large yellow hens, with good heads, crossed from Norwich and Lancashire are grand; the Norwich will put in type and colour, and the Lancashire will give size and long-sidedness and ensure the young being strong on their legs, to enable them to stand well up. The hens should be paired to large bright coloured Finches. Light Mule breeding has wonderfully improved this last two or three years. No doubt most of you will have read the correspondence in Cage Birds "Do Mules breed." If I were trying for Light Mules I would not be backward in putting up two variegated Mules of different sex to two clear yellow Canaries of different sex—just for experiment. But all Light Mules I have seen bred have come from a Finch that had been breeding a lot, the owner generally losing him after he had bred his lightest Mule!

In Hybrid breeding, like Dark Mule breeding, only good pairs should be put up, Siberian hen Bullies with either Canary, Goldie, Greenie, or Linnet. British hen Bullies should only be paired with Redpoll, or Siskin, or some other British, so that would make a rare cross. For instance, I had a yellow cock Wagtail which paired up with a hen Bullie of his own accord (when flying loose with others in an aviary). I might mention that the act of pairing was not done in the usual way, that is, as with two ordinary Finches. When the Bullie hen "called," the Wagtail would walk round her once or twice, with his feathers puffed out, carrying his head high in the air, and then he would step on to her back. I often wonder why there are not more Bullie eggs fertile. I believe if more insect food was given such as silkworms, grasshoppers, blight (smother fly) from rose trees, and live ants' eggs there would be more fertile eggs.

Is this why the hen Canary fails?

Talking about Hybrid breeding reminds me of an old friend of mine, who was very successful. The last time I saw his bird room, he had his bed situated in it, so that whenever he opened his eyes in the early mornings he could look into all his cages and see how the breeding couples were going on. His opinion is that if you get any young Hybrids to hatch out, you should not always depend on a hen Canary to feed, as he had seen the best of feeders fail to rear them. The youngster, with its long thin neck and its heavy head, when it opened its mouth for feeding, would wriggle from one side to another—never for one instant could it hold its head steady—while the hen stood over the nest striving hard and doing all it could to get the opportunity to pop something into its mouth. Hence the reason so many young Hybrids die at the age of about three days. It is best, therefore, if you are able to hand feed. I have been successful in hand rearing both Hardbill and Softbill birds, but I have failed to hand-rear three Redpoll Bullie Hybrids on different occasions.

Often in the summer I have found myself in some of the woody glens watching the birds fly to and from their nests feeding their young. One would wonder whence they get the insects; but if you turn up the branches of the heavy-leaved trees you will see them in abundance. At other times I have found myself sitting on the banks near to the water watching the Swallow, the Wagtail, and some of the wee creeping beasts locally known by fishermen as the "carr." The latter disport themselves in the shallow water, darting from under one stone to another. Occasionally one would rise to the surface of the water and creep on to a dry stone, till the wings grew. At this stage the Wagtail is always on the lookout for them, but should they miss his keen eye and be allowed to remain until the wings are full grown, they then rise into the air. In an instant the Swallow, gliding up the river, gives one half-turn on the wing, and the insect disappears. Fine slips by quickly while one is watching with keen interest and pleasure the ways of nature.

Mr. Clark answered many questions in a very satisfactory manner. The Chairman, Mr. Morrison, moved a hearty vote of thanks to Mr. Clark on behalf of the meeting. This brought a very enjoyable evening to a close.

John Williamson, Sec.

The Xmas Message of a Sparrow.

Sent by "Jenny," from Under the Eaves, Brixton.

Dear Mr. Headitor: My friend read out of Cage Birds' that you want to know all sorts of things about British birds, so I thought as it was Christmas-tide I would just send to you about one or two little things that concern us. I'm not a cage bird, true, though I have had a speaking acquaintance with a good many. But British?—nobody can deny me that. Just a "common Sparrow," somebody said contemptuously the other day. There's plenty of "common people" about too, and seems to me it's the common folk mostly that do all the work—and then get more kicks than half-pence for their share.

But, never mind that; what I wanted to ask you about was these motor car things that's running all over the place now—what's the good of 'em? They're no good to us anyway. We can't live on petrol, or the smell of it. There used to be plenty of good fat horses about London, in vans and things, and a horse was generally good natured enough to shake a good meal for us out of his nosebag. And a good meal is a blessing very often when you've got a large family to provide for. I had eight last summer, and how I struggled through I don't know, but they are all doing well now thank goodness What we shall do this year I can't think.

The Murderous Motor.

And they are so dangerous, too. I nearly got caught the other day when I was in the road picking up a little dainty. A precious taxi came whizz round the corner and how I cleared it I don't know, but I managed to get on the railings and put my feathers straight after a minute—it is so upsetting! Philip (that's my mate) says, "Serve you right; you shouldn't go poking about road-ways in the middle of the day. Why don't you keep to the back gardens?" Now, isn't that unreasonable? Those gardens are swarmed with cats and they are worse than motors, or quite as bad. Ah! me, many a promising chick of mine have they had, and caten it before my very eyes. That's trouble, if you like.

Some of the people are not much better, either. In the summer one man actually got up just after sunrise and asked his wife how she thought he could sleep with those blessed Sparrows pecking his beans all to pieces. And we wasn't doing nothing of the kind—only just picking up insects for the youngsters. Mind, I don't say we didn't have a mouthful off the pea shoots occasionally, but then we earned it, didn't we? He couldn't expect us to clear his garden for nothing, and they were that mean they wouldn't even give you a handful of crumbs. "It makes the place so untidy to put bread outside, and encourages those beastly birds."

We can manage to get a few caterpillars and that sort of thing in the park just near in the early morning, but the Starlings take a good share of what's there and there's a good many Robins too, and they're just imps if they catch you on their ground. They look so nice and "Christmas-cardy," you wouldn't believe how they can double you up when they set about it—greedy little pigs!

All in the Point of View.

I don't think much of Chaffinches, either, with their everlasting "Pink, Pink," but some people call them singing birds! I had a brother who could sing quite as well, I'm sure, quite accomplished he was—but, then, he lived in a house nearly all his life; slipped out of the nest into a hole in the roof, so they took him and put him in a cage and fed him up. He grew quite handsome. Every day he had a bath of water and a fly round the room, and one of the people used to say she owned him. Just fancy! He used to think he owned her, for if he didn't get what he wanted he led her a terrible life. If she went to eat an apple he would carry on if he wasn't allowed to sit on her hand or shoulder and have bite for bite. He picked up a bit of Lark song from somewhere and used to sandwich it in amongst our own talk. Very often his people were asked what bird it was and when they said "a Sparrow," the folks used to say "Oh, it can't be a common Sparrow, you can't keep them in a cage; besides it's such a pretty bird." Just as if we aren't all pretty!

Now, what I want to know is, why birds shouldn't have a share of the fruit and other good things when they have done their share of the work in keeping the insects down? The parson in the church near here says, the other Sunday, when I was sitting on the window edge, something about the "labourer being worthy of his hire." But the farmer folk seem to think the birds can work hard to clear his trees and fields, and then not want to have any pay for it. That ain't fair is it?

Philip says "What that to do with motors?" Well, it's just this: If there isn't any horses, how are we going to get a living in London, and if we go into the country the farmers and Sparrow Clubs are going to shoot us. So what are we to do? Please, Mr. Headitor, find some way out for us. (Philip says I ought not to put H to your name, but you are the head man, ain't you?).

Questions and Answers.

Queries will be answered under the following conditions:—

(1)—All questions must be clearly written in ink (or typewritten) on one side of paper, and must conclude with either the correct name of querist or a pseudonym, or initials.

(2)—The proper name and address in full of querist must always be written on a separate sheet of paper, and enclosed with the query. In no case must the address appear on the query.

(4)—Queries must not include or be included in orders for books, instructions re advertisements, or any other matter for publication.

(5)—The department to which the queries refer must be stated in bold letters on the left-hand corner of the query.

(6)—If an answer in the same week's issue is desired, queries must be posted to reach us by Monday's first post at latest. Queries will be dealt with in the order in which they are received, and only as space permits. The earlier queries are received the better attention they are likely to have.

(7)—Queries relating to illnesses of birds except enquiries as to cause of death (for which see Post Mortems will be answered by return of post on receipt of a postal order for sixpence and an addressed stamped envelope. Queries of an ordinary nature will be answered by post, if desired, on receipt of a postal order for one shilling and a stamped addressed envelope.

(8)—All who require letters of complaints written to advertisers must state grounds for doing so clearly and fully, and enclose a fee of sixpence, otherwise their letters will not receive attention. All the fees received from this source will be handed over in full to the "Referee's" Poor Childrens' Fund (London).

(9)—All queries must be addressed to the Editor, "Cage Birds," 154, Fleet Street, London, E.C. Only queries so sent will be answered. Postcards are not admissible.

THE following gentlemen represent CAGE BIRDS staff of ADVISORY EXPERTS. Queries must in no case be addressed to any of them individually, but to the Editor.

NOTE.—If an answer is required concerning the proper mating, etc., of Norwich, Yorkshires, Crests, Cinnamons, Greens, Borders, Lizards, Scotch or any other variety of the Canary family, we shall, should the querist desire us to do so, be pleased to submit his questions for answer to some leading specialist of the day on the variety concerned.

CANARY QUERIES.

Answered by CLAUDE ST. JOHN.

IMPROVING (Crest).—Thanks for your letter. Glad to hear the birds have improved so much, and the cocks resumed singing. You will do quite right to continue the treatment in each case until the birds have been apparently quite recovered for some days—a week or so. In the case of the hens continue the treatment until they are reduced to quite normal conditions, but give the rhubarb mixture only in alternate weeks.

MATE FOR CREST-BRED (J. W., Nottingham).—The age of the bird, three years, is certainly not too old for it to breed successfully. Indeed, if it remains healthy and active it is good for several years' good breeding yet. You speak of the bird as being "part Crest-bred," by which I take it you mean it is bred from a Crest-bred and a bird of some other breed, but not a Crest. If I am correct in this it would be wasting good material to mate it with a "good bred Crest," in order to breed singers, which you say is your object. If you can get a first-cross Roller-Norwich hen this is the mate I should advise as a first choice. Failing this, mate it with a nice plump Norwich hen. In either case train the young cocks under a good singing Roller if you have one available.

GROWTH ON WING (W.W.S.).—Dissolve a crystal of sulphate of iron the size of a small pea in about two teaspoonfuls of water that has been well boiled. Keep this solution in a small phial, and just moisten the growth with it by means of a camel-hair pencil or tip of a small feather every second day for a week, and continue afterwards twice a week for a month, or until the growth disappears, which may be in a shorter, or perhaps a longer period than a month. Be careful of solution or trouble may ensue with the powers that be, as it causes iron mould stains to appear on all linen it comes in contact with.

TENANTS IN OCCUPATION (W.B.C.).—(1) The small grey insects in cages are almost certain to be immature red mites. I suspect this from your remark about them running very quickly, though it is quite possible they may be grey lice from the game feathers. This you might easily ascertain. In the grey louse the head and body are very plainly seen as separate sections, joined by a narrow ligature, the head almost half as big as the body; in the red mite the head part is only discernible to pretty good eyesight in the absence of optical aid. Red mites live in cages for months without the presence of their feathered hosts, but in this case they become very small in size—smaller than lice—and quite liquid grey in colour. In either case the treatment advised to "J. W., Notts," in last issue will be a complete cure. (2) If the cottage is reasonably free from damp, and from cold cutting draughts—in short if it is reasonably fit for human habitation—there can be no reason why it should not make a very good birdroom, and if you go in for hardy normally raised stock there should be no necessity whatever for heating it. Norwich would be a good breed for your purpose and thrive well under such conditions. As regards caging them, if you can devote the necessary time to look after the separate cages properly, by all means do so. It is by far the most satisfactory method if you wish to exercise any control over the breeding.

WILL NOT BATHE AND WHEEZES (H.I.F.).—The bird is suffering from chronic bronchial trouble and the outlook in such cases is rarely very favourable. Its refusal to bathe is more advantageous than otherwise, as free bathing in inclement seasons would undoubtedly aggravate the trouble Offer it a bath about twice a week, when the weather is quite mild, and always early in the day during the winter and spring, and if it does not voluntarily bathe let it go "unwashed." Keep it in a just comfortable temperature, not too warm, but just off the chilly cold side. Let it be fairly equable and above all free from impure heated air, such as may prevail near the ceiling or near or over burning lights in the evening. For a fortnight give a diet of plain canary only, and a liberal supply of watercress. In the water add six drops of syrup of rhubarb, and as much sulphate of soda as will cover a three-penny-piece every second day during the first week. At the end of the fortnight give the usual seed diet recommended in this column, and every second day for a month add half a teaspoonful of crushed sponge cake, with four drops of sherry and two of cod liver oil emulsion mixed in it and sprinkled with maw. On the alternate days, during same time, add 20 drops of following mixture, which any chemist will compound for you, to the drinking water. Mixture:—Two drachms each of oxymel of squills and glycerine, one drachm each of ipecac. wine and chlorodyne, and eight grains of iodide of potassium.

TO GET HIM TO SING (Avi.).—It is only taking a longer rest than usual after moulting. I have no doubt he will resume his song without interference in a short time now, anyway towards the end of January you may expect him to "open out." It would hurry him up a little to cage him alone in a single cage. Give a morsel of bread and milk sprinkled with a mixture of equal parts maw and gold of pleasure every second day for a week, and on the alternate days a pinch of a mixture of equal parts hemp, niger, teazle, and mustard. Keep a little of the paste recommended to "F. H. N." in last issue stuck in the wires for a fortnight.

OUT OF SONG (W. F., Ashton-under-Lyne).—You omit to say whether the birds are caged together or separately, and apparently in good health or otherwise. If they appear in good health the reply to "Avi" in this issue will fully apply to your case. Cage the birds separately, keep in a comfortable and equable place out of cold draughts, and keep floor of cage strewn with clean gritty sand, and feed as advised in reply to "Avi" in this issue for a month. That will, I think, put matters right.

ROLLERS IN OUTDOOR AVIARY (P. P.).—Providing only you take precautions to start with birds which have been brought up under normal conditions of temperature, Rollers are very well adapted for life in a cosy and well-sheltered outdoor aviary, as you say of yours. One thing you omit to say is whether you intend the birds to be caged or fly loose. In the former case you might succeed with ordinary trained singers in just the same way as you would if the birds were kept in a cold room indoors. But in the latter case the promiscuous flying about and mixing up with each other would most likely cause the song to deteriorate, so that although you might reasonably expect to keep up a strain of good average singing qualities, you could scarcely expect anything to equal a well-trained caged songster, and high-class song, such as required in contest singers, would be conspicuous by its absence. This superior type of song is purely the outcome of training under human control and selection, and this is out of the question with birds flying promiscuously together. Thus you will see that in a case of this kind a good average type of ordinary song is about all one can reasonably hope for. You could, of course, breed birds in the aviary, and cage up the cocks for training when they were able to do for themselves, and thereby get a much higher type of singing abilities. About three cocks and eight or nine hens of the Seifert or St. Andreasberg type of song would be the best stock for your aviary, and quite sufficient for a start.

CURIOUS EFFECT OF WASHING (E. G. or T.).—I am not quite sure what your second initial is. I am sorry I cannot tell you, on the facts given in your letter, what causes your birds to lose their claws after being washed. It is quite a curious circumstance, and the first of its kind I have heard of, I believe. I should, therefore, be obliged if you would send along the fullest particulars of the case. What is about the heat of the water you use for washing, and about how far from a nice clear fire would you dry them, and how long after being washed do the toes begin to turn black, and how long afterwards before the claw is lost? The loss seems to be a rather common occurrence with you. Is this so, and are the claws reproduced after a few months? I am strongly inclined to think that the loss is due to some violence to the claws, which, of course, may be quite accidental, and pass unnoticed at the time. For instance, if you use a piece of coarse flannel or woollen, or anything of a knitted description, to wrap the birds after rinsing, the birds may get the claws embedded in its surface whilst wrapped up, and the claws thereby get a wrench when you are unwrapping the bird, and a wrench of this kind, though not very perceptible to a man in a hurry, or full of suppressed excitement or enthusiasm, is quite sufficient to injure the claw at the base in such a way that it sloughs off in a short time. Again, you might accidentally give the claws a wrench if you use a piece of sponge or coarse flannel for washing, instead of a camel-hair brush, as some do. In some way I believe the cause must lie in the manner of washing, and if you are not an expert at the job I would advise you to get a more skilled friend to give you a lesson or two. You might also read up the part of "Our Canaries" dealing with washing.

JAUNDICED CANARY (J. S. B.).—Keep the bird in a quiet, comfortable temperature, but do not overheat it. See that it is free from cold draughts, but do not hang it high up near the ceiling, nor near or over burning lights in the evenings, and see that the place is well supplied with fresh pure air. As a staple diet give plain canary seed only. Each day for a month give a piece of bread the size of a hazel nut soaked in cold milk, drained, and well strewn with a mixture of equal parts maw and gold of pleasure seed. Every second day give half a teaspoonful of scalded rape and a morsel of banana, and on the alternate days a pinch of a mixture of equal parts millet, black rape, niger, and teazle, and a spray of some green salad. Adhere strictly to this dietary for a month, and keep cage and perches very clean, and the cage floor strewn with clean, gritty sand. In the water add six drops each of syrup of rhubarb and dandelion juice every second day for a week, and afterwards in each two tablespoonfuls of drinking water dissolve a crystal of sulphate of soda, the size of a small pea, ditto of sulphate of iron, half as big, and add six drops of dilute sulphuric acid. Give this in place of plain water every second day for a fortnight.

NOT MOULTED (A. A. E.).—Certainly there could be no harm in writing and asking the breeder's advice about your bird, if you enclosed a stamped addressed envelope for his reply, but if your object is any other than advice it seems to me not very reasonable to expect anything more after this lapse of time. The cause of the bird's condition is undoubtedly the consequence of the moult being checked and stopped, and this is more than likely to arise from causes which originated long after you purchased the bird. You may try the following treatment pending hearing from breeder if you write him. Keep it quite free from cold draughts and impure air, and if you can move it to a dry and equable room where no fire is kept for two or three days or so, then move it back to a place where the temperature is about 60 deg., but still as equable as possible. In addition to the staple diet of canary seed give a half-teaspoonful of summer rape and a morsel of banana or spray of watercress every second day. On the alternate days give a piece of bread and milk slightly dusted with flowers of sulphur and sprinkled with maw, and a pinch of a mixture of equal parts niger, black rape, millet, and teazle. Add to the water every second day, on the days when you do not give bread and milk, 20 drops of whisky, five of syrup of saffron, and as much chlorate of potash as will cover a threepenny-piece, You may continue this treatment for two or three weeks.

FOREIGN BIRDS.

Answered by WESLEY T. PAGE, F.Z.S.,

SICK BUDGERIGAR (Twitter).—Catch this bird and give it about two drops of tasteless castor-oil direct to the beak; if this does not give full relief, repeat the dose the next day. Follow this by a course of byno-phosphates, half teaspoonful daily in the drinking water. Budgies are small drinkers, and a small vessel containing about two tablespoonfuls will be ample. Diet: Canary and white millet, a few crushed oats and a millet spray, also a small lettuce leaf with the centre rib cut out. Do not omit cuttlebone and grit. You do not supply sufficient data for me to diagnose cause.

VIRGINIAN NIGHTINGALE (V.A.G.).—As a rule during the spring and summer their song is the fullest, but I still hear my bird (in outdoor aviary) singing. In a cage this species is not anything like so free with its song as in the aviary. He will probably sing with more freedom when he has been longer with you. Diet: Canary, and with millet, hemp, oats, and sunflower seeds in smaller quantities. Supply ripe fruit liberally, any kind he will take, also two or three mealworms or other insects per diem. Use twiggy branches as perches, these will assist in keeping the feet in good condition. It should be given opportunity to take a daily bath. They are hardy birds and only need protection from draught.

BUDGERIGARS (Leigh-on-Sea).—I should dust this bird with insect powder, blow it into the feathers; the boiling water ought to keep them out of the cage, if you thoroughly search all crevices with it. Cuttlebone and bird grit are very essential for all hard-billed birds. You must also supply green food, a leaf of lettuce with the centre rib cut out, and give it a millet spray occasionally. For, say a month, put one teaspoonful of Dinneford's Magnesia in its drinking water once a week, and for the other portion of the week half a teaspoonful of byno-phosphates. Budgies are small drinkers, and a small crock drinker holding two tablespoonfuls will be ample for it. Our Nutshell, "Budgerigars," 2½d., from our manager, would help you.

RING-NECKED PARRAKEETS (Ring-neck).—I presume you have a true pair, the neck ring is very sharply defined in the male, and only very faintly indicated in the female. It may be that your birds are young, and that you'll get good results next season. What kind of a nest receptacle have you? It must have a concave bottom; if the bottom is flat the eggs roll about and get spoiled. A small barrel or natural log is the best for such birds. Collect, either yourself, or per some friend, some rotten wood that will pulp in the hand, and put a handful of this in the barrel or log. Fruit, seed, dry biscuit, and a few nuts, with grit (not sand), and cuttlebone, will be all they require.

BLACK-CHEEK LOVEBIRDS NOT BREEDING (S. R.).—There is a good deal of individuality with respective pairs of this species, some pairs being really prolific, others only hatching and rearing an occasional youngster. Your box is about right for depth, but it should not be less than six inches square. Put in your cage two twiggy branches for them to climb about and perch on. As nesting material give them some dry leaves, straws, and stiff pieces of hay cut into about 18in. lengths; they will also cut up the empty millet sprays and use this as building material. You will have to exercise patience; this species often takes a season to settle down, and yours will most probably nest and rear their young all right next year. When they are feeding young let the supply of spray millet be limited.

BUDGERIGARS AND AVIARY (H. North).—You should get our Nutshell "Budgerigars," 2½d. post free, from our manager, which would give you all details. When in breeding condition the cere round nostrils is blue in the male and brown in the female. Re aviary: Of course, even the small outdoor flight you propose to give is better than none, but it seems a pity spending time and money on a flight only 30 inches wide, but if you can do no better, make it the full height of the wall, and let it consist of all wire netting on light wood framing, but the top should be double netted, with a space of six to nine inches between, this will keep cats, etc., at bay. I should keep the ground turfed, renewing it as required, line the back wall with twigy branches. You could have, say, five pairs of Budgerigars, selling the young as soon as able to fend for themselves, for two pair Budgies, and one pair each Cockatoels and blue-wing Lovebirds. All would thrive under the treatment given in the Nutshell "Budgerigars." The nest receptacles, should have concave bottoms—natural logs, husks, or small barrels are best. For four pairs of birds I advise a dozen nest receptacles. Yes! take out a pane or make a small door in the woodwork. I should advise another window in the front or a large pane in the door, all glass must be covered with wire netting on the inside. Cover floor of shed with two inches of gritty sand or gravel, and rake over occasionally. Line the walls with twiggy branches. If you care to send me a stamped addressed post-card per the editor, I will send you diagrams of suitable nest receptacles.

SILKY COWBIRD (Florence).—(1) The Silky Cowbird is a native of Argentina. (2) The male is glossy blue-black, the female a uniform umber-brown. (3) Canary, millet, rape and hemp, green-food, a few mealworms or other insects, fruit if they will take it. (4) It ought not to be less than 24 x 18 x 18 inches high, with twiggy branch for perching. (5) Show cage 15 x 11 x 12 inches high, enamelled pale sea-green inside, with a black exterior. Lavender Finches are African birds, practically alike in plumage, requiring canary, millet, and spray millet, and greenfood. A stock cage ought not to be less than 18 x 12 x 15 inches high. A show cage about 12 x 8 x 9 inches high should suffice, same colour as the former.

AN AILING AMAZON (J. B. Wilson).—It is a Blue-fronted Amazon. It is quite natural for a Parrot to regurgitate its food and then swallow it again; all do it more or less, some individuals being more prone to it than others. Your diet appears all right unless "similar food" includes tea, coffee, or milk slops or sops. An Amazon will thrive on seed mixture, ripe fruit, dry biscuit, and a few nuts, with boiled maize two or three times a week; a very young bird must have the latter daily. Cuttlebone and grit must be regularly supplied. But this bird on a course of Dinneford's Magnesia (one teaspoonful) and Byno-phosphates (half-teaspoonful) in the daily supply of drinking water, the former sufficiently often to keep the bowels moving freely, but not watery-loose, and the latter when not giving the magnesia. I should also lightly dust the boiled maize with flowers of sulphur.

AMAZON PARROT (Novice, Rossendale).—(1) Your description appears to be incomplete. If there is any blue on the front of the head, it is a blue-front, but if the blue is lacking then it is a mealy, or miller as its often called. (2) You must tell me how you are dieting and treating it before I can be definite, in the meantime for one day make its drinking water just saline with Epsom salts, and follow this by putting a half-teaspoonful of Byno-phosphates into the daily supply of drinking water for a time; spray twice weekly with quassia solution. (3) Our Nutshell "The Grey Parrot" would be a sufficient guide, in addition to what is stated there, give a little maize, boiled and dry, two or three times a week, otherwise their treatment is the same. The Nutshell is 2½d. post free from our manager.

OVERGROWN BEAK (T. Morgan).—The beak is chafing the tongue and you must get some experienced local fancier, dealer, or vet. to cut it back to the normal size, and if it becomes abnormal again, it must be again cut, but keep cuttlebone, wood, and a lump of old mortar rubbish in its cage, it will probably keep its beak ground down to normal proportions without further aid from you, once it has been cut properly back. For a time, put a little honey and borax into its mouth daily, If you cannot do it any other way smear it on a piece of stick, the bird will readily take this and thus the mixture will be introduced into its mouth.

SEXING PARRAKEETS (F. D. S.).—In sexing Psittaci generally, it must be borne in mind that any comparison given only applies (mostly) to adult birds. The female Quaker is a little larger than her mate, her beak also is heavier than that of the male. Re rose-breasted Cockatoos, the male has a longer hooked tip to his beak, and it is fuller at the base, also the iris of his eye is darker than that of the female. In a roomy aviary such as you describe, they should do well and breed, but they may tax your patience greatly first. For the Cockatoos supply a hollow log or roomy barrel say 12 inches dia., by 18 inches deep. A similar barrel or a platform, or two, must be arranged for the Quakers, but as these build a nest of twigs, you must throw in a heap of pea sticks and birch twigs, for them to cut up and utilise as nesting material. It would be wise to cover in the front of the covered portion with wood and glass outside the netting so as to provide adequate winter shelter. If you care to send me a stamped addressed post-card, per the editor, I will send you a diagram of suitable platforms and barrels.

FIRE FINCH WITH SORE FEET (F. M. L.).—The small ornamental Finches frequently get sore and diseased feet from having perches in the cage of only one thickness. A small twiggy branch is far better; the varying thickness of the twigs gives gripping exercise to the muscles of the feet. As regards present treatment, it all depends on the nature of the sore or growth. If it contains pus it must be soaked daily in hot water (not hot enough to cause discomfort) daily, and the pus exuded as soon as possible by gentle pressure; if the substance is a sort of yellowish cheesy matter and solid then foment or soak it as above, and after a time the growth will come away almost at a touch. However, if the growth is the result of an injury or dislocation of some kind then I fear nothing can now be done for it. I fear it will lose several of its toes, but the above treatment will give some relief. If the skin breaks after cleansing use a little healing ointment.

BRITISH BIRDS, MULES AND HYBRIDS.

FEEDING A GOLDFINCH MULE (T. E. Procter). We haven't a "Nutshell" booklet dealing with the management of Mules. I have frequently mentioned the dietary in these columns, however. Practically all Canary Mules can be fed on the following lines, so far as the general feeding is concerned, and should thrive admirably. I feed my own Mules in the same way. A good seed mixture at this season of the year is:—Canary three parts, teazle two parts, hemp one part, summer rape and linseed half-part each. In the hot weather reduce the hemp and linseed, and increase the teazle. If they waste (knock out) the seed looking for the hemp, leave this out of the stock mixture and give separately. Any of the special Finch or wild-seed mixtures advertised in our columns will make a good and acceptable change, given twice or so a week. A little sunflower seed twice or thrice a week would also be sure to be appreciated; crack it if necessary. Any of the usual green foods may be given, flowering groundsel (not coarse leaves), chickweed, shepherd's purse, dandelion, lettuce, watercress, etc. The three first-mentioned may be given practically ad libitum during the season. All Mules are very fond of shepherd's purse. See the reply given Miss Turner this week.

RAPE SEEDLINGS, ETC. (Miss Turner).—Personally, I always give my Linnets a little hemp right through the moult, and continue it right through the cold, wintry season. If anything it helps to darken their coats, usually a desirable point, and it certainly helps to keep them up during the strain of the moult, and to get them into song afterwards. It is, as you say, not always easy to get green-food out of doors in the winter, but it may easily be provided by the fancier himself, in his own house. All that is needed is a shallow box (a chocolate or sweet box from the confectioner's answers well) which should be lined with light soil, or even bird-sand will do. Damp this well, then sow it thickly with summer (German) rape seed. Kept in a warm room, and always moist, the rape soon sprouts, and the seedlings can be cut off with the scissors when an inch or two long, and given to the birds, who appreciate same highly. By having one or two boxes a constant supply can be ensured.

FRESH-CAUGHT GOLDFINCHES (G. F. Wells).—It is decidedly not advisable to keep many fresh-caught Goldfinches together—for long, at any rate—as they are terrible fighters. If kept together (when they should be in a long, low cage), I should put in a pot each of cracked hemp (not crushed), teazle, and niga seeds, and a pot of mixed maw, linseed, and canary; some advocate coarse oatmeal as well. In addition, I would offer ample sunflower and summer

BRITISH BIRD & HYBRID QUERISTS should consult Houlton's great work, "Cage-Bird Hybrids" (7/6); Norman's "British Bird Manual" (2/3); or Part 1 "Hardbills" (1/1), Part 2 "Softbills" (1/1); "Aviaries, Bird-rooms, and Cages" (2/3); "Seeds, Foods, and Wild Plants" (1/2); "Secrets of Hybrid Breeding" (1/2); Dr. Creswell's "Hygiene of Bird-keeping" (1/1); Dr Clarke's "Septic or Bird Fever" (7d.); "Colour-feeding" (3½d.); or the "Nutshell" booklets (2½d. each): No. 1 "Goldfinch," No. 2 "Linnet," No. 3 "Skylark," No. 4 "Song Thrush and Blackbird," No. 11 "Bullfinch," No. 13 "Chaffinch," No. 15 "Greenfinch," No. 22 "Siskin, Redpoll, and Twite," No. 25 "Small Insectivorous Birds," No. 26 "Large Insectivorous Birds," No. 6 "Ailing Birds and How to Cure Them," No. 9 "Disinfection of Cages, Birdrooms, etc.," No. 12 "How to Moult British Birds." rape which had been soaked in cold water until it burst, or had just commenced to sprout, dabbing it as dry as possible with cloth before offering it. Or a good substitute is a supply of the stock seed mixture which has been soaked for at least 24 hours in cold water, and well rinsed and dabbed dry. Soaked teazle seed is also a grand thing, but I like to rely on this more as a "pick-me-up" for any birds which show signs of going soft. Then there are the wild seeding weeds and grasses, thistles, hardheads, plantains and the like. The change on to the ordinary dry seeds can be made gradually, and without harm accruing. Should they seem to go a little "soft," the drinking water should at once have some sulphate of soda dissolved in it (as much as will just lie on a shilling to every three tablespoonfuls). A gentle dose of saline, if given in time, is, in my experience, the best medicine; in fact, I never found anything else of much use.

SCALES ON THE LEGS (Beaufort).—The Yellow-hammer seems peculiarly liable to develop the ugly scales on the legs, which you say your bird has acquired. They should be removed. It is quite simple, providing one has confidence in the handling of birds; and it need cause the bird but very slight pain, but rather bring great relief in its train. Probably the best of all methods is to heat a little oil fairly hot (enclose it in a suitable vessel and immerse the latter in boiling water), soak the legs well in this, and then pick off the scales with your finger nails; or curved nail-scissors and a pair of nail clippers occasionally come in handy. Afterwards I wash the feet and legs in warm water, dry them and anoint them with a little healing ointment—Zambuk, boracic, or mild carbolic. Often I have scaled a bird's legs easily after soaking them in a lather made with carbolic soap and hot water. It is quite easy, if common care is exercised, so as not to violently wrench a leg or a toe, which, of course, may spell dislocation. If any blood be inadvertently drawn from one or other of the toe joints, touch the spot (after washing) with Friar's Balsam, or "New Skin."

Owing to pressure on space several answers are unavoidably held over.—Editor.

LEGAL QUERIES.

Answered by a Barrister.

J. M. W.—The facts in your case are these. A buys the birds from B, who lives at a distance, and telegraphs B to send them by train. In the same message A telegraphs the money to be paid for the birds. B accepts the money and sends the birds by the train as requested. On the arrival of the train at the place where A lives the birds are found to be dead. The question arises, who must bear the loss?—Were the birds B's property at the time of their death, or A's? It is quite clear that A must bear the loss. He must bear the burdens of the bargain as well as enjoy its benefits. As soon as the property in the birds passed to A, the risks incidental to that property passed to him likewise.

POST MORTEMS.

Mr. G. Yates, M.R.C.V.S., 1, College Road, Harrow, Middlesex, will examine and report upon dead cage birds for a fee of 1s. 6d. each bird; for reply direct, 2s. 6d.; analysis, 21s. Subjects for post mortem examination must be sent packed in a box direct to Mr. Yates, with the fee, this and any accompanying letter being kept from contact with the dead bird. Send by letter-post; it is cheaper and quicker than parcel post. Any bodies sent to the office of this paper will be thrown away, and if a fee is enclosed the loss will be the sender's.

Memento Mori.—Septic fever, highly infectious.

The final judging for points during the year also took place, making the total: A. Goble, 203; H. Akehurst, 191; H. Bignell, 190; E. Holley, 160; W. Cadman, 118; F. Dandridge, 115; G. B. Absalon, 128; A. Flook, 106; S. Sparks, 95; E. Foot, 73; W. Miles, 70; R. Williams, 58. Messrs. A. Goble and H. Akehurst thus win 1st and 2nd respectively.—Will H. Gibb, Hon. Sec.

SOUTH BIRMINGHAM O.S.

Monthly meeting held Dec. 11, at Headquarters, Sydenham Hotel, before a good gathering of members. Mr. A. Stone and Messrs. Wells and Clempson were elected members. The members' Christmas show business was the chief item on the agenda, Messrs. Adcock, Hughes, Greenup, Swinden, and Kidner were elected stewards, and must be in attendance not later than 9, on Dec. 26. A good deal of discussion was held over the best and fairest way to give the dinner service for competition, and it was finally decided to make same a draw, two chances to the first winners, and one to the lowest card in class, no member to have more than two chances. The members' special cash fund was a success; decided to allot same in 2s. 6d. cash specials. Before closing the meeting Chairman Willmott spoke very strongly on several matters; he said it must be pleasing to all when they knew that the number of members on the books was 69 (applause) but a rather serious thing was creeping in amongst them, and that was unnecessary tittle-tattle. The members must not think he went about with his eyes and ears closed. He had heard that perhaps at the next meeting we should have several resignations; he should say accept them, as the member that had not the society at heart, or who has lost all interest in them, or, perhaps, far worse, had not been successful in his endeavours to smash them, could get out and do it quickly, if such had joined with that intention. (Loud applause.) Members knew that he himself was in that chair to see fairness, and as long as he was chairman he should see everyone receive same. The South Birmingham Society was progressing with leaps and bounds, funds good, members good (thank goodness, the great majority were), and he hoped the entries would be a record. (Applause.) The room has been wonderfully improved. It is unfortunate that since the meeting no less than four fanciers have written to be proposed. We meet the second Wednesday in the month, and next month is the general meeting.—J. Sheppard, secretary.

STOKE-ON-TRENT C.B.A.

Meeting held Dec. 16, when final arrangements were made for annual members' show on Boxing Day at headquarters. Mr. Henry Tams has been appointed judge. A nice lot of special prizes has been promised, including a half tea service for most points in the show given by Mr. Walton. Interest in the cup competition is very keen, several members being very close together, and as Mr. T. Hawley, who was regarded by many as the probable winner, has withdrawn from the competition, and Mr. Pitchford will not compete for the cup or any point specials, the novice members have every inducement to make a liberal entry. Birds are to be staged at 10 a.m., and the show open at 1 p.m.—J. Pitchford, Hon. Sec.

BUGLE AND DISTRICT F.A.

Meeting held Dec. 12th in the Lecture Hall. Col. Sir W. Serjeant, Kt., C.B., presided over a good attendance of members. After the correspondence was read by Mr. A. L. Pearce, Hon. Sec., a sub-committee was appointed, viz., Capt. R. Thomas, Messrs. E. Ball, Ford, James Thomas, F. Thomas, with A. L. Pearce and A. C. Gregor, ex-officio, to draw up rules, etc., to be presented at the next meeting, January 8th, at 7, when we hope to see a large number present. Our meetings are sociable, and all are welcome. Anyone wishing to join send on sub., 2s. 6d. early so as to be in good time for competing for the valuable specials that will be offered, confined to members. Fanciers join up and give us a good start; we will treat you well.—A. C. Gregor, Assist. Sec.

EAST BOWLING B.F.A.

SHEFFIELD O.S.

A large and enthusiastic crowd of members attended at Headquarters, Rose and Crown Hotel, Waingate, Dec. 10, for election of officials for 1913. The Chairman, Mr. T. Down, presiding. The first item of importance, and one which we all looked forward to was the balance sheet of our All England Show, this the second venture of the society since its formation has been most successful: last year we had a balance of over £12, this we are looking for again. It gave the greatest satisfaction when the secretary announced that we already show a profit of over £10 on the venture, and he has a good many tickets yet to come in, so that we can congratulate ourselves that we shall practically have another £12 profit. This, of course, is due to the hardworking officials and committee, everyone doing a lion's share. The Chairman, Mr. T. Down, has always been on top when work was about, he has the happy knack of keeping in touch with all the officials, and getting every one to his right quarter, and gives to each the class of work which suits him best. The next item on the agenda, and a very important one, was the foundation for 1913: namely, election of officials. The first office to be filled was naturally the chairman. Mr. T. Down, the finest chairman, the hardest of workers, and the most genial of men a Cage Bird Society ever possessed, was unanimously re-elected with great acclamation, the members knowing when they have a good man. Mr. J. A. T. Woodall, the retiring vice-chairman, was again unanimously re-elected. Our late secretary, Mr. T. Bishop, had informed our chairman that he would not take charge of pen and pencil for another year, so the chairman had been looking round for a successor. It was decided to have a paid secretary, so that the society would be perfectly free to have all the wishes and instructions of committee carried out. The individual selected was Mr. Edwin C. Job, a man that has had very great experience in secretarial duties of various fanciers' societies in the past. He has always been one of our supporters and a man we were pleased to recognise as such. We are looking forward to having very great results from Mr. Job, and the assistant secretary, Mr. R. Colton. The treasurership was the next office to fill. This was taken over by Dr. W. Craig, promoted from the committee. He is the right man in the right place, and his keenness for the society's welfare is excelled by none. Press correspondent, Mr. J. Woodall, re-elected. The majority of the old committee were re-elected as follows:—Mr. G. Fletcher, J. Mace, G. Moore, J. Memmott, C. Marshall, J. Milne, T. H. P. Walsh. The new names were as follows: Mr. Towe, Mr. Waters, Mr. Baxley, Mr. J. Richardson, Mr. Sampson, and Mr. Spencer. The Secretary reported having booked the following judges for our All England Show, to be held Nov. 7 and 8, 1913:—Mr. J. Robson, C. Houlton, W. Mundell. Secretaries please note date so as to avoid clashing; don't forget next monthly meeting, Jan. 7, very important.—John A. T. Woodall, Press Correspondent S.O.S.

COWDENBEATH C.B.S.

Monthly meeting held in the Raith Arms Inn, Dec. 11, Mr. J. C. Murray (President) in the chair. The Secretary gave a report of the open show, which showed a big advance on the previous year, and, best of all, was again coming out with a good balance on the right side. The balance-sheet, though hardly complete, would no doubt meet with the approval of the members. Mr. John Kirk and Mr. And. Simpson were appointed auditors. Two special prizes in dispute were properly adjusted. It was moved that we again fix the same date for our open show, but in view of the altered circumstances through other Fife shows changing dates, it was agreed to delay fixing date till the annual general meeting. Unanimously agreed to hold our second club show 25th Jan. The following committee were appointed to make the necessary arrangements and report to next meeting: President, Secretary, Treasurer, with Mr. J. Fotheringham and Mr. J. Holmes. Agreed to pay annual subscription to West Fife C.B. League. The annual general meeting was fixed for 28th December, all members to be summoned by postcard. After the usual business had been got through, Mr. J. C. Murray was formally presented with the members' cup won at the open show. Mr. Alex. Anderson made the presentation and in a neat speech advised Mr. Murray that strenuous efforts would be made to change the custody of the cup at the next open show. Mr. Murray having suitably replied, the evening was spent with song and sentiment, the following contributing to a programme of more than average merit: Mr. And. Simpson, Alex. Bereridge, W. Robertson, J. R. Reid, J. Paterson, J. C. Murray, A. Harris, and T. Cowan. A very enjoyable meeting, which augurs well for the future of this society. Two new members joined.—Joseph Reid, Sec.

NOTES BY THE SECRETARY.

In reference to my note of last week I have received a letter, as follows:—

Sir,—I read with great interest your correspondence with Mr. Hunt. I am a bird-keeper in a very amateurish way myself, and have had arguments innumerable on the subject, and my rivals, in this respect, appear to be not only people who are unable to distinguish a Robin from a Wagtail, but with their dust-raising motors, which most of them can afford to use, do more to deteriorate bird life along our lanes and around our towns than the whole of bird-keepers together. These humanitarians, who read paragraphs now and again in the papers, of a stray bird-keeper who is fined for neglect of his feathered charges, are absolutely ignorant of the scrupulous care and expense that we go to to make our birds comfortable. It was only the other day I persisted in showing one of these persons round my cages, which were in their usual state, clean and well cared for, and no fault was to be found until we reached my favourite Lark, who was singing merrily and running to and fro. After careful scrutiny from top to bottom, the visitor exclaimed, "Why, you've got no perch for the poor thing." What are we to do with these folk?

F. GROOME.

This is only what I have said again and again. The people who cry the loudest against the hobby of bird-keeping are those who know nothing whatever of the subject, except what they read from isolated cases reported in the police news, and of which the utmost is made by the "humanitarian" journals. I have many times suggested that they should visit one of our bird shows, and profit by the object lesson there to be gained. Birds which have been taken from their natural freedom, and their natural fight for existence and which have been kept and tended with such care that no wild bird could compare with them in beauty of plumage, are to be seen by the hundred at any bird show, and by the thousand at the larger exhibitions.

And yet there are people who say that a wild bird caged can only beat out its heart in misery against the bars of its prison, until death mercifully releases it from its sufferings. Was there ever such sublimated ignorance? Do these people know during this past week, at Broxburn Show, a Goldfinch won his fifty-fourth prize? Does this look as if it had been "beating out its heart against the bars of its prison"?

It is a happy circumstance that the hobby of bird-keeping was never so strong as now. It has for many years been looked upon as a working man's hobby, and although in numberless cases the working man's wife had her heart in the innocent occupation which kept her husband at home in his non-working hours, yet it was not a frequent occurrence to find a bird exhibited by one of the gentler sex. Nowadays lady exhibitors are quite a strong force at any exhibition, and this must all make for good.

It is also becoming more and more the practice for people holding high social positions to associate themselves with our hobby, either by giving special prizes at our shows, or attending personally to open them with due ceremony. No one could read our show reports without remarking upon this fact. One supporter of this kind will counteract the opposition of a score of shrieking fanatics, and the professional humanitarians are beginning to learn that they are alienating the sympathies of people who would subscribe to the funds of their societies if only they would confine their efforts to legitimate purposes.

I should like to call the attention of members who may like to take a bird for themselves, and of those who catch a few birds as a means of adding to a slender income, that they should make a point of enquiring at the local Town Hall or Police Station, whether an extension has recently been made to the schedule of protected birds. In several places the Act has been extended for local purposes, and everyone must find out for himself whether any particular bird is specially protected in his own district.

Many readers of CAGE BIRDS have written to say that they would like to join CAGE BIRDS' LEAGUE, but cannot afford the subscription. To meet their wishes we have decided to form, in connection with the LEAGUE, a body of Associates. All we ask of these Associates is that they will promise to give every possible attention to the wants of their birds. And they must induce others to see that their birds are kept happy and contented.

All that the intending Associate has to do is to sign the coupon herewith, get five of his or her friends to sign each a similar coupon, and send the six, together with a penny stamp, to the Secretary of CAGE BIRDS' LEAGUE, who will forward by return an enamelled Button Badge of the LEAGUE. There will be no other charge. NOW, THEN, BIRD LOVERS!—USE YOUR BEST EFFORTS IN THIS SPLENDID CAUSE.

THE BIRD LOVER'S PLEDGE.

I hereby promise to take every care of my feathered pets and to induce others to do the same

The Norwich Relief Fund.

The Recipients Return Thanks.

With regard to the sum of £13 5s. 6d., so kindly contributed by our readers for the Norwich breeders who were unfortunate enough to lose the whole or part of their stocks through the late floods, Mr. R. Roll, the secretary, writes under date, Dec. 17: "The committee entrusted with the distribution—Messrs. W. W. Freestone, Chairman of the Norwich Alliance C.B.A., Mr. F. Cullingham, and myself—met last evening at Mr. E. Clarke's, The Rose, St. Augustines, Norwich, to investigate the claims submitted, and after full consideration had been given to all, it was decided not to entertain any claims outside the flood area (several having been received where the rain got through the roof, and not for damage by the flood). I also enclose you a list of breeders compensated, together with their expressions of thanks. I am desired on their behalf to express their hearty and sincere thanks for the trouble you have taken in organising a fund for their benefit, and to assure you it is very much appreciated. They also desire to thank Miss Hall for her kind gift of birds, most of which have been distributed amongst the breeders named, one or two having been sold for songsters, the amount realised being added to the fund, which altogether amounted to £15 10s. I shall be glad if you will allow me, through your columns, to thank my colleagues, Messrs. Freestone and Cullington for their valuable advice and assistance, and also Mr. E. Clarke for the loan of his room for interviews and payment of the fund. I may say that a good many breeders who only lost one or two pairs declined to make any claim."

WE, the undersigned, beg to return many thanks to CAGE BIRDS for the valuable assistance rendered through the fund opened for the benefit of the Norwich breeders who unfortunately lost the whole or part of their stocks through the late floods, this timely assistance enabling us to make a fresh start for the next breeding season. We also desire to thank Miss Hall for her kind gifts of birds, which is much appreciated—(Signed) R. Wigger, J. Tyrrell, W. Wones, W. G. Wilkinson, A. Harvey, C. Hobart, Geo. Gilmore, J. Goodings, W. J. Thorpe, J. Ashworth, W. Howes. (Signed) W. W. Freestone, F. Cullington, R. Roll—Committee.

I am sorry that I cannot reply to all the friends who answered my advertisement in "Cage Birds" last week. I have had letters from all over England. Allow me here to thank them, as I hope my birds will do some one a good turn, as I am trusting to those who have sent me theirs to do me a good turn also. I always look forward to "Cage Birds."

Correspondence.

Date of Crystal Palace Cage Bird Show.

Sir,—In reply to your correspondent, it is too late to consider any alteration of date. The dates have been about the same for many years past, and I believe suit the great majority of fanciers, especially those living in the country, who are able to visit the show at low fares by means of week-end excursions.

J. W. RAMSDEN.

Dark Mules at Blairgowrie Show.

Sir,—I notice in your issue of 30th ult., Mr. Strachan asking why I wrong-classed his "dark" Mule at Blairgowrie show; simply because it has a light throat, also upper part of chest, which put it out of competition in a dark Mule class, where birds must be all dark. It might be interesting to know if this bird has been shown previously in a dark Mule class; if so, where, who judged it, and what prizes has it won in a dark Mule class? If Mr. S. is not satisfied with it being wrong-classed, let him send it to the Scottish National show under Mr. Duncan, in the dark Goldfinch Mule class, and see what he makes of it.

JAMES F. DEWAR.

Liverpool Fanciers' Cycle Club.

Sir,—It was suggested at the Liverpool B.B.A. social that there were plenty of fanciers in the district that were cyclists, and it was mooted we start a cycle club, the objects being runs in the evening to the country, where can be gathered the various seeds, etc., for our pets; also runs on Saturday to the nest feather shows held by the Lancashire and Cheshire societies. I should be glad if those that are interested in this movement would kindly send their names to me, so that we can get things in order before the spring of the year. Mr. Dick Malone, Captain of the S.B.C., has kindly promised to put us in running order. J. W. METCALFE.

New Cage Bird Society for Craghead (North Durham).

Sir,—A meeting was held at the Punch Bowl Inn, Craghead; a good company was present. After opinions had been expressed as to the desirability of forming a cage bird society at Craghead, it was put to the meeting and carried unanimously that we start one; to be known as the Craghead and Dis. C.B.S., and open for membership. The election of officers was next proceeded with, and resulted as follows: Chairman, Mr. M. Davison; vice-chairman, Mr. J. Emmerson; treasurer, Mr. S. Collicott; secretary, Mr. A. Dawson, 4, Garden Terrace. Decided that entrance fee for membership be 1s., and 6d. per month afterwards. It was decided to look up a few local gentlemen with an invitation to act as presidents. It is the intention of the society to run a few first feather shows next season. Now, there are many good fanciers in the surrounding districts, and I hope they will roll up at our next meeting, and try to make this society a success. Next meeting called for Dec. 21, at 7 p.m. sharp, at the Punch Bowl Inn.

Good Work at Gateshead Show.

Sir,—I cannot help writing to express my appreciation of the splendid manner in which the officials of Gateshead show worked on Saturday last to enable exhibitors to have their birds returned to them in good time, in face of the great difficulties consequent upon the railway strike. I know that on Saturday morning the popular chairman, Mr. R. Tindale, in his capacity of show manager, made it his special business to go and interview the railway people in regard to despatching the exhibits to their destinations. He was told by a subordinate that the despatch of live stock that day was absolutely out of the question. This, however, would not do for Mr. Tindale. He sought out the head superintendent, and having stated the object of his visit, that gentleman replied: "Tut, tut; it is taking us all our time to deal with the ordinary traffic, without bothering about the despatch of birds." Mr. Tindale, however, quietly replied that the railway company had taken the responsibility of bringing the birds to the show, and he thought they were morally bound to take them back. Having the matter put to him in that light, the superintendent, who is evidently a gentleman, agreed with Mr. Tindale, and he promised to do all he could to facilitate the despatch of the exhibits. How grandly the members worked, getting them off to the station to meet the most convenient trains—the long-distance birds first, and so on. When I left the hall, about six, I believe the only birds there were those belonging to visitors at the show, who were taking their birds home with them. How different it might have been with a less thoughtful body of fanciers than the Gateshead officials. Under the peculiar circumstances, there is no doubt that many of the birds would have gone astray, but I feel confident that, thanks to the care and foresight of the Gateshead committee, every exhibitor received his birds safely, and in good time. I am afraid that our Gateshead friends have been rather badly hit in consequence of this strike, but I hope that next year, in acknowledgment of the good work done this, exhibitors will rally round them, and give them a big, bumping entry. W. REID.

Sunderland.

A Secretary's Thanks.

Sir,—At a meeting of the Cramlington and Dist. C.B.S., to-night, Dec. 4, I was requested to convey to you our best thanks for the excellent report of our show, and to state that all prize-money was paid within three days after show. The report keeps up to the excellence of last year, and we will look forward to the meriting as good, and if possible more excellent, than this; and with this object in view we are determined to do all that we can for its fulfilment. I may add, it is satisfactory to note that a number of exhibitors, when sending us receipts for prizes, have also sent letters of thanks for prompt payment, and for the manner in which birds had been packed, and care taken of generally. The advert. in your paper was the means of getting us a number of entries from exhibitors, to whom we had not previously sent schedules.

J. R. CHESTNEY, Hon. Sec.

Sir,—I see someone has accused our members of showing borrowed birds at our Darlington C. and B.B.F.A. annual show. We had a similar case at our show last year, which caused a great amount of trouble. I take the liberty to ask you to invite the accuser to correspond with me on the subject as I am desirous of putting a stop to such practices if possible. I presume you are ever ready to help a society to conduct its shows on a sound footing.

H. C. CARTER, Chairman.

13, Portland-place, Darlington.

Sir,—I am very pleased to see someone has taken the matter up about borrowed birds at Darlington show. I visited Darlington show and was in company with three exhibitors, and this was pointed out to me. I overheard that it was an official who had them. I consider it very unfair to the other members. If you can't win without borrowing, give over showing and give all members a chance.

FAIRPLAY.

Some Remarks on Selling Classes.

Sir,—May I ask why selling classes are not reported at all bird shows, the same as open classes are? As a rule, selling classes pay better than open classes, and many people visiting shows are more interested in selling classes than open classes, especially new beginners. Many fanciers I know, also myself, often enter birds in selling classes to help to make a good show, and would much rather have their birds home again than have them claimed. In open classes, many Greenfinches, Red-Polls, etc., worth about 3d., are reported, while many good birds in selling classes, worth as many pounds, are not reported. I say—either discontinue having selling classes, or report them. During the last six weeks I have won 1st prizes and 2nd prizes in good selling classes at many leading shows in England: 1st Grantham, 2nd Nottingham Great show, two 2nds Doncaster, 2nd and 3rd Ilkeston, 2nd Birmingham, two 1sts Rotherham, and 1st Sheffield. None of these prizes have been named in CAGE BIRDS—and all full classes. I, for one, think such birds are worth a mention, and will probably cease showing in selling classes, if they are not reported. ROBERT HOLMES.

Nottingham.

[We do not know that it is the practice to report upon the exhibits in the selling classes at livestock shows. So far as we are concerned, selling classes are not reported on account of the severe pressure upon our pages right through the show season, when it is a terribly difficult matter to get all the show reports in, and every inch of space is extremely valuable.—EDITOR.]

An Alleged Clear Mule at Bradford National Show.

Sir,—You report at Bradford National show, in clear Mules, No. 7, Fisher, passed as a Canary. Several fanciers here have coupled my name with this exhibit. Would you kindly make it clear through your valuable paper CAGE BIRDS, that I was not an exhibitor at the Bradford National show?

The Strike and Gateshead Show

Sir,—I was sorry to see several lots of exhibits marked "absent" in Gateshead catalogue. But whether they were sent or not I cannot say. If any got delayed through the strike I hope the owners got them home all right. I am pleased to say mine got through all right, and I had them back home again on Saturday night, and must thank Mr. Tindall, the show manager, and the officials for the splendid way they were packed. They deserve every praise, as I feel sure the strike must have caused them a lot of extra work.

How Can We Make Our Shows Pay?

Sir,—If we may judge by the continual progress made by our paper, CAGE BIRDS, it is evident that there are ever fresh bird-lovers joining the Fancy—and, of course, a lot of "new hands." Now it is to the interest of show committees to encourage these new beginners, and to retain them in the Fancy, and not give them the "needle" or "hump" at their first attempt at showing. I am not going to tell the show committee what to do, but only just hint to them to give a class or two at their shows for novices of the first year and novices of the second year, and provide for them classes of, say, Norwich and Yoryshire, non-colour fed. This would at once encourage them to start showing, and each exhibitor would have a good chance against his fellow novice. Beginners have not the knowledge to enable them to compete against the older hands at the first time of asking. There are, too, a great many beginners who have not the chance to join a club or society. I hope show committees will do all they can to give the first year novice a chance at their shows. A child (school) class might also be added with advantage to encourage children, even if it was only in British Birds. It would teach them how to keep and show birds, which would no doubt stimulate the successful ones to go one further and become keen Fanciers. Committees must also remember that if they establish these classes, as I hope some of them will, they should be satisfied with a small entrance fee, say, one shilling each entry, or even less for children.

The Future of the Sheffield O.S.

Sir,—No wonder at the Sheffield fanciers falling out amongst themselves when they cannot be trusted to return exhibitors' wrappers on their birds as they get them. We heard from a Bradford exhibitor that he lost—or it was not returned to him—the wrapper that he sent his birds in to Sheffield Show, Nov. 1 and 2, but he was agreeably surprised to find a Sheffield bird sent to Bradford Show last week with his wrapper on it. What are fanciers to do? A well-known fancier who lost some Mules a little while ago, always says they are somewhere round Sheffield, and that he is keeping a keen look out for them in that neighbourhood.

OLD BIRD.

Sir.—I was indeed surprised to read that Mr. Dawn takes the entire responsibility on to his own shoulders for what appeared in "Twitterings." Now as Mr. Bishop had not at that time actually resigned his position as secretary, but had only mentioned it in confidence to a few friends, I still consider it a "dirty trick," but I shall never be made to believe for one moment that Mr. Dawn was "solely" responsible for such. I have too good an opinion of him for that. He says my remarks re the "Clique" are absolutely untrue, and that had I attended the meetings, I would not have written such. Now the very reason for my not attending the meetings is that I had seen enough of the clique, and seeing is believing. Therefore, I still adhere to what I wrote in my last letter, and there are others of the same opinion. Mr. Dawn says: "Away with cant and humbug. Let there be no fear or favour but equal rights and fair play to all." Now if this should be his true opinion, why does he attend the committee meetings; or, further still, why does he have anything to do with the society at all? Does he forget what happened at the conclusion of the 1911 open show, when the birds were being packed up ready for their return? Fair play was dealt out wholesale, and the cant and humbug followed in the morning. If he has forgotten, I will excuse him. The sooner one forgets such things, the better.

The Shows in Ireland.

Sir,—It is regrettable to find, considering the few shows held in Ireland, that the first show of the Kingstown C.B.S. should have received such poor support. Fanciers, to my mind, should be only too eager to welcome a new addition to the ranks of C.B. shows. I was pleased to see the support accorded them from Cork—108 entries out of a total of 377. It is to be hoped that the show will turn out a financial success, and that their next effort will receive better support from the Irish fanciers. What has come over Sligo C.B.S., also Cork Provincial C.B.S., neither of which has as yet advertised its show; announcements from their respective Secretaries are anxiously awaited by fanciers in general. Cork P.P. and C.B.S. intend holding their show the second week of January, 1913.

The Judging at Small Cornish Shows.

Sir,—I do not desire to trespass at any length in your columns, but would like to bear out some of Mr. Andrew's statements, re judging at Cornish shows. Not only those he mentions, but many older established shows, employing quite local men to award the prizes. Referring to the bird shown at St. Columb by Mr. Andrew, and wrong-classed by Mr. Toy, it was shown to me by gaslight by another exhibitor to express my opinion (not knowing it had been "W.C.") as to its colour. Without any hesitation, I replied "Yellow." I also notice Mr. Toy claims establishing a record for St. Colomb under his judging, but if he will look up old catalogues for 1906 and 1907 when Mr. Cheney and the late Mr. Dennithorne were advertised to judge he will find a far larger entry than 148; in fact in 1906 there were over 200 entries. I admit the classification was larger, but it was their first show. St. Columb would do well when giving cups for specials for most points not to award extra vhc cards. Otherwise, the management is A1.

NOT AN EXHIBITOR.

A Failure at Linnet Catching Explained.

Sir,—In answer to "Novice's" letter in your valuable paper, asking how to teach Linnets to sit the stick, I would not recommend a brown Linnet. I recommend a Redpoll or a Twite. I find Sparrows very good. First of all, brace them, leave the brace on for a day or two, so that they get used to it, then get a brace peg and a brace stick and start preparations. I should advise "Novice" to teach them in the house before he takes them to a field. Give the brace birds about three inches of string, that is, from brace to end of brace stick. He will find that the bird will hang on to this string. Then get about four yards of string fastened to the brace peg, and pull your bird up; give a slight jerk, not too quick. Then, if he does not get on the stick, put your bird on, get to the end of your brace line and pull up gently. As you drop your bird down, you will find that he will flutter his wings so as not to fall off the stick. Repeat this a time or two, and you will find your bird will find the stick without any trouble. Do not give your bird too much training at a time. When you have taught one bird, one will teach another. Get a "stragle" to hold two sticks instead of one. Put the bird that is trained on one of the sticks and a fresh one on the other, and pull your birds up gently, when the one that is trained will teach the other. Leave your brace on your bird, as it will not hurt it if it is put on properly. In answer to how many call birds are required, that depends on quality, not quantity. If your Linnets are singing well two are plenty, but if your birds do not open their mouths, 22 will not be enough. I should advise "Novice" to get a couple of Linnet Mules, but get them with Linnet notes; if he gets them with Linnet notes he can then depend on catching Linnets. Put the call birds outside your nets, as when you put them in the middle your cages hold your nets up and then the birds can fly from one end of your net to the other, and will require a lot of running after; I am dealing with the so-called clap nets.

THE PASSING OF A NOTED JUDGE.

Death of Mr. Joseph Bexson (Derby).

It is with the deepest regret that we have to announce the death of Mr. Joseph Bexson, of Derby. Some twelve months ago he had a stroke, and had not really got over the effects of it when, on Wednesday morning, December 11, he had the stroke which proved fatal; he only surviving the attack just over an hour. Mr. Bexson was in his 71st year, being born at Castle Donnington, near Derby, in 1842. Very early in life he demonstrated that fondness for live stock which proved so characteristic of him throughout the rest of life. In business circles Mr. Bexson was a Silk and Yarn Agent and till his retirement some years ago was a familiar figure about Derby, enjoying the friendship and esteem of all he came in contact with. Mr. Bexson's favourite hobby was cage birds, and he joined the Derby Cage Bird Society. In 1863 he was elected secretary, a position he most satisfactorily held for a number of years, and on his retirement from that office, in recognition of his valuable services the members presented him with a silver tea and coffee service.

THE LATE MR. JOS. BEXSON.

Mr. Bexson was one of the most successful breeders and exhibitors of Canaries of his generation and in former years was invincible with Cinnamons. It was almost by accident that he manufactured this variety, by mating a buff variegated cock and a heavily variegated yellow hen (the latter having a little Belgian blood in her). The progeny were Cinnamons, a rarity in those days. This circumstance led to Mr. Bexson devoting a great deal of his attention to this variety, which well repaid him on the show bench, for one year in particular he came off with first every time he exhibited in the Jonque class and was only once beaten with the Mealy, which stood "equal second" at the Palace show with a bird shown by Mr. Vine, of the Isle of Wight, a famous rival in those days in that variety. The late Mr. Blakston said once, that he thought secretaries of shows where Mr. Bexson exhibited ought to have his name stereotyped as he was sure to take all the firsts. After many years of exhibiting, the Cage Bird Fancy thought that they would do well to enlist Mr. Bexson amongst their judges. Accordingly he was asked to act in that capacity and between the years 1879 and 1909 we believe he judged well on for 1,000 shows, including all the big fixtures in England, Scotland, Ireland and Wales, Channel Isles and Isle of Man. For 30 years he adjudicated at the Crystal Palace show, whilst every large show during his career has engaged him to judge many times. In 1904 Mr. Bexon was the recipient of a purse of gold and an illuminated address, subscribed for by all the leading fanciers in the country. He made mistakes, but was always ready to acknowledge them, and his hearty, genial manner made him generally liked wherever he went. Mr. Bexson was also closely identified with the Derbyshire Agricultural Society, being one of the stewards of the poultry section for many years.

Mr. Bexson leaves a widow and grown-up family, and we are sure all those who knew him in the past will sympathise with them in their sad loss. We, of the Derby Society, have suffered a great loss and we shall treasure his memory whilst the Society exists. Mr. Bexson's kind, fatherly advice on all matters, endeared him to the hearts of all true fanciers, both old and young. The hand of death has been laid heavily upon the stalwarts of our Society this last few years, and it is with difficulty that we keep the old Society in its position of years ago. But the memory and deeds of our departed members will spur us on to lift the Society once again into the high position their efforts placed it.—WHARAM AND BAMSEY, Secs. Derby C.B.S.

A Norwich Plainhead Missing from Pontypridd Show.

Reward Offered.

Sir,—Unfortunately we have not yet heard any tidings with regard to the missing Norwich cock at our show of Dec. 4th., and would like you to insert the following. Mr. S. H. George, 32, Fisher Street, Swansea, is offering £1 reward for the recovery of the Norwich cock that was missing from his box on arriving home from Pontypridd show of the 4th inst. Information can be sent to Mr. George, or the Secretary of the Pontypridd Society.

The Popularity of the Scotch Fancy Canary.

Is the Price Too High?—Present Classes Neglected.

Sir,—Your correspondent asks in last week's CAGE BIRDS: How it is the Scotch Fancy is not more popular. I believe a great many more of these graceful birds would be kept but for the high price that is asked for them, which puts them out of the reach of the working class. Still, no matter what variety of Canary we take up as our choice, if we want good birds we have to pay a decent price for them. There are many fanciers round about here (Lancashire), who would like to take up this beautiful bird, but the majority of the working class cannot really afford to pay the high price demanded for them. That, in my opinion, is why they are not so popular as they otherwise would be. I am a working man myself, and have kept, bred and exhibited the Scotch Fancy for many years, and I find it takes no more to keep them, nor do they require any more attention than any other variety. They are hardy, prolific, require no colour-feeding, and the cocks are splendid songsters. Nothing gives me more pleasure than to see a good specimen placed in the show cage. There you have something to look at, something to admire. Watch his graceful movement to and fro; it will ofttimes bring a smile on your countenance and make you feel proud you are the owner of such a fine specimen. The Scotch Fancy is a bird of position and action, and I myself consider him the most noble bird we have. I wish CAGE BIRDS the success it certainly deserves.

CHAS. KELSEY.

Sir,—I think the fault generally lies with fanciers themselves that show committees do not provide classes for Scotch Fancies, for although there has always been controversy about the decline of the "Bird of Circle," the breeders have only themselves to thank, as they do not exhibit even when an occasional opportunity occurs. At the recent Barnstaple show, I was instrumental in getting a class provided for Scotch Fancies, with two specials, and am sorry to say I was the only one who entered; result, Class cancelled. Now, sir, Wimbledon is not too far for me to exhibit, so distance is no excuse, and the review of our schedule appeared in your valuable paper. So I really think show committees are to be defended somewhat, for it is absolutely useless giving classes and awarding special prizes to get the same continually cancelled.

Now, then, breeders of Scotch Fancies, buck up, and wherever a class is provided within reasonable distance, give it your support. If too late this season, remember Barnstaple show next year for a start, and you will soon find shows providing classes for you, if it is true you really want to exhibit.

CHARLES F. DART.

The Troubles and Trials of Exhibitors.

Sir,—When a judge judges a class of Mules and Hybrids—the only one in the show—he should judge the birds as to their nearness to perfection for the cross they represent, so as to give the common ones an equal chance. If a rare cross is badly staged, or is in bad condition, he is quite right to pass it. Does Mr. Bennet always show his bird in good condition, and has he ever compared it with a real good one of the cross. I may state I have seen his bird.

KILSYTH.

Annual open show, held Dec. 14, in the Drill Hall. The hall is well adapted for such an exhibition, being well lighted from top and sides. Unfortunately the weather conditions were of the worst, still there was a grand muster of well-known fanciers from the district. The society is conducted and managed by a body of well-known and respected fanciers: Pres., Mr. Wm. Irvine; Vice, Mr. J. Whyte; Treas., Mr. J. Brown; Hon. Sec., Mr. A. D. Duncan; Executive, Messrs. McAulay, McGreachen, Shillinglaw, Barrie, Hardie, and Dunlop, who did their utmost for all concerned. Nor. classes contained some grand specimens, notably the teams shown by Mr. J. Noble, Kilmarnock, also Mr. Martin, Kirkintilloch, and our old friend Mr. J. Morehand, Talkirk. Messrs. Walker, Lennoxtown, Mr. Dodds, Edinburgh, and Mr. Middleton, Sale, Cheshire, supplied the Border sections with some grand specimens which were much admired. British, Mules and Foreigners were grand. Non-fed Greenfinch class was the best we have seen this season, some grand birds being cardless. Messrs. Stuart and Dalling gained special for best Greenfinch in show with their fed Greenfinch, Palace winner, etc., etc., one of the best going; sp. for best Mule, Lockhart and Bell, with grand dark Linnet Mule. Best Foreign, G. McRobbie's Gouldian Finch; Softbill (small), Mr. Arnott's Wagtail; Bunting or Hardbill, large, Mr. Robertson's Hawfinch; small Hardbill, Mr. Sharp's Goldie; Mr. G. Henderson gained special for best Linnet and Large Softbill, the latter with his champion Waxwing, one of the best out. Mr. J. McLay, Kirkintilloch, judged Norwich; Mr. D. Hamilton, Hamilton, Borders; Mr. W. Sharp, Bathgate, Brit. and For., and their decisions left little room for grumbling. We were informed that the secretary had to return a large number of entries, being too late for entry in catalogue; it is impossible to understand why fanciers hold up their entries till the last minute; they really seem not to know the great amount of work this entails.

EALING, HANWELL F.S.

Annual show held at St. John's Memorial Hall, West Ealing, Dec. 11. Nearly 100 entries were put down and enormous interest was taken in the show, over 200 visitors in the evening, which speaks very well for the future of the club. Mr. Dewhurst judged and his awards were very well received.—Rowland Bamber, Hon. Sec. and Treas.

(From the catalogue received we gather that the principal winners were: YORKS: Wright, Neal, Smith, Crockett, Huxley, Ward, Jeffries, Fletcher, Bamber, Carr. NOR.: Nicholls, Withers, Huxley, Thursby, Phipps. MULES: Thursby. BRIT.: Thursby, Smith, Huxley. FOR.: Bamber, Smith, Phipps. Special for best in show, Ward, variegs. Yorks cock; best hen, Jeffries, buff Yorks.—Ed.)

CLEATOR MOOR.

Show held in the Market Hall, Dec. 14. Entries all round were rather disappointing. The best turn-out was in the Yorkshire section, which contained many exhibits capable of winning at shows of much greater pretensions. An unfortunate and purely accidental occurrence took place in this section, the cage containing the winning yellow hen belonging to Mr. E. Clegg being knocked off table immediately after judging, and the hen apparently lamed. Borders were down in numbers, though several birds of high quality were present. British were only moderately represented, the outstanding specimen being the Hawfinch belonging to Mr. J. Wilson (Workington). The Market Hall is a fine roomy place for an exhibition of this kind, and was taxed to its utmost to accommodate the whole of the entries. The secretarial duties were carried out by Mr. J. Skillicorn, who worked assiduously for the success of the show, ably assisted by other members of the committee. The judges for Canaries were Mr. J. Stewart, Whitehaven; for British, Mr. G. Wilson, Prizington.

AUCHTERARDER.

Ann. exhibiton, Dec. 14, Aytoun Hall, which is admirable one for the purpose, cage birds being staged along one side in a good light and away from draught. The entry was down from last year, but contained some very good birds, especially in British and Mules. Mr. Nicholson (Bathgate) carried off cup for most points over show, but was hotly presed by Mr. W. C. Smith (Balquhidder), only one point separating them—a very close result. Mr. Smith had special for best Nor. with his yell. var. ck.—an easy win. Mr. H. Wilson (Bannockburn) won special for best Border with a nice mkd. ck., and McCall and Henderson had special for best in Crest Section, with a good Green Crest-bred hen. Mr. David Roy won medal for most points by a local exhibitor. The executive is a good one, and are:—Pres., Mr. Haxton; vice-pres., Mr. Scott; and a committee, Messrs. Hoey, Menzies, Cairns, A. Dow, and Lawrence; while Messrs. Roy and Cranna were especially active in the cage bird section, and had a lot to do in making the show a success. The sec., Mr. Dow, jun., is a grand worker, and had all his arrangements well made, and was very courteous and obliging to all with whom he came in contact. The show was well patronised during the afternoon, and the birds came in for a large share of the visitors' attention. Mr. Wm. Bishop (St. Ninians) judged the whole show, and his awards seemed to give general satisfaction.

Capital Entry at Sheffield C.B.S. Show.

Grand Exhibits. Good Attendance. High-Class Management.

The Sheffield C.B.S. held their 33rd annual show on Dec. 14. The Montgomery Hall, which is nicely lighted, spacious, free from draughts, and centrally situated, was the rendezvous. The schedule issued was capital, with excellent prize money (22s. per class guaranteed), and points specials for every section. This brought together an entry of 530 upwards, a satisfactory total considering the rather late date. Whispers were abroad that on the next occasion the date would be an earlier one; and if such comes about we think the "entlers" will benefit. The hon. pres. is H. Barber, Esq. The hon. vice pres., Messrs. J. C. Barnes, P. Walsh, and H. Jinks—a trio of well-known enthusiasts. The president, Mr. F. Jones, is a true sport, one who has the welfare of the society at heart, courteous and a worker of the strenuous order—a valuable asset. Vice-pres., Messrs. T. Hemming and J. Thorpe, are also a brace of excellent officials, ever ready to give assistance. The committee are a band of well-known, practical, and highly efficient fanciers (many of old standing, so far as open show management is concerned). By the manner in which they attend to every detail with judgment and tact, in the correct working successfully of an open venture, our Sheffield friends are hard to beat. Our compliments to Messrs. Champion, Furniss, Kelley, Walsh, Bennett, Memmott, Lawton, Cowley, Hobson, Drabble, Tow, and Tomlinson. With such a list of all willing helpers and workers, the "entlery capital" is well served. No wonder their shows always run smoothly. One face we missed was that of Mr. W. Oxley, the highly esteemed treasurer. His unavoidable absence was due to being at the bedside of his beloved wife, who is most seriously ill. We, along with all the members of the society, wish to tender our fullest sympathy to him and his family, while hoping that a turn for the better will be quickly forthcoming.

Two "Old Hands" and one You: g.

Mr. A. Hobson, the secretary, is made of the right metal, sound as a bell. He is most courteous and obliging, does the right thing at the right time, always keeping top side of his duties. A better handler of the reins or a better organiser one would find it most difficult to locate. Stick to him, Sheffield C.B.S.; you have a "good 'un." His understudy, Mr. J. Woolhouse, is also untiring in his efforts, nothing being too much for him to do, and he proves himself worthy of the confidence placed in him as assistant sec. We must not forget the very useful help rendered by Master Hobson, only a lad, but more advanced than many double his age—most reliable in all he undertakes, and quite enterprising in his views.

Yorkshires provided a treat for those who swear by the "Gentlemen of Canarydom." Magnificent specimens, full of "check and swagger," were staged by Messrs. J. Bailey, J. Thomas, C. Morrison, and E. Norton, while Dr. W. Craig (local) won well with a most bewitching cl. buff hen, 1912 bred. In the novice section, Messrs. F. Radley, S. Binns, S. Knowles, Sorsby and Billard, and W. H. Tansey, held their hands out for the "biggest plums." Norwich were voted a capital collection, such "stables" being represented as those of Messrs. T. Proctor, S. Cook, J. Thomas, A. H. Waters, H. F. Marsh, and J. E. Cowley. Successful novices were Messrs. J. Atkinson, W. Birchmshaw, G. Hallett, A. Cadman, and A. Lawton. Crests and C.B. were good, but not over numerous, in the four classes provided (curious coincidence that in each class were eight entries). Messrs. Radley and Son staged a fine team, gaining no less than three firsts, three seconds, third, and a fourth, and other mentions, with ten birds. Mr. E. Barker put down a grand young C.B. (buff green) that with luck should be one of the "nuts" another year. Mules contained rare "mixtures," Messrs. Martin and Archer doing the greatest execution. British captivated wonderfully, and well they might. Envious eyes fell upon the Goldie owned by Mr. A. P. Hurst, and the Greenie the property of Mr. G. J. Brade. Mr. R. D. Parlett benched four Linnets, taking 1, 2, 4, and vhc, the leader a gem. Mr. P. Walsh stood 1st in the A.O.V. Hardbill (Hawfinch), and in the Softbill (Waxwing) with a brace of eye-openers. Mr. G. Fletcher put down a champion Black Redstart, while amongst the novices, Messrs. W. Bingham won well with a very smart Linnet. The foreign were carefully looked after by Mr. G. Fletcher, the local expert, and contained some superb exhibits.

Every Bird had a "Run."

Claimed birds were numerous, an outstanding purchase being the £5 5s. novice cl. yell. unflighted Nor. winner, by a Long Eaton firm. The show was very well patronised, and during the day we had the pleasure of chatting with Mr. and Mrs. W. Vardy (Hucknall), S. Cook (Manchester), Dr. A. M. Deane, and W. Hirst (Dewsbury), H. H. Towers (Crosshills), E. Fox (Long Eaton), Brotherton, Browning, Twigg, and Ducker (Rotherham), Waters (Wombwell), J. Bailey (Bradford), and others. This being only a one-day show, it was really essential that all birds should have arrived early, but many cases came in rather late, which did not allow the judges to get at their work as soon as they would have liked. Anyhow, the officials of the society rose to the occasion, and with careful manipulation no bird had to be labelled "Too late for judging." All got a run for their money, and credit is due to those responsible. Special for best true pair of foreigners went to Mrs. F. E. Rice's Red-collared Lorrikeets. The stewards, who officiated in a very practical manner, were Messrs. C. W. Hobson, W. H. Furniss, C. Ellis, L. Falding, F. Jones (chairman), J. Memmott, and J. Farnell. The seeding and watering were attended to judiciously by Messrs. G. Fletcher and C. W. Hobson. The despatch clerk for getting "early birds" away, was Mr. W. T. Furniss. The show was opened in good time, and catalogues with awards sold well. Everything went off A1; no hitch whatever. The birds were got off by most suitable trains, and the show room cleared at an early hour. The judges were Messrs. H. W. Battye and J. Robson.

Mr. H. W. Battye's Classes.

YELL. YORKS. (7): 1, 2, Bailey, topping brace, leader straight as a pencil, nice length, good col., well on leg, in the pink, 2nd we thought better qual., equal in all other respects, and might have won, both very near in merit; 3, Norton, mkd. neck, wonderful length, stands like a guardsman, capital col., just beaten in finish, Rotherham winner; 4, Towers, beautifully feathered cl., finely drawn, rich level col.; vhc, Sampson; hc, Bingham; c, Pike. BUFF (8): 1, Thomas, gem of a cl., slashing col. and feather, neat head and neck, fine shape, lengthy body, stands grand, greatly admired; 2, Norton, very shapely cl., good length, nice back and wing carr., capitally clothed, well on leg, stood 1st Rotherham week previous; 3, Radley, cl., A1 qual. and col., erect, good length, when handled all right, but bit down in coud.; 4, Pike, very lengthy cl., fine pos., superior feather, nice back and wing carr., thicker in waist; vhc, Jefferys; hc, Towers; c, Morrison. UNEVEN (7): 1, 2, Bailey, again a couple of swells, the noted cinn. mkd. taking precedence, and looking as well as ever, truly a stormer, 2nd buff, mkd. wings and head, rare pos. and length, perfect back and wing carr., clever legs, staged by a master hand; 3, Morrison, yell., mkd. wing and eyes, slim and upstanding, elegantly dressed, rich tone of col., beaten slightly in length; 4, Hedworth, yell. mkd. head, neat and narrow, straight up, smooth as a bottle, not quite so lengthy; vhc, Thomas; hc, Jones; c, Jefferys. YELL. UNFLIG. CARDIGAN.

Show held Dec. 12th. The numbers were below the average, but the quality was on the whole very good. Yorks. were a fine lot. Two sets of winners could be got here and no one could have cause to complain. The Goldie class was not up to the usual standard, only five being in the section provided for them. Unfortunately the show was not advertised to the extent it ought to have been, and it will pay to do so in the future. Mr. D. Morgan Jones, the Sec., was most courteous and obliging. The exhibits were well looked after in the hands of Messrs. D. J. Thomas and John Davies, and all birds were despatched from show in good time (5.30). Mr. Bowker, Nantwich, judged, and we heard no complaints.

BROXBURN.

Annual show, held December 14th, in the Public Halls, Broxburn. Entries were a shade below previous years, the reason being the large amount of shows held on the same day, but what was lacking in numbers was amply made up in quality, many well-known winners being forward. Scotch Fancies and Norwich were the most disappointing classes considering the good classification which was provided. In Crests Mr. Wm. Paul, Uphill, had a grand team forward, and was successful in winning the Broxburn cup for most points, and right well he deserved it. The Ure cup for most points in Scotch and Border sections was captured by Mr. Robert Menzies, Edinburgh, who had forward a nice lot of Scotch Fancies. Border Fancies were a grand lot, some rare quality birds being staged. The chief honours were carried off by that veteran, Mr. John Craig, of Brechin, who won the B.F.C.C. medal with his buff cock, a gem all over, staged in faultless order; he also secured the Toronto medal for best team of three birds, a very popular win. The British section contained the cream of this season's winners, and most of them repeated their previous successes by heading their respective classes. The committee are all well-known fanciers, and did everything in their power to make the show a success. Mr. Murray, the President, we noticed, lent a helping hand, acting as a steward to the judges, and had a smile for everybody. The popular secretary, Mr. Wm. McLaren, is the right man in the right place, getting through his work without the least flurry, a great asset to have in holding such a post. The hall is an ideal place, the staging being nicely arranged up two sides, and down the centre, which enables the exhibits to be well seen. The judges were: Scotch Fancies, Mr. John McLennan, Edinburgh; Plainheads and Crests, Mr. Allan Chalmers, Kirkintilloch; Borders, Mr. Gollan Hislop, Stirling; Mules and British, Mr. R. V. Raine, Glasgow, and Mr. John Goodfellow, Edinburgh, and their awards gave every satisfaction, as no grumbling was heard during the afternoon.

LLANDUDNO.

Members' show, held December 11. About 100 birds were on view, a capital entry considering the society was only formed this year. Quality was grand, especially in Yorks., which were really smart. British were a very even lot. A truant from Siberia fell in with the Goldies; we heard it was caught in Llandudno, as it found the "Naples of the North" a bit warmer than Moscow. Norwich show great promise of becoming popular with the members. The worthy chairman, Mr. E. Nolan, put down some pepper corns. The President, Mr. Pike, takes a great interest in the society. He had some neat Yorks carrying red tickets; his financial help has been the backbone of the society. There is a good working committee, while Mr. Berry makes an ideal secretary. Mr. J. W. Metcalfe, Liverpool, placed the cards, and his awards were well received.

ABERDEEN O.S.

Fifty-seventh annual show held in the Ball Room Music Hall Buildings, on December 13th and 14th, under the distinguished patronage of the Lord Provost, Magistrates and Town Council of the City of Aberdeen. In connection with this fixture the Scottish Nor. P.C. held their show. They were also fortunate in having the patronage of the Cinnamon C.C., which brought out some exhibits of the first water, such well -known fanciers as Messrs. Dormer, Hartup, Godley and Mrs. Deacon staging grand birds. Brit. and For. were a splendid collection, Mr. R. J. Robertson's team of small foreign being much admired. The Pres., Mr. Wm. Allan, did all in his power to make the show a success. The Vice-President, Mr. John Hector, who unfortunately is away in France, presented the Brit. section with a beautiful challenge cup for points, which was gained by Mr. John Sykes, Musselburgh; the runner-up being Mr. R. J. Robertson, with one point less. The Secretary and Treasurer, Mr. John Bryson, is a hard worker, and does his very utmost for the benefit of the exhibitors. He is well supported by a large committee of old and capable fanciers. Mr. Mitchell of Brechin, who was to take part in judging the Norwich section, with Mr. Alex. Thomson, Aberdeen, had to cancel his engagement, being indisposed. Mr. Geo. Davidson, Aberdeen, kindly consented to carry out Mr. Mitchell's duties, and both judges' awards gave general satisfaction. The gold medal for best cock, confined to members of the N.P.C., also Sandiford's medal for best fed yell., were won by Mr. Wm. Aitchison. Gold medal for best hen, by Mr. Wm. Grewar, Lochgelly, with a champion buff hen, the best we have seen in the north. Silver medal for best bird shown by a novice, Mr. John Bryson, Aberdeen; Ramsden's medal, Mr. A. Maxwell; S.P.C. silver medal for cocks, Mr. L. Will, Aberdeen, and for hens, Mr. Wm. Hampton, Brechin; and the Wilson medal, Mr. Wm. Rae. The show was well patronised by the public, and we have no doubt that it will turn out a financial success.

DAWLEY (Salop).

Fifth annual show held in the Assembly Room, December 10th, a splendid place for the purpose, the birds being well staged in a good light. Only three classes were provided for Canaries, the chief feature of the show being the British and Mule classes, of which a large number of the former are kept in the district, and competition in these classes is always very keen. The entry was a capital one, the best they have yet received, while the quality of the exhibits was of a very high order. Special for most points throughout the show was won by Mr. G. Potter with a fine team staged in excellent condition. Mr. Jas. Clayton again filled the post of Secretary in a very business-like manner, having everything in perfect order. Mr. Arthur C. Brotherhood judged.

LANARKSHIRE O.A.

Annual show, held in Shand's Hall, Dec. 7th. Entries were open till morning of show, which necessitated a little delay in starting. However, with a keen and able hand (Mr. John Clark) holding the secretarial reins, and a most proficient and obliging set of office bearers and committee at his back, work was not long ere it was in full swing. Entries were slightly down in the Border section, but a class allotted to children brought the total almost up to the previous year. The gate did not come up to the usual average as a result of clashing Picts., J. Selkirk; Vice-pres., D. Watson, Sec., J. Clark; Treas., J. Boyle; Committee, Messrs. Macfadyen, Downie, Henderson, Cowe, Dick, and Way, Lanark; Hay, Birrell, and Boswell, Douglas Water; Swanson, Shand, and Telfer, Douglas; Somerville, Auchinheath, Muirkirk; Clark & Co., Muirkirk; Blair and Brown, Carstairs Junction; A. and D. Lawson, Biggar; Jackson, Kirkmuirhill. Quality of the exhibits was very good, each section being well represented in that respect. The weather was good, for the season of the year, and a well-lighted hall greatly aided the judges in the placing their awards. Not a murmur was heard against the awards, which means that everybody was well pleased. The only incident worthy of note that occurred was the difference of opinion expressed by the judges as to whose section the cup should go, each being in favour of his own choice. Ultimately the committee met and awarded it to the British bird, Messrs. Telfer Bros.' lovely Waxwing, Messrs. Macfadyen's Plainhead and Waye's Buff Border being the birds selected as runners-up. The judges were: For Scots Fancy, Crests, Plainheads, and Yorks., Mr. R. H. Livingstone, Rutherglen; Borders, Mr. W. Mossie, Annbank; and British and Foreign, Mr. P. McQuiston, Ayr.

The Critique.

SCOTCH, YELL., ETC., CK. (3): 1, 3, L. Nests of Birds, Poultry, etc., should be regularly sprinkled with KEATING'S POWDER, especially when hens are sitting. Don't forget to do this just previous to the eggs hatching, to destroy the Red Mite. Kills all insects. Harmless to everything else.

BOOTLE (Liverpool).

This old society held their annual show Dec. 14th, in the Parochial Hall, one of the best halls in the district. For some years this society has not flourished as it ought to have done, but this last year or so, the ship has been dismantled, new rigging put up, and this year's show was reminiscent of the good old days. Barring the Liverpool O.S. open show, better birds have not been staged in the district, and credit redounds to the fanciers of Bootle, who have put their shoulders to the wheel at the right time. Every praise must be given to the Hon. Sec., Mr. L. S. Hamilton, who has worked like a Trojan, aided by Mrs. Hamilton, who has hunted up and spent days buying specials worthy of the occasion. The Chairman, Mr. Rimmer, Vice, Mr. J. Lobb, Treasurer, Mr. Larkin, with Mr. Rawsthorne looking after the interests of the birds, backed up by a hard-working committee in Messrs. McNulty, Young, McLean, Knight, Skilling, Algie, Wall, Foster, Rawsthorne, and Fawcett, can feel justly proud of their efforts this year. The two warriors, Messrs. McNulty and J. Lobb, fought their usual battle, both staging some charming exhibits. Everyone we met seemed to have done well, each was carrying something home in the way of specials. It is a long time since we saw such a galaxy of serviceable specials. The judging was over in good time. Our friend Mr. Wellings had his usual smile; he had satisfied everybody.

The Critique.

SPRINGBURN (Possil Park).

Annual show Dec. 7, in the Reid Hall, with an entry of 333 birds, a slight increase over last year. Norwich formed one of the finest collections seen in the district, the cup being won by the Pres., Mr. A. Sloan. Crests, hybrids and mules were not so numerous, but both entry and quality in the Borders were good, the cup being won by J. Swan. Nov. cup for best young bird was won by A. Smith; special best old bird, J. McMillan's Crest cock. Linnets, Greenies, and Redpolls were good classes, and there was keen competition for the specials. The hall was well filled with keen fanciers and spectators, and all commented on the quality of the birds, and the good job the judges had made.—J. Waugh, Sec. and Treas.

From the catalogue received we gather the principal winners to be: NOR.: Messrs. Taylor, Fyfe, Downie, McLeod, M'Millan, Sloan, Hadley, Williams, Crawford, Smith, and Donaghy. CREST AND C.B.: Messrs. NORTHERN BORDER & S.F.C.C.

Meeting and table show held Dec. 2, 1912, Mr. W. Smith in chair. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and adopted. Mr. G. Wilson moved, Mr. W. Affleck seconded, that the secretary write to the secretaries of Gateshead and Sunderland shows regarding the classification at patronage shows. Mr. Harvey then presented a pair of fret-work models of the Border Fancy Canary, to be won at the pair show for most points. The following are the awards at the table show. Mr. T. Robson, in the place of Mr. T. Chapman, judged the champion section, and Mr. J. Craig the nov. section, both doing their work well. There was an entry of 81 birds.

Mr. Johnston moved, Mr. Harvey seconded, a hearty vote of thanks to the judges, bringing a splendid meeting to an end.—M. C. Potts, Sec.

LUTON C.B.S.

Seventh annual exhibition, held in the Corn Exchange December 11th. The hall is a capital one for such a purpose, being well lighted on all sides; a fire upon the kept the place at a nice even temperature, and took the chill off a raw damp atmosphere without, to the advantage of the exhibits. Entries were quite double those of last year, number 29 being 160. Canaries were not quite up to the average, noticeably in Crest and Crested classes, but Belgian, British and Foreign made full amends, Gold Crests, Buffs, etc., and the other Fancy classes being exceedingly strong in numbers and quality, many wishing, having of necessity to stand cards over, competition being so extraordinarily keen. Foreign birds made a magnificent display, quite equal to London form, and very rarely surpassed by any provincial show. The executive, composed of Messrs. Morton (chairman), Gould (vice), Cherry, Maddox, Elsg, Webb, Smith, Litchfield, Ball, Parkins, and Gregary, are an enthusiastic lot of fanciers, with Mr. E. Bloomfield as hon. sec., who has worked hard to place the society on a sound financial basis, and it is hoped this show will further augment the nice little balance in hand, gathered together by careful and sound business methods. Mr. J. Robson judged Canaries, and Mr. J. Frostick Hybrids, British and Foreign.

Mr. Robson's Classes.

(7): 1, Keech, mkd. yell., head and wings, good wings and tail, nice col., lovely qual.; 2, Litchfield and Sons, heavily variegd. yell., good stout cobby bird, nice head, carries its wings well, a gem for col.; 3, Cherry, yell., almost even mkd., good body, nice head, short tail, hot col.; 4, Pedder, variegd. buff, fine big bird; w.c., Cherry and F. J. Webb; absent, Notley. HEN (8): 1, Keech, lovely yell., good cobby bird, short wings and tail, a perfect lady; 2, Cherry, buff, good body, short flights and tail, hardly as good in col. as 3, Pedder, cl. buff, fair head and body, very rich mealing on the back; 4, Litchfield and Sons, buff, nice bird, lovely qual., bit smaller than the leaders; vhc, Buckingham; hc, Goodman; c, Rhodes. UNFLIG. YELL. (10): 1, Nor. cup, Keech, yell., saddle mkd. and eyes, good stout bird, lovely head and neck, short tail, true to type, a credit to the breeder; 2, Goodman, cl. yell., good head and body, nice wings, lovely qual.; 3, 4, hc, Litchfield and Sons, 3rd cl. yell., nice bird, good head, not the coldness of the cup winner, 4th similar bird; vhc, Rhodes; c, Pedder. BUFF (6): 1, Keech, cap and wing mkd., good stout body, nice head, grand qual.; 2, Goodman, cl. buff, good head and neck, lovely qual. feather; 3, Rhodes, a very nice bird, but inclined to be too feathery for Nor.; 4, F. J. Webb, very large bird, good head and body, will make a good stock bird; vhc, Bloomfield and Rose. YORKS., CK. (7): 1, 2, vhc, hc, Buckingham, 1st cl. yell., straight as a soldier, grand wing carr., lovely qual., 2nd buff, long bird, grand head, well braced wings, a pair of good ones; 3, Cherry, long, reachy yell., good head, neck, and wings, nicely piped tail, lovely col.; 4, F. J. Webb, buff, nice bird, good head, but a little on the short side; c, Cherry. HEN (4): 1, 2, Buckingham, 1st lovely buff, good wings and tail, 2nd cl. yell., nice long slim bird, good col.; 3, Jackson, cinn. mkd. wing and head, nice bird, bit flat on head; 4, F. J. Webb, cl. yell., nice long bird, good head, well up on leg, good qual. of feather. UNFLIG. YELL. (4): 1, Spiers, cl. yell., nice head, well filled in back, stands well, nice pipe tail, good col.; 2, Buckingham, cl. yell., nice bird, shade coarse feather; 3, Cherry, cl. yell., nice head and wings, good qual. feather, very tight, grand col.; 4, Smith, nice bird, good col., fails in length to winner. BUFF (6): 1, cup, 2, 1, Buckingham, grand trio, 1st lovely qual. feather, grand head and wings, straight as a rush, 2nd cl. buff, similar to cup winner, not much to choose between; 3, Cherry, buff, nice round head, good wing carr., not quite the length of winners; vhc, F. J. Webb; hc, Smith. CREST (4): 1, 4, G. Bennett, 1st green, large and well formed crest big body, plenty of feather, 4th variegd., nice crest, not so good as the former; 2, 3, Bloomfield and Rose, 2nd variegd., good crest, carries plenty of feather on body, 3rd green, good tail, neater crest, not the subs. of its companion. C.B. (3): 1, Bloomfield and Rose, green, good width of skull, well lashed; 2, 3, Bennett, 2nd good bird, must have pressed winner very hard, 3rd similar bird, rather out of cond. CREST AND C.B., 1912 (1): 1, cup, Bennett, cl. body D.C., lovely large crest, with another moult, will make a stopper; 2, 3, Bloomfield and Rose, variegd. D.C., not quite the body of cup winner, 3rd C.B., rare body, good skull, well lashed; 4, Bennett, good crest, rather on the small side, but good bird. A.O.V. CAN. cancelled. NOV. NOR. Mr. J. Frostick's Classes.

HYB.: CAN. CROSSES (16): Dark and light competing in same class must have made the judge's task a difficult one. 1, 2, 4, Lawrence, all well-known winners, slightly ticked buff Gold.-Can., in rare form, 2nd, light buff Linnet-Can., even marked wings, 4th, rich coloured cinn. Greenfinch-Can., good size, well staged; 3, c, Lamb, grizzle marked Greenfinch-Can., grand col., beautifully staged and lightly marked Gold.-Can.; vhc, hc, Buckingham, even-marked yell. Gold.-Can., and well-known Redpoll-Can., outclassed to-day. BRIT. CROSSES AND CAN.-BULL. (7): 1, Lamb, rare Redpoll-Bullfie, real gem, glorious col., staged to perfection; 2, Howick, noted Can.-Bullie, in great form; 3, 4, vhc, Lawrence, rich coloured Gold.-Bullie, fine blaze, perfect order, 4th, Gold.-Greenie, large size, well defined colours and markings, vhc, the old champion Can.-Bullie, not in his best form to-day, careless wing and tail carriage, probably from being too tame; hc, Biles; c, Davies, Gold.-Greenie. GOLDFINCH (15): 1, Harris, well-known winner, large, square blaze, evenly cut underneath, rich col., well burnished, good tanning, nice wing bars, tip-top condition; 2, Stephens, nice face, rich col., not quite so clean cut, and paler in tanning; 3, Mays, rich col. everywhere, just fails in high condition; 4, Jeffreys, nice size and shape, paler in col.; vhc, he, Bowler; c, Allen. BULLFINCH (21): Extraordinary class, reminding one of the Palace. 1, Lawrence, fine type, lovely rich coloured breast, smooth as a bottle, fine back and wing bars, grand cap, beauty all over; 2, Carrier, gem, close up; 3, Mays, perfect in all points, a trio hard to separate, staged to perfection; 4, Harris, very rich col., steady, nice type, lacks the polish of leaders; vhc, Wickham; hc, Wren; c, Belsher. LINNET, ETC. (20): Two sets of winners might have easily been found here, a severe class to handle. 1, Nicholas, Linnet, extraordinary qual., marvellous polish and lustre, fine size, rich coloured, nutty brown back, fine wings, well pencilled, a little more work on breast would make a champion; 2, c, Marley, gem of a Redpoll, grand col. throughout, nicely marked and well staged, c, Linnet, trifle too pale; 3, vhc, Francis, beautiful Siskin, nicely fed., good cap and bib, well marked flanks; vhc, Redpoll, Clapham winner, not in its best form to-day; 4, Lawrence, Linnet, rich col., good markings, nicely pencilled, fine size, fails in polish; hc, Dowley, Linnet. A.O.S. (19): No less than six Hawfinches competing in this class, all good ones. 1, Harris, the old champion Hawfinch, a real topper, wants a lot of stopping; 2, Francis, clinking good Chaffinch, blue head, rich breast, clear wing marks, all colours distinct, in the pink; 3, hc, Marley, nice stylish Bramblefinch, could do with a bit more col.; hc, grand Chaffinch, but unwell, right out of condition; 4, vhc, Lawrence, really good yellow Greenfinch, well shown; vhc, Hawfinch; c, Cooper, another Hawfinch. BUNTINGS (8): 1, Francis, grand Lapland, good size, col. and markings, staged to perfection; 2, Miss Bousfield, topping yellow, nice clear cap, well defined head marks, fine size and col.; 3, Marley, well-known Cirl, in the best of condition; 4, Cooper, another yellow, fails to other in density of markings; vhc, members' spl., Bloomfield and Rose, fair Reed; hc, Hawkes, yellow; c, Lawrence, yellow. HEN (11): 1, Ford, bonny Corn Bunting, often described, not the biggest, but lovely col., full of markings, steady as a rock, a charming bird; 2, Mays, very stylish Bramble, one of the best ever staged, beautiful exhibit; 3, Marley, nice Hawfinch, but lacking the polish of leaders; 4, hc, Fancourt and Harrison, charming little Siskin, hc, good Bramble; vhc, Poole, Song Thrush; c, Francis, Corn Bunting. INSECTIV., SMALL (6): 1, 4, Morris and Adams, sprightly little Dartford Warbler, rich adult col., tail hardly in such perfect order as it might be, but withal, a charming little fellow, 4th, a really good Bearded Tit; 2, Lewis, good Tree Creeper; 3, Mays, delightful Willow Wren, beautifully staged; vhc, Meakin, Pipit; hc, Timaeus, Bearded Tit. LARGE (5): 1, Miss Bousfield, very fine Waxwing, not one of the largest, but grand col. and condition, well-known winner; 2, Mays, good Blackbird, sound col., rich beak and eye cere, well shown; 3, 4, vhc, Dell, nicely spangled Starling, lustrous plumage, 4th, Pied Blackbird; vhc, only moderate Blackbirds. PARROTS, ETC. (8): 1, Davies, grand Eclectus hen, surely the finest specimen ever caged, perfection is the only word, a glorious bird; 2, Timaeus, lovely pair of Swainson's Lorikeets, in full rich natural colours, well staged; 3, Rice, very fine pair of Red-collared Lorikeets, nat. cols., rather faded, not the high condition of leaders, still a fine exhibit; 4, Yates, Red Rosella, good one of its kind; vhc, Timaens, Black-faced Lovebirds; hc, Watts; c, Lathbury, both pairs yellow Budgerigars. AVADAVATS, ETC. (12): 1, 3, hc, Watts, Green Avadavats, Horticultural Hall winners, 3rd, nice pair Cordon Bleus, hc, Orange-breasted Waxbill, Clapham, L. and P.O.S., and Cheltenham winners, have to stand down to-day to 2, Howe, same pet, finest coloured pair ever staged; 4, Lathbury, perfect pair of White Javas, immaculate; vhc, Miss Bousfield, grand pair of St. Helenas; c, Howe, same species. A.O.S. (13): 1, members' cup, vhc, Watts, magnificent pair of Black-cheeked Waxbills, beautifully shown, vhc, Violet-eared Waxbill, full 4th in quills; 2, Howe, fine Melba cock, fail rather in size and col.; 3, Timaens, splendid Red-headed Gouldian; 4, Bambridge, nice pair melodious Cuba Finches; hc, c, Meadows, pair Black-headed Gouldians, and good Black-headed Siskin. TANAGERS, ETC. (7): 1, F.B.C. medal, 3, Miss Bousfield, charming yellow-winged Sugar-bird, in full col., perfect condition, a gem, 3rd, White-capped Tanager, not in the best of form; 2, Watts, lovely Superb, must be 5 or 6 years old, shown to perfection, a credit to the exhibitor; 4, Timaens, glossy Starling, in the usual tip-top order of this species; vhc, Ford, Superb, fails in staging to 2nd; hc, Rice, pair of Rosy Pastors; c, Meakin, Dove. MEMBERS' NOR. VARIEG. (7): 1, Keech; 2, Litchfield and Sons; 3, Cherry; 4, Pedder; wrong class, Cherry; wrong class, Webb. HEN (8): 1, Keech; 2, Cherry; 3, Pedder; 4, Litchfield and son; vhc, Buckingham; hc, Goodman; c, Rhodes. UNFLIGHTED YELL. (10): 1, Keech; 2, Goodman; 3, 4, hc, Litchfield and Son; vhc, Rhodes; c, Pedder. BUFF (6): 1, Keech; 2, Goodman; 3, Rhodes; 4, Webb; vhc, Bloomfield and Rose. YORKS. STRANRAER.

Second annual exhibition held in the Queen's Hall, Dec. 13th. This hall is one of the best we have seen for the purpose, being well lighted from the roof and sides. The entries showed a large increase on last year's show, and birds were of very high quality. Mr. Devoy, the well-known Norwich exhibitor, captured the principal awards in the Nor. section with a splendid team. The British Goldfinch class contained some gems, McMinn Bros. securing 1st and special with their well-known winner looking better than ever. The leader in the Bullfinch class was a really outstanding bird. In the Crest class, Mr. Devoy captured first and special. The same bird afterwards secured the gold medal for best bird in the show. The committee deserve every encouragement, being an enthusiastic body of workers, who did everything for the welfare of the exhibits. The show was well patronised, and we trust it may turn out a financial success. Mr. McMeekan, the secretary, is a new hand at the job, but right well did he carry out the arrangements, everything being in good order. Mr. John Martin (Castle Douglas) judged, and his awards were well received.

LARNE.

Fourth annual show, held in the McGarel Town Hall, Dec. 12 and 13. Entries came up very poorly, only one full class out of 40. Being under the patronage of the Y.C. and C.B.S. of Ireland they had six exhibitors from Dublin and across the dark, and the world knows the value of Larne as a catering for the specialist fancy. The secretary, Mr. Mayne, had everything up to date, and was well backed up by his committee, who all worked with a will to make the show a success. Mr. J. Thompson judged, his awards being well received.

Not Fairy Tales!

BUT HARD, INDISPUTABLE FACTS!!

Norwich Plainheads. Purchase direct, and save intermediate profits and palpable falsehoods about strains. See what you pay for. Grand Norwich, colour-fed, specials, 10/6, 12/6, 15/-, 20/-, up, for show. You cannot produce anything like them at the price elsewhere, but they are sold without the lie about so-called strains (senseless or otherwise). Grand lots of Hens, at the uniform price of 5/- each. These will not be procurable at double later on; in fact, plenty, by being "puffed up" are being sold at 12/- and 15/- each, that are not so good. Note few other prices, and have on approval now, for I have a wonderful collection at the present moment to select from. Few other low prices:—

Cocks, 5/-, 6/-, 6/6, 7/6, 8/6, 10/6, 15/-, 20/-, upwards. Hens, 2/- (three for 5/6), 2/6, 3/6, 5/- upwards. Pairs, for breeding, 6/6, 7/6, 8/6, 10/6, 15/-, 20/-, 30/- upwards. Cages 3d.

State what you require, show or stock bird, and a faithful description will be given.

BROOMHILL.

Annual show held Dec. 7, in the Central Hall. Entries were well up; in fact, a record for the society, 120 birds being staged, and quality in all the sections was of a high order. All the arrangements were very perfectly carried out by the worthy hon. sec., Mr. W. Smailes, assisted by a committee who worked hard for the success of the show. Exhibitors, doubtless, were anxious at the non-return of their birds directly after the show, but the railway company refused acceptance on the return journey, owing to the strike. The committee rose to the occasion, and the birds were carefully tended until they could be despatched. Mr. A. Brown judged, and although he had a more than ordinarily difficult task, owing to the keen competition, and the level excellence of the exhibits, especially in the Norwich and Borders, yet he acquitted himself to everyone's satisfaction, excepting, perhaps, that of the two exhibitors, whose Linnets he found himself constrained to disqualify on the ground of staining.

The Critique.

NOR. CK. DUBMIRE WORKMEN'S CLUB.

Second annual show held Dec. 14, 15, 16, in the Club Hall, when about 200 birds faced the judge. The hall, which is an ideal place, being well lighted and ventilated, is one of the best in the North for the purpose, and was tastefully decorated for the occasion by the steward and stewardess, Mr. and Mrs. J. Hardy. The society is conducted and managed by a body of both old and young fanciers. President, Mr. F. W. Hall; Vice-President, Mr. J. Davison; Treas., Mr. J. Henderson; Sec., Mr. B. Robinson; Assist. Sec., Mr. G. Lynn; Committee, Messrs. W. Holton, F. Bilton, W. Finlay, R. Lindsay, P. Passmoor. Mr. A. Widdowfield, Boldon Colliery, judged and gave every satisfaction.

HEMSWORTH.

Held Dec. 21. The large room attached to the King's Head Hotel, kindly lent free gratis, by the "Old Sport," Mr. T. Tait (the one time Yorkshire cricketer) was the venue, and is of nice light, good space, suitably heated, and quite cosy. Entries turned up well, upwards of 150. This show was of an inter-club description, Adwick Le Street, Doncaster, and Hemsworth being the combatants. The Secretary, Mr. G. H. Robinson controlled everything in a very able manner, and is worthy of all praise from the three societies jointly concerned in the show. The fight is for a valuable silver cup, presented by Charles Thellusson, Esq., Brodsworth Hall, near Doncaster. Qualifications, 20 highest birds (points to count) from each society. Two shows have now taken place, and the poll stands as follows:—Hemsworth, 199; Doncaster, 179; Adwick, 141. The third and "last round" is on the Doncaster ground, January 18. The rivalry is great, but of a most commendable character, true Fancier-like spirit prevails, and all are going for "neck or nothing," so they declare, leaving no stone unturned, when the "cup final day" arrives. Yorks. were the feature of the function, and really a grand collection. Those staging superb specimens were Messrs. A. Taylor, Middleton, Carter, Kelsey, and Edmondson. Norwich made a nice display, beauties were put down by Messrs. Truman and Graham. Mr. Baxby benched a very nice lot of Crests and Crestbreds. British contained some real gems. The able stewards who worked with a method, promptly and accurately were Messrs. Lee, Gillings (Sec., Hons.), Brown, Graham, Priestley (show manager), and G. Bescoby (Sec., Doncaster). Prize cards were affixed instantly after each class was adjudicated upon. Management throughout was superb. No hitch whatever took place. The judge was Mr. J. C. Barnes (Sheffield), and his awards were well received.

The Critique.

YELL. YORK. CK. (10): 1, Taylor, capital position, lengthy, well clothed; 2, c, Middleton, beaten a wee bit in length; 3, Blanchon, hardly so stylish, yet good one; vhc, Edmondson; hc, Lee. BUFF. ANNFIELD PLAIN.

Fifth annual show held Dec. 21, and for a concluded show was just about the best we have yet seen. The venue was the Co-operative Hall, a splendid place for the purpose, lofty and large, and provided with every comfort. Entries came up splendidly, easily constituting a record for the society, and reaching the grand total of 245, about 50 or 60 above their previous best. All sections filled well, and the quality reached a high standard. The open Linnet class provided keen competition, quality here being really superb, not a poor one amongst them. Mr. G. G. Pearson secured the premier award with a tip-top specimen, and this bird has now this season won six firsts in the keenest competition, his previous wins being Newcastle, Blaydon, Doncaster, Whitby, and Gateshead, under five different judges. The staging was excellent, and reflected the greatest credit on the management, who are a grand body of fanciers, composed of the president (Mr. J. Barrow), vice-pres. (Mr. J. Lumley), chairman (Mr. R. Humphrey), and Messrs. J. Armstrong, G. Lane, S. Foster, J. George, E. Atkinson, J. Williams, W. Elliott, J. Oxley, J. Robson, R. Goodchild, W. Cresswell, E. Headle, T. Robinson, J. Calvert, J. Bentinck, W. Smith, W. Knowles, R. Hutchinson, R. Coates, W. Thompson, J. Hunter, and J. H. Elliott, all of them doing their best for the good of the show. The courteous and obliging secretary, Mr. R. Peart, had everything well in hand, and got through his duties without the slightest hitch. His genial manner and kindly disposition, coupled with his fine business propensities, mark him as just the right man for the position, and he is evidently very popular with the members, which speaks well for the future success of the society. A word of praise must also be given to Mr. W. Elliott, the popular sec. of West Stanley C.B.S., who rendered great help to Mr. Peart in the secretarial duties. The show was well patronised by the public, and there were present many well-known fanciers from other districts. There is every probability of the show proving a financial success. Mr. W. Reid (Sunderland) judged.

Elliot, Mealy, not a big one, but nice col., good pencilling, good shape, lovely condition; 3, Cresswell, Lesser, shade darker in col., nice polish, well marked, nice condition; 4, Humphrey, Lesser, nice size and shape, similar to 3rd in col., good feather, scarcely so steady; vhc, Beadle; he, Foster; c, Robinson. GREENFINCH (7): 1, Humphrey, topper for size, real waggon horse type, nice head, grand chest and back, nice col., lovely feather and condition; 2, Lane, scarcely so massive as leader, fine shape, rich col. and qual., good head and wings, nice feather; 3, Robson, shade weaker in head, fine shape, medium size, good col. and condition; 4, W. Elliot, nice one for shape, good col., nice condition, would look better in a lighter cage; vhc, Cresswell; he, Bentinck; c, Beadle. FOR. (6): 1, Cresswell, lovely pair of St. Helena Waxbills, lovely col., not a feather out of place, very nice pair; 2, 3, 4, vhc, W. Elliot, Budgerigar leading, in grand col. and condition; 3rd, Cutthroat, nice feather, good col., grand condition; 4th, pair of Tricolour Nuns, nice feather and condition; he, Peart. LINNETS, OPEN (16): A grand lot; 1, Pearson, stormer for size and shape, lovely col., pure and level in tone, beautifully pencilled, clear and distinct, in best possible condition, sixth open bird this season, a grand one; 2, Bainbridge, lacks the size of leader, but a beauty for shape, lovely pencilling, clear and distinct, grand back, nice col., put down in fine form, and will beat more than will beat him, hard lines to meet the winner; 3, Humphrey, one of the biggest Linnets we have yet seen, grand shape, good pencilling, although scarcely so distinct as the winners, nice col. and feather; 4, Davidson, a good one without a doubt, but meets something better to-day, scarcely the size and shape of leaders, well pencilled all over, nice col. and condition; vhc, Bates; he, Lane; c, Grey.

SKELMANTHORPE

Annual exhibition of Canaries held December 21, in the Working Men's Club, Commercial-road, Skelmanthorpe, under the rules of the Yorkshire Union and the patronage of the Yorkshire Canary Club. A schedule comprising 22 classes had been issued, and these drew together a total of 267 birds, averaging 13 per class; two classes were cancelled, not having sufficient entries. The novice section came up well, and some splendid birds were staged. The show is under good management with Mr. J. Hird at the head as secretary. He is well backed up by Mr. Helliwell, treas.; Messrs. A. Radley, F. Taylor, H. Lodge, vice-presidents; F. Dyson, treas., and a whole host of other willing workers, amongst whom we noticed Messrs. Shaw, Pell, Lodge, Radley, Hirst, Peel, and Fisher. Mr. W. Cruise, of Bradford, officiated as judge.

LIVERPOOL AMALGAMATION.

The seventh annual amalgamated show of the societies on the Cheshire and Lancashire side of the Mersey was held in the Co-operative Hall, Birkenhead, Dec. 21. The combined societies were the Liverpool B.B.A., Wallasey and Dis. C.B.A., Birkenhead C.F.A., Bootle and Dis. C.B.S., and Garston B.B.A. The Committee of Management were Messrs. J. Burns (chairman), F. Handley, F. Eccleston, G. Benson, T. Edwards, L. S. Hamilton, G. Rawsthorne, T. James, and J. Jones. The room was beautifully warm—if anything, too warm—and well lighted. The birds were staged at a capital height, which made judging a pleasure. Mr. Morton made a most capable and obliging secretary, and he was ably assisted in the arrangements by Messrs. Howlett, Cooper, and W. Jones, who acted as stewards. Yorks made a nice show, very stylish typical birds being on view, about the best of the bunch being Mr. G. Benson's winning unflighted yell. Mr. Corbett's buff, and Mr. W. Robinson's yell. hen. Greens were naturally good—they always are in this neighbourhood—and although some of the studs were being rested owing to the near approach of the Scottish Metropolitan, some very representative exhibits were staged. Nor. were fairly good, but many of the exhibits were on the long side. About the best of the lot was a lovely yellow hen shown by Mr. Burns. Brit. made a nice show, and we much admired the winning Goldfinch shown by Mr. W. Jones, Mr. Gaylord's Redpoll, Mr. Rothwell's Greenfinch, which was indeed a gem, and Mr. Young's Chaffinch, all of which were birds of great merit. Novices staged some very smart birds. Entries were over fifty up on last year, and the quality generally was considered better. The prize for most points in open was taken by Mr. J. Benson, Mr. W. Jones coming second. In Novices, Mr. Cooper was first and Mr. Wale second. Mr. C. A. House judged.

WICK.

Very Much Improved Entry.

Twenty-second annual show held Temperance Hall, Dec. 18 and 19. Mr. W. Corner still conducts the secretarial work in his usual able manner, and he received yeoman support from Messrs. Bruce, Sutherland, and Sinclair. The entry was considered very satisfactory, although the British bird section did not come up well. All the Canary classes showed a deal of quality, and the separating of some of the winners was a different matter. Yorkshires came up very well, and we are pleased The special for the best Norwich was won by Mr. George Clyne with a rare good green Crest cock. to learn that they are beginning to catch on in the North of Scotland. Mr. James Garrow (Edinburgh) judged throughout, and he seemed to give general satisfaction.

CHESTERFIELD C.B.S.

Members' show, held at the Welbeck Inn, Dec. 14th, in rather unfavourable weather. The birds mustered fairly well, the total entries being about 80, but the gate was thin, the attendance, however, being better later in the day. The committee, a very hard working lot of real fanciers, are Messrs. Booker, Brailsford, Bescoby, Dodd, Lankham, Wilson, Whitmore, Lewis, Brown, Weeks, Roe, Fairchild, and Marriott. Mr. C. Jepson is an excellent and courteous secretary. Mr. Driver judged and gave every satisfaction. Norwich were well represented, being the best for quality and numbers. Yorks. lost ground in entries, and Mr. Lankham took the lead all way through, gaining 80 points. In Norwich Mr. Dodd obtained 80 points, and each won the special for most points in section. Mr. Lankham exhibited a nice dark Goldfinch Mule, which took Mr. Smith's special. Mr. Bescoby won 2nd most points in Norwich, and Mr. Brown special most points in British.

R. A. Newley is "the" man for show cages. Order early. Address: 24, Stockwell Green, London, S.W.—(Advt.).

The next annual show of the Darley Dale F.S., write Messrs. Dawson and Fearn, hon. secs., is fixed for Nov. 20.

Mr. J. Creasey writes that Ludlow C.B.S. has amalgamated with Craven Arms C.B.S. Particulars of the joint open show will be found in this week's advertisement columns.

We are informed that prize-money has been paid in respect of Luton and Denbigh Shows. Anyone who may have been overlooked should apply to the respective secretaries.

It was told to reporters, writes Mr. Roy, Auchterarder, that Mr. Nicholson, Bathgate, won points cup here, and Mr. Smith won runner up spl., but they have tied; only noticed it to-day.

Will those members who had tickets for social and dance kindly let me know how many they have sold, also return tickets that were not disposed of? writes Mr. J. W. Reed, sec., Newcastle C.B.S.

On behalf of Mr. Wason, writes Mr. J. Sloan, Sec. Ayr C.B.C., I beg to inform you that he has received the special given by you at our open show, and is highly pleased with it.

Chorley Fanciers, writes Mr. John Rutter, Sec. pro tem, 76, Bolton Street, are forming a show at the Albion Hotel. We had a fair meeting on Wednesday night, when it was decided to hold next meeting on Monday, Dec. 30.

The cup given at Waunarlwydd Show, writes Mr. J. Waters, Sec., is for open competition, and is to be won twice, not necessarily in succession, and 7lb. canary seed given by Morris Gowerton should read local, local to cover 3 miles from Waunarlwydd Post Office as the crow flies.

I should like to thank all exhibitors at Luton show, writes Mr. E. Bloomfield, Hon. Sec. All prize money has been paid. The ladies' hats were won by Mr. Morris (Norwich), Messrs. Hawes Bros. (Yorks.), and myself (Crests), which will be forwarded; also one each to Messrs. Todd and Fountain.

Mr. V. A. Harris, hon. sec. Loughborough C.B.S., asks us to state that he has received a postcard signed "Bodin" asking for a schedule, but no address was given. If the applicant will write again to Mr. Harris, Leicester Road, Loughborough, a schedule will be sent. There are 25 classes provided at this show, and particulars will be found in our Review of Schedules this week. There is accommodation for 1,000 birds in the Temperance Hall, in which the show will be held.

The South London Col. F.A., writes Mr. G. F. Crawford, hon. sec., will hold their annual smoking concert and presentation of challenge cups, trophies, and special prizes on Thursday, January 2, 1913, at the "Lord Wellington," Old Kent Road, S.E., commencing at 7.30 p.m. A splendid programme has been arranged at considerable cost to the club, and all fanciers are cordially invited. I take this opportunity of thanking you for your kind assistance during the year, and for the excellent position you gave our annual show advt., which resulted in a record gate. Best wishes for a record year for Cage Birds in 1913.

AT THE SCOTTISH NATIONAL SHOW.

Our Artist and Our Stall.

At the Scottish National Show, Edinburgh, this next week (Dec. 31 and Jan. 1) one of Cage Birds' staff of artists will be in attendance prepared to sketch any winning or other bird with a view to its portrayal in the pages of our journal. The terms (which include the original drawing for purposes of framing) may be obtained on enquiry of the attendant at our stall in the show room, to whom orders may be given. Our stall will hold a representative selection of our popular handbooks and coloured plates, and we hope our many friends North of the Border will pay it a visit. Bound volumes of our magnificently illustrated standard works, "Our Canaries," and "Cage Bird Hybrids," will be on view.

We are sorry to hear of the lengthy illness of Mr. W. B. Cobb, the popular Belgian Canary enthusiast. Mr. Cobb writes:—I have been laid up now over three months with neuritis, and consequently have been unable to take the usual interest in the Fancy, except the pleasure of perusing Cage Birds weekly.

We have sent out 2,893 schedules of our New Year show, writes Mr. J. R. Meikle, Scottish National C.B.S. If any fancier who has received one—but not using it personally—will kindly hand it on to some other fancier in his district who may not have got a schedule, and who may be desirous of exhibiting, valuable assistance will be rendered to us, for which the committee will feel deeply grateful.

We are pleased to report, writes Mr. R. Muir, hon. sec. Lochgelly and Dis. C.B.S., that Lochgelly and Dis. local members' show is going ahead, and that same is to be held on December 28. The society is giving every encouragement to young fanciers in the way of specials, etc., almost every class having its share. Fanciers in the district could not do better than give us a visit, when we are certain some of the finest birds in the country will be seen.

OBITUARY.

Mr. John Newbigging (Duns).

With startling suddenness there passed away, on the evening of December 9th, Mr. John Newbigging, tailor and clothier, Currie Street, Duns. The youngest son of a prominent Dunsonian of a decade ago, the deceased, who was in his 64th year, and was able to conduct his business up till the Saturday prior to his death. On that day he was to all appearance in the enjoyment of fairly good health, and, in company with a life-long friend, Mr. John Pringle, Selkirk, he spent the afternoon visiting various friends in the town who, like himself, were interested in the keeping of Scotch Fancy Canaries. In the evening, after seeing Mr. Pringle leave for home, Mr. Newbigging complained of feeling a little out of sorts, but not to such an extent as to cause his family to think that anything serious was wrong. On Sunday he was able to be out, and in the evening, in company with a local fancier, set out for a short walk. He had not proceeded far, however, when he complained that he was not feeling well, and had to retrace his steps home. Thinking that a rest might do him good, he remained indoors on Monday, resting most of the time in bed. About 10.30 the same evening, whilst sitting up in bed, he suddenly expired. Of a cheerful disposition, Mr. Newbigging's demise will be keenly felt in certain circles, especially amongst those of the bird-loving fraternity. For over 30 years his chief hobby was Ornithology, a subject upon which he was well versed. On a winter's day, or a wet evening, young fanciers oft gathered themselves round the "board," where they were regaled with the stories of his experiences in the breeding and rearing of those most delicate of all the feathered tribe, Scots Fancy exhibition Canaries. The funeral took place at Duns Cemetery on December 12, and was largely attended. To Mrs. Newbigging and family, three sons and two daughters, who are grown up, we extend our sympathy in their sudden bereavement.

Quite Right, Too!

A good hint for the New Year, worth more than half-a-crown to all cage bird lovers:—Buy Cage Birds every week and read it regularly.—H. J. Knapp (Carisbrooke).

The Pugnacious Chaffinch.

In the spring of the year all birds are more or less pugnacious, but none more so than the gay Chaffinch. A captured specimen, singing in its cage, will simply drive a wild one mad; he will charge down at it, regardless of danger, and so become an easy prey to a clever catcher.

Robin on a Dust Cart.

Two of the dust collectors of the Hampstead Borough Council, says a correspondent to "The Times," are very proud of a Robin Redbreast which accompanies them on their daily rounds. The bird has apparently discovered that there is an easy living to be made in that way, and it rides on the ridge of the dust cart, and is quite undisturbed by the going and coming of the men with the dust-bins.

The Rook's Forecast.

Rooks are almost uncanny in some of their habits. After building in an elm for many years (possibly longer than the owner of the land can remember), they will suddenly desert it. The spring comes round without the noise and bustle incidental to the repairs of the nests. The winter's storms will have loosened the foundation, and portions are carried away on the wind. Then presently the tree has a sickly appearance, and at length dies. Meanwhile the Rooks have commenced a new colony elsewhere.

Corrections in Show Reports.

We are asked to correct the following errors in show reports: In Abersychan report members' Yorks. should read Members' Norwich. At Cupar, Mr. Lambie won 1st and well as 2nd in Green Borders, not Nelson 1st, as reported.

A Missing Norwich Canary.

Mr. F. J. Beese (36, Tyntyla Road, Ystrad, Rhondda) writes asking any exhibitor who has received a strange Norwich Plainhead from the recent open show of the Mid-Rhondda C.B.S., to kindly communicate with him, or with the sec., Mr. Legg. The bird in question was in members' class No. 28, with No. 2 or 3 on the cage label.

Praise for Abersychan Show.

Would you kindly publish the following letter in Cage Birds, writes Mr. Fred Sweeting, sec. Abersychan and Dist. C.B.S.: "Sir,—I beg to acknowledge receipt of prize money won at your show. I wish to congratulate and thank you, as the birds arrived home in beautiful condition. I must admit I was a little loath to send, owing to it being a Sunday next day, but as long as you and your committee look after them as on Saturday last, we need have no fear. I shall not forget you next year.—Alf. Hitching (Landore)."

Robin Down a Coal-pit.

A correspondent writes to the "Staffordshire Sentinel":—"An incident of a strange character happened 18th November, at the Sneyd Collieries, Burslem. A Robin came off the pit bank in the broken end of a waggon, a distance of 1,200 yards, which brought it to the coal face. This would be 9.30 a.m. The Robin was still perched in the end of the broken waggon. It had passed through about 20 persons' hands, and had never been seen. Had I not noticed it, it would have been "loaded up." I shouted to my companions to come and have a look at it. Then we put it into a snapping tin, which we left ajar so as to keep it alive till loosed. We brought it out, and the fireman took it in the office for the manager to see. We opened the tin after that, and off the Robin flew.

Nests of Birds, Poultry, etc., should be regularly sprinkled with KEATING'S POWDER, especially when hens are sitting. Don't forget to do this just previous to the eggs hatching, to destroy the Red Mite. Kills all insects. Harmless to everything else

Wild-Bird Life.

Winter Habits.

Although up to the present time we have experienced no particularly severe weather, wild birds appear to have all returned to their winter habits. Around the buildings a few Sparrows haunt the gardens and fowl runs, daringly taking food from under the beaks of the poultry, or venturing quite close to the sleepy house dog to clear up the remains of his breakfast. At times these precocious rascals pay for their venturesomeness; yesterday one was not satisfied with being able to feed at the caged Magpie's trough, in the writer's garden, but must step inside through his feeding hole to snatch a more dainty morsel; unfortunately for him the inmate was "at home," and quite awake, in a flash he was down, and had secured the robber, and a blow from that powerful beak quickly finished him. A Magpie is wonderfully powerful, as any one can testify who has handled one, and his hammer-like method of using his beak is too much for anything smaller than himself. The power he will put into each stroke is astonishing, and one sometimes wonders he does not injure it, or feel the shock at the base.

The quiet little Hedge Sparrows are no longer in pairs, they haunt the gardens and hedgerows, creeping about in a shuffling manner, more like a mouse than a bird. Unlike the common House Sparrow they have a slender bill, something after the manner of the Robin, to which bird they are closely related. From the window one is frequently able to get quite a near view of this bird, and his plumage is much more pleasing than anyone would imagine who has not a close acquaintance with him, the brown of the back is beautifully spangled and streaked, and the bright slaty-grey of the face and body, form a pleasing contrast. If he were a bold assertive bird he would be thought much more of, although genuine bird lovers cannot but have a regard for the shy, harmless little fellow who builds his cosy home so early in the year, and feeds his mate so assiduously while she is incubating her turquoise treasures. In spite of his delicate head he is quite able to look after himself in a crowd, and occasionally will be found to be quite quarrelsome, but the pugnacious Robin chases him, so that he seldom ventures close to the red-breasted tyrant.

So many applications have I had for birds that I have parted with nearly all I have to spare, so must ask you to discontinue my advert.—F. J. Wickham (Chatham).

I have sold my Mules, and have been swarmed with letters and cannot reply to all, as I should have about 40 letters to answer. I answered about 10. Letters keep coming in for them. They were sold on the Friday the advert. appeared.—W. West, (Old Ford).

WAYSIDE SEEDS AND BERRIES FOR BRITISH BIRDS.

By that well-known authority, JAS. B. CLARKE, (Rothesay).

A remarkable article on the food of our seed-eating species when in a state of nature, the result of a lifetime's experience of Birds in field and aviary.

Wild Mustard or Charlock (Brassica sinapis).—A common weed in cornfields and on waste ground. A most useful seed for Linnets, Greenfinches, Twites, and Redpolls. Flowers bright yellow, brown seeds. I have used this seed for years for the above birds, and given it along with linseed in the moult, when it helps greatly to bring these birds out a nice brown colour.

Common Ragwort (Senecio jacobea).—A very common weed in waste places and pastures. Flowers yellow; small cream coloured seeds. I have seen all species of Finches feed on this seed, and have used it with the best of results in confinement. Several years ago in Scotland it used to be a common sight to see large flocks of Goldfinches feeding on this plant. Flowers in June; seeds ready in August. Used medically for indigestion, etc.

Common Flax (Linum usitatissimum).—A garden escape. Grows in solitary stems with small blue flowers at top, and has round seed pods. I remember when a lad in Forfarshire, seeing about ten acres of this plant in full flower. Forfarshire Linnets were famed then for their great size and colour, which were no doubt due to the large amount of this and other seeds obtainable there. I have used this for many years and given it with rapeseed to Twites, Linnets, and Redpolls, during the moult. It helps to bring them out a nice rich brown colour.

Timothy Grass or Meadow Cat's Tail (Phleum pratense).—A common grass on meadows, grows one to three feet high, with tufted stems. Siskins, Linnets, Twites, Greenfinches, and Redpolls are extremely fond of this seed, it is a treat to see these birds feeding on this plant during August and September. I have used it with the best of results during the moult and winter months, and consider it is one of the best seeds for fresh caught birds.

Knapweed or Hardheads (Centaurea nigra).—A well-known plant with thistle-headed flowers and crimson florets. Common on all waste ground and a favourite with all Finches. The small maggot which will be found inside each seed head is also greatly relished. A most useful seed during the moult and winter season. Fanciers should gather large quantities of ripened heads to moult Goldfinches, Siskins, Linnets, etc. I gather large bunches and dip in boiling water to kill maggots, for I find if this is not done, they devour all the seed. Flowers in June, seeds August.

Common Hawkweed (Hieracium vulgatum).—A common plant on banks and waste ground, with yellow heads similar to the dandelion, but much longer stems. The seeds when ripe are of a dark brown colour. Siskins, Linnets, Twites, and Greenfinches, are very fond of them, and I have used it with excellent results with all these finches. Good for indigestion, inflammation, etc.

Biting Persicaria (Polygonum hydropiper).—A common weed, generally found in marshy places. A favourite of all Finches. The Hawfinch for one is extremely fond of it. Grows about three feet high, with loose spikes of greenish flowers; seed jet black. I have used the latter for years. I do not trouble saving it as the screenings I get from the farmers here is largely composed of the seed. Sometimes called "Bitter Pepper," or "Water Pepper."

Cock's-Foot Grass (Dactylis glomerala).—A coarse grass about two feet high with broad flat leaves. A favourite food of the Siskin, Linnet, Twite, Redpoll, and Greenfinch. I have seen these birds feed for months on this seed and I find it most useful during the moult.

Water Figwort (Scrophularia aquatica).—A common plant near streams. Grows two to five feet high; chocolate brown flowers; small black seeds. Useful for Linnets, Twites, and Redpolls. Care should be taken that this seed is not lost in the gathering. Spread a paper on the ground, then carefully cut seed stalks and shake seed into the paper. Flowers in June and July. Seed is ready in September.

Ox-Eye or Moon Daisy (Chrysanthemum leucanthemum).—Better known in Scotland as horse-gowans and almost as well known as the common Daisy. Flowers white with yellow centre; seed resembles teazle. A favourite food of Finches. I have used it with all Finches in confinement with the best results. The seed is easily saved if rubbed in the hands and the chaff blown away. Flowers in June; seeds ready in August.

Premorse or Devil's Bit Scabious (Scabiosa succisa).—A slender little plant with oblong leaves and purple blue flowers. John Parkinson, in his Theatruin Botanicum (1640) alludes to the fable that "the Devil, envying the good that this herbe might do to mankinde, bit away parte of the roote and thereof came the name Succisa—Devil's Bit." This is a favourite seed of all Finches, Bullfinches being exceedingly fond of it. I have used it for years with grand results, and have found it very good for birds when troubled with colds and asthma.

Many-Flowered Wood Rush (Juncus erectum).—Common on marshy ground, with pale brown drooping flowers. A favourite seed of the Linnet, Twite, and Redpoll. I have used it for years and find it adds greatly to the colouring of these birds. Save seed in the manner recommended for soft rush.

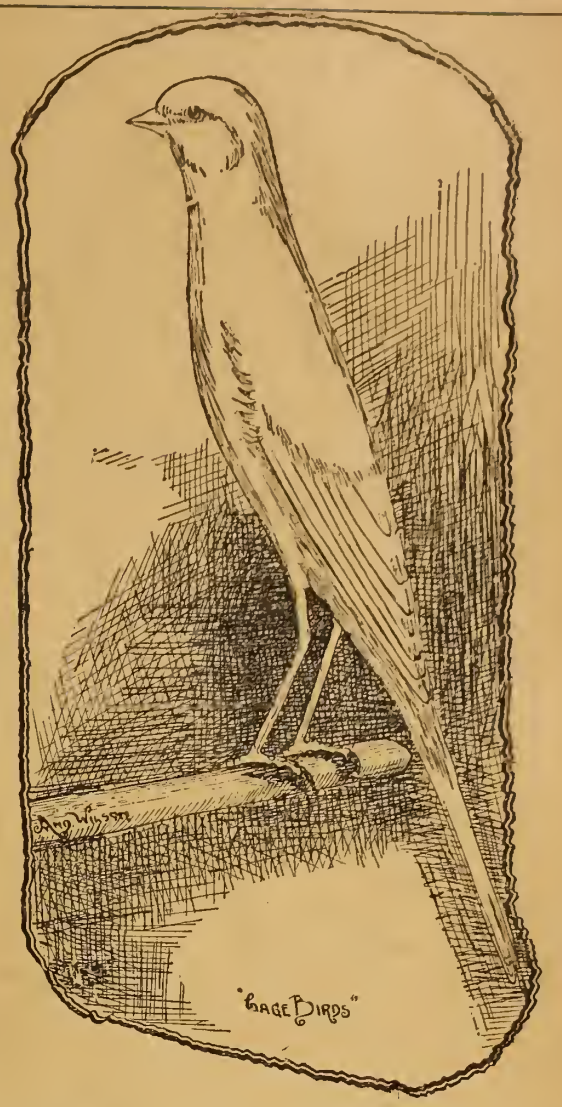
SHOULD THE OWNER RESEMBLE HIS BIRDS?

Mr. Slimanlong, the world-famous Yorkshire Canary expert, greets his old, esteemed friend, Mr. Tubby, the great authority on the Norwich Plainhead.

TWENTY YEARS OF BIRD KEEPING AND BREEDING.

By "LOTUS."

Some very useful advice from a bird-lover of the gentler sex, who manages her birds on sound lines and thinks things out for herself, will be found in this contribution.



As health in birds seems to me the principal thing to aim at, I will give an account of how I keep mine. I have kept birds ever since I was a small child, 20 years ago. I now house most of mine in a small lean-to out-door bird-house, which takes about 21 cages, mostly single breeders, stacked one above the other, round the shed. It is single boarded, covered all over the outside with felt, then tarred. Inside, thick brown paper is pasted all over the walls, to keep it as snug as possible. In this place I have about 50 birds, Canaries, British, and a few foreigners, such as Saffron Finches, Weavers, etc. They take no harm, although sometimes I have had to break the ice in their drinkers before they could get their water. No heat of any kind is used.

The bird-house is fitted with a window facing south, and a door situated north. I have a wire door which I put up and fasten with buttons when the wooden door is open. Every day for some hours, unless the weather is very bad, I either open the window wide or put up the wire door, according to which way the wind is blowing. I have heard some say that Goldies and Bullies will not live long in a room with Canaries. I have had a Goldie and Bullie with them two years, and in perfect condition, too. This I put down to the fresh air they all get.

The Winter Programme.

Through the winter I keep most of my cocks in single breeders, letting the hens, with a few cocks, fly together in a large flight. I give them plain canary as a staple, but three times a week mixed seed, plenty of hemp, rape, and a little linseed. The sand I am most particular about, cleaning each cage and scraping every perch at least once a week, using rough sea gravel, or sand which I get from the gutters in the country lanes washed clean after rain; or, failing that, silver sand, but if I use silver sand I am always very careful to keep a tin in each cage filled with coarse sea gravel and cuttle bone broken up. Also I use (with very great success for all my birds) fowls' egg-shells, dried in the oven and pounded up quite fine; all my stock, including my tiny foreigners, come down and eat this with relish before anything else. I make a practice of bringing home a bit of green food from my walks, such as chickweed, dandelion, shepherd's purse, flowering grass, etc., and give a few of the birds a little daily, so that by the end of the week they have all had some in turn during the winter.

In the breeding season, I generally put my birds together about March 14th, using dried moss and wool for them to build with, and sprinkling plenty of Keating's insect powder round the cages and nests to keep red mites away. I take away each egg as laid, and replace them after the third is laid. When the young come, I give eggs and biscuit, about equal parts of each, well pounded together in a mortar. I find that if more biscuit is used it is only wasted.

The fine Buff Yorkshire hen which won 1st and special prizes at the Glasgow and District C.B.A. Show for Mr. Heggie, of Mount Florida, Glasgow.

A Staunch Believer in Wild Seed.

I think where my management differs from the majority of bird keepers is: I give green food ad. lib. from the minute of hatching. What I mean by "green food" is not leaves, but seeding heads; my birds get bunches of chickweed, shepherd's purse, groundsel, dandelion, and flowering grass, etc., put into their cages every two hours when they have young, and very few bad feeders am I troubled with. I am a great believer in sulphate of soda in the drinking water at this time, as I think it helps the birds to keep well. Sometimes a bird falls sick when feeding chicks, then I think the sulphate of soda helps them wonderfully. If I do get a bad feeder the only thing to do, I find, is to try removing the cock. If that fails, then the young must be put under other birds that have hatched about the same time, or under a hen that has been sitting and not brought off any.

If there is not a hen available, hand feeding is the only thing left. I reared three by hand last season, one from one day old, one from ten days' old, and one from 14 days' old; one of them, a hen, I showed in a class against cocks last autumn and got v.h.c. for it. I find the best way to hand feed young Canaries is to moisten the food each time before feeding, and never give the same food twice running. If only a day old, yolk of egg only may be used for the first 24 hours, then vary it with milk sop one meal, egg and biscuit next, milk sop again third time, with a little bitten up chickweed with it or even plain biscuit soaked in the mouth will do at times, and so on.

The Loss of Young Birds.

When they get to be about a week old a little maw, or soaked rape, crushed, can be put with the food for a change. Every two hours is the time to feed them from 5.30 in the morning till about 7 at night. Don't be afraid that you may give too much; they will stop gaping at once when they have had enough. I use a clean quill pen to feed with. If the hen will sit on the chicks and keep them warm, there is no difficulty at all in saving them, provided they are treated in the above way.

The above treatment I have found pretty successful, and I seldom lose one. As to water, that I consider of more importance than anything. Let your drinkers be well washed out every day, not just rinsed, but washed. Put some soda into hot water, allow it to cool, then wash all your drinkers in it rinsing after under the tap. When I have young birds I give clean water twice a day. Dirty drinkers, I believe, are the cause of young birds dying in the nest; many young birds are found dead in the nest with full crops; this, I believe, is caused by foul drinkers, not the green food, as is so often supposed. I used not to trouble so much about clean water, and lost nest after nest of young birds. I tried all sorts of green food, then no green food at all, with no better result.

Since I have paid greater attention to the water I hardly lose any, and never now lose them with full crops. I reared 27 young birds from a few pairs last season, and not one has been sick or sorry.

NOTE.—If an answer is required concerning the proper mating, etc., of Norwich, Yorkshires, Crests, Cinnamons, Greens, Borders, Lizards, Scotch or any other variety of the Canary family, we shall, should the querist desire us to do so, be pleased to submit his questions for answer to some leading specialist of the day on the variety concerned.

CANARY QUERIES.

Answered by CLAUDE ST. JOHN.

TENDER FEET, AND BATHS (Mrs. Farr).—Keep cage well strewn with clean gritty sand, and the perches quite clean. Bathe feet daily for a few days with a lukewarm solution of extract of Wych Hazel, made by mixing a small teaspoonful of the extract in a cupful of warm water. After bathing for a few minutes, dry gently, and slightly smear with Lanoxyllin. If given with discretion baths are so beneficial during the moult as at any other time. The bath need be withheld only when any particular bird seems to suffer from chill afterwards or during very cold severe weather, when birds are sparsely clad. It should always be given early in the day during the short days.

SWELLING NEAR EYE (A Novice).—You should have given some particulars about the swelling which you say is the cause of the bird going off song. What is its size and general appearance, is it still increasing in size, and does it appear to have a "head"? You had better write again and give these particulars. Meanwhile, just touch the swelling twice, with an interval of four days between, with a small feather dipped in tincture of iodine. Do not allow the finch to run about or go near the eye. Also give a morsel of bread and milk sprinkled with soft sugar every second day for a fortnight, and on the alternate day a spray of watercress or morsel of banana, and a pinch of maw. When you write again say how you have been feeding the bird hitherto. At present you leave me quite in the dark.

A VARIED TRIO (Young Novice).—(1) Had you given me some particulars concerning the condition when you mated the Norwich cock last season, I might have found some reason for his failure to fertilise eggs. In the absence of any such data, I can only suggest that perhaps he was out of condition, or was mated too early; or the weather, or even the hens, might have been at fault. How old is the bird? If he is not very old and in an active condition, I should certainly consider it worth trying him next season, especially as you say he is now in full song. Mate him with a healthy robust young hen at the end of March, but see that both birds are desiring to nest before being mated. (2) This query and No. 3 should have been on a separate sheet. See Mr. Weston's replies this week or next. (3) Personally I have never tried it, but see no reason whatever to doubt the possibility.

BIRD BLEEDING AND YOUNG CRACKING SEED (T. Boundy).—Sorry your letter reached too late for reply to appear last week. The bird that appeared almost choked with blood when you caught him undoubtedly ruptured a small blood vessel. Keep him as quiet as possible for a week or two, and add a morsel of bread and milk sprinkled with maw to its diet every second day for a fortnight. In the water give six drops of tincture of gentian and three of dilute sulphuric acid for a few days to tone it up. Should any further bleeding occur, instead of the above tonic add five drops each of tincture of opium and dilute sulphuric acid to the water daily for a week, and add sufficient green salad to its diet to prevent constipation. Put the young birds which are shelling the seed on a staple diet of three parts canary to one part summer rape. Every second day add a morsel of bread and milk sprinkled with soft sugar, and a small spray of watercress, and on the alternate days a pinch of a mixture of equal parts hemp, niger, millet, black rape, and teazle, and a morsel of banana. In the drinking water add six drops of syrup of rhubarb and as much sulphate of soda as will cover a sixpence, daily for three days, and afterwards four drops each of tincture of gentian tincture of columba and aromatic sulphuric acid every second day for a week.

COLOUR FOOD AND CRESTS (W. H.).—(1) The sample you sent is a biscuit food, such as is often used as a substitute for egg food, in which is mixed a small proportion of colour food. It does not consist of colour food solely as you seem to think. The food as per your sample is quite ready to give the birds without any further mixture of egg or biscuit, and is of such a strength as might be given to "fed" show birds about twice a week throughout the show season to keep up the full tone of colour. But it is not rich enough in "colour" to feed a bird properly. As a biscuit food it seems a nice wholesome sample. (2) I would not advise you to keep this mixture until next season, use it up in place of ordinary egg-food, and begin with a fresh supply next year. (3) It depends wholly upon the vendor what you would have to give for a pair of good Norwich Crests likely to breed winners. They may cost anything from £5 to £20. I hardly expect you would get anything really good for less than the first named sum. But you can, of course, get moderately good birds of unknown pedigree for much less—say from £1 to £2 each. (4) It would be best to start by getting both birds from some well-known breeder asking him to select for you a well-matched pair. You should read up the chapter on Crest breeding in "Our Canaries."

TENANTS IN OCCUPATION.—Correction; Oh! that comp! In reply last week under this heading he makes me say that mites become "quite liquid grey." What I wrote was "quite light grey."

A TAIL AND HALF (H.C.L.).—How long have you noticed the short feather on each side of tail? It is quite possible the bird may have dropped the two outer feathers, and these are the new ones replacing them. Count the full length feathers, and see if there are ten or twelve. If ten, then the two short ones are either new ones coming to complete the tail, or they were arrested in growth by some means after bird left the nest. If there are twelve full length feathers then the short ones are redundant, and there would be some risk of perpetuating the defect if you breed with the bird. If the short feathers appear to be mature and dry in the quil, remove them by a gentle steady pull, and they will probably be replaced by full length feathers. If there are only a normal number of feathers in the tail altogether there is no reason why you should not use the bird for breeding, but be careful to mate it with a bird having a good, close, compact, pipe tail.

WHEEZY NOISE IN THROAT (D. Price).—It is bronchial trouble, and the failure of remedies hitherto is probably due to neglect to remove exciting causes, although the remedies you have given are not entirely suitable for the complaint. Treat as follows for a month: First see that bird is kept in a comfortable and fairly equable place, not necessarily overheated, but it must be free from cold draughts and impure heated air such as prevails in the vicinity of burning lights in the evenings. In addition to staple seed diet give half a teaspoonful of crushed sponge cake with four drops of sherry and two of cod liver oil emulsion mixed in it every second day for a fortnight, and on the alternate days a pinch of maw and a spray of watercress. Be careful that the latter is free from frost. In the water add six drops of syrup of rhubarb and as much sulphate of soda as will cover a sixpence for three days. After this give 20 drops of the following mixture in the water every second day for two or three weeks as may seem necessary. Mixture: Two drachms each of glycerine and oxymel of squills, one drachm each of chlorodyne and ipecac. wine, and eight grains of iodide of potassium. Any chemist will mix this for you.

EXCESSIVE DRINKING (Constant Reader, W. H. P.).—The excessive thirst is doubtless the effect, and not the cause, of the diarrhœa. Keep the bird in a comfortable but not overheated position, with plenty of fresh pure air, but free from cold draughts. Keep cage and perches as clean as possible. A good layer of sawdust, fresh daily, will aid in doing so. In addition to the staple seed diet, give a piece of bread and milk the size of a hazel nut, slightly dusted with carbonate of bismuth, and a spray of watercress every second day for a fortnight. On the alternate days give a morsel of banana and a quarter teaspoonful of maw seed. To the drinking water add six drops of syrup of rhubarb and as much sulphate of soda as will cover a sixpence for one day, and after this dissolve in each two tablespoonfuls of the drinking water as much sulphate of soda as will cover a sixpence, half as much sulphate of iron, and add six drops of dilute sulphuric acid. Give this every second day for a fortnight, and on the alternate days in the first week give four drops each of tincture of gentian, tincture of calumba, and aromatic sulphuric acid. Keep a piece of cuttlefish stuck in the wires.

WHEN TO MATE BIRDS (Bird Lover).—In a general way the best time is the last week in March or first week in April. It is sometimes difficult to keep birds back until this time when they are kept in warm kitchens or heated rooms and fed on too stimulating foods. But that does not alter the wisdom of delaying mating to as near this time as can be managed. Feed your hens on a diet of plain canary only, with a fairly liberal supply of watercress, if you can obtain it in good condition for use, for a week or two, and add to the drinking water as much Epsom salts as will cover a sixpence three times in one week. If this does not prevent them coming too forward, remove them out of hearing of the cocks, if convenient to do so. Keep all nesting appliances and materials out of their way. Do not think of pairing them unless they seemed to be so forward that eggs would appear whether mated or not—a rather unlikely circumstance unless they are kept in a warm place. The best book on Hybrid and Mule breeding is "Cage Bird Hybrids," 7s. 6d. from our Manager, or for a cheaper book, "The Secrets of Hybrid Breeding," 1s. 2d., also from our manager. See advert in last issue.

MATE FOR BORDER FANCY (Marks).—The best mate for your even-marked buff hen would be a clear yellow pink-eyed cock bred from an even-marked cinnamon strain—that is, from a pair mated to produce even-marks—not necessarily from two even-marked parents. The grandparents also should be bred from similar matings. A fair proportion of even-marked brothers and sisters will be a pretty safe guide in selecting a suitable cock. A very light eye-mark on the opposite side to that on which your bird is rather heavy will be no detriment, but unless the hen is too lightly marked on wings you should not tolerate wing marks in her mate. Avoid altogether a bird ticked on head—elsewhere than round eye—neck, breast, or back.

OFF SONG (Beginner, Ireland).—Surely if you have the interest of the bird at heart you should be able to carry out any treatment given in these columns. If they sometimes appear a trifle lengthy it is but a matter of very few moments daily to carry out the advice given. I suspect your Roller is a little beyond his youth, and is simply taking a longer rest than usual. Certainly he has not forgotten his song. He will probably resume very soon now. Do not hang him too near the fire, so that the variations of heat may affect him as little as possible. Mix together equal parts of hemp, niger, millet, teazle, maw, and gold of pleasure seeds. Keep this in stock and give a good pinch—say half a teaspoonful—in a separate vessel, the egg pan for instance, every second day. On the alternate days give half a teaspoonful of crushed sponge cake and a spray of watercress. Continue this for two or three weeks in addition to the staple diet. If you would also make a little of the paste recommended to "F.H.N." on December 14th, and keep a little stuck in the wires for a week or two, it would help considerably. Rollers are not more delicate than Yorkshires.

PARTING OF THE WAYS (G. C. C.).—As you have to choose between keeping your birds in any odd corner, taking them to an outdoor birdroom, or giving up the hobby, I should certainly advise you to decide on the outdoor birdroom, and if your stock have been kept without artificial heat, as I presume is the case, you way look forward to doing even better in a well-built room devoted entirely to them than you have done in the past. The room you propose will be a most serviceable one, but I see no necessity for having double-glazed windows. A frame covered with wire netting would be all that would be necessary to provide against possible escape in case a bird got out of its cage. You do not want to aim at making the place air-tight. If it is draught-proof, a very different thing, you need not be afraid of having plenty of good pure air. With birds raised under normal conditions of temperature, you would require no heat—the birds would, as you say, be much better with no coddling. You might find the handbook, "Aviaries, Birdrooms, and Cages," 2/3 post free, very useful in suggesting items that make for good construction. You could certainly breed a high-class songster under these conditions, but for the highest class of trained singers it would be best to move them to the house away from the other stock for the final stages of tuition. If the building is quite ready, any mild spell of weather after about the middle of February would be the best time to move the birds in.

Owing to the Xmas Holidays, a number of queries have necessarily to wait an answer until next week. —Editor.

FOREIGN BIRDS.

MANY-COLOURED PARRAKEET (D.V.W.).—If worms were the trouble, there would be some evidence of these in the bird's voidings. I should give Dinneford's Magnesia every fourth day so long as the voidings are not watery-loose, and on other days it can have the Chemical Food. As soon as the voidings become at all watery, only supply the magnesia once a week. As your bird evidently has some tendency towards constipation, I should advise A. and H. byno-phosphates in preference to the Chemical Food you are using. A sitting-room would be better than the kitchen (the temperature of the latter is usually subject to extremes), so long as the bird is kept where it can get light and air, and at the same time be free from draught. Seed mixture: two parts each canary and white millet seeds, and one part each oats and hemp seeds—well mix. Also supply such fruit as it will take, and greenfood—leaf of lettuce with the centre rib cut out. It can also have a piece of any kind of plain biscuit daily. With cuttlebone and grit, it should thrive. As regards quantities, put one teaspoonful of Dinneford's Magnesia into the usual supply of drinking water, and half teaspoonful of the Chemical Food; do not use a metal drinker. If you see any signs of worms, get some powdered areca nut, mix a little into pellets about one-eighth inch diameter, and give it four of these every other day for a week, then pause for a few days, and repeat if there are still evidences of worms in the voidings. As you have taken the bird indoors you cannot put it out again till next spring.

AMAZON LOSING FEATHERS (Nemo).—You give me no details to enable me to gather whether it is pulling out its feathers or merely moulting, nor do you state how you treat the bird, so a diagnosis is impossible. I can only suggest that the bird has got very much out of condition from some cause, and give you the correct dietary. Seed mixture: one quart each canary and white millet seeds; one pint each hemp, oats, and paddy rice; half-pint each maize, sunflower, dari, shelled nuts, and a gill of chilies—well mix and keep a supply in cage. Also supply ripe fruit, plain, biscuit (dry), and greenfood. Grit (not sand), and cuttlebone, must also be regularly supplied. Twice a week supply a tablespoonful of boiled maize, which only keeps fresh one day. Also put it on a course of Dinneford's Magnesia and Byno-phosphates; for quantities, etc., see reply to "D.V.W." in this issue.

WHAT BIRDS? (Tromlow).—Your description, both as to plumage and notes, fits the Black-headed Mannikin (Nun), which is a native of India. The beak, however, is not white, leaden-silvery would better describe it. Diet: Canary, white millet, spray millet, and a few crushed oats. In the spring they will eat flowering (seeding) grass readily, and at this season you should induce them to nibble at a fresh lettuce leaf or piece of sweet apple. They must regularly have access to grit and cuttlebone, and have opportunity for a daily bath; if caged, the bath should be of the description which can hang over the open door of cage, so as to keep cage interior as dry as possible.

YELLOW-FRONTED AMAZON (S.H.B.).—The habit you refer to is quite natural, and does not run for any special period, but occurs at intervals, but soon passes, and unless it is quite abnormal should not be at all noticeable. I have had it occur twice or oftener weekly, with some species I have kept, but it never caused comment, as it soon passes, and I should say it will be similar with your bird. Continue to feed it as at present. In addition to seed mixture, supply fruit, nuts, plain biscuit, grit and cuttlebone, and if it gets at all thin give a little boiled maize twice weekly. Give one teaspoonful of Dinneford's Magnesia in its drinking water twice a week, but if the bowels become too loose, then only give it once a week.

HOW MANY? ETC. (Pungo).—I take it from your plan that your birds have access to the shed as well, which appears to be made larger than illght, and my reply is based on that assumption. You could keep in this the three pairs Budgerigars, 1 pair each Madagascar and Blue-wing Lovebirds, one pair Cockatiels, and 1 pair Rosella Parrakeets, which would all fare well on a seed mixture of (1) canary and white millet in equal parts, and (2) oats, paddy rice, hemp and sunflower seeds, the two former in double quantity to the latter. Also supply fruit, greenfood, plain biscuit, (dry), grit and cuttlebone. You would require barrels or natural logs for the Parrakeets and Cockatiels; husks would suffice for the Budgies and Lovebirds, but in each case you must supply at least double the number of nest receptacles that you have pairs of birds. Some species of Thrush or Ouz I would be safe with the Parrakeets as a songster, but they do not sing all the year round. If you send me a stamped addressed envelope, per Editor, I can put you on to one. These would require soft food and insects.

PARROT WITH GROWTH ON EYE (Cuttle Bone).—If the small ulcer is not attached to the eyelid, but is on the film of the eye, you ought to let a vet. see it at once and have it removed. In the former case bathing with a solution of rose-water and zinc (from any chemist), will give relief. This will do no harm in any case, but the eye should be cleansed before applying the lotion. As soon as the ulcer is fully ripe, exude the pus by gentle pressure, well cleanse with warm water, and add a little healing ointment. Concurrently with this treatment keep the bowels moving freely by a weekly (or oftener) dose of Dinneford's Magnesia (one teaspoonful), in the usual supply of drinking water, and for a month at least put half a teaspoonful of Byno phosphates in the water on the days you are not giving the magnesia. It will also be helpful to put a little honey and borax in its mouth daily, so this will help to keep its mouth free from slime, etc. This is easily given by dipping the end of a stick in the mixture and letting the bird bite at the end of it, but the stick should be well cleansed each time before being put in the mixture, which is a stock one at any chemist's. You cannot be sure that the bird is not suffering from some infection contracted during importation. Keep it isolated from healthy stock, in some warm room with an equable temperature, during the cold months. In any case, whatever the result of the eye trouble, even if the ulcer be cut out, I should use the magnesia, byno-phosphates, and honey and borax as indicated above for a month or two.

BRITISH BIRDS, MULES AND HYBRIDS.

Answered by G. E. WESTON.

WILD SEEDS (E. Perry).—The sample you send seems to me an excellent one, and should be picked over with relish by the majority of our seed-eating species. It could be improved by the addition of a little plantain, gold of pleasure, and sesame (with thistle, cornflower, and dandelion, if you like, though these are expensive items), which are contained in the majority of the "wild seed mixtures" sold by the leading seed firms.

ON A VERANDAH (Lady Fancier).—Your place would comfortably hold 20 to 24 small birds. The most interesting and musical collection would be a combination of Canaries and British and Foreign birds. The Canaries, of course, need not be expensive (that is, of the "songster" brand, no particular type), and you would get colour and a fair amount of song from the following Britishers: Goldfinch (British and Siberian), Bullfinch, Linnet, Siskin, Chaffinch, Redpoll (Lesser and Mealy), Greenfinch, Yellowhammer. You could also add, if you choose, Ortolan, Reed and Cirl Buntings. Sometimes Siskins turn out very spiteful, and I have known both Yellowhammers, Chaffinches, and Greenfinches the same, but individual birds vary to an astonishing extent.

LOSS OF FLIGHT FEATHERS (J. Frowde).—In my opinion, the loss of the flight feathers can of a certainty be put down to a sudden fright. Maybe something startled the Goldfinch in the night, and sent him hanging about the cage in an awful state of panic for a few fatal minutes, during which he knocked out the flight feathers. It is not always possible to account for these things. A street lamp, or the moon, shining into the cage, some sudden noise, a mouse frolicing around—anything of this nature will be at the root of the trouble. Your theory that the extra hemp and teazle over-heated his blood and caused him to pull out both sets of flight feathers (presumably to cool himself), is decidedly ingenious, but, I'm afraid, "won't wash." It would be like a man pulling out all his hair because the soles of his feet persisted in itching. If you wanted a fanciful explanation, how is it you did not think that the "high living" might have given the Goldie Indigestion, and brought on a terrible nightmare? Suppose he was dreaming that some "humane" soul had just inserted a kindly hand into his cage with a view to permitting him the joys of freedom, and of foraging for himself during the winter months—little wonder he should knock out feathers trying to escape such a fate! Perhaps, however, you don't believe that birds dream.

A TRIO (F. Fletcher). 1. No doubt you would obtain the desired information respecting the food from the article which started in our 'Xmas Number. 2. The hen Yellowhammer is not by a long way so bright in colour as the cock; she has very little yellow showing at the throat, on the breast and in the region of the head, and lacks the tinge of reddish brown (chestnut) found on the back and breast of the male. 2. I do not think that any British bird is really "easy" to breed in a cage. A deal depends on one's good fortune, or otherwise, in the selection of the pair. Some individuals seem to set up house-keeping without any fuss or bother, whereas another pair of the same species simply won't think of it, so to speak. You should select either Redpolls, Greenfinches, or, Linnets, to commence with. Good luck to you.

IDENTITY OF BIRD (W. A. Dodds).—There is no British bird, "the size of a Tom-Tit and the colour of a Canary." The bird you saw must have been an escaped Canary, or an albino of some kind (or possibly a foreign bird—a Saffron Finch, for instance).

BRAMBLEFINCH NOT MOULTED (Hardbill).—You ask what you should do with a Bramblefinch which has not moulted, and which is kept in an outdoor aviary, the bird apparently being in good health. I advise you to let it alone. It will, in all probability, go along quite well until next autumn, and then moult. I do not see that you gain anything by forcing the bird to moult now, which you could probably do by caging it up in a heated room—the change of temperature would be almost certain to start the feathers falling.

"BLOWN UP" (Cateher).—This "blown-up" appearance at once indicates the escape of air due to, I understand, the rupture of lung tissue; it gathers under the skin and so brings about the swollen, or "balloon-like" appearance you describe. The food has nothing to do with the case; it is in the nature of an accident and cannot be guarded against.

A TRIO (Small Fancier).—1. You might get the pair of Greenfinches to breed in the cage; but you certainly will not succeed if you put other birds along with them. 2. I fully described the sexing of Goldfinches week or so ago. 3. Foreign Goldfinches are larger and lighter (more white), in ground colour. This whiteness is especially noticeable on the cheeks and breast, at root of tail (or rump), and at back of the collar.

POST MORTEMS.

Mr. G. Yates, M.R.C.V.S., 1, College Road, Harrow, Middlesex, will examine and report upon dead cage birds for a fee of 1s. 6d. each bird; for reply direct, 2s. 6d.; analysis, 21s. Subjects for post mortem examination must be sent packed in a box direct to Mr. Yates, with the fee, this and any accompanying letter being kept from contact with the dead bird. Send by letter-post; it is cheaper and quicker than parcel post. Any bodies sent to the office of this paper will be thrown away, and if a fee is enclosed the loss will be the sender's.

Memento Mori.—Septic fever, highly infectious.

GENERAL.

Answered by THE EDITOR.

G. Rawsthorne.—We will try to find a corner for the photograph in our forthcoming Birthday Number.

Learner.—You should invest in a copy of "Canary Breeding for Beginners" (post free 7d.), which will tell you all about the making of egg-food and the mating-up of the birds. A Goldfinch and a clear yellow Norwich Canary should prove an excellent couple. The making of bird-lime is too lengthy a matter to deal with here. If you send us 1½d. in stamps we will post you a back number containing an article on the subject.

BRITISH BIRD & HYBRID QUERISTS should consult Boulton's great work, "Cage-Bird Hybrids" (7/6); Norman's "British Bird Manual" (2/3); or Part 1 "Hardbills" (1/1), Part 2 "Softbills" (1/1); "Aviaries, Bird-rooms, and Cages" (2/3); "Seeds, Foods, and Wild Plants" (1/2); "Secrets of Hybrid Breeding" (1/2); Dr. Creswell's "Hygiene of Bird-keeping" (1/1); Dr Clarke's "Septic or Bird Fever" (7d.); "Colour-feeding" (3½d.); or the "Nutshell" booklets (2½d. each): No. 1 "Goldfinch," No. 2 "Linnet," No. 3 "Skylark," No. 4 "Song Thrush and Blackbird," No. 11 "Bullfinch," No. 13 "Chaffinch," No. 15 "Greenfinch," No. 22 "Siskin, Redpoll, and Twite," No. 25 "Small Insectivorous Birds," No. 26 "Large Insectivorous Birds," No. 6 "Ailing Birds and How to Cure Them," No. 9 "Disinfection of Cages, Birdrooms, etc.," No. 12 "How to Moult British Birds." All thoroughly practical and instructive. Prices quoted are post free from "Cage Birds," 154, Fleet Street, London, E.C.

LATE NEWS ITEMS.

Exhibitors should note that entries close for Keith show on January 1st. See advertisement.

The Leicester C.B.S. has changed headquarters, and from now onwards all meetings, etc., will be held at the Bull's Head Hotel, Market Place, Leicester, writes Mr. J. Cook, Sec. We wish to thank members and others who subscribed to the Ride benefit fund; also those who gave us specials for our members' show.

At Waunarlwydd show, Jan. 2, entries are extended to Dec. 30. The 1st prize will be awarded if only one entry (no cancelling) so will fanciers kindly support us; only five entries have been received at the time of writing.—J. Walters (Sunnybank, Westfield Rd., Waunarlwydd).

Club Reports.

TREDEGAR AND DIS. C.B.S.

General meeting held Dec. 19, Mr. Evan Powell in chair. Three new members, viz., Messrs. Griffiths, Lewis, and Bevan, were enrolled. Business pertaining to our show was transacted. The secretary reported that he had posted over 900 schedules to fanciers, but that entries were very few. This being our first show, we trust fanciers seeing this report will rally around us, and send in their entries.—W. B. Watkins, Sec.

HIGHGATE & HAMPSTEAD, C.B.S

Meeting held Spencer Hall, Dec. 19th, Mr. R. T. Dann in the chair, when there was a good muster of members and friends. The chief attraction was a judging competition for members, Mr. G. E. Weston officiating as final judge, and his fair criticism of the birds on view was much appreciated by all. Several questions were asked and ably answered. Mr. G. Street was the winner of competition and receives the silver medal given by the society. Six new members were elected in Messrs. Grisdale, W. F. Le Gays, Bryne, Drawbridge, S. Turner, and Pearce. Vote of thanks to Mr. Weston for so ably officiating brought a successful meeting to a close. Will all members having show tickets kindly settle for same at once and so assist secretary in preparing annual report.—J. Hyde, hon. sec.

DUNFERMLINE C.B.S.

Monthly meeting held in the Co-operative Hall, Dec. 14. Mr. J. Rankine, president, presided over a full turn-out of members. A proposal to hold an open show next year was defeated, but as an alternative it was decided to extend the radius of membership to twelve miles. The following office-bearers were appointed for the year:—Pres., Mr. John Rankine; vice-pres., Thomas Wildridge and William Rolland; treas., John Warwick; assist. sec., James Anderson; sec., Robert T. Campbell, 19, Rolland Street; committee, Messrs. P. McLaren, A. Watts, J. Leslie, A. Kilpatrick, S. Howie, R. Rice, J. Grewar, G. Coutts, J. Kennaway, G. Roe, A. Pringle, H. Hogg, H. Kemp, J. Thomson, and J. Fisher. The date of next annual show was fixed for Nov. 1, 1913, and the breeding pairs show Feb. 1. After the success of last Burns' supper, it was agreed to hold another on Jan. 24, the arrangements being left in the hands of Messrs. Wall, Kilpatrick, McLaren, and Campbell.—Robt. T. Campbell, Sec.

NEW CROSS AND DIST. C.B.S.

Monthly meeting held at the People's Hall, Deptford, Dec. 12. One of the finest which has ever been held by this society, nearly every member being present. As usual, we made a new member. I should be pleased if members would do their best to bring a new member each on Jan. 2; this would be a grand start for 1913. The prizes and money won at the annual show were paid out and presented to members present, Mr. Gunner taking the points cup, and Messrs. Burton Bros. the Border cup. It was suggested that we replace the points cup by subscriptious from members and friends. Mr. Gillard started same with 1s. Other members subscribed, and we reached a total of 30s. This looks as if we are to have a first-class cup next year, to be won under different rules. An excellent programme was drawn up for 1913, including novice judging competition, which was considered will be an excellent thing for young members to pick out suitable birds for showing. Mr. Norman was again elected to judge our next annual show on Nov. 13.—Barton and Barton.

DARVEL AND DISTRICT C.B.C.

Second meeting of this newly-formed society held 17th Dec. Mr. Hopkins presided, and there was a good attendance of members, several new names being added. Committee of three appointed to draw up list of rules and submit for approval at next meeting. Discussion took place re providing prizes for most points at monthly shows, and it was decided to try and get a few for these competitions. Mr. Wm. McNair offered a walking stick for said shows. Points at table shows will count as follows: 1st, 4; 2nd, 3; 3rd, 2; 4th, 1. The President then gave his promised address on Local Bird Life, which proved most interesting, embracing as it did over a hundred different species. He also touched briefly on the nests, eggs, and habits of the varieties, and gave an idea of the times when the arrival and departure of our summer migrants might be looked for. Mr. Hopkins was awarded a hearty vote of thanks for his paper. A table show of British birds was then held, result: Gold. or Bull.: 1, Robertson; 2, Beaton; 3, Allan; 4, Robertson. Linnet or Sisk.: 1, Camphell; 2, Hopkins; 3, Morton; 4, Allan. Redpoll: 1, 2, Hopkins; 3, Morton. Mr. Jas. Brown judged. Classes for table show at next meeting: 1, Border Fancy; 2, Norwich; 3, Mule. It was also decided that a washing exhibition be given at next meeting.—Jas. Robertson, sec.

PLUMSTEAD & WOOLWICH C.B.S.

Presentation to the Secretary and his Wife.

Meeting held headquarters, Dec. 19. The following gentlemen were nominated and duly elected:—Mr. Bottell, of New Eltham, S.E., and Mr. Sherman, of Manor Park, E. A discussion was raised as to the best and fairest way in which the points at our future shows should count. Several members contended that where there was only one bird in a class it should not take points to the value of a first prize, as they did not consider it fair to a bird which won a first prize in a class of, say, ten birds. After careful consideration, it was agreed that the system at present in force should be adhered to, and that a bird standing by itself in a class should take the points counting as a first prize. This finished the general business. Now we approach a most eventful affair in the history of the society. The Chairman, rising, pointed out the great and useful work performed by Mr. E. Meades, the secretary, and remarked that it was the general desire of the members that he should be presented with some token of their esteem and regard for his labours. He therefore had much pleasure in presenting him with a gold albert, and Mrs. Meades with a silver mounted umbrella. Mr. Meades has held various offices in the society since its inception, and it is largely to his and to Mrs. Meades' indefatigable labours that the society owes its present position in the cage bird world. As members know his kindly services and help were at all times at the disposal of everyone interested in the welfare of the club, and also those who are in any way interested in cage birds. The chairman's remarks were enthusiastically received, and other members also testified to the value of Mr. Meades' services. Mr. Meades, on behalf of himself and his wife, warmly thanked the chairman and members for their kindness, and said that the work of the society was at all times a pleasure to him, and he hoped that the society would still further prosper in the cause of which both he and his wife were every ready to do all in their power. When the club was originally formed, their membership was but 16; but he had great pleasure in stating that their membership at the present time totalled over 60, and he hoped that they might soon see the number further increased.—H. R. Hearn.

ROMFORD AND DISTRICT F.S.

Sixth annual show, held in Romford Corn Exchange Dec. 12. The cage bird section of this progressive society is yearly increasing, and this year there were sixty entries, and we hope to form a Cage Bird Society. The members have gained considerable ground, so far as quality is concerned. The judge, Mr. E. Skinner, Stratford, is a well-known fancier in the district, and his awards gave satisfaction. After the judging he said he would like to call the attention of exhibitors to see what they can do in the way of showing their birds to the best advantage. One or two good birds were put back owing to being dirty. The cup winner was a beautiful York buff hen, which should be heard of again, the property of Mr. R. L. Hayman, the runner-up being a capital clear yellow York cock. British were of exceptional merit, the winning Bullfinch and Goldfinch were well staged, the Goldfinch was an easy winner, and won in the open at Southend a few days ago. On the whole the exhibits were deserving of all praise. Several specials were given.

YORKS, CL. YELL.: 1, 3, Stares; 2, Hayman and res. for cup. BUFF: 1, sp., Hayman; 2, Whiting; 3, Stares. MKD. OR TKD.: 1, sp, Stares; 2, Hayman; 2, sp, Britton. NOR., CL. The show was well arranged by the able see., Mr. Charles Ives.

GAINSBORO' C.B.S.

First annual Members' Show, held in the Co-operative Hall, Dec. 14. The show was a credit to the members and officials of the society in every respect. The hall chosen for the purpose was one of the best in the country, the lighting arrangements, both by day and night, were perfect, and the staging of the 100 birds was splendidly arranged. The quality of the exhibits was of a very high standard. Some grand birds being on view, and a large number of visitors attended during the day. Some 900 people paying for admission.

NOTES BY THE SECRETARY.

The favourite weapon of those who would abolish the hobby of bird-keeping is exaggerated abuse of the birdcatcher, without whom, they say, bird-keeping would die a natural death. They care nothing that birdcatchers as a whole are a body of hard-working and humane men, who know the law and abide by it. Their opportunity comes when some loafing novice who knows nothing of the law, or of the taking of birds by legitimate methods, goes out with a brace bird improperly braced, and gets caught taking birds at an illegal season, and punished both for this and for ill-treating his brace-bird.

That such people should be punished no one will dispute, least of all the members of Cage Birds League, but when an isolated case is made a peg on which to hang a diatribe against a whole body of honest men who have no greater a percentage of black sheep amongst them than are to be found in any other trade, occupation, or profession, then it is time that we spoke out in defence.

Since, and, perhaps, because of, the initiation of Cage Birds League, attacks of this nature have not been so frequent as hitherto, either in the organs of the "Humanitarian" societies, or in the lay press, but they crop up occasionally, and one published in "The Dundee Courier" of December 19 is just about the worst I have ever come across. Nearly a whole column is filled with the most extraordinary misstatements which have ever been published.

In one paragraph the writer gabbles of the "cruelties inflicted by the fraternity during the time when birds are breeding, or, worse still, when their young are dependent upon them for sustenance." Law or no law, no professional birdcatcher would take birds in the breeding season He knows that birds so taken would not live; the bird-dealer would not buy them from him for the same reason; the law would punish him severely if he were caught, and if he were not caught the birds would be valueless to him for the reason stated; the law would deal with anyone, whether the actual taker or not, found in possession of birds taken during the breeding season, and dealers would not buy them from a catcher even if he were foolish or cruel enough to take them.

After speaking of the "rough, uncouth, and mysterious-looking men" that may be seen "slinking along the hedgerows, or hugging the quiet, remote lanes with an evident desire to avoid detection," this specially contributed article goes on to invent some methods of catching, and, to quote them as being methods of birdcatchers in general. One of the devices alleged as being frequent in this "diabolical calling" is described as follows:

"Sometimes a songster will be selected from their 'stock.' To the body of this bird is fastened a strong but almost invisible cord, well besmeared with lime. At the approach of the quarry the snarer throws this decoy into the air, where, through its erratic flight, the passing flock becomes entangled in the sticky thread, and all go tumbling earthwards together."

Truly we live and learn! I wonder who told the writer such a tale. Describing the use of a brace-bird, the writer says that a wire is fixed around the wings of the bird, "and, passing round the breast-bone, is finally joined in a loop immediately under neath." . . . "The catcher tugs a cord attached to the brace-bird, and by this means jerks it into the air." . . . "Being unable to bear the weight of the wire, it flutters for a little, then falls to the ground." . . . "The passing flock think the victim one of their own number in distress."

The mischief is that such distorted statements are read and believed by those who know no more of the true facts of the case than the writers, and when an isolated case is reported of cruelty committed by some solitary miscreant, that case is taken as being typical of bird-catching in general, and is pointed to in support of such unmitigated nonsense as the article contributed specially to "The Dundee Courier."

Many readers of Cage Birds have written to say that they would like to join Cage Birds' League, but cannot afford the subscription. To meet their wishes we have decided to form, in connection with the League, a body of Associates. All we ask of these Associates is that they will promise to give every possible attention to the wants of their birds. And they must induce others to see that their birds are kept happy and contented.

All that the intending Associate has to do is to sign the coupon herewith, get five of his or her friends to sign each a similar coupon, and send the six, together with a penny stamp, to the Secretary of Cage Birds' League, who will forward by return an enamelled Button Badge of the League. There will be no other charge. NOW, THEN, BIRD LOVERS!—USE YOUR BEST EFFORTS IN THIS SPLENDID CAUSE.

The "Beak" and the Linnet.

I observe that three men were prosecuted at Thornaby recently for catching wild birds, says a writer in the "North Eastern Daily Gazette." I thought hitherto that one was at liberty to catch certain birds during the open or non-breeding season. This phase of the Act will be regretted by many who fancy Linnets because of the beauty of their notes. If they are to be protected during the whole of the year, then I think that it is a despotic interference with what is—to many poor men—a pleasant hobby. Those who say most about the cruelty of keeping them in cages study them liftle. They do not think of the fight for existence against preying enemies and winter weather; and the fact that few old birds are caught shows that they do not live for long in a state of nature. With proper care they will live for eight or ten years in captivity. As Linnets are plentiful almost everywhere in the country I venture to say that a little depletion of their numbers does not do so much harm as to justify the bringing of any person before the magistrates.

Correspondence.

The Popularity of the Scotch Fancy Canary.

Sir,—I was glad to see a letter from Mr. Dart about Scotch Fancies, but what I said was, there are no classes near here for them. I know there are plenty as far off as Barnstaple, Newcastle, Glasgow, etc. I only hope Mr. Dart will send his birds as far as Wimbledon next year. I for one will show against him, if there is a class for them.

M. Walker.

A Bit of Salt on a Judge's Tail.

Sir,—We are still waiting a reply from Mr. House (if the salt has not taken too many feathers out of his tail), as we think we are entitled to know why he wrong-classed our yellow. We don't mind spending 1s. 6d. and carriage to send to a show to be educated by an expert, but we do object to spend our money to educate an expert.

Messrs. James and Wells.

Some Remarks on Selling Classes.

Sir,—There is one remark of Mr. Holmes' I beg to contradict, and that is re Greenfinches and Redpolls. He states these winners are worth "about threepence each." I would be obliged to Mr. Holmes if he would inform me where winners are to be obtained at above price? Really I think this is below the belt, and a slur on fanciers of the above varieties, but for his special benefit I would like to enlighten him that class specimens of the above varieties have been sold for more pounds than he mentions (which I can prove), and, further, for Hybrid breeding they are invaluable, also for exhibition. From a financial point of view these varieties are two of the best varieties a fancier can keep, as nearly every show provides a class for each, and at nine shows out of ten they are full, so that when you win you are sure of full prize money, which means a lot to the exhibitor. I hope when Mr. Holmes makes any remarks again that he will refrain from mentioning any special varieties and therefore not try to discourage the keeping of the homely Greenfinch and the attractive little Redpoll.

The Passing of a Noted Judge.

Sir,—I felt deeply moved and sincerely grieved on noticing the announcement of the passing away of Mr. Jos. Bexson, of Derby. Many happy hours have I spent in his always genial company at one time or another. On the last occasion when we met, he and I went over many classes at a well-known Midland fixture, and although neither of us was adjudicating, friend Joe was selecting his choice (and a capital choice, too), varying in instances from that of the official judge, he remarking to me: "You know, Barnes, no two men see alike in all cases." Never were truer words spoken. Mr. Bexson's cheerful temperament, and true, honest sportsmanship made him esteemed by all with whom he came into contact. His demise has left the Fancy the poorer. Would there were more "Joe" Bexsons amongst us. Years ago, when first I commenced as an exhibitor, the hints given to me by our departed stalwart (then in his prime, and England's premier judge) assisted me towards success. Friend Bexson had the Fancy at heart, he loved a bird, he delighted in the hobby, and was always happy and in his element when at a show. Very seldom did you see him annoyed; it took a lot to upset his equilibrium, no matter how difficult a task was set him. He thrived on work, and huge classes gave him pleasure. Tales and jokes were great features with him. One in particular struck me very forcibly. When he was relating this story to me (we were travelling from Sheffield to Leeds to judge their open show, at the time) I thought it of the "leg-pulling" order. Quick to detect this, he assured me that what he was saying was absolute fact. He told how, after having adjudicated at a certain colliery district show (not 100 miles from Derby, either) he heard very obnoxious noises coming from the mouth of a bulky and untidy visitor—he was threatening in very severe terms the judge who had not presented high enough honours to a certain exhibit owned by him. The terms he freely used were truly "red-hot" in texture, and better left unprinted. Friend Joe, really thinking this drunken giant meant it, decided that discretion was the better part of valour, and to save mishap slipped into his coat as quickly as possible and shot out at a side door (lucky, said he, two doors were available). He took to his heels, ran swiftly down a lane, across some fields, through some hedges, and made tracks for the station, with the "beast" in pursuit. As luck would have it, the great Joseph conquered, as on arriving at the station, fairly pumped, a train was waiting. In popped our worthy friend, leaving behind the enemy. Sounds far fetched, but it is far from untrue, I believe. Hard times those, for the poor judges. Joe said it was a narrow escape. I remember another occasion, at Sheffield show (I was secretary at the time), he and Mr. Battye were the judges. A huge entry had been obtained, and the room at the Cutlers' Hall was found rather inadequate to stage the birds as one would have liked (we tried for another room attached, but it was booked for other purposes). therefore difficulty arose. It was late on into the afternoon before all the classes were done, and then the specials had to be awarded. Our Committee had been very liberal (perhaps unwise) with these "extras." The order was: spl. best vhc, best hc, best c in every section, besides spls for best birds and a host of others. This arrangement really got on top of Joe's patience, and his favourite expression cropped up constantly: "By gum, what a job!" And it was a job and no mistake. But he came up to where I was waiting the awards, and said: "Well, I don't care if I can catch the mail train home."

To Mrs. Bexson and family I wish to convey my deepest sympathy in this, their very sad hour of trouble. I trust their heavy burden may rest as lightly as possible on their shoulders.

J. C. Barnes.

Linnet Catching.

Sir,—Will some reader kindly tell me of a way to catch Linnets in a hedge when at roost? Close to where I live there is a thick hedge which is swarming with Linnets. I have tried a net, but there are too many long brambles to get close enough with that. I should be very glad if any of our old Linnet catchers could give me a tip how to catch some.

An Old Reader.

Perches that Keep Down Red Mite.

Sir,—I see you still have questions asked about red mite. Well, for the sake of novices who do not know, let them try and follow me in this letter. I once gave up keeping birds through these pests. I used to boil the cage, etc., but no use. Those fanciers who live in towns should take train to the outskirts—any time up to March is best, as the sap is now down—and he will not have to go far before he comes across an elder tree (elderberry some call them). He can get as many branches in a few minutes as will last him while he lives. Take them home, put in a dry place, and forget all about them for six months. The bark will then be hard, which makes a good grip for the birds. Then shorten to length you require, pass a piece of red-hot thin iron, or wire, through, and they are ready to go into the cages. Take them out now and again, and knock the end on some hard substance. The red mites drop out by the score, and you need not look anywhere else. Be careful in cleaning them. I wipe them with flannel and do not put them in water. I am using some that I have had for years.

Derby.

When a Bird's in Luck.

Sir,—Oft-times in various papers we read letters from a certain class of humanitarians condemning the delightful hobby of bird-keeping, and some go as far as to say it ought to be stopped altogether. Allow me, Sir, to express the opinion in your valuable paper that the bird that has the luck to be caged has a far better life than the bird left alone to Nature. I would point out that the wild bird has a hard and sometimes miserable existence. It is never free from the poaching cat and the various kinds of Hawks, Owls, etc., and in the winter, when food is scarce and we get a spell of snowy weather, you can go across the field and find numbers of their bodies; some are dead and some dying of hunger and cold. If these so-called bird protectors were to live in the country and open their eyes, they (with me) would think that the bird confined to a cage was far the most fortunate. They would agree with me that Nature is most cruel. There would have been far more Finches live through this season's moult if they could have been moulted in an indoor bird-room, or at any rate, received human aid. Now, sir, suppose these people could have their way and prevent another bird being taken or killed, what would be the result? Some species would soon get so numerous as to be injurious to the agriculturist, and no law would prevent him from destroying large numbers of them. The average farmer cares little about birds, as long as they let his crops, etc., alone; but woe betide any birds that destroy his future prospects of good crops—let it be close season, or any other season, or protected species or not. I say, in conclusion, that bird-keeping is one of the kindest and nicest hobbies I know of, and I hope it will be taken up more strongly than ever.

Bird Lover.

Date of Crystal Palace Cage Bird Show.

Sir,—I thank Mr. Ramsden for his reply to my letter, and can quite understand that it is now too late for 1913 show dates to be altered, but does he not think it would be worth while trying Wednesday, Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, another year. Think of the thousands employed in shops in London, who only get Wednesday or Thursday afternoons. Surely there must be a fair percentage who would attend; in fact, I personally have known numbers who have not been able to see the show on this account. Then, again, the week end visitors would still be able to see the show on Saturday. I should like to hear the opinions of some of your numerous readers.

H. C. PEERLESS.

Sir,—Re the date of the Crystal Palace show I am of the same opinion as Mr. A. C. Peerless. Undoubtedly a large number of bird fanciers, like myself, work in shops until 8 or 9 o'clock at night, and if the date could be altered, so as to fit in with Wednesday and Thursday, as well as Saturday, early closing, it would be an advantage.

J. G. DUNHAM.

Early Greenfood.

Sir,—There are a good many fanciers who like to put up their birds early in the year and don't wait for the spring months of April and May. In fact, in my early breeding days I used to put them up in January and February, and I can say that I had a fairly successful time of it. There were no hens sweating, or red mite so troublesome, as in the summer, neither was egg-binding so troublesome; perhaps it was because they were only common ones. Many a time have I bred a Goldfinch Mule, such as it was, in January. An old Norwich shoemaker and an old breeder gave me this method, which his father had used before him: Get a dish or baking tin and put in a layer of cole or rape seed and cover it with water; it will then come up like cress, and when about from ½ to 1 inch high a small portion can be cut out with a knife and chopped up, seeds, roots, and all, with the egg food. The birds will relish this very much, and I have found it prevent egg-binding. The roots of dandelion can also be put in flower pots in a warm place, and the tender shoots used. Lettuce seed can be sown thinly in a box in heat, and the small leaves used. These few remarks are intended for those who still breed early, and want green food.

OLD BREEDER.

Unprolificacy in Canaries.

Sir,—The reason that Canaries are not always profuse breeders is in a very large number of cases not the fault of the birds themselves, but of the fancier who has them in hand. Overfeeding and wrong methods of feeding are responsible to a great extent Very shortly breeders will be getting ready for the breeding season, and will commence "feeding up," so as to get the birds in a very high condition. This, in my opinion, is a great mistake and responsible for a large number of deaths amongst the hens through egg-binding and numerous other ailments, through being too fat. If you will give the hen Canary time, I don't care what breed it is, it will come into breeding condition as the warm weather approaches. A large number of fanciers pair up all their birds at once, and this is a great and fatal mistake. The cock bird should be dancing from one side of the perch to the other in vigorous song, whilst the hen should be flapping her wings and calling to the male bird. It generally takes me three or four weeks to get my birds paired, as some hens are longer than others in getting into breeding condition. I give my birds nothing extra except a young dandelion leaf or two or a sprig of watercress. My birds are only Rollers, but if you don't go the right way with this easy to breed type of Canary, you will end the season with no young birds in the training cages. I know a man now who has been trying to breed Rollers on and off for thirty years, and though I am neither a swank nor windbag, I have bred more in one season than he has in his whole life. Does this not show that in so many years, and with the different strains he has had in that length of time, that it is his wrong methods of management that are to blame, and not the birds themselves? But one of the great causes of unprolificacy is that of breeding from hens that the fancier knows won't feed their offspring. These hens are kept for laying purposes, and their eggs put under common or good feeding hens. The young birds when they come to maturity are very often dismal failures, and the fancier who has got hold of these wrong-bred birds finds himself at the end of the season without any young, owing to the hens not feeding. I once bought a green hen Canary that had come over amongst some cocks from Germany. It was a nice type of bird, and I thought a lot about it. I paired her up in the breeding season, and she shaped grandly. She laid six eggs, and never once did I catch her off the nest whilst sitting. On the day she was due to hatch, I came home quickly and went straight into the bird-room (I knew they were all fertile eggs) and there was the hen with a chick in her mouth flying about the cage. She had bitten off all their legs and beaks and killed them every one; and bonny chicks they were. Did I give her another chance and put her eggs under another hen to bring up? No; she had finished her butchering for ever.

JOHN CANNING.

Catching by Lamp Light.

Sir,—Just a few lines on catching British birds. My plan is to have a turn at bird catching in the dark. Select a very dark night, with no moon. According to the kind wanted, one must know the kind of cover that special bird selects for roosting in. As an example I take the Yellowhammer, a species we have not to go very far into the country to get. The bird does not roost very high. They can be got in numbers in a hawthorn hedge on the sheltered side. The catcher must procure a good strong lamp (I use a gas cycle lamp). The light momentarily blinds them when they wake up, although I have had them in my hand before then. As little noise as possible must be made when searching the hedge, as they are very quick at hearing, and will take wing before you get near them. I have caught a good many in a night, keeping the whole catch till next morning, when I pick out the big and specially marked ones and the rest I give their liberty. In the hawthorn hedge we come across the Blackbird, Thrush, Robin, Hedge and House Sparrows and an occasional Greenie. These I pass unless I see a special bird.

T. JACKSON.

A Vexed Point.

The Half Prize-money Rule.

Sir,—I should be very pleased if you would allow me a little space in your valuable journal (which I always devour as soon as it arrives) in answer to Mr. J. Andrews, "Another Secretary," etc. In the first place let me make it quite clear that I am not a disappointed exhibitor; in fact, much otherwise; and I also am a member of two societies. When a person takes up the pen to write on the half prize-money and withheld prize-money, he is no doubt treading on unsafe and very debatable ground. Like "Another Secretary," I quite agree that a show, to the officials and secretary, is a very anxious time, especially financially, and if we all follow the advice of Mr. Andrews, it will make it ten times worse. This is my first season at open shows, and at the first attempt I was awarded 1st, 2nd, and special for best British in show, in a class of six (therefore half money) and since then I have won 1st, 2nd, and two 3rds in the open, again receiving half-money with one of the 2nds. A schedule where full money is paid on six entries has not yet reached me, and I do not sort out all the small shows, but like to compete where I am likely to meet good stuff. Neither do I follow judges; as this, to my mind, is petty and shows one is afraid of straightforward competition. Now, to the cash side of the question. It's all very well "Another Secretary" (saying) a true fancier puts his award cards before the money, but cards don't buy birds, nor keep the fancier's home going. While agreeing that we all feel proud to win these cards, unless an exhibitor can command a fair amount of cash, he must get a little money with his cards, or he would have to cease exhibiting. I should very much like to see classes of six and seven entries given more than half-money (say two-thirds) which would not mean much from the show officials, seeing that entry fees would total 9s. or 10s. 6d., and prize-money 7s., 3s. 6d., and 1s. 9d., a total of 12s. 3d. I am sure it would encourage a good many working-class fanciers like myself. One of the greatest drawbacks to exhibiting is, no doubt, railway charges, and the awful treatment meted out to our pets whilst in the company's hands. It makes one almost afraid to part with the birds when one gets to the station with them.

Show held Dec. 17, at the Assembly Rooms. Entries were good throughout, with the exception of the Norwich. Yorks. were very numerous, and quality well to the fore. Mules and British were also well up, well-known winners, often reviewed, sharing well in the prize list. Special for best bird went to Mr. W. Nolan's cl. yell. Nor., a very deserving win. Special for most entries and local went to Mr. T. G. Roberts. Special best Goldfinch, Messrs. Evans and Roberts' well-known, in grand condition. Mr. James Williams head the secretarial duties once more in a masterly way, assisted by a good staff of stewards. Mr. J. W. Metcalfe, Liverpool, judged, and gave every satisfaction.

Specials were won as follows: Best bird Nolan (Norwich), best Goldfinch Evans and Roberts, best in one mile radius, T. G. Roberts.

JARROW, HEBBURN.

Sixth annual exhibition, held in the Mechanics' Institute, Dec. 31. A very nice hall for a show; plenty of light and free from draughts. Entries came up well, and some good exhibits were staged. Borders led the way, averaging 21 per class. Next to the "wee gems" came the "long slim 'uns," with an average of 17 per class, with right good ones among them. Norwich averaged 16, some very nice specimens being staged, several standing cardless. Cinnamons were a poor turn out, four exhibits in two classes. The Crest class had to be cancelled, while Crest-breds had one entry only. We do not understand why these classes do not fill. Is the Crest Fancy dying out in the North? British came up well. Special winners were: Hyde's special, R. Hutler, with his fine Yorkie; Sandiford medal, Stanger and Herdman, with an over year clear yellow, a blaze of colour. Mr. W. Ayres carried out his secretarial duties with great care and ability, and handled every detail in a most courteous manner, and with businesslike ability. Jarrow has the right man in the right place, and a splendid staff of workers to assist him, these being Messrs. G. O'Hagan, chairman; R. Hutler, treas.; committee, Messrs. Stevenson, Bowen, Richardson, Maughan, Deighton, Metcalfe, Woolerton, Irwin, Tucker and Swales. The judge was Mr. H. W. Battye, Huddersfield.

(9): 1, sp., hc, Stanger and Herdman, cl., good col. and qual., nice and short, wins; 2, Butler, nice size, lovely feather, moves well, fails in head and neck to 1st; 3, Dixon, longer bird, not quite so good in colour; 4, Rowell, variegated yell., good col., in fine bloom; vhc, Pearson; c, Addison. BUFF (14): 1, Snowden, cl., bouncer, full of col. and qual., grand head, neck and chest, fine wing carriage, clean cut away; 2, hc, sp., Robson and March, Gateshead winner, cl., good col. and qual., nice wings and tail; 3, Stanger and Herdman, cl., not quite the substance of leader, good col., gets wings across at times; 4, J. Bennett, var., plenty of size; vhc, Peirson; c, Rowell. HEN, CL., ETC. (19): 1, hc, sp., Stanger and Herdman, tick buff, good qual. of feather, might have more substances; 2, Richardson, tkd. yell., plenty of size, nice qual; 3, —— buff mkd., teeming with col., nice shape and size, must have pressed; 4, Moore, cl. yellow, good sub., well filled in back, nicely cut away, we liked 3rd and 4th for 1st and 2nd; vhc, Richardson; c, Hope. UNFLIG. CL., ETC. (22): 1, hc, sp., J. Bennett, wing mkd. yell., good size, grand col., good head and neck, moves sweetly; 2, Winter, tkd. buff, long enough, trifle horney, not a head we like; 3, Hermeston, cl. buff, a red hot one, nice silky feather, capital body, fails a bit in head; 4, Crass, nice size, good subs., nicely mealed, clean cut away, we liked; vhc, Moore; c, Peirson. NOV. (15): 1, sp., Smith, clear yell., a nice stamp, clean cut away, not one of the largest, but neat; 2, Long, cl. buff, good shape, in grand fettle; 3, Winter, cl. yell., good col., rather long in flight; 4, Lumsden, cl. buff, good subs. and qual., nicely mealed, moves well, we liked for 3rd; vhc, Dunn; hc, Cranston; c, Winter. CINN., YELL. (2): 1, 2, sp., Markwell, leader good col., nice subs., a hot one, 2nd, trifle longer, not same qual. BUFF (2): 1, sp., Dixon, rare subs. and col., well filled in neck, good head, nicely pencilled; 2, Richardson, not quite the size, and lacks a little in col. BORD., CL., ETC., YELL. (24): 1, sp., Smith, cl. yell., nice shape, nicely tapered, fails a little in head; 2, J. Hilbury, cl. yell., good col. and qual., trifle weak in neck, moves well; 3, Stanger and Herdman, capped yell., a nice exhibit, clean and neat; 4, no name, grizzle capped yellow, too rough to our liking for a Border; vhc, Peel; hc, Armstrong; c, Johnson. BUFF (23): 1, sp., Purvis, grizzle, neck buff, good quality, nicely tapered; 2, Irvine, nice size, good col.; 3, Wilson, trifle too stout for liking of some; 4, Johnson, good col., nice shape, the best of heads, nicely put down, might have gone up; vhc, Smith; hc, W. Smith; c, Montgomery. HEN, CL., ETC., YELL. (12): 1, sp., Peel, mkd. yell., we could not follow the judge here, fails a bit in wing and head; 2, S. Wilson, good substance, lacks a little in qual. and finish; 3, T. D. Wilson, nice position, good col., fault in head; 4, Smith, we liked for second; No. 2, Johnson, cardless, grand qual., nicely put down, in fine bloom, many liked for 1st; vhc, Hillary; hc, Beever; c, Browell. BUFF (22): 1, Hillary, cl. bull, good col., nice qual., nicely drawn, well filled in back; 2, Browell, fails a bit in head, stylish and neat; 3, 4, sp, S. Wilson, 3rd, another long one, good col, 4, good col.; vhc, Purvis; hc, Espie; c, Smith. GR. OR CINN. (24): 1, 3, sp., Johnson, yellow green, old warrior, wins, often described, in rare fettle, 3rd, yellow Cinn., Gateshead winner, in fine trim, splendid lacing, shape and qual. of feather; 2, Greenwell, buff green, good col., nicely mkd., good position, very stylish; 4, W. Affleck, yell. green, good one for shape, not too good in colour, may improve; vhc, Ridley; hc, Christer; c, Millington. YORKS., CL., ETC., YELL. (18): 1, sp., Dykes, tick yell., rare length, beautiful taper, good position; 2, Pyman, nice length and style, bit open in front, good in wing; 3, Dix, variegated yell., Gateshead winner, long and slim, straight as a guardsman, we liked for second place; 4, Cuthbertson, grizzle, neck very breedy, splendid pos., good wing car.; vhc, hc, Butler; c, Ramsden; No. 14, Gate head second, cardless, a good one all over. CL., ETC., BUFF (13): 1, hc, sp, Dykes, rare length, type and qual., good one all over; 2, c, Pyman, nice length, grand qual., trifle heavy in body; 3, Butler, grand length, type, and position, splendid wings and tail, N.Y.C.C. cup winner; 4, Addison, grand qual., good all over, good wing, nicely drawn, fine position, we liked; vhc, Crawhall. PARROT PROBLEM solved. For full proofs send postcard at once for my large book, "Parrot Prattle." This is the most wonderful book ever offered free of all charge to all Parrot fanciers. (This "Parrot Prattle" is registered copyright, and all infringers and imitators will be proceeded against). It contains hundreds of testimonials from all parts with full names and addresses, many interesting facts, and gives valuable advice and hints to all Parrot buyers. Full details of our original system of selling Parrots on four weeks' trial, at our risk, which we were the first to introduce. We sell Parrots of all descriptions on four weeks' trial, at our risk, before settlement. Cheapest and best in the Kingdom, and any Parrot sold by us and not giving full satisfaction, will be exchanged any time within twelve months. Remember we lead and others try to follow. Write to other dealers as well as us, and judge for yourselves. Lists of Parrots for sale and above book post free on receipt of postcard. Telephone No. 40 Morecambe.

IMPORTANT NOTE. Two or more Advertisements coming from the same advertiser, even if sent in different names, are reckoned together, and, after the first Eighteen words, are charged at two words a penny, but no single advertisement, even if accompanied by others, will be charged at less than the minimum price, viz., Sixpence.

Headlines or Footlines, 6d., 9d., 1/-, 1/6, according to size.

ADVERTISEMENTS UNACCOMPANIED BY CORRECT REMITTANCE WILL NOT BE INSERTED.

Postal Orders must be sent as far as possible. All moneys should be made payable to F. CARL.

The Proprietor reserves the right to refuse any advertisement, or to cancel any advertisement ordered for a series, at any time, without assigning any reason for so doing.

Advertisements must in all cases bear the bona fide name and address of the advertiser, and no advertisement will be inserted if addressed to a receiving office, or similar place of call.

Small prepaid advertisements of a general nature and not connected in any way with the Cage Bird Trade are inserted at the rate of ½d. per word throughout. Minimum 12 words 6d.

Advertisements close Tuesdays first post in each week, and should be sent to the advertisement Manager, CAGE BIRDS, 154, Fleet Street, London. Terms for Display Advertisements on application.

Advt. Manager. "Cage Birds."

DEPOSIT SYSTEM.

We are not responsible for the statements made in advertisements, nor of the bona-fides of either buyers or sellers In all transactions the adoption of our Deposit System should be insisted upon

IMPORTANT.

SEND THE FULL COMMISSION.—If the full commission does not accompany the deposit, the vendor will not be notified of its receipt until the amount deficient, plus the extra postage incurred, has been paid to us.

HOW TO REMIT.—Under no circumstances will Cheques or Post-dated Money Orders be accepted as deposits. Uncrossed Postal Orders must be sent and the numbers taken for safety.

RULES.

1.—PROCEDURE.—The intending purchaser should send to this office the amount of the purchase (our deposit fee included), and at the same time he should communicate with the seller, stating what it is he requires sent on approval. We acknowledge receipt of the deposit to both parties. In all cases the depositor should give his name and address, and also that of the vendor, and must write same clearly and distinctly.

2.—END OF TRANSACTION.—The deposit is retained by us until we hear from both parties that the transaction has been completed. If a sale has been effected, we hand the amount deposited to the seller. If a sale has not been effected, we return the amount to the depositor. The transaction must be conducted by the parties themselves. We merely hold the deposit.

3.—AMOUNT OF COMMISSION.—The fee is 6d. for each £1, or fraction of £1, and it must be sent at same time as the deposit.

4.—IMPORTANT POINTS.—The depositor must decide within forty-eight hours of the receipt of the goods whether he will keep or return the same, unless, that is, some other period of approval (of which we must be advised) is agreed upon by both parties. The depositor must at the same time notify us of the fact that he has returned the goods. If the goods are not returned within the said forty-eight hours, we reserve the right to send the deposit to the seller after the expiration of that period. And should the seller fail within three days to notify us of the receipt of his goods back again, the transaction will be treated as ended, and the deposit will be returned to the depositor.

5.—A SATISFACTORY PURCHASE.—When a transaction has been completed to the satisfaction of both depositor and seller, both parties must at once return the deposit receipts as a guarantee of its completion. The depositor must at the same time instruct us to pay over the deposit to the seller.

6.—GOODS ALREADY SOLD.—If the goods are sold before our deposit note reaches the seller, or if for any other reason he declines to do business, he must at once return the deposit note to us. Failing its receipt, we reserve the right to return the deposit to the sender after the expiration of three days.

7.—FRESH TRANSACTION.—In case no sale be effected, a deposit is available for purposes of a fresh transaction, provided another deposit fee be paid.

8.—GOODS IN TRANSIT.—Goods in transit are at the seller's risk, and any damage or loss sustained on the journey must be borne by the seller. But goods not approved of must be properly packed and returned by the same means as were used in sending the same.

9.—PAYMENT OF CARRIAGE.—The payment of carriage must be a matter for arrangement between the vendor and depositor. We do not undertake to settle disputes affecting question of carriage. But in the absence of other arrangements the purchaser is liable for the carriage of the goods, and if the goods are sent on approval and returned, each party pays the carriage one way.
